"We didn't play well enough to win and we didn't," Fleming said. "I think the boys had a little letdown after the heartbreaker against Morrisette but they are a real group of hustlers and I know they will bounce back."

Quincy had taken a 1-0 first inning lead, Brantree tied it in the second, Quincy regained the lead with a run in the fourth only to have the winners tie it in the fifth and push across the clincher in the seventh.

Jack Flaherty had two of Quincy's four hits, including a double, off Dave Keigan. Dave Drew and Bob Morton had the others.

Scott Manson pitched another excellent game but dropped a five-hitter. He had two strikeouts and walked four.

In the first inning the first three Quincy batters reached but only Drew scored on Flaherty's double. Quincy was robbed of at least two more runs when Morton's line drive was taken on a diving catch by the shortstop and Flaherty was doubled off second.

In the fourth Paul Varney walked, advanced on a passed ball and scored on Morton's single.

Brantree's defense thwarted Quincy hopes on several other occasions, while Quincy's defense also shone. Tim Flynn

Quincy Babe Ruth League Team To Play At Cooperstown, N.Y.

Fourteen Quincy youngsters will have the thrill next week of playing a baseball game at historic Abner Doubleday Baseball Field in Cooperstown, N.Y.

The boys, aged 13 to 15, are members of the Granite City Electric team of the Quincy Babe Ruth League.

They will meet a Pony League team from Cooperstown

July 6 at 5 p.m., on the site of the first baseball game played in 1839.

While there, they will also tour the baseball Hall of Fame where the greats of the American and National Leagues are enshrined including Babe Ruth after whom their Quincy league is named.

The boys making the trip are: John Flynn, Dominic Ignani, Larry McGue, Robert Parker, Artie Barrett, Peter Fallon, Warren Jordan, Carl Leone, Robert MacIntosh, Jack Browne, Mike Kelley, Scott Roberts, Thomas Sines and Paul Stack.

The team is managed by Dave MacIntosh. Coaches are Bob Jordan and Henry Parker. Assisting them on the trip and at the game will be Bill Roberts and Russ McGue.

E-Liners Operate On Doctors

Quincy City Hospital employees saw the E-Liners defeat staff doctors 43-11 in a softball game at Snug Harbor Playground.

Dr. A. Walter Ciani was the home base umpire, while Dr. John Minahan called the play from the baseline.

Although many of the doctors had not played ball in quite awhile, the game got off to a close start with Dr. Gordon hitting a home run in the opening inning.

DeRois, Tom Brown, Steve Shinnick, Dave Sullivan and Dick Kenny had good batting and fielding averages, helping the E-Liners wrap up the 43-11 win.

Winning pitcher was Maurice Hernandez.

The doctors surprised the crowd with a strong game. All had many sideline routers, but the crowd's favorite was Dr. Szedell who never gave up, although his only hit came in the closing innings.

A return game is promised for next year.

Muriel Goudey Obtains School Committee Papers

Miss Muriel J. Goudey of 24 Edgemere Rd., Quincy Center, who retired last week after 43 years service as a school teacher, has her bonnet in the School Committee ring today.

Miss Goudey obtained her nomination papers yesterday to become the 48th candidate for city office and the 22nd for School Committee.

Other candidates recently obtaining papers were:

Rep. Joseph E. Brett of 254 Fennos St., Wollaston, who formally announced his candidacy last week for mayor.
Peter Gacicia of 20 Stanley

Circle, South Quincy, Ward 3 City Council candidate.

Miss Goudey, head of the Language Arts Department of Quincy High School for the past 10 years, had been a teacher in the Quincy public school system since 1928.

McCormick Hopes To Expedite Ice Skating Rink Construction

A meeting of Quincy's Ice Skating Committee is being requested by James F. McCormick, Sr., chairman of the Quincy Recreation Commission.

McCormick hopes to speed up construction of the proposed facility, which he feels is lagging.

"I intend to ask the chairman of the ice skating rink committee [Carl Leone] to call a meeting immediately to see if we can expedite the building of an ice skating rink," McCormick said.

"This is something people have been looking forward to. For sometime there has been no information on it. We have not had a meeting for at least six months. I would like to have a meeting as soon as possible, and have a report as soon as possible. I feel we are dragging our feet."

McCormick is himself a member of the ice skating rink appointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre to investigate feasibility of building a self-paying rink for the City of Quincy and its residents.

Central Ninth Grade Graduates Display Tradition, Innovation In Farewell

Central Junior High School's ninth grade graduates included both tradition and innovation in a final program on Friday of awards, speeches, and farewells.

Student speakers chosen by teachers and the ninth grade executive board on the basis of service to the school, character and scholarship were:

Paula Choquette, who spoke on "Involvement"; Christopher Costell, discussing "The Class of '71 -- It's Destiny"; Carol Denvir, "Hope for America"; Marlene Fantucchio, "Communication Gap"; and Betsy Hamburger, "Racism -- What Color is Love?"

Directing the chapel choir in three numbers were students Diane Dunn and Leo McKillop.

Stephen Constant and Betsy

Hamburger received the American Legion Awards for "outstanding students"; Janis Blowers, Marlene Fantucchio and Carol Denvir, PTA awards for three-years of outstanding leadership and scholarship; John Flynn, the John Walsh award for good citizenship and service to the school over a three-year period.

Principal Vincent Moscardelli presented the "principal's awards for outstanding service to the school" to Carol Denvir, Diane Dunn, Marlene Fantucchio, Ann Flavin, Steven Maloney, Daniel Minton, J. Gerard Mullin, Michael Mulvey, Kathleen McEachern, Carol Ohrenberger and Joanne Tribble.

The Class '71 gift to the school was presented by Kevin Hogan, treasurer.

The program opened with a flag salute led by Daniel Minton and patriotic medley by the band under Bernard Goldstein. The class history was read by Michael White.

Closing the program was a "Charge" to the class by John Flynn, class president in which he said, "I charge the class of 1971 to bring to the world that it touches its best so that in some way this class will have contributed something of lasting value, do its best for the world, and hope that man will indeed accept brotherhood in practice."

Parting words were given by Principal Moscardelli, and by Richard K. Chrystal, former principal, now principal at Atlantic Junior High School.

George Smith Cites Need For Student Counseling

George C. Smith, Jr., candidate for School Committee, addressed a group of people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Schaeztl, 88 Clement Terrace, North Quincy, and cited the "need for Student Counseling."

Smith said: "We are living in a dynamic society which demands an educational system and environment which gives the students an opportunity to develop to their optimum. Our system should result in each individual student becoming the kind of person which he is potentially capable of being."

Citing statistics indicating that 40 per cent of Quincy students end their formal schooling at the high school level, Smith said:

"Counseling and guidance of the student should be directed to long-term assistance rather than at decision-making points.

The development of the individual to his fullest capacity is the responsibility of the school system. Counseling, to be effective, must be an integral part of the program and must be available to all individuals at all grade levels."

"In identifying the gifted and talented, we will also identify the so-called 'average' individuals. Counseling should be programmed for these students and not applied on a demand basis."

Smith concluded: "If elected to the School Committee, I will study and evaluate our present guidance and counseling program and work toward the development of a program for each individual student."

George Q. Cully, Jr. Seeks Ward 1 Seat

George Q. Cully, Jr., 42, of 16 Edgewood Circle has announced his candidacy for election to the City Council in Ward 1.

Cully, a resident of Quincy for 17 years, attended Northeastern University, majoring in insurance. He is at present New England Regional Manager for the Reserve Insurance Company of Chicago.

During World War II he served in the U.S. Navy.

He is a Past President of the Massachusetts Beach Buggy Association, a member of the Massachusetts Striped Bass Association, a delegate to the Massachusetts Alliance of Salt Water Sportsmen and a member of the Board of Directors for the New England Fisheries and Conservation Commission.

Cully has expressed concern over the ever-increasing costs of city government and its resultant impact on the taxpayer.

"The questionable value of the recent rezoning leads me to believe that there will be an increased cost to the City for the services required by apartment houses such as additional water and sewer lines as well as increased police and fire protection," he said.

He also noted:

"The question of re-evaluation and its effect on people with fixed incomes is of major concern. The expenditure of taxpayers' money to provide facilities to others not within the City in order to facilitate their use of the MBTA is of concern."

He also said the gobbling up of open spaces within the City, coupled with the filling of tideland marshes, must be stopped.

Cully is married and the father of five children.

Over 100 Teachers Take Special 'Individualized Learning' Course

More than 100 teachers in the school system took a course in the procedures of individualized learning this year at the Pollard Elementary School.

The 45-hour course was aimed at exposing teachers to the techniques of individualized learning, and the theory and procedures necessary to implement individualized learning in the classroom, according to Frank Keegan, principal of the Pollard School.

The course was given under the coordination of Mr. Keegan and Jean Ann MacLean, a teacher at the Pollard School.

Now, An X-Rated Cartoon!

JACQUES BREL, French nightclub singer extraordinary, makes his acting debut in "THE ASSASSINS OF ORDER". The film premiered in Paris June 2, and if we are to believe the superlative rave notices BREL garnered, he is assured an acting career more rewarding than his stint as a singer. The picture is due for American release in the latter part of the summer at which time you can judge for yourself... JOSEPH E. LEVINE and CARLO PONTI must be doing something right. Since they joined forces in 1960 they have amassed an enviable record of nine smash hits, including the award winning "TWO WOMEN"... For Boston born and raised LEVINE success is no stranger. He got his first taste of it some 25 years ago with a production called "GASLIGHT FOLLIES"...

This anything goes Age of Aquarius has spawned many new and at times bizarre, film trends, but nothing quite strikes this viewer as revolting as the debut of the X-rated "cartoon". That's correct, cartoon. The man responsible for this little bit of motion picture treachery is a Hollywood based animator by the name of STEVE KRANTZ. What he has done is given us a mixed bag of political satire, social comment and a heavy dosage of sex in a cartoon form splashed it with a great deal of psychedelic color, and lensed for us what surely will be known as the Frankenstein of its genre. "FRITZ THE CAT"... KRANTZ is only one of a score of unscrupulous moneygrubbers who are invading this otherwise before G-rated market. We are assured that "FRITZ" will be a "pioneer model" of which many of the New Wave, and I may add, morally unethical film maker, will model later, more sophisticated versions of the once entertainingly wholesome American cartoon...

BARBRA STREISAND and RYAN O'NEAL may or may not film "WHAT'S UP DOC?" Seems to be a problem of a script that no one is particularly pleased with. If scenarist PETER BOGDANOVICH can get it all together in three weeks time, shooting will begin. Otherwise the project is caput... The filming of Sophocles "OEDIPUS REX" is scheduled to roll in July. And in Greece, natch... Young MICHAEL DOUGLAS reaches maturity as an actor with "SUMMERTREE". If the young DOUGLAS continues to grow and learn, he could very well develop into one of the 10 best American actors by 1975. That he has inherited his fathers force and talent is beyond question...

JOHN FORD's last production may never be screened. Some years back he was commissioned by the United States Information Agency to film an on the spot pro-Vietnam film for the public. It was to have been used for propaganda purposes. Now with the present anti-Nam climate in the air, his "VIETNAM, VIETNAM" stands a better than average chance of collecting dust on a shelf. The USIF has restricted its distributorship... LEIGH TAYLOR-YOUNG takes a stab at international film fame with "THE HORSEMEN". If the picture catches the fancy of the public, she may very well develop into an "in demand" actress. Her past outings have been critical and financial busts; at this stage of her career she needs a winner...

As forecast in this column some months ago, "A NEW LEAF" is the tickle-bone sensation of the year. In only 13 weeks it has chalked up continental receipts close to the $5 million mark... And what of "WATERLOO" you ask? Ten weeks on the charts and it has yet to leap over the $1 million margin. That this picture is the bomb of the year is without debate. With re-issues, television sales et al, it may take the producers until 1978 just to break even... PAUL NEWMAN and ROBERT REDFORD have been teamed again, only this time they'll be on the side of the law. They will portray David Durk and Frank Serpico, respectively, famed New York policemen who received a great deal of press coverage with their investigation of police corruption...

ALAN LADD JR. tackles "FEAR IS THE KEY" as his next project. May he do a better job with this one than his first stint as a producer. "VILLAIN" lacked the technical finesse so necessary in sustaining the proper mood... When is curvaceous JULIE LONDON going to start appearing in pictures again? Last time this viewer remembers seeing her was in a 1959 film, "NIGHT OF THE QUARTER MOON"... In memory of the late JOE E. LEWIS, the Friars Club has set up a Memorial Fund in his name with the purpose of benefitting indigent actors... Actress WENDY HILLER was recently made a member of Englands prestigious Order of the British Empire...

Award winning costume designer [CLEOPATRA] NINO NOVARESE has been signed by producer SAMUEL BRONSTON to design the clothes for "ISABELLA OF SPAIN" star GLENDA JACKSON... KATHERINE HEPBURN's next camera fling will be "THE PASSION OF JUDITH HEARNE", set to roll in Dublin, by September the latest... ANTHONY QUINN is the "ARRUZA" narrator, a documentary on bullfighters... GEORGE LAZENBY discards the James Bond cloak with his just released "UNIVERSAL SOLDIER". And he hasn't changed a bit. Still wooden and dull... If heavyweight champ JOE FRAZIER acts like he sings may he never turn to the screen for income. His European singing tour was not shall we say, a "knockout"...

The mood of the viewer, industry, and the Board have all been influential in bringing about the phenomenon known as "LOVE STORY". And more of this type film are already in production... Walking away from the problem of sex and violence will not alleviate the condition. By supporting the Board and its president JACK VALENTI, the church-connected groups will do more good in the long run by continuing the present atmosphere of wholesome family movies... For after all, it was their insistence for decent pictures and whole-hearted encouragement that made a "LOVE STORY" possible.

World's Largest Commercial Dry Cargo Ship To Be Christened

The world's largest commercial dry cargo ship, S.S. Doctor Lykes, will be christened Saturday, at Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics.

Sponsor of the revolutionary craft will be Miss Ashley Lykes, 17-year-old daughter of Joseph T. Lykes, Jr., Chairman of Lykes Bros. Steamship Co., Inc., customer for DOCTOR LYKES and two sister ships under construction at Quincy.

The ships, first commercial vessels built here since General Dynamics acquired the shipyard in 1964, comprise a new class of cargo transports known as SEABEES.

The 875-foot-long, 27,150 DWT SEABEES use a unique barge-cargo handling system that is expected to give increased impetus to the revitalization of the United States merchant fleet.

The heart of the Seabees' system is the self-contained elevator in the stern of the ship. Barges can be floated into the stern well and then lifted by the 2000-ton capacity elevator to one of the three decks, where self-propelled transporters move the cargo into stowage.

Seabees are versatile, inter-modal ships, able to accept cargo in barges, containers, or by roll-on roll-off method. Since the elevator permits fast loading and unloading away from congested terminals, turnaround time is expected to be cut by at least eight days on round trips between Lykes ports on the Gulf of Mexico and in England and Continental Europe.

The Seabees' barges are specially designed for use on rivers such as the Mississippi and the Rhine and canals in United States, Europe and Great Britain.

Doctor Lykes is scheduled to enter service early in 1972, and will be followed by her sister ships, Almeria Lykes and Tillie Lykes.

Three World 1 Veterans Receive HN Post Life Memberships

Three World War I veterans received life memberships in the Houghs Neck Legion Post as tributes during the annual Houghs Neck Memorial Day services at the Granite War Memorial on Sea St.

Commander Ernest

Fitzgibbon presented memberships to James Kenney, Sr. and Arthur Gerstel. Claude Gillespie, unable to attend due to illness, will receive his later.

A surprise presentation of the Department Community Service Appreciation Award plaque was made to Thomas Timcoe, Commander of the Sons of the Legion, by Department Vice-Commander Robert Leo Eng of Quincy.

Department Adjutant John Swift, guest speaker, spoke of the sacrifices made by veterans in the various wars, and paid "tribute to those who have made our way of life possible.

"If the contest is hard, the prize is great," he said.

Speaking briefly was Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Edward Panasci, Houghs

Neck Legion Post representative to Boys' State and who received the Sportsmanship Award there, described his experiences during the week-long training session.

A wreath was placed at the memorial by Past Commander Ernest T. Deveau.

Corsages were presented to Gold Star Mothers and women veterans by Mrs. Mary Timcoe, Auxiliary president.

Past Commander Thomas Hulsebaas was chairman for the day. Devotions were led by Rev. James J. Hart of Most Blessed Sacrament Church and Rev. Robert Sawyer, representing the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

A parade preceded the ceremonies with music by the Milton Legion Band and Clan MacGregor bagpipers. City officials in the line of march included, with Mayor McIntyre, City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Councillors Walter Hannon, John Quinn and Edward Graham, Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Department Commander Leo Barry was a guest of honor.

North Quincy Principal Commended By Pittsfield School Superintendent

North Quincy High School Principal John Walsh has been commended by Pittsfield School Supt. Gerald W. Hoar "for the superior quality professional leadership that I had the privilege of observing you carry out" during the recent evaluation of Pittsfield High School.

Walsh served as chairman of a team of educators from throughout New England who, as members of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, were sent to evaluate the instructional programs offered by Pittsfield High School.

In a letter to Walsh, Hoar said:

"The tact and diplomacy exhibited by you throughout the entire procedure was truly indicative of your high professional qualities. When one considers the span of the individuals involved in the evaluation, it was a tremendous experience to note how effectively you molded them into a hard-working diligent committee."

75 Years Young, She Leads Squantum's Big Parade

Just as she did in 1909, when she was 13, Helen Loughan Clark led Squantum's July 4th parade wearing the symbolic colors of red, white and blue.

In 1971, however she rode in the grand marshal's car and her husband, Alfred F. Clark of 192 Bellevue Rd, was with her [wearing red, white and blue necktie].

And at the close of the parade Mrs. Clark, a Squantum resident since 1898, graciously accepted from Mayor James R. McIntyre a framed citation of "great appreciation" from this year's July 4th committee and noting her participation as a leader in the parade 62 years ago.

Winner of first prize in the large float competition was "Sesame Street", prepared by a group of Aberdeen St. residents headed by Mrs. Arthur McIver.

"Old Squantum Trolley" by Harbortown St. residents was in second place, and "Wee People" by East Squantum youngsters, in third place.

Non-competitive floats in this category were the traditional

"Georgianna" entry headed by George Alcott -- "Georgianna Goes on Welfare", and a "Bridge Over Troubled Waters" portraying today's problems prepared by the Pilgrim Fellowship of First Church of Squantum and Westloston Congregational Church.

A "Mini-Park" entered by the Seaside Gardeners took first prize in miscellaneous floats, A "Love Bug" manned by Tom Mountford and Karen Hall was in second place.

"Horse and Carriage" entered by Lydia Robertson and group of 57 Knollwood Rd took first prize in the group competition. Following were entries of Suzanne Tiersa, Anne Clark and Lynn Furtado of 51 Essex St.; Maureen, Linda and Cathy Feeney of 25 Sunrise Rd; Richard, Bobby and Paul Stevens of 8 Winslow Rd; and six "Indians", Susan, Nancy, Donna, Kevin and Bobby Murphy and John Kanacoziaso.

"Sesame Street" was again a winner in the double's entries with John and Karen Barrette of 31 Knollwood Rd participating.

Other winners were Amanda Mujica and Chris Meehan; Gerald and Lee Coughlin; John Green and Steven Dankert; Laurie Galvin and Tracy Gale.

Terry Kelly of 11 Ashworth Rd as a "Japanese Flower" took first place in the costume parade. Following were Stacy McGrath, Anthony Green, Mary Shoinis, and Patrick Clark.

Officials and candidates introduced by Ward 6 Councilor J. Vincent Smyth included Reps. Joseph E. Brett and Walter Hannon, candidates for mayor; City Council President Rep. Arthur H. Tobin; School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr.; School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly; Councilor John J. Quinn; Joseph McConville, Harold Davis and Louis Arienti, school committee candidates; and Dennis Harrington, candidate for Ward 6 Councilor.

Responsible for the days program were Robert Connolly, Ross Crane; Janet Hickey, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Sheridan, secretary; Donald Pound and Chandler Garland.

Beano Legal Again

By DONALD R. DWIGHT
Lieutenant Governor

Beano is now legal in Massachusetts. Under the terms of the Beano Bill signed into law July 1 by Governor Sargent, the Commonwealth and the city or town where the games are played will share equally in a tax of 10 per cent of the gross receipts of each game.

This revenue arrangement, added to the original Beano Bill by the Governor means that the Department of Public Safety can over-see the enforcement of this law without any net cost to the Commonwealth.

Governor Sargent will take steps to insure that the Department of Public Safety had adequate investigatory and clerical personnel to insure that the controls in the bill are met.

This year's bill contains provision for local acceptance. The question will be on the next local city or town election ballot and will be on again in 1975, and will be subject to reconsideration by the voters every four years upon filing of a petition.

I believe that this Beano Bill provides the necessary safeguards lacking in similar proposals submitted the last few years.

The Commissioner of Public Safety will submit next March his first annual report on the operation of the law, together with his recommendations for any further legislation needed.

We will keep a close and careful watch on the operation of this law and we will not hesitate to submit additional legislation if needed.

Outdoor Meeting, Game For Rotary Club July 13

An outdoor meeting and a ball game, firsts for Quincy Rotary Club, will take place July 13 at 12:15 noon at Adams Field on Southern Artery. President James Asher will preside. Paul Philips is chairman for the day.

Following a box lunch, Rotarians will view a five or six-inning baseball game between two of Quincy's youth playground teams, arranged by Quincy Recreation Director William Ryan. Those interested may tour the adjacent "Happy Acres" Day Camp for retarded children, or inspect the Recreation Department's Black's Creek boating program.

In the event of rain, this program will be held July 20 at the same time. However, Rotarians will meet in the Quincy Room at Walsh's Restaurant in North Quincy instead of Adams Field.

Brett Asks Sears' Help In 'Saving' Golf Course

MDC Commr. John W. Sears, has been requested by Rep. Joseph E. Brett to intercede with the House Ways and Means Committee to save the Wollaston Golf Course.

In a letter to Sears, Brett notes that House Bill No. 503, filed by him, proposes to have the golf course land acquired by the MDC, maintained and operated as a public golf course similar to those in Canton and Weston.

Brett writes: "I am writing to you with a deep sense of urgency in an appeal to help us save the Wollaston Golf Course from being destroyed and lost as a year-round residential area in a prime location serving hundreds of thousands of adults and children in surrounding communities.

"There are powerful vested interests attempting to take away this open space area which has served the people so well for many years and to convert it into a high-rise development of the upper-income category."

Brett asked Sears for a "favorable word" to the House Committee from Sears on the bill.

Quincy, Milton Scouts Cited For 'Real Rescue'

Scoutmasters James G. Triglia of 50 Springfield St., West Quincy, of Quincy Boy Scout Troop 32 and Robert Foster of Milton Troop 8, along with members of their troops, have received commendations for a "real rescue" from Mrs. John M. Griffin of Milton.

Scouts assisted in lifting Mrs. Blaine from the horse, putting her leg in a splint, and carrying her by homemade stretcher to a truck which in turn took her to an MDC ambulance alerted by the boys.

At Quincy City Hospital, roughly an hour after the accident, doctors said Mrs. Blaine had been splinted "in an excellent manner" and had received no additional injury from her trip out of the woods.

This, according to District Scout Executive Sumner H. Morse who passes the information on, "tells a story about Scouting in Action."

Grenham Youth Center In 'Thank You' To Houston

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin today called the present mayor's $10,000 salary "ridiculous" and recommended it be hiked to between $20,000 and $25,000.

Burgin also said he believes the mayor's job should be full time.

Proposing a minimum salary of $20,000 and a maximum of $25,000, Burgin declared:

"It shouldn't be a case of how small a salary we can get away with for the mayor [or anyone else for that matter] but in all fairness, what is the job actually worth."

He noted that the City Council can by law initiate a pay raise for the mayor providing the action is made before this year's city election.

He called on the council to take that action "as a matter of fairness to whoever may be concerned."

Burgin, is one of Quincy's only two living former mayors and the only one still a resident of Quincy. Former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa is now living in Pembroke.

Burgin who served as Plan A chief executive from 1935 to 1942 drew a salary of $6,000.

"Even in those days the salary was as equally absurd as that paid to-day," he said. "Just stop and think how salaries in general have increased in a period of nearly 35 years and compare the average percentage of increase with the 66 2/3 per cent in the mayor's salary."

The text of Burgin's statement follows:

"It would be interesting to know how many of our citizens in Quincy realize that the salary for the office of mayor is, and has been for many years, set at the figure of $10,000 annually. Equally interesting would be their awareness of the fact that there are approximately 50 categories in the Salary Ordinances that carry a rate in excess of $10,000 and the number of individuals involved are actually in the hundreds.

"All of these are either department heads or persons in more or less supervisory positions and they receive a higher annual salary than the mayor who by virtue of his office is the executive head of ALL city departments and the chairman of the school committee.

"Such a situation is not entirely out of line but utterly ridiculous! It should be corrected forthwith.

"As I understand the law, the city council has the authority to increase the mayor's salary but only under certain conditions, one of which is that their action must be taken before the forthcoming city election in order to take effect next January when the new two-year term commences.

"I respectfully suggest to the council members that as a matter of fairness to whoever may be concerned they provide an adequate salary for the office of mayor, and that they do this within the next few weeks.

"Being one of only two living former mayors of Quincy [and the only one presently residing in the city] I feel qualified to express my views on such an unusual and important issue. I hope that any suggestion I might make will be considered as being constructive with absolutely no ulterior motive either for myself [now retired from public life] or for any candidate for the mayor's office.

"The matter of increasing the mayor's salary has been discussed on many occasions during the past several years but to date nothing has been done. This may be in part due to the fact that our present Mayor McIntyre and his immediate predecessor, former Mayor Della Chiesa, have both received salaries in the city and state governments during their terms as mayor.

"With this I have no quarrel, and particularly in view of the meager annual compensation they have received from the city, nor do I in any way criticize these two gentlemen involved, both of whom I hold in high regard as personal friends and dedicated public officials. I am, however, much concerned about the principle involved as it relates to the existing salary for any mayor, present or future.

"No doubt there have been certain advantages to the city in having what might be called dual representation although it is my personal feeling that being the mayor of a city with close to 90,000 inhabitants should be a full-time job and should be compensated for in an amount commensurate with the responsibilities involved.

"A situation should not be allowed to exist wherein a mayor is practically forced to supplement his salary by other income in order to live in a manner befitting the important office he holds. Particularly is this true if he serves on a full-time basis.

"With some amusement I look back to the eight years I spent in the mayor's office between 1935 and 1942 [on practically a full-time basis] at an annual salary of $6,000. Even in those days the salary was as equally absurd as that paid to-day. Just stop and think how salaries in general have increased in a period of nearly 35 years and compare the average percentage of increase with the 66 2/3% in the mayor's salary.

"It is my personal opinion, therefore, and in view of the preceding observations, that the mayor's salary be established at an annual figure of not less than $20,000 nor more than $25,000.

FIRST TEETH CAVITY PROBLEM

Should you worry about cavities in first teeth? Yes you should! A youngster's first teeth [or baby teeth] should receive the same good care and attention as permanent teeth for several reasons.

A child needs healthy first teeth in order to chew food properly and speak well.

An infection established in first teeth can be carried over to permanent teeth.

Premature loss of first teeth can cause adjoining teeth to drift into empty spaces and twist the alignment of incoming permanent teeth.

Regular dental care for your children should begin between the ages of two and three so your dentist can treat any developing cavities. It is important to the future of your child's teeth.

A Teacher's Dedication

[Having read Miss Muriel Goudey's retirement article and her plans for the School Committee candidate moved me to write this poem.]

Attention! Teachers, one and all,
To You whom all "learners" lean,
For guidance, light, and education.

For when a child's eager eyes,
Looks in wonderment and askance,
At the puzzling world around him,
His searching eyes revolve
Back to yours for riddles and answers.

To learn is one thing,
To be taught is another.
For the parent of learning is "desire."
And the teacher's purpose is "instruction".
In drawing out the desired mental powers.

Of another mind in full production.

Any teacher is capable of teaching,
But it takes a "special teacher."
To inspire and influence an ardent learner,
His sparks of a spoken word, deed or action

Bring out the genius of certain minds,
Creating models of firm, sterling leaders.

Leading their followers to honorable and constructive paths.

All because of a special teacher's Influence and Dedication.

Life

A Saturday night down and depressed,

Suddenly alone, dismayed and distressed.

Yet it's happened before,
When not long ago,

I was hit, with a staggering blow.

And so as before, I'll just wonder why,

Why some things in life proceed to pass by,

Neglecting what reason there is to explain,

What in life is lost, is hard to regain.

King Crab Enhances Casserole

Give a special touch to an everyday favorite, macaroni and cheese, by adding the elegant flavor of Alaska King crab. The result is a delicious casserole to serve at a supper or buffet.

The sauce for the macaroni is a rich white sauce made with milk, sour cream and a combination of Swiss and Cheddar cheeses. Delicately flavored canned or frozen Alaska King crab, recognized by its snowy white meat with bright red striations, is sliced and folded in with the macaroni. Before baking a topping of grated cheese and bread crumbs is added.

Complete the casserole menu with mugs of vegetable soup and a crisp green salad.

King Crab Macaroni And Cheese

- | | |
|--|--------------------------------|
| 1 (7½ oz.) can Alaska King crab or 1 (6 oz.) package frozen Alaska King crab, thawed | 1½ cups milk |
| 2 cups elbow macaroni | 1 cup dairy sour cream |
| 3 tablespoons butter | 3 tablespoons minced onion |
| 3 tablespoons flour | 1 cup grated Swiss cheese |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese |
| ½ teaspoon dry mustard | 3 tablespoons dry bread crumbs |

Drain and slice crab. Cook and drain macaroni. Melt butter. Stir in flour and seasonings. Slowly add milk. Cook, stirring over medium heat until thickened. Remove from heat. Fold in sour cream, onion, Swiss cheese, and all but ¼ cup Cheddar cheese. Add crab and macaroni. Place in baking dish. Sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup cheese mixed with crumbs. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes or until bubbly and golden. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Cotton's a Natural Winner On Fashion's Fast Track

While the furor kicked up over midi lengths in women's wear has dominated most of the recent fashion headlines, a radical revolution taking place in men's wear has gone almost unnoticed.

Virtually every garment in the male wardrobe has undergone a change in design, fabric, color, style, and even feel. Fashion has shifted gears to keep pace with today's earth-orbiting male.

The spring outlook in men's wear is for clothes cut along clean, classic lines but with free-wheeling mobility and super-graphic designs. Most of the spring outfits and jackets are the two-button shaped mod-

In keeping with the current trend to environmental living and the return to the natural elements, cotton—a natural winner—is clocking in with a new perspective to earn Grand Prix status on fashion's fast track.

The latest cotton fabrics—in pure form or in high-count cotton blends—show a fresh outlook in weave, weight, construction, color, and performance. Versatile cottons looming large in men's spring fashions include fine-gauge knitwear, flight-weight corduroy, brushed denim, slub-textured twill, whipcord, poplin, jacquard and dobby-loomed novelty weaves.

They're graphically turned out by sophisticated printing techniques that produce large scale linear or angular designs, vari-shaped geometrics, computer dots, diamond checks, stripes, paisleys, and herringbone patterns.

Whether woven or knit, cotton's incomparable comfort makes it a natural for tailored business or evening suits, stylish blazer jackets, shorts, shirts, and slacks for put-together sports coordinates.

Colors for the '71-'72 calendar are focused on white, parchment, fawn beige, mushroom, khaki, burnt orange, cordovan brown, ombre reds, and a whole range of blues from faded tones to ink-blackened navy.

EASY-GOING—Tops in comfort and good looks is this business suit of airweight cotton corduroy in a new seersucker version. It's by Stanley Blacker.

62 Pen Pals From Quincy, Billerica Enjoy Day Together

It was a "big day" for 62 second grade pen pals from Quincy and Billerica when they finally met for the first time at Drumlin Farm in Lincoln.

Corresponding since last September were Miss Pamela Hunter's second-graders at Wollaston School, Quincy, and Miss Nancy Russell's students at the Dr. Hajjar School in Billerica.

The classes wrote on alternating weeks, remember Christmas, Valentines Day, Easter and St. Patrick's Day greetings, and exchanged class pictures.

The outing, which concluded a study of the farm by each group, was climaxed by meetings with pen pals, eating lunch together, and later playing games.

The day ended with Miss Hunter's Wollaston students singing "Thank you very much!" and presenting their pen pals with brownies made by their teacher. Miss Russell's Billerica students gave each pen pal a poster "To the Best of Pen Pals".

Kellogg Foundation Gives $20,680 Grant To Eastern Nazarene College

The W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich. has made a grant of $20,680 to Eastern Nazarene College, in support of its broad scale college community project in horticulture for beautification of community school grounds.

This is one of 25 similar grants made to small private liberal arts colleges throughout the U.S. as part of Kellogg's concern with environmental problems.

Director of the project will be ENC biology professor, William J. V. Babcock, who will be on sabbatical leave of absence from his teaching duties next year to develop his project.

Activities for the year include development of a detailed syllabus and handbook for a course "Principles of Horticulture for Teachers," design of horticultural landscaping for the grounds around area schools, enlargement of the campus greenhouse for wider participation, and involvement of teachers and pupils in school ground beautification projects.

Dr. Robert E. Kinsinger, Kellogg Foundation Vice President, explained that through these grants the Kellogg Foundation hopes to "encourage the small private liberal arts colleges, students, and faculty, to consider in a practical way unique means by which the results of continuing insults to the environment may be modified or reversed."

Review panel for the Kellogg project on campus are members of the college Administrative Council: Leslie Parrott, President; Lee McCleery, Assistant to the President; Robert Bollinger, Chief Business Officer; and Donald L. Young, Academic Dean.

This grant is in addition to the previously announced W. K. Kellogg Foundation grant of $5,000 to Eastern Nazarene College for resource materials in environmental studies.

1,000 Southern Artery Has 1,000 Waiting List

The Senior Citizens Center at 1000 Southern Artery has a waiting list of 1,000 with a turnover of only six per cent a year, according to The Fountain, monthly publication.

Average age of residents at the facility is 73 years.

In the first six months of 1971, 11 apartments changed tenants in the North Wing and six in the South Wing, a total of 17 in 442 units.

This, officials state, is the reason it takes so long to reach a place on the list where admittance becomes a reality.

Personal Counselor

'A New Bridge'

Many parents will welcome the announcement that Mr. Peter Lanzillotta...will be joining me for counseling with young people. He was recently graduated from college...majoring in counseling and psychology...he's young...personable...talks the kid's language...has a beard on his face...and his feet on the ground. He himself is right in-between being a kid...and being an older. I see our team relationship as a strong bridge...he with teen-agers...I with parents.

Young people are confused today. They're not sure where they've been...or where they're going...not sure who they can trust. The more aware they become...the more disillusioned some feel. Even sincere parents become suspect as to their motives...because of the "despise kids" attitude of many adults.

We who are in the middle years of life so often try to relate to our teen-agers by remembering what teen life was like when we were teen-agers. But when we use those days as guidelines...we lose them...because circumstances have changed so radically that our "learnings" in the 1930's and 1940's just don't fit. What we say therefore...may sound hollow and irrelevant. This is why I feel that Peter will be a "bridge over some troubled waters."

What kind of problems in particular are the kids facing? Most serious to me is the all too general feeling that nothing matters...that the whole world "stinks" and "there is nothing in it for me." So many young people are utterly miserable...desperately unhappy. Too many of them make half-hearted attempts to take their lives...cutting veins...overdosing with pills...or by withdrawing from life into depressed states. In talking with young victims of their own self-hate I find many of them deeply perplexed...and they see no way out. Conflicting pressures from other teen-agers...and from parents intensify the dilemma...because I can't be accepted by both." Perhaps Peter can be a bridge for some of them.

Then there are the lazy ones...the ones we've spoiled. I'm not sure the child allowance is a good thing...with the built-in cost of living and age-step increases...for doing nothing...as if parents were saying..."we're so grateful to have you that we're glad to pay you weekly just for being around." It does the child's ego no good...I doubt that it does his/her character any good. It may deliberately teach laziness...how to avoid work. Maybe Peter can get some kids to rise to a personal responsibility and overcome this "Dad will pick up the tab" philosophy.

Everybody now is concerned about drug abuse. It's popular to want to do something about it...and a town...or a school...or a church...or a parent...that is ignoring the drug traffic has its head in the sand. It's a big problem. Many kids are already hooked...some are frightened...some haven't the guts to quit for fear of peer ridicule. And many fear just as much parent approval. It's almost the "in-thing" to be in conflict with parents. Whatever the causes...our indulgence and permissiveness...the Vietnam War...laziness...pressures...drugs are plentiful and are used by a large percent of the kids. Maybe Peter can help us here.

If our team seems to have some merit...let Peter and I try to be your "bridge over troubled waters."

55 School Administrators Stay On

While some 17,000 Quincy students rounded out their first week of summer vacation, 55 administrators in the school system went into the second part of a three-day seminar today on adapting current management techniques to educational needs.

The management seminar was conducted by Technology Management, Inc., of Cambridge with instructors from the Sloan School of Management at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The training seminar for administrators was initiated by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creodon as one means of making the school system more responsive to growing social realities.

Dr. Creodon feels that the schools must change in order to survive as viable learning centers and their survival is based on the willingness of educators to acquire and employ new skills and knowledge.

Recognizing that "we are living in a period of accelerated change" and that these "changes are displacing old methods and attitudes at a blinding rate" Dr. Creodon said that the management training seminar will help create an environment of self-renewal for Quincy educators and is useful as a vehicle "to encourage the application of new methods of managing schools."

A & T Movers, Steve's Place Pace Quincy Softball Action

"Nothing constant but change" was the rule in Quincy Softball League games this week as A & T Movers edged into first place in the South Division and Peters' tumbled into second.

Peters, defeating Wells Grille 7-4 going into the last of the seventh inning, ran into the Wells' Grille "never say die" spirit as Bob Swirbalus drove in two runs and the game went to 7-6.

League leading hitter Steve Verenis, who was 4 for 4, applied the clincher and Wells Grille won its ninth straight victory. Verenis also made a great defensive play as he picked up a deflected hit in short right field and threw a rocket to third baseman Tortorella as left fielder Mike Holden, almost to third, slid in too late.

North Division leader, Steve's Place, added to Peter's woes to the tune of 3-0 in one of the few shutouts of the season, recorded by pitcher Don Campbell. Peters, normally a good hitting team, could muster only six hits. Both teams excelled defensively.

At the beginning of the second round, South Division teams were beating the North regularly. Now the reverse is true, and North Division has the edge in wins.

A sudden rainstorm saved

two other South Division teams from defeat at Rotary and Welcome Young fields. Beau's Place was being throttled by the Burke Club 6-2 at the end of three innings, and A & T, new South Division leader, was being belted 10-0 by South Shore National Bank in the top of the first inning - the Bank still had two men on base and only one out when the washout came.

Barry's Deli dumped the Hofbrau 6-4 as Barry's catcher, Charlie Alongi, put one out of Welcome Young. This loss by Hofbrau ended their 7-game win streak, and coupled with a Jolly Roger loss, enable Beau's Place to sneak into third place in the South Division.

Quincy Track Girls Take Two Events In ARCO Competition

The Quincy Track Club, made up of Quincy and South Shore girls between the ages of nine and 19, took two wins and placed in six other events last week in a rain-shortened ARCO meet at White Stadium.

The events washed out will be run today before the regular weekly meet at White Stadium.

The ARCO meets are sponsored by the Atlantic Richfield Co. in association with the Boston Park Dept.

Rory Nolan, daughter of North Quincy High Basketball Coach Bob Nolan, won the long jump for girls 9 to 11 with a leap of 10 feet, 3 1/4 inches, and Betsy Witt won the mile run for girls 16 to 18 in 6:28.

Miss Nolan also was fifth in the 50-yard dash, Shirley Lyons took second in the 9 to 11 long jump, Judy Foley was third and Miss Witt fourth in the 14-15 year old shot put, Kathy Bennett second in the 16-18 mile and Miss Witt second in the 16-18 long jump.

Boating, Sailing Program Underway

The City of Quincy, with 27 miles of water front, is again providing an instructional boating and sailing program for Quincy residents eight years of age and over announces Park-Recreation Board Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr.

Emphasis will continue to be on the importance of safe boating and the great need for people of all ages to acquire basic skills in this increasingly popular recreational activity, McCormick said.

McCormick, said boys and girls eight years of age and over who first pass a qualifying swimming test on one of the Recreation Department's 14 instructional swimming stations will be eligible for the program, to be held at the department's Black's Creek Boat House in Merrymount Park.

Recreation Director William F. Ryan, said a fleet of 35 small boats, including 17 turnabouts, will be utilized from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. The program started July 1.

The evening classes will be for adults, enabling parents to take the course too.

Supervisor of the program is Joseph Daly, assisted by Thomas Sweeney, Stephen Kenney, Cheryl Smith, Debbie Spanks, Michael Morrissey, Butch McCormick and Jack Mele.

Life jackets, provided by the department, must be worn at all times by youngsters participating in the program. The beginning course includes boat nomenclature, knot tying, rowing, launching, docking. Upon successfully mastering these basic seamanship skills, participants then move on to the sail boats.

Red Cross certificates are issued to those successfully completing each course.

Registrations will be held at the boathouse throughout the season.

Last year the program received the National Gold Cup award for Boating Safety. Mr. McCormick and Mr. Ryan received the award at the New York Boat Show.

Win Streak Now At 9

Morrisette Has Sights On 8th Title

The season is only at the halfway mark but the Morrisette Legion baseball team looks like a pretty good bet to win its eighth Zone 6 championship in the last 11 years.

"It is nice to be on top," said Coach Ray Cattaneo following last week's 1-0 win over Milton, the ninth in a row for unbeaten Morrisette. "But a lot can happen before we can think about the championship."

"You have to be up for every game in this league and the teams down in the standings have proven they can be very tough on a given night."

Morrisette, with a two-game lead over runnerup Braintree, hosted Weymouth last night, will be home to Randolph Friday at Adams Field and Monday night under lights will face Quincy in the second game of a twilight doubleheader at Adams Field.

In the opener at 7 o'clock, Braintree faces Weymouth.

Morrisette was held to one run and four hits by Milton's Paul Ryan but it was enough for another win as southpaw Jimmy Walker won his fourth in a row and barely missed a no-hitter for the second time.

A bunt single by Ryan was Milton's lone hit. Earlier Walker was one out away from a no-hitter against Randolph but a single with two outs in the seventh ruined it.

Morrisette's winning run came in the final inning when Jim Driscoll walked, Kevin Ryan singled and Bobby Malvesti's single brought Driscoll home. Malvesti had two hits, Ryan and Tom Burke one each.

Walker struck out four and walked five.

Earlier in the week Morrisette stretched its league lead to two games with a 3-1 win over Braintree. Both of Braintree's losses have been to Morrisette.

Anthony Knasas pitched another beauty as he held the runnersup to three hits, struck out five and walked six, which put him in a little trouble.

Cattaneo raved about Knasas' desire and spirit. "He recently pitched nine innings against Weymouth and the very next day, to show you what kind of a kid he is, he was taking wind sprints at Randolph on his own. You could see tonight that he is in shape. He could take the heat and he has a lot of courage."

Pete Lucier sparked the attack with a triple and two singles, while Joe Marani, Burke, Driscoll and Knasas each had one hit.

5-3 Zone Record

Quincy Rebounds With Two Wins In Row

Quincy Legion baseball team's attempts to give Coach Doug Fleming his first winning season in four years may be successful.

The determined Quincy players, following two heartbreaking defeats, rebounded to win two in a row and took a 5-3 Zone 6 record into Tuesday's game at Braintree.

Last night Quincy played at Randolph, will be at Milton Friday and next Monday night will host Morrisette under lights at Adams Field in the second game of a doubleheader.

Weymouth will meet Braintree in the 7 o'clock opener.

Although Quincy took its fifth win last week at Stoughton, the last place Stoughton team showed nothing can be taken for granted. Quincy bombed that night, 12-1, earlier in the season but just held on for a 4-3 win last week.

"The kids were really loose for this one, laughing and joking before the game, but we were lucky to win," Fleming admitted. "This was a much different Stoughton team than we faced the first time and it just proves you can't take any team lightly in this league."

Quincy, scoring single runs in the first, second, fourth and fifth, had a 4-1 lead going into the bottom of the fifth but Stoughton scored twice. Then, in the seventh inning, Stoughton had two men on when the game was called because of darkness.

Bill Desher went the route on the Quincy mound, giving up seven hits, striking out five and walking six.

Quincy had eight hits, including a triple and double by Desher, and singles by Dave Drew, Jack Flaherty, Tim Flynn, Paul Varney, Bob Morton and Tony Alibrandi.

Burke Picked For Second Time In Red Sox Tryouts

Even if no Quincy player is selected in the annual Red Sox tryouts at Adams Field, Quincy, on July 16, the city will be represented in the tourney semifinals [doubleheader] at Fenway Park on July 29.

Among those selected at last week's tryouts in Lynn was Tom Burke, hard-hitting North Quincy High outfielder who is currently starring for the undefeated Morrisette Legion team.

Burke was the only repeater selected from the many who tried out at Lynn.

The Quincy tryouts will be directed by Frank Malzone and the staff will include Quincy's Sam Mele, Scout Tommy MacDonald of Quincy and Jack Burns, who starred for the old Fore River teams.

Quincy Swim Club Represented In NEAAU Junior Olympic Meet

The Quincy Swim Club will be well-represented in the NEAAU Junior Olympic swimming championships Saturday and Sunday at the Latta Brothers Memorial MDC Pool in Somerville.

The meet, of which Quincy's Frank Rull, an official of the Quincy club, is chairman, is sanctioned by the New England Association of the AAU and is nationally sponsored by the Quaker Oats Company with the cooperation of the MDC.

There will be 50 events in four divisions, midget for those 10 and under, junior for those 11 and 12, intermediate for those 13 and 14 and senior for those 15 to 17.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Dustin Hoffman As Jimmy Durante?

SEAN CONNERY has a winner on his hands with "THE ANDERSON TAPES". The suspense thriller grossed over $100,000 its first five days running at two New York City theatres. If these early returns are to be used as a yardstick, "ANDERSON TAPES" could be one of the top 20 grossers of 1971... CAROL WHITE, a British actress with a so-so film record, is hoping her soon-to-be-released "DULCINA" orbits her into the "elitest" superstar category... She just might make it with the "DULCINA" run. The picture was selected as England's official entry at the prestigious Berlin Film Festival...

ROGER MOORE, famed for his television "SAINT" vehicles, goes the horror film route with the forthcoming "THE MAN WHO HAUNTED HIMSELF"... JOHN FRANKENHEIMER zeroes out with "THE HORSEMAN". What he gives us is not an epic in the grand manner, but rather a B-grade programmer saturated throughout with sugar laced dialogue, and expansive terrain which overwhelms the plot. Editing is another problem. FRANKENHEIMER scissored with such carelessness that Indian actress DESPO, whose name appears in the billing, never makes the scene in the final version... May he do better the next time around... Is DANA ANDREWS in retirement? Don't remember seeing him since his 1967 "THE WALKING DEAD".

Brookline's ANTHONY PERKINS just can't seem to shake being type cast in psychological murder pictures. "SOMEONE BEHIND THE DOOR", a July release, is another in a long list of psychological probes spotlighting PERKINS own unique brand of cinema villain wizardry... CATHERINE DENEUE sheds the glamour goddess facade with some heavy, sentimental act in "IT ONLY HAPPENS TO OTHERS"... A Name To Remember: NINO MANFREDI is currently Italy's most talked about celebrity and his "THE CROSS-EYED SAINT" is the big reason why. As the films star, director and co-author, he is the man responsible for this film being rated in the number one slot as the leading grosser of the 1970-71 season... And a month ago, he received a special CANNES Jury Award for excellence in directing. "SAINT" is his first venture as a director, but assuredly won't be his last...

This just may be the year when actor turned writer TOM TRYON comes into his own as a luminary. His first novel, "THE OTHER", is notched comfortably on the New York Times Best Seller List. Reviews from such sources as Saturday Review and Life magazine hail TRYON's literary effort as "a mesmerizing chiller", "a classic of horror tales"... And his good fortune is just beginning. 20th Century has bought the film rights of his book, and named him both executive producer and scenarist for the project... And unless I miss my guess his sudden birth as a literary figure will enhance his reputation as an actor. He is an in demand producer, and should have no difficulty in selecting his roles from here after...

LAWRENCE J. QUIRK gives us a realistic look at the life and times of PAUL NEWMAN in the bio, "THE FILMS OF PAUL NEWMAN"... ORSON WELLES has just completed filming of "DON QUIXOTE". The movie is scheduled for a '72 release... Spain's FERNANDO REY signed on for an important role in "ANTHONY AND CLEOPATRA"... TRISH VAN DEVERE, a virtual unknown until now, gets what will prove to be the break of her life as co-star to GEORGE C. SCOTT in "THE LAST RUN"... Often as not it takes that one picture to change an image and thereby vault an actor into a new lease on life. Such is the case with TROY DONAHUE. He so impressed producers with his hippie cult characterization in "SWEET SAVIOUR", the Trans World Attractions Inc. signed him to an exclusive three picture contract... Up until this year DONAHUE was living down his television "HAWAIIAN EYE" image, and this unfortunately cost him several lean years of non film employment...

DORE SCHARY is after DUSTIN HOFFMAN to portray JIMMY DURANTE in the latter's early show business days. The motion picture, titled "INKA-DINKA-DO", rolls before the cameras April of next year, and if SCHARY is intent on signing HOFFMAN, he had better do so within the next few months. The way HOFFMAN is belting out the box office hits, he has more script offers than he can shake a stick at... Nostalgia has the now diminishing Hollywood empire in its grip. Now the craze is remaking of previous successes. "TRADER HORN", produced originally by MGM in 1931, is being readied by CARTER DEHAEN for lensing in November...

Watch for a swoop of rodeo pictures to burst on the screens by next year. To name two, CLIFF ROBERTSON is shooting "J.W.", and JAMES CUBURN is putting the finishing touches on "THE HONKERS"... ROBERT MITCHUM gets my vote as one of the 15 most accomplished American actors. In the more than two decades as a performing artist, MITCHUM has added dignity to his profession, and always given 110% of himself to every role... PETER SELLERS and DAVID NIVEN will team in a comedy western for director BLAKE EDWARDS... "DINAH EAST" is this year's "underground" sleeper of the year. The script and acting creditably overcome the unlikely plot of a transvestite who becomes a star movie actress...

James J. Hanley To Take Part In Debating Study

James J. Hanley, Jr., director of debate at Quincy High School, is among 15 debating directors throughout the country to be selected to participate in a study of the structure of communications this summer at Wake Forest University, in Winston-Salem, N.C.

The course, which runs until July 19, is aimed at helping those participating in understanding the ways and means of establishing and maintaining a successful debating program at the high school level.

This past school year only North Quincy and Quincy high schools had debating teams but plans are now underway for Mr. Hanley to establish debate teams in the city's junior high schools next year, according to Robert Collins, Assistant Coordinator of Language Arts and Social Studies.

Veterans News

Many widows of Massachusetts veterans may not know they can receive Veterans Administration benefits even after their remarriage if the remarriage has been terminated by death or divorce.

VA says qualified widows are eligible for VA-guaranteed home loans, educational benefits, death pension, and dependency and indemnity compensation [DIC].

Previously, the widow of a veteran was declared permanently ineligible for these benefits if he remarried, but a recently passed law has amended that provision to again make the widow eligible if her remarriage is terminated.

The number of American veterans hit a high of 28.2 million in May, the Veterans Administration announced this week.

The VA said the number of living veterans is likely to continue to increase in the foreseeable future since the military discharge rate has been running over 80,000 a month and older veterans have been dying at a rate of about 26,000 a month.

Of VA's 28.2 million veterans, some 25.1 million served during a wartime period and an additional 3.1 million served after the Korean conflict and before the Vietnam Era-Feb. 1, 1955 to Aug. 4, 1964 inclusive.

Most of the million veterans now in training under the post-Korean G.I. Bill served during the Vietnam Era [After Aug. 4, 1964] and this group also makes up the large bulk of those now applying for G.I. loans.

In contrast, these young Vietnam Era veterans compose only 15% of the patients in VA hospitals, and about 10% of those on the disability compensation rolls.

Veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955, are eligible for all VA benefits. While time has run out for World War II and Korean Conflict veterans for G.I. Bill education benefits, unused portions of home loan guaranty benefits have been restored.

Veterans interested in VA benefits information should contact their local VA office or veterans organization service officer.

Tobin, Rogalin Warm Up For Senate Showdown

It will be veteran against newcomer in the Norfolk District senate seat square-off July 27.

Democrat standard bearer will be City Council President-Rep. Arthur H. Tobin who rolled to an easy win over Quincy Police Detective Robert Furtado in the special primary election June 29.

Republican hope is Atty. Richard Rogalin of Braintree, political newcomer who won the GOP spot as an 11th hour write-in candidate.

Tobin swept over Furtado by a 5,519 to 1,196 margin in the Quincy, Braintree and Holbrook District.

Only 12 per cent of the 66,000 voters in the three communities bothered to turn out.

Rogalin pulled 518 write-in votes - three times as many as Jens E. Thornton, another GOP write-in contender from Squantum. Thornton got 149 votes.

Quincy, with 14 per cent, had the highest voter turnout in the district. Total registration in the city is 42,371.

Tobin polled 4,641 votes to 1,023 for Furtado in Quincy.

Tobin also topped the GOP ballot in Quincy with 238 write-ins to Rogalin's 204 and Thornton's 147.

Winner of the final election will fill the senate seat vacated in May by Mayor James R. McIntyre to accept appointment as senate counsel.

The two primary winners immediately began looking ahead to their July 27 showdown.

"I think I can do more for the district," said Tobin. "I don't think a Republican senator can get as much done as I can."

Tobin noted that there are now 30 Democrats and 10 Republicans in the senate.

"The Democrat party is in control," said Tobin. "I think the voters of the district are going to honestly have to ask themselves who will be able to do more for them—a Democrat or a Republican. I think the answer is quite obvious."

Tobin expressed "my deepest gratitude" to those who voted for him and the volunteer workers who assisted him in the primary campaign.

Rogalin pledged to carry his campaign for the senate seat "to every home of this district."

Said he in a statement:

"During the past week or so, I have seen the desire of the people of this district to have open discussion on the functioning of their government. I intend to carry this campaign into every home of this district. I ask to speak to every one. People may not see many signs, but they will hear my voice and my own thoughts."

"No public office should ever be a reward for faithful service. Each election should give the people an opportunity to judge the man and his own qualities. In the days to come I shall discuss in more detail those issues of importance to this district and my ideas for their solution.

"I have found great concern with the problems of a suburban region whose development is overshadowed by a metropolis. The individual homeowner is plagued by property taxes in times of high unemployment. Great gaps of understanding separate young, old, and the not-so-old."

"Many people feel government has forgotten whom it represents - the people. I will not forget."

Father, Son Team Tops Men's 'Beauty Contest'

Father and son won the men's beauty contest at Germantown, an annual fun feature of the July 4th festivities at Snug Harbor Circle which attracted 13 entries this year.

Honors went to Frank C. Pace of 361 Palmer St., while Kenneth E. Pace was in second place.

Mothers shared in the fun contests, with Norma Barkley winning the mothers' marathon for those under 40 years; Trudy Chludzinski and Mary Duross tied for those over 40.

Dean, "horrible."

Dashes were won by Danny Radley, Larry Lamphere and Kevin Quigley. Nancy Chludzinski, Jean Beliveau and Joanne Connolly, 5 to 7 years; Chris Lamphere, Scott Hennebury and Steve Notarangelo, Nancy Connolly, Susan Morrissey and Anne-Marie

Quigley, 8 and 9 years.

In sack races, Tommy Robertson and Darnelle Pace were victors.

Races were won by Carroll Guppy and Harry Williams, 10 to 12 years; Paul Connolly, Steven Thurston, Mike Morrissey, Tammy McGovern, Sharon Uhlar and Amy Straughton, under 6 years.

Frank Pace was general chairman of July 4th events, which included concerts by "The Techniques" and the "Mocking Birds" country western group.

Assisting were Mrs. Pace, Janice Snyder, Bruce Duffy, Walter Shermahorn and Charles Higgins.

Muriel Goudey To Seek School Committee Seat

Miss Muriel J. Goudey who retired last month after 43 years as a Quincy school teacher, today formally announced her candidacy for School Committee.

Miss Goudey, who lives at 24 Edgemere Rd, Quincy Center, was head of the Language Arts Department of Quincy High School for the past 10 years. She had been a teacher in the Quincy public school system since 1928.

In her statement, Miss Goudey declared:

"My 43 years of teaching experience in the schools of Quincy. I believe, qualify me to serve the youth, parents, and taxpayers of the City of Quincy, and therefore I am announcing my candidacy for the Quincy School Committee.

For the past 10 years I have been Head of the Department of English at Quincy High, and since the addition of the Quincy Vocational Technical School I have been responsible for a staff of 22 teachers of English and more than 2,500 young people.

"In addition, I served as chairman of the Committee on Philosophy and Objectives comprising representatives of each department at both Quincy High and Quincy Vocational Technical Schools.

"This committee, working a year, set up the statement of Philosophy and the educational objectives for the evaluation of the two schools which should lead to a 10-year accreditation by the New England Association of Colleges and secondary schools.

"In 1928 I entered the Quincy School system with my bachelor's and my master's degrees from Boston University, and since then have completed the equivalent of the doctoral level in graduate study at Acadia University in Wolfville, Nova Scotia, and at Harvard University.

"From my long observation of and participation in the process of education, I am convinced that the rapidity of change requires the steadiness of the experience which is mine.

"I urge those who are concerned with the steady progress of education in the schools of Quincy to join with many like-minded citizens favoring 'firm flexibility' in education to support my candidacy for the Quincy School Committee."

Graham Seeks Mayor's Help

Fire Station Urged For Germantown

Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham today proposed converting the Quincy Housing Authority's Doane St. boiler room into a fire station to provide "suitable fire protection" for Germantown residents.

As an alternate proposal, he suggested construction of a new road parallel to Palmer St. to expedite movement of fire apparatus from Central and Houghs Neck fire stations.

Opening of the new 275-unit Senior Citizens high-rise apartment complex will soon add considerably to the area population and to the need for quicker fire service, he said.

Graham today requested the support of Mayor James R. McIntyre to secure greater fire protection for the area which is reached only by Palmer St., a two-lane highway.

Installation of a new fire station at the boiler room site on

Brett Opposes High-Rise Boulevard Development

Construction of a high-rise development on Quincy Shore Drive between North and Tirrell Streets in North Quincy is opposed by Rep. Joseph E. Brett.

In a letter to City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Brett said he will be out of town July 19 when a public hearing on the proposal is scheduled.

"I wish to be publicly recorded in opposition to the high-rise proposal as such a development would be completely out of keeping with the character of the surrounding neighborhood," Brett wrote.

"Any development of that area should not be more than two stories in height to be in conformity with the abutting residential areas."

The area, once a natural wetland, has been filled in violation of the "Wetlands Act". Brett claims with no permit obtained from the State Department of Natural Resource for the filling.

"The filling of the area has been the cause of considerable concern and hardship by abutting neighbors whose properties have been subjected to water damage as the result of the filling," Brett said.

"The area was formerly a flood plain which harbored excessive rainfalls and high tidal waters which ran into the area."

Brett urged the City Council to "act in behalf of the best interests of the citizens of the area and reject the application for permission to construct the high-rise development."

$4 Million In Wiring At State Street South Project

Permit for a record-breaking $4 million wiring project for a new building of State Street Bank and Trust Company at 145 Newport Ave., North Quincy, has been issued by the City Wire Department.

It brought to $4,040,190 the total value of wiring for which permits were issued in June, Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reported.

A total of 214 inspections were made, eight re-inspections and two fire calls.

A further major wiring project was the new building for Sons of Italy at 120 Quarry St., West Quincy.

Doane St., is proposed to replace equipment which now heats the 180 units of the Riverview section of the Quincy Housing Authority. The Quincy Housing Authority is replacing the heating system with 45 individual systems.

The 50 by 75 foot brick building, with some minor changes, could be converted into an "excellent fire station", Graham said. Four officers and 16 fire-fighters would be required to man the new fire station. A new pumper would cost an estimated $50,000.

The building, under jurisdiction of the federal government and the Quincy Housing Authority, could be turned over to the city for use as a fire station Graham believes.

The alternate road parallel to Palmer St., he suggests should start from the southerly side of State St. and continue along the edge of the marsh to connect with a new road to run between the Snug Harbor School and Bowes Ave. This plan would enable a tie-in of many of the side streets with the new road and Palmer St.

An estimate of between $1-$1.5 million dollars has been given by H. W. Moore Associates to build a 48-foot paved roadway.

"A search for state, county and federal funds would be necessary," Graham said. Since most of the land is already owned by the city of Quincy, there would be very little land taking necessary.

"This neighborhood has been most fortunate in the past decade that there has not been a serious fire. "Due to the close proximity of the houses, any type of fire, with certain conditions existing such as high winds, could cause a terrible situation."

Also, he added, should Palmer St. be blocked off for any reason, the entire Germantown peninsula would be isolated.

section of the Commonwealth that has been without rail passenger service for more than a decade.

"We invite everyone to our "T" Party and to ride the comfortable, air-conditioned trains after the ceremonies are over.

"We believe we have a great new service that the public will want to buy, especially once the thrill of crossing the Neponset River over the George L.

Anderson Bridge at 60 miles per hour is experienced.

"We expect that our commuters—those going to Boston to work and those coming to Quincy to work—will arrive at their jobs more relaxed and less ruffled from their days of automobile commuting; and conversely, they will be getting back to their homes less traffic-battle weary.

"For example, between North Quincy and Downtown Boston [Washington Station], the trip will take 11 minutes, between Quincy and Downtown Boston, 14½ minutes, and Wollaston and Downtown, 12½ minutes. The automobile cannot match that!

"The Authority is very proud of the South Shore Extension which we consider our showpiece in our capital improvement program. We are counting on the people, to whom it belongs, to make it a success.

"We hope to see you on September 1 and, equally important, on September 2 when revenue service begins."

$600,155 Quincy Housing Authority Contract

A contract of $600,155 has been awarded the Quincy Housing Authority by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to Congressman James A. Burke.

The contract is for modernization of existing federally assisted low-rent housing of the Quincy Housing Authority.

The program involves the modernization and rehabilitation of buildings, tenant involvement in upgrading management policies and practices, and the expansion of community services and facilities.

Involved in this is the Harborview Residents Committee, Inc. of Germantown, a tenant organization.

STATEHOUSE ACTION LINE

Q: I am unemployed and cannot make ends meet anymore. I am 68 and cannot find a job. Is there some way I can get some financial help? F.L.

A: The Department of Public Welfare has five financial assistance programs, including Old Age Assistance for Massachusetts residents over 65 years of age. Application can be made at your local Public Welfare Office. You will be interviewed by a social worker, who will ask you about the extent of your income and resources about how much personal property and real estate you might have, and if you have any relatives who could possibly contribute to your support. These factors will determine your eligibility. It takes about a month to get this process completed, but monthly grants once you get them are $138.90 if you live alone.

Q: Are there rules governing day care centers even if they are very small and in private homes? M.G.

A: The Department of Public Health issues one year permits to day care centers which provide for three or more children under seven years of age. Also there are minimum requirements established by the Public Welfare Department to assure the health, safety, and welfare of children in places which advertise themselves as day care centers. Either the Board of Health or the Welfare Department can answer any specific questions you might have. Their telephone numbers are 357-8290 and 727-6112, respectively.

Q: Well, I got taken again! This time by a fast-talking door-to-door magazine salesman. Now I'm stuck with a real mess but isn't there some sort of protection which other people can have? G.W.

A: Every Massachusetts resident is protected against unfair, deceptive or pressure sales practices. In this particular case, you would have been able to cancel the contract which the door-to-door salesman had you sign by notifying the company within three business days that you had changed your mind. Whenever you are in doubt on any consumer question, including sales practices, bad or short weighted merchandise, insurance or utilities, don't hesitate to find out what the law is.

The Consumers' Council in Boston will help. Their telephone number is [617] 727-2605. Also the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division may be able to help you. Their Boston number is [617] 727-5530. Let us emphasize, there is no substitute for getting to know what your consumer rights are. But if you think you have a problem, call immediately and find out for sure. Time is usually an important factor.

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I am writing to thank you so much for publishing the pictures of our annual North Quincy Associates July 4th celebration.

It is rewarding to see the faces of youngsters when they see their own picture or even name in the newspaper. The Quincy Sun caters to the Quincy youngsters.

It not only gives the youngsters who are in the pictures, but also the workers who put on the day, great satisfaction to see the results of their many hours recognized by our local paper.

The Quincy Sun and the Boston Globe, which both gave us front page pictures, were the only ones to do so.

Again, I thank you, and keep up the excellent work which you are doing.

I think the Quincy Sun is fantastic for the youth of Quincy. It gives both boys and girls a great deal of Quincy will roll back the years again to the "good old days" at the second annual old-fashioned "Sidewalk Bazaar" on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Sidewalk Bazaar Opens Today

Some 86 Quincy center stores, shops and other businesses are taking part in the nostalgic three-day event with the accent on old fashioned values, old fashioned service and lots of old fashioned fun.

"Bigger and better" is the description by Remo DeNicola of South Shore Television & Appliance, general chairman of the promotion sponsored by the Merchants Division of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

"Last summer's Sidewalk Bazaar was the biggest summer promotion ever held in Quincy," he said. "This year's will be even bigger and better."

"We have more activities downtown, twice as many."

"There is more participation by merchants."

"We have more civic organizations, church and other groups participating than last year."

Accent again is on fun and old-fashioned bargains.

Bernard C. Moore, Jr., executive secretary of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, is coordinating promotion plans with DeNicola.

Hans Slot of W. T. Grants and Al Archambault of Gilchrist's are coordinators of Special Activities which will include:

- Band Concerts.
- Banjo Bands.
- Barbershop Quartets and Chorus.
- Square Dancing.

•Antique auto parade and exhibit.

•Puppet Shows.

•Sidewalk Art Show.

•Sidewalk Cafes.

•Strolling Minstrels.

•Young World" Performers.

•Fire Engine Rides.

•Miss Quincy Bay Race Week Beauty Contest.

•Clubs and Organizations displays and sales.

•Again downtown Quincy will be decorated with banners, pennants and flags for the three-day event.

Many of the sidewalk cafes will open at 10 a.m. and will extend hours into the evening.

Special activities will take place during the afternoon and will be stepped up during the evening hours.

For three days Quincy will revel again in a return of the good old days.

IT'S CEMENT -- Skipper Larry Peterson and wife Mary skim through water off Quincy Yacht Club in his ferro-cement sailboat "Tina Too" which he built in his own backyard.

'Tina Too' Pretty Do-It-Yourself CEMENT Sailboat

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

"Tina Too", a 22-foot streamlined red sailboat with white cabin and 218 square feet of white sail, is a pretty picture riding the waves of Quincy Bay or drifting at anchor in Perry Cove.

Few would guess the graceful knockabout sloop built by Larry Peterson in his backyard at 169 Rhoda St., Rock Island Cove, is a ferro-cement "do it yourself" project.

"I had a ferro-cement rudder on my wooden boat 'Tina II' for three years before I decided to go ahead and build a whole boat," Larry explained. "It was the most satisfactory rudder I ever had and is still in use."

Actual construction started about a year ago, although he had plans in the making for perhaps two years previous.

The framework of "Tina Too", four layers of one-half inch wire mesh tied together and braced with steel rods every four inches, was built inside the form used originally for 'Tina II'. This reversal of the customary procedure in boat building permitted hoisting of the wire framework which was suspended during applications of three layers of hand-mixed ferro-cement.

"Ferro-cement is light weight ground-up insulation used in place of sand, mixed with Portland cement and a latex binder -- I used a good grade of latex paint," Larry related.

"The hull is 5/8-inches thick. The boat weighs somewhat over 3,100 pounds -- not considered heavy. Of that, 800 pounds is keel or outside ballast. The keel is of ferro-cement, concrete and lead which keeps it from sliding," he continued. "It will draw approximately 36-inches of water."

Trim is mahogany, and mast and rigging are iron.

Tina II. Styrofoam billets under cockpit, deck, and in other unusable space are sufficient to float the boat and six people.

"It is superior to anything I have ever built before -- has the sturdiest structure," Larry claimed. He has built as a hobby some 17 previous boats, including dinghies and tenders.

A moulder at Taylor Foundry, he was permitted to come in on Saturdays to make molds for his boat. He made all his own fittings, patterns, etc., Foundry troweling experience helped also in the cement work, he believes.

"The boat hasn't been expensive in comparison with building a boat of lumber or fiberglass. It is about one-half the cost of either one of those materials, but it is getting more expensive because steel went up. It cost me about $525 for new material.

"Timewise, it is faster than building a wood boat, but it is a lot more tedious and not as pleasant to work with. A real messy job."

Larry displayed a deep cement "burn" on one wrist and described the buildup of cement "steam" which sometimes prevented him from seeing what he was doing in close quarters.

Sturdy ferro-cement workboats were developed some years ago in New Zealand where lumber is scarce and expensive, he said. Two large ferro-cement boats suitable for ocean travel are now under construction in Hull.

"Tina Too" is the only one I know about under 30-feet," Larry observed.

But he feels there is a good future for ferro-cement sailboats here in New England for those who really love the water and haven't the money to buy or build wooden boats.

Salvation

[and He, bearing His cross went forth into a place called the place of the skull. John 19-17]

Who is this man bent down beneath
That cruel cross of wood?
Tis Christ, the very Son of God,
The sinless one and good.

What agony was in His heart
No one will ever know,
As enemies prepared the cross,
I seem to hear each blow.

I seem to hear the mocker's scorn

As each nail's pounded in,
Oh, Christ, I should have borne that cross.

You carried for my sin,
Those drops of sweat like blood were shed,
As onward Jesus went
Until He reached Golgotha's hill.

Beneath His burden bent

And there they nailed him to that cross.

That cross of calvary
I seem to hear triumphant words
"Tis finished!" and I see

The plan of a great salvation
Perfected there that day,
As Jesus with His precious blood
Washed all my sins away.

Clouds

Gazing into clouds and blue-shaded skies,
Only to see you materialize,
An illusion yes, this picture I paint,
Of you in the sky, so bright yet so faint.

And scanning these clouds, I manage to find,
One unlike, a different design,
Unequaled by far, distinct from the rest,
Completely capturing my interest.

Floating in motion, refining the skies,
The quell it provides, as it pacifies,
Existing clouds that continue to cling,
Weakly attached, yet so admiring.

And I see myself, a cloud cast adrift,
Apart from the fleet, awaiting a lift.

Hoping she'll shake her attachments nearby,
For a gaping hole, I might occupy.

These thoughts are farfetched, the clouds will agree,
A cloud and a face, is no recipe.

A dreamer I am, I forthright admit,
But don't we all dream, just a little bit?

Keeping Cool As A Cucumber

Outside a small town general store hung this sign: "The first of July is the last of August." Confusing, perhaps, but the explanation was simple—the owner's name was August and on July 1st the doors of his store closed forever.

Particularly when the often scorching heat of August envelops us, we sometimes wish we could dismiss the month as easily as that old sign seemed to do. However, you can keep your "cool" and help your family keep theirs at mealtime by serving Cool Salmon Loaf. A delightfully surprising combination of salmon and crisp cucumbers in a base of light, refreshing gelatin, this hot-weather champion revives body, spirit, and lagging summertime appetites. Mayonnaise and sour cream contribute their distinctive creamy richness. Prepare it in the cool of the morning, enjoy a day packed with activity, and let it cool you off in the heat of the evening. Being a nutritious meal in itself, merely add your favorite rolls, a thirst-quenching beverage, and dinner is served! This delectable dish will cut the heat of the day in half, and at the same time, double your eating pleasure.

Cool Salmon Loaf

2 envelopes Knox Gelatine 1 1-lb. can salmon, drained.
1 1/2 cups cold water 1 cup flaked
1 cup Kraft Mayonnaise 1 cup peeled, finely chopped
1 cup dairy sour cream cucumber

Soften gelatin in cold water; stir over low heat until dissolved. Cool. Combine mayonnaise and sour cream, mixing until well blended. Stir in gelatin; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in salmon and cucumber; pour into 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch loaf pan. Chill until firm; unmold. Garnish with green grapes and pineapple slices, if desired.

ALL ABOARD—Cotton knit with a denim look gives a real workman-like flavor to this pantdress. Adding an authentic touch is a web belt separating the zipped-up striped top and solid navy skirt. It's from Cinderella's Buffy collection.

CALIFORNIA STYLE—For resort '71, the leisure suit draws its inspiration from the old Western cowboy's working rig. In Stevens cotton maledasse, it's styled with patch pockets, epaulets, and button fly front. By Ninth Street East.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of July 15 - 22

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - By staying in the background you could turn the trouble and opposition going on around you to your advantage.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] Things may have come to a temporary halt, giving you a chance to look things over and evaluate your next move.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - The time for calm, orderly thinking is now. Straighten out past mistakes even if you have to retrace your steps.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - If you can wait until next week to start your new project some of the opposition evaporates along with worries.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Put off signing papers - a mistake made now could prove costly or involve unnecessary labor and aggravation.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Put the finishing touches on your vacation plans especially if they include travel. New projects going well.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Having to repeat actions could be irritating but the mistakes you made need correcting. Next month too late.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Clear thinking instead of emotional outburst is needed to keep the peace. Honor or reputation is at stake.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - If you don't use extra energy wisely, you can deal with all problems that need mental and physical action.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Most of the trouble you have been having was caused by others. Secret plans you're forming bear fruit in November.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Better check out health problems. Instead of "champing at the bit", stay put and relax. Big chance coming soon.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Better correct your recent mistakes or others will aggravate you by pointing them out. Wait to disclose new plans.

Look at that butterball of a baby—I could eat her up!

Merrick, New York.

Poor baby. You don't need a horoscope to read her future. According to experts, the overweight infant becomes an overweight adult. Researchers believe that extra fat cells are built up during infancy and remain with the individual throughout his life. And so that beautiful chubby baby butterball will have to fight to stay slim the rest of her life. Nutritionists and doctors agree that a well-nourished baby need not be, and should not be, fat.

Phoee on fat—butterballs are for turkeys.

Consumer News

By Robert H. Quinn
Attorney General

Several Massachusetts consumers hoping to lose weight have lost only money they invested in reducing belts and shorts. Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's Consumer Protection Division has received a number of complaints from disappointed consumers who sent for mail order reducing belts or shorts which failed to arrive or perform as advertised.

TAKE OFF

Many magazines and newspapers carry ads offering belts or shorts which allegedly can be used to take off pounds. The company advertises that customers can lose 6 to 9 pounds after using their shorts 3 times a day for 3 days.

The ads assure the customers that "if not completely satisfied, money will be cheerfully refunded." Some ads offer "full money back guarantee" or "prompt, total refund."

Customers mail in up to $9.95 for the reducing belts and up to $14.95 for the shorts.

LONG WAIT

Delivery delays are common. Often customers wait indefinitely for the garments to arrive. Some customers have received their merchandise only after they have asked the Consumer Protection Division to contact the company.

Customers disappointed with the reducing garments often decide to return them. Many of these customers report that they receive no response—and no money—back from the company. One customer was informed that she was obligated to keep her belt because she had held it "beyond the guarantee period." She protested that no "guarantee period" had been announced in the advertisement or in the delivery receipt for the belt.

REDUCE TROUBLE

Although many companies do business by mail efficiently and honestly, a major consumer problem is a mail order company's failure to give prompt service. Many products—not just reducing belts and shorts—are never sent, lost in the mail, or are inferior to the customer's expectations.

To avoid complicated mailings and delays, the division recommends that every customer select mail order companies carefully. When possible, a consumer should look in a nearby store for a similar product before he mails in his check or money order for a product sight unseen.

Consumers who have questions about weight reducing gadgets or mail order companies should contact the Consumer Protection Division of Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's office at the State House, Boston.

"CROSSED EYES"

The tendency of a newborn baby's eyes to wander out of alignment, either toward the nose or away from it, is quite normal and should correct itself. But if the condition persists more than a few months, he should be taken to a specialist. Beyond infancy, a child's crossed or straying eyes do not usually correct themselves — though the problem often yields to special medical care.

A trickier problem occurs when a youngster's eyes appear to be working as a team, but one is doing practically nothing. The "lazy eye" may never learn to see correctly. Only an eye specialist can detect this problem. And only if he spots it early enough — ideally before the age of four — can he prevent any lasting damage.

The obvious moral is to have every child's eyes tested no later than four years of age. Do not wait until the first year of school.

May Day

Every year in the month of May,
It's always on the first,
In a very special way
All the flowers begin to burst.

The sunflowers' dance couldn't bore us.
The daisies dance with glee
Everyone shouts in a chorus
The daffodils yell,
"YIPPEE!"

Every single year
On that special first day
They all sing loud and clear.
"A VERY HAPPY MAY DAY!"

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

Have Your Cake And Eat It, Too?

"We met in the parking lot behind the big warehouse...I felt so sneaky and cheap," said the 30-year-old wife. "My hands were clammy and my heart was pounding. It was the first time I had met Ned. I had lied about going shopping...tried to cover myself by having a shopping bag in my car to take in when I got back home. That was the first time. Since then we've met often...but I'm always fearful that my guilt will give me away. Now I want out...how do I make the break?"

Hardly a counseling day passes that I don't hear this kind of "affair" dilemma. An alert observer may see the transfer from one car to another in parking lots...meetings in lounges...going out for cigarettes...or coffee...people meeting the "lover" on the side.

What's behind this extra-curricular marital activity? Several factors. One is the sorry situation of husbands and wives whose relationship has ceased to develop...perhaps never really got started. There's no real good reason for getting married except a constancy in companionship which meets each other's needs. If that's missing...or if resentments are built up and not forgiven...a marriage will become burdensome and fail to meet needs. Then people may seek the satisfying of needs in "the affair".

Most people have need for affection...attention...to feel that the partner "cares about me". When this is lacking...when love is not expressed within the marriage, you can anticipate that love will break out in some other channel...not usually in affection to a cat...or the reading of good books. It may take the form of "the affair".

Of course...there are people whose marriage was never a real commitment to begin with. They are unprepared for the mature responsibilities of the one to one relationship necessary to make a marriage work...ignorant of how to resolve practical daily nitty-gritty problems...how to communicate...how to feel and express feelings...many do not even know how to make love with each other.

Right there's the birthplace of "the affair". When a husband/wife is unsuccessful in making love at home too many are quick to blame the partner and seek an outside lover. Rather than getting help from books and competent persons too many carry their ignorance into the beds of other men and women.

Isn't it a pity that we go all out to teach boys to play football...to shoot guns...to sell cars...to play the stock market but fail to teach them to make love?

Isn't it a pity that we send our girls to dancing schools...to riding academies...to modeling classes...to voice lessons...to commercial schools...but fail utterly to teach them to be women and how to enter into a wholesome sexual relationship with a husband? For those who have learned to give themselves in marriage...fully and freely without holding back...without feeling dirty or guilty... "the affair" holds little magnetism.

For most people "the affair" is a dead-end street. It usually leads to heartache. Usually the outside lover is married which means that he/she cannot follow through to a complete relationship. This is thwarting if he/she "gets free" by divorce because of you and somehow you and he/she finally marry...chances are that you'll never hear the end of it... "see what I did for you...you are unappreciative and selfish." Or... "How can I ever trust you?"

Of course your own marriage is in jeopardy because not many men can satisfy both the woman at home and the mistress...not many women can satisfy both her husband and a lover. You're running...worrying...blaming...spending yourself and your money...and in the end you're still unhappy. "The affair" isn't usually the answer.

Each person much act according to his/her own conscience...but that "still small voice" may be trying to tell you that if you put as much energy into your marriage as you have into your "affair" you just might have the very thing you're seeking.

Theodore Elliot Executive Secretary E-Mass Division Of Student Councils

Quincy High School English teacher Theodore Elliot has been elected executive secretary of the Eastern Massachusetts Division of Student Councils.

He attended a conference of the National Association of Student Councils last week in Burlington, Vt.

An English teacher at Quincy High School for the past 11 years, Elliot has also served as faculty advisor to the student council at the school since 1964. He holds a master's degree in education from Northeastern University.

Elliot also runs the Quincy

High School book store which now carries over 3,000 books and is located on the bridge between the Vocational-Technical High School and Quincy High School.

He recalls that the book store started as a folding cart with some 250 books on it that were pushed around from place to place.

Profits obtained from the sale of books to students are turned over to the school's student council to help them meet their expenses, support a Vietnam war orphan or purchase a gift for the school, Elliot said.

Four Quincy Guidance Staffers Hold Leadership Positions

Four guidance staff members of the Quincy Public Schools now hold leadership positions in professional organizations for the 1971-72 academic year.

Carter C. Caudle, counselor at Central Junior High School, is president of the Massachusetts Personnel and Guidance Association, state branch of the American Personnel and Guidance Association.

Mrs. Mary F. Bozoiar of the elementary counseling staff is president of the newly organized Southeastern Massachusetts Elementary Counselors Association, affiliated with the Massachusetts School Counselors Association.

Stephen J. DeRosso, head counselor at Atlantic Junior High School, is vice president for junior high-middle schools for the Massachusetts School Counselors Association.

Completing her third year as executive secretary of the Massachusetts School Counselors' Association is Miss Louise B. Forsyth, coordinator of guidance services for Quincy Public Schools. She is responsible for over-all direction of the more than 1,700-member group.

Thomas P. Hughes To Seek Ward 4 Council Seat

Thomas P. Hughes, 32, of 30 Cross St., West Quincy, coordinator of the Drug Education and Prevention Unit of the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, has announced his candidacy for the City Council seat in Ward 4.

Hughes, a lifelong resident of West Quincy is a graduate of Quincy Schools and holds a bachelor of science degree in secondary education from Boston State College.

An Army veteran, he is the son of the late Quincy Police Chief Joseph F. Hughes and a grandson of the late City Councilor William P. Hughes.

In announcing his candidacy, Hughes voiced concern over problems facing the City in general and West Quincy in particular.

"The most important problem," he said, "is the general economic and tax situation which demands exploration of new areas of taxation to relieve the regressive tax burden placed on homeowners and renters."

Hughes said he also favors "bold new steps to contain the rising drug problem and its accompanying increase in crime, both of which affect the pocketbooks of all citizens of Quincy."

Veterans News

"RH" insurance policies issued by the Veterans Administration hit $1-billion in face value in May, it was reported today.

In May, 2,000 policies were issued, pushing the active policies to 113,000 and the face value to the one billion figure.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted that 22,000 low-cost "RH" policies were issued last year. This was a 50 per cent increase over 1969, and the most for any year since the program began in 1951.

Johnson said the "RH" program fulfills a continuing need, and the agency encourages veterans with service-connected disabilities to take advantage of the coverage.

"Otherwise, he pointed out, many of these veterans might find it difficult, if not impossible, to obtain adequate life insurance coverage after discharge, except at very high premium rates."

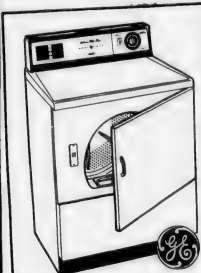

A veteran discharged from service on or after April 25, 1951, with a service-connected disability is eligible for a $10,000 "RH" policy at standard rates.

He must be in good health except for his disability, and must apply for the insurance within one year of the date VA notifies him of his disability rating, Johnson explained.

The recently separated disabled veteran can obtain $25,000 worth of life insurance by taking out an "RH" policy, and converting to an individual policy the $15,000 Servicemen's Group Life Insurance he had in military service.

The VA Administrator urged interested veterans with VA-adjudicated service-connected disabilities to apply for "RH" life insurance at their nearest VA office, or get information from any local veterans service organization representative.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Muhammad Ali In Line For Own Talk Show

If CARRIE SNODGRASS continues for too long a time her soul searching for truth hiatus from the screen, she may awaken into a reality where her services as an actress are no longer wanted... Prior to "DIARY OF A MAD HOUSEWIFE", Miss SNODGRASS worked hard and long to perfect her talents and achieve respectability as an actress. Once there, and having had her endeavors appreciated with recognition of an Oscar nomination, she had only to continue the pace of dedication so necessary for success, in not only acting, but any worthwhile venture... But no. For the past year she had religiously rejected all scripts handed her way...

This is an erratic era we live in. In the name of freedom and self-expressed individuality, success, gained through diligence, and God given talent, is more often than not scorned by an ignorant minority as a curse of our "capitalistic, bourgeois" system... Right now Miss SNODGRASS has the bull by the horns. She commands the respect of Tinseltown executives who hand out jobs. The industry still begs her services. But for how long will this one way business affair continue? In her pseudo-idealistic approach to finding the answers of life, Miss SNODGRASS is abandoning what is most evidently her true career destiny; namely, being an actress...

Acting always has been and will always be a tough business. Of the thousands who set their sights on stardom, only a trifling handful grab the golden apple. And staying on top is far more difficult than the initial climb... When and if she sets her intellectual limbs on terra firma, Miss SNODGRASS may awaken to a reality which no longer broadsides her with the best available scripts. At this very moment too numerable to number, actresses are clamoring to take over her super star position which rest in the hearts of the fans and minds of motion picture executive big wigs...

The longer she stays away from the screen, the easier it will take the public to forget the name CARRIE SNODGRASS. For her own sake, may she soon awaken to the realities of life where the individual finds fulfillment through daily gainful living, and not tripping out by escapist soul searching...

For the curious, "THE ANDROMEDA STRAIN" is actor DAVID WAYNE's first motion picture in 10 years... Whatever became of JOE MANTELL? In 1955 he was nominated for Best Supporting Actor for his moving performance in "MARTY". Since then film roles have been far and few between... JACQUELINE BISSET finally gets an opportunity to display her acting skills in the anti drug shocker, "SPEED IS THE ESSENCE"... Singer-actress LAINE KAZAN goes the bravura "madam" route in "ROMANCE OF A HORSETHIEF"... If you see one picture this summer, be sure to catch "KLUTE", a jewel of a thriller made believable with the down to earth performances of its stars, JANE FONDA and DON SUTHERLAND...

Will DIRK BOGARDE ever receive his peers' nod of approval with some justly deserved recognition? If this most extraordinary and gifted man doesn't get an Oscar nominee vote of confidence for his "DEATH IN VENICE" masterpiece, then all I can say is there's no justice... For years BOGARDE has been one of a handful of British stalwarts who have diligently escalated English cinema into a position of near untouchability by other countries. And for years he alone has missed out on the praise reaped by other English actors... Maybe '71 will be the year critics and fans alike wake up to the "BOGARDE Happening"...

"CROMWELL" is the official English entry in this years highly prestigious Moscow Film Festival... JERRY LEWIS, somewhat of a Hollywood homebody, will shoot his first motion picture abroad later on in the year. The title of the project is "THE DAY THE CLOWN CRIED", and the locale chosen is picturesque Yugoslavia... Underground actress ONDINE, an original ANDY WARHOL superstarlet, vintage the early sixties, will be the subject of a feature filmed documentary. Lenses is scheduled for mid '72 under the Armor Film banner... MOHAMMED ALI, defrocked but still glib as ever, is in line for a Talk Show of his very own...

Watch for ED SULLIVAN to go the "guest star" route this coming fall via Variety Shows. With all the established talent he's broken in, he should be kept busy on a weekly basis... And no, SULLIVAN is not contemplating an entrance on the cinema scene... Can MIKE NICHOLS still direct? "CARNAL KNOWLEDGE" was his second strike out in a row, his first being "CATCH 22". For an artist who showed so much promise with "THE GRADUATE", he has demonstrated qualities of an all too ordinary, unimaginative college "hack"... How he could have made such a complete about face is beyond me. Then again, NICHOLS just may have been lucky with "THE GRADUATE".

AVA GARDNER returns to the screen with the October release of "TAMLIN"... LEO LEYDEN has been signed as one of the star leads for the film version of "1776". Just could be the break this talented Broadway actor need to achieve stardom...

Quincy Hopes For Tourney Berth Fade

Quincy Legion baseball team's hopes of at least recording the best second place record in Zone 6 or 6A and gaining a state tournament berth were virtually ended Monday night when it dropped a 2-1 squeaker to Morrisette.

Coach Doug Fleming's club, however, will continue its drive in this direction Friday at Braintree, will play at Weymouth Monday and will go to Stoughton next Wednesday.

The loss to Morrisette dropped Quincy's record to 8-4. Wellesley, runnerup in Zone 6A, had lost only two games up until Tuesday. In addition to the two zone champions, the second place team with the best record in either zone will also make the tourney.

In their earlier meeting Quincy had scored three runs in the seventh inning to take a 4-2 lead but the game was halted by darkness and the score reverted to the sixth inning, giving Morrisette a 2-1 win.

Monday the teams battled through six scoreless innings as Quincy's Bill Deshler and Morrisette's Jim Walker pitched brilliantly.

However, in the top of the seventh Deshler gave up a two-run triple to his rival hurler. Quincy scored its run in the bottom of the inning but the tying run was left stranded.

Quincy was held to three hits by Walker while Deshler gave up five.

Last week Quincy moved into second place in Zone 6 with a 9-2 romp over Milton as Scott Manson and Dave Murphy combined to hold Milton to five hits and reliever Murphy, who took over in the fourth inning, got the win. Quincy collected nine hits.

Dave Drew, Bob Morton and Tony Alibrandi had two hits apiece in the winning attack.

Earlier in the week Quincy had belted Randolph, 9-0, behind Deshler's three hit pitching as Jack Flaherty, Tim Flynn and Bob Torino had two hits each and Morton had a home run.

Quincy began the week with a cherished 8-2 win over Braintree as Fleming gained his first win ever over Braintree's Tom O'Connell.

Bob Driscoll held Braintree to three hits but eight walks kept him in trouble. Quincy had 10 hits including three by Drew, a home run and single by Flaherty and a home run and single by Alibrandi.

Brigette, Dru Loud, Claire Mitchell, Joan Ranieri, Vicki Chapin, Rose Canning, Lou Wilson, Barbara Barker and Rose Willis.

Claire Mitchell bowled the night's high three of 342, and high single of 132, followed by Gail Dillon with 338 triple and 124 single.

Varney Playing Professional Ball With Ashville, N.C.

North Quincy's Pete Varney is now playing his first professional baseball for Ashville, N.C., in the Southern Association.

Varney, All-American catcher at Harvard who set several hitting records there and has been playing this summer in the Boston Park League, signed with the Chicago White Sox Monday and reported immediately to Ashville.

Varney was the first draft choice of the White Sox and signed his contract after a few weeks of negotiations.

Ashville is managed by Larry Sherry, former Dodger World Series hero, and is currently in first place.

'Tina Too' Pretty Cement Sailboat

Listing advantages of ferro-cement construction, he noted:

"It's fireproof, rat-resistant, has high resistance to flexing, and is a lot easier to fix if it is scraped or injured -- and the cement supposed to get stronger every year for 60 years!"

Larry found few flaws during the shakedown cruise of "Tina Too" with his son, Navy Corpsman Lance Peterson, Lance, with neighbors Ohio Welliver and Billy Meacham, officiated at the informal launching 10 days ago.

A favorite crewman is his wife Mary, who "doesn't panic in a heavy wind or storm and can follow directions." [The couple celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary two weeks ago.]

The skipper's family includes also daughters Laurie Ann, 22, Christine, 18, and Heidi, 15.

Christine, the only sailor among them, Larry commented, had some misgivings about the cement boat.

"If it sinks," she told him philosophically, "we can always rent moorings to the neighbors."

Morrisette Closer To Zone 6 Title

Morrisette took another giant step toward the Zone 6 American Legion baseball championship Monday as it edged Quincy, 2-1, and takes an 11-1 record into Friday's game against Stoughton at Adams Field.

With six games left, Morrisette has a two-game edge.

Next Wednesday, Morrisette travels to Braintree.

In their first meeting of the year Quincy had rallied for three runs in the seventh for a 4-2 lead only to have darkness halt the game and the score reverted back to the sixth and gave Morrisette a 2-1 win.

Monday the rivals went into the seventh and last inning scoreless. In the top of the seventh pitcher Jimmy Walker, who hurled another beauty for his fifth win in a row, belted a two-run triple. Walker, a fine batter as well as pitcher, has three home runs this season.

In the bottom of the inning Quincy scored its run but Walker put out the fire with the tying run on base.

Walker struck out five and walked three.

Last week Morrisette topped Randolph, 6-1, as Len Pepe made his first pitching start and kept 10 hits well-scattered. He struck out six and didn't issue a walk.

Randolph took a 1-0 lead in the second but Morrisette scored three times in the third and added single runs in the next three innings.

Morrisette pounded out 12 hits including three by Joe Marani, and two each by Tom Burke, Pete Lucier and Jim Driscoll.

Earlier in the week Weymouth handed Morrisette its only loss and ended a nine-game winning streak, 6-0, as Jack Thefall held the Quincy club to three hits.

The only Morrisette hits were collected by Marani, Driscoll and Kevin Ryan, while Tony Knasas and Mike Marvelle gave up eight hits to Weymouth.

A & T Movers Shatter Wells Grill Win Streak

The 10-game win streak of Wells Grill was convincingly broken by South Division leader A. & T. Movers, 10-3.

Led by pitcher Gus DeBoer, left fielder Gerry Connelly and Jackie Allen, captain and third baseman, the Movers methodically wore down the Wells team.

The 10-3 score is slightly misleading, however due to an odd crosswind that caused Wells' outfielders to misplay several of A. & T.'s high fly balls. Wells, losers of their first five games, racked up 10 straight wins before their setback. In their 11th win, thanks to pitcher Dick Taylor, Wells defeated Mr. Kelly's 10-7, after an early 6-0 lead by Mr. Kelly.

Mr. Kelly's, using only nine men instead of the usual 10 defeated China Lido 16-2. Don Gauthier pitched and batted his team to victory, with Al [Sparky] Martell also playing a fine game, contributing four runs batted in and two home runs.

In a game highlighted by tremendous rivalry, Beau's Place and Steve's played scoreless ball for three and a half innings, until a five-run 6th inning for Beau's Place resulted in a 9-3 score. Excellent fielding and sharp hitting kept the issue constantly in doubt until the fatal 6th inning.

Third baseman Frank Lommano and Shortstop John Caporale starred for the losers, while Mike Shaheen [short fielder], Ray Ekblom, left field, and third baseman Jim Hatfield [captain] starred for the victors.

Steve's still has a one game lead over the North Division's teams, while Beau's has jumped two positions to second place.

The North Division's Sagamore Grill, managed by Dan O'Leary, has played good ball lately, as has the Burke Club and the Alumni. The fire has once again been ignited as the league has been lightened up by better playing of the so-called lower teams and the four playoff positions in both leagues are up for grabs.

Furnace Lounge, hurt by loss of Captain Jim Higgins due to an injury, has pulled itself together and passed the 500 mark, with several make-up games to play.

Umpires for the games include Fred Connelly, Bobby Hatfield, Neil McBride, Bill Reardon, Ed Chris and Frank Perfetto.

Miss Flynn was one of the bright lights for Peter Gallagher's Quincy team as she won the high jump in her first attempt ever at this event.

"She appears to have the ability to go much higher," Gallagher said.

Broad Meadows 'Smart Set' Continue War Against Drugs

There's no summer vacation from the war on drugs waged by the Smart Set at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

This week some 15 two-by-three foot posters created by students went on display in business establishments throughout the peninsula area. Plans call for the four student distributors to change the posters every three weeks.

Illustrated posters, made particularly for this purpose, carry warnings, such as "Be Smart - Don't Start... Drugs Kill!"; "Don't Cop Out on Drugs!"; "Get High on Life!"; "When You Take Drugs, Your Life is Like a Wrist Watch - Because It Can Stop at Any Time".

In charge of distribution is

Leo Kelly of 29 Charles St., Houghs Neck, appointed by President William Murphy of the Broad Meadows Parents Advisory Board to see that the program is carried on during the summer months.

"Young students should be directly involved in anti-drug programs, more so than in the education of drug identity and

Despite the fact 18-year-olds will be allowed to cast ballots for the first time, a "very light" voter turnout is forecast for next Tuesday's special Senate election.

Rep.-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] and Atty. Richard Rogalin [R-Braintree] will square off to fill the Senate seat vacated by James R. McIntyre in May.

City Clerk John M. Gillis sees only 13 per cent of Quincy's 43,026 eligible voters bothering to turn out.

Gillis noted that the ratification of a new law by three-fourths of the states and official signing by President Nixon earlier this month will permit registered 18-year-olds to vote for the first time.

Quincy, Braintree and Holbrook apparently will be the first communities in Massachusetts with 18-year-olds casting votes and among the first-if not the first-in the nation.

But, Gillis forecasts the light turnout because of the fact that voters will be away on vacation.

In addition, there has been little time for the two contenders to whip up much interest in the contest.

In the primary election last month, 14 per cent of Quincy's voters went to the polls.

Tobin, Rogalin Speak Out
See Page 15

Throughout the three-community Norfolk District which includes Braintree and Holbrook in addition to Quincy, the turnout among 66,000 registered voters averaged 12 per cent.

Quincy is heavily Democratic with more Democrats in the city than Republicans and Independents combined.

Of Quincy's 43,026 some 22,588 are Democrats compared with 11,085 Independents and 9,353 Republicans.

Tobin, a veteran office holder at both the city and state level, is favored to defeat Rogalin, a political newcomer, and keep the seat in the Democrat camp.

Rogalin, an 11th hour write-in candidate, won the Republican nomination from Jens F. Thornton of Quincy.

Tobin defeated Quincy Police Detective Robert Furtado, another political newcomer, in the June primary for the Democrat nomination.

Sidewalk Bazaar 'A Smash Hit'

The second annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar was hailed today as "a smash hit."

There will definitely be a third Sidewalk Bazaar next year, according to Bernard C. Moore, executive secretary of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

This year's three-day bazaar attracted more than 100,000 people to downtown Quincy, he estimates, and boosted business as much as 50 per cent in downtown Quincy.

A survey is now being conducted among merchants to determine its full effect on businesses in the downtown area. Early reports indicate that stores showed an overall increase in their business ranging up to 50 per cent over last year over the same three-day period.

Remo DeNicola, chairman of special promotions for the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce Merchants' Division, said fellow merchants he had talked with reported increases of from 20 to 50 per cent. He said he did better than 50 per cent himself at South Shore Television and Appliance Company.

Moore said that Thursday, opening day, brought the greatest crowd and the most business. The "Miss Quincy Bay Race Week" competition was an opening night highlight and alone attracted more than 5,000 persons to the bazaar.

Friday was almost as good.

Saturday was good - it was

QEA Nutritional Needs Committee Endorses Proposed Brunch Program

Editor, Quincy Sun:

As chairman of the Quincy Educational Association's Nutritional Needs Committee, we would like to add our endorsement to the proposed brunch program.

In our collective estimation the proposed brunch program would have a far greater educational impact than any other kind of feeding program previously proposed. As teachers we are certainly aware that some children come to school with little or no breakfast or even if they do have breakfast it is often a poor one. The result is that by mid-morning their minds are more on their stomachs than on their schoolwork and understandably so.

How much more sense it would seem to provide that child who is inattentive due to an inadequate breakfast with the food that he needs to renew his energy as early in the day as possible so that he could derive the maximum benefit from the day's instruction. Certainly all could benefit from the energy pick-up that a brunch program could provide.

It would also seem that with the teachers physical presence in the classroom during the "brunch period" there would apt to be fewer problems with classroom management, the brunch would be more apt to be eaten, and the activity would more likely become a part of a nutritional education program.

The QEA Representative Council has endorsed the concept of a brunch program and a survey conducted among the teachers in the elementary schools in the city of which over 200 teachers responded, indicates that the concept of a brunch program has the support of approximately 140 of the teachers responding.

Comments received from teachers indicating a negative reaction to the program indicate that their opposition centers around a general feeling that the schools are usurping the function of the home in offering any kind of feeding program. We would respect the feelings of those teachers in that their argument most certainly has some validity. It would seem though that with the growing pressure for the schools to assume more and more of the what were formerly regarded as functions of the home that we will be forced to take some kind of action in this area.

We feel that the brunch program would be the most beneficial alternative to all concerned. Additionally in comparison with a lunch program the costs of implementation would be minimal and would not place an undue burden on the taxpayers of this city. It would seem that with state reimbursement [which no matter what we want to call it comes out of the same taxpayers pockets] and a possible small charge to the children where such is permissible, the total cost even if implemented city-wide would be a very small amount.

It should be clearly understood that our endorsement of the concept of the proposed brunch program does not mean that we endorse the idea that the children in our schools are suffering from hunger and malnutrition as the surveys conducted by the state seem to indicate.

We have reason to believe that the findings of the state survey are misleading and inconclusive and that if the real situation is ever to be known a more scientific survey must be conducted at the local level.

Quincy's mayoralty ring may yet have another contender. Former City Council President Joseph J. LaRaia who already has nomination papers out for council at-large is being urged to switch and run for mayor instead.

LaRaia, who opposed present incumbent James McIntyre a few years back, is reported giving the idea "serious consideration."

Whether he does run remains to be seen. But if he does, he would be someone present mayoralty hopefuls Joseph Brett, Walter Hannon and James McCormick would have to reckon with.

WANT TO HEAR a wild one? If Mayor McIntyre decides not to seek a fourth term, the rumor mill has him running for the School Committee. The way they tell it, McIntyre would like to continue his public service and "keep a hand in things" if he bows out as mayor.

He's been too active as city councillor, state representative, mayor and senator the past 15 years to become idle on the sidelines. Hey, there might be something to it.

INSIDERS say the real reason Ruth Scanlan has decided not to seek a second term on the School Committee is that she has become "disenchanted with the establishment."

A strong vote getter, pretty, and only 27, she looked like attractive political timber. Some even thought she might go on to become Quincy's first woman mayor.

Maybe she will reconsider later on and run for some other office.

TOOTING-OWN-HORN-DEPT: This reminds us, her official announcement last week should not have come as a surprise to readers of this column. Back on May 27 we wrote:

"Insiders are pretty much convinced that School Committee woman Ruth Scanlan will not seek re-election this year." [Toot! Toot!]

THE TIES between Quincy and the Kennedy family still continue. Thomas G. King, 48, of Randolph who wed Ann Gargan, 35, cousin to Sen. Edward Kennedy, is a former North Quincy resident.

Miss Gargan, of course, was a constant companion to the late Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

The latter during World War I was an executive at the then Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard here.

WELL, former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa who sent out thousands of anniversary and birthday cards to constituents while he was the city's chief executive, is still at it. He's now sending a few from his Pembroke home.

WHICH REMINDS US: The fact that present Mayor McIntyre has not announced by this time whether he will run again or not is really nothing unusual.

Della Chiesa used to like to make his announcements on his birthday which is July 31.

Incidentally, he will be 69 this next birthday. He and Thomas S. Burgin are Quincy's only living former mayors.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE contender Harold R. Davis, son of Dr. Albert Davis, must be getting some good mileage out of his campaign literature. One pamphlet contains the New England Patriots football schedule. That's one way for a candidate to keep his literature in a home rather than have it tossed away.

ONE MORE political note: Louis Caruso, Ward 1 City Council candidate, wants to debate incumbent Edward Graham "at his convenience sometime in the latter part of August at the Snug Harbor School." Caruso says other Ward 1 candidates would be invited if Graham accepts.

HAVE A QUOTE: "I always called a spade a spade," says North Quincy druggist Jack Silverstein, "till one day I hit my foot with it."

HERE'S ONE: In "The Insider", published by inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction:

Every athletic team could use a man who plays every position, never makes an error and knows just what the opposition is planning. But so far there's been no way to get him to put down his hotdog and come out of the stands.

'My Day As Supervisor Of The Cemetery'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Enclosed is letter stating my experience as a Senior Citizen of the City of Quincy.

I was happy to spend the day with the Cemetery Supervisor. If possible you might put this letter in your Newspaper.

Thank you,
Nicholas J. Mina

My Day as Supervisor of the Cemetery

Friday May 7, 1971 was a day that I shall remember for quite some time. A few days ago I was selected to be the supervisor for a day in the program of Senior Citizens Government Day for the City of Quincy.

This new program for the day was sponsored by the Council of the Aging, headed by Marion Andrews.

My "Chief" for the day was Mr. Anthony Famigletti. Along with his assistants, Joseph Valorz, Arthur Murphy, Anthony Bruce & William Quinn, who along with the Cemetery employees maintaining the grounds.

To my surprise & amazement I learned that there was a great deal more involved instead of just opening & closing holes in the ground and keeping the grass cut. William Quinn filled me in on the routine of preparing for a burial. Such as a call from the Undertaker, as to date and time and other pertinent information. From there the grounds are readied under the crew in charge of opening & preparing the area. This is done under the watchful eye of the Superintendent of the Cemetery.

Special care is taken not to mar or injure the grounds adjoining the present activity in progress.

I also visited the Hancock Cemetery. Talked to the crew working on the grounds. It was interesting & very informative to learn of the various duties furnished by the city to keep the grounds beautiful as it is. The city has several locations for Mr. Famigletti to oversee.

I was fascinated by the types & the completion of various duties that "must" be performed to keep the cemetery so beautiful.

The preparation, the mowing, the trimming, the picking up of debris, the walks & driveways always free from litter. People complain about litter in many areas. But you must watch & see who drops & messes the area's involved. I want to say - once again, I enjoyed my day as Supervisor of the Cemetery for the day.

Thanks to Anthony Famigletti & his crew and a special thanks to Marion Andrews and her committee on the Counseling for the Aging.

"UNCLE SAM WANTS THEM" — Marines Thomas Dahill and Robert Foley, who recently completed boot training at Parris Island, enjoy going-away cookout with buddies John Loughlin, Richard Lotterhand, host Paul Kilduff, Robert Dobson, Dennis Devine and George Wallace, who leave in July for service in the armed forces. A Send-Off To Remember

Nine Service Bound Buddies Honored At Farewell Party

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Nine Quincy men entering the armed forces this month received a send-off on Sunday they will probably remember a long time.

Air Force volunteer, Paul Kilduff, was host for the cookout party at his home at 80 Babcock St., Houghs Neck.

Some 150 to 200 young people attended the outdoor cookout which began at about 1:30 p.m. and continued until about 9 p.m. when the group left for a night swim at "The Rapids" at Black's Creek.

Live music for the festivities was provided by a five-piece band, all friends of the volunteers. These included three members of the rock band "Ball" and two from "Parallel", under direction of Frank Iacovino, vocalist.

Guests of honor for the event were nearly all 1971 graduates of Quincy High School or Quincy Vocational Technical School volunteering for active duty in various branches of the service.

Paul, son of Mrs. Catherine Kilduff, leaves July 28 for service with the Air Force. Entering the Navy is Robert Dobson, son of Mrs. Ralston Dobson of 7 Shennen St., Houghs Neck.

Marine Corps volunteers are John Loughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Loughlin of 68 Narragansett Rd., Merrymount; Richard Lotterhand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Lotterhand of 48 Cross St., West Quincy; Dennis Devine, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Devine of 68 Utica St., Adams Shore.

George Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wallace of 22 Edison St., Quincy Point; James Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Adams of 79 Fifth Ave., Quincy Point; Frank Aldoupolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Aldoupolis of 30 Bigelow St., Quincy Center, and Salvatore Falzone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Falzone of 66 French St., North Quincy, who left Quincy Voc-Tech in his 11th year to volunteer with his friends.

Joining the group were two new Marines, friends, Thomas Dahill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Dahill of 15 Samoset Ave., and Robert Foley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Foley of 41 Algonquin Rd., both of Merrymount. These men, home on leave after boot training at Parris Island, have been assigned to the Marine station at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Quincy property owners will be receiving their 1971 tax bills about the first of September, according to Elmer K. Fagerlund, chairman of the Board of Assessors.

"We hope to get them out by the first of September. That is our target date," Fagerlund said. "It all depends on when the tax rate is set.

A $10 to $15 increase has been predicted. Present rate is $132.20.

Mayor James R. McIntyre announced early this week that the city has received an order from Norfolk Superior Court Judge Frank Tomasello which delays for the fifth year implementation of property revaluation.

In September, 1970, City Council President-Rep. Arthur H. Tobin predicted a minimum $250 tax bill hike for Quincy homeowners if the present law on 100 per cent property valuation remained in effect.

The City has been successful in preventing implementation of the law requiring 100 per cent valuation since 1967 when in response to a taxpayers suit, the city was ordered by the court to revalue its property.

Figures by Cole, Layer and Trumble, assessing firm, were contested by the city which refused to pay the full cost of their bill. The city is now involved in a court suit with the firm.

According to City Solicitor Harry Pavan, whom the Mayor credited with the successful postponement, adoption of the new city zoning ordinance make the Cole, Layer and Trumble figures useless.

"The Mayor has said that the tax rate will be set later this month," Fagerlund pointed out. "After that it will probably be at least a month before tax bills go out. We have to post values, and so forth, but hopefully, we want to get them out by the end of August or first of September."

While this is later than last year, several years ago bills were dated Sept. 15, he added.

Broad Meadows Continues Drug Battle

"I feel that if a person with a communicable disease which is not inflicted can be hospitalized with or without his consent, an addict who is spreading his addiction should also come under the State Public Health Laws. Contagious disease hospitals should be reopened. The sooner this is done the better, not only for the addicted but for those who stand a chance of being contaminated by their sickness."

Assisting in the students' summer program is James Sullivan, guidance counselor at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Student distributors representing the Houghs Neck, Germantown, Adams Shore and Merrymount areas are Robert Benn, James French, Paul Craig and Donald Connors.

Cooperating in the display program are Samoset Pharmacy and Dacey Brothers at Merrymount; Adams Shore Pharmacy and Curtis Compact at Adams Shore; Germantown Multi-Service Center; Leo's Barber Shop, Steele's Variety, Connelly's Shoppe, Mitchell's Mini-Mart and Finlay's E-Z Shop at Houghs Neck.

disadvantaged young people from 14 to 21 years to stay in school, return to school, or acquire work experience necessary to hold a job.

Keel Laid For TILLIE LYKES

The keel for TILLIE LYKES, third in a series of the world's largest break-bulk commercial ships, was laid last week, at the Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics.

Representatives of General Dynamics, Lykes Bros. Steamship Co., Inc., and the Maritime Administration attended the ceremony at which the 120.5-ton keel unit was lowered into position.

TILLIE LYKES construction

began only five days after the July 10 christening of DOCTOR LYKES, first ship in the series of new craft, known as SEABEES. A second vessel, ALMERIA LYKES, is already under construction. All three ships will be delivered by July, 1972.

The 875-foot, 51,000-ton displacement ships employ a unique barge-cargo handling system that experts consider superior to any now in existence. The key to their versatility is a specially designed stern elevator that can load and unload cargo in several modes. Using the elevator, the SEABEES can operate in protected offshore areas without entering crowded innerports.

Tillie Lykes, for whom the new SEABEE is named, was the only daughter of Dr. H. T. Lykes, father of the seven Lykes brothers who founded Lykes Bros. Steamship Co. in 1900. Lykes Bros. is customer for the three Quincy-built ships.

Joy

Joy is ... Gladness.
That comes straight from the heart.
Beating an humming through the channel of happiness.

In ecstatic moments, the throbbing
Pulse, stamps the face of the Beholder with a charm within.

This glowing charm fascinates.
The charmer and the charmed.

Face to face, they come -
With their rhythmical human contacts.
And like an "electrical bolt,"
Penetrates every nerve and fiber

Beaming with spiritual delight.

To You This Prayer

We are God's children, first and foremost.
We are not Alone ...
He is "always" with us.

It is up to us, to lift our Hearts and lips in prayer,
Asking for His forgiveness,
Love and help to bear our daily cross.

God, "will" answer our prayers,
By embracing us and our thoughts to Him,
Through this Act of spiritual communion.

The fulfillment of PRAYER
Results in ecstatic happiness,
Making our hearts feel lighter
And the "burden of our daily cross less heavy":

While the River of Life once Again, resumes to flow ...
F-r-e-e and e-a-s-y,
With or without its Rip-ples.

The Dreary Drudge

The dreary drudge of housework.

Will be the death of me someday.

I'd like to say a magic word
And clean the house to stay.
But it isn't quite that easy.
It doesn't happen that way.

I like to clean and to straighten

On this don't get me wrong.
Why kill myself working.
It will be here long after I'm gone.

To keep up with the world outside

I have been my biggest pride
I like people, like to shop and to poke,
Don't laugh at my writing,
Many would agree, truer words never were "spoke".

Why fight it dear ladies,
Housework is here to stay.
Unless, you marry a wealthy man

Who finances your worries away.

Asparagus Gelatine Mold Celebrates Fresh Season

The world's all a-shimmer with green, growing things. Make a dish to match. It's shimmery, fresh lemon gelatin in a pretty mold with the season's greenest asparagus imprisoned in the clear gel. An envelope of unflavored gelatin does the trick, scientifically measured to gel two cups of liquid. The refrigerator does most of the work. Check occasionally, and when the mixture thickens slightly, fold in the asparagus and other vegetables and leave in the refrigerator until set. Don't forget, fresh is best, and now is the time to enjoy it in seasonal, thrifter foods. Diet-ers, do note that this is a dish of very modest calorie count.

Jellied Asparagus

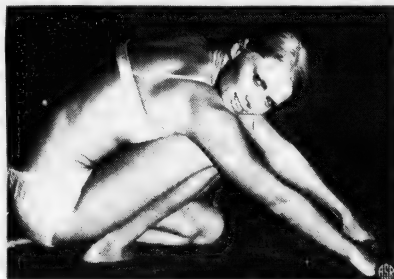

1 envelope unflavored gelatine	1/2 cup diced celery
1 1/2 cups cold water, divided	1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons sugar	2 tablespoons diced pimiento
1/2 teaspoon salt	1 tablespoon minced onion
1/2 cup lemon juice	1 tablespoon capers, optional
1 1/2 cups cold cooked asparagus

cut into bite size pieces
Sprinkle gelatin over 1/2 cup water in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatin is dissolved, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in sugar, salt, remaining 1 cup water and lemon juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in asparagus, celery, green pepper, pimiento, onion and capers. Turn into 3-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold onto crisp lettuce.

YIELD: 4 servings.

NOTE: Cooked green beans, carrots, peas or lima beans may be substituted for asparagus.

Beach Beauty Tips-1971 Style

"Everything is beautiful" at the beach--and even the not-really-beautiful girls look beautiful this year.

Bikinis are briefer and more colorful. Some have been hand-crafted at home by the girls themselves during the latest sewing craze. And the figures inside the bikinis have been carefully trimmed by diet and exercise all winter. Hot Pants and skinny rib tops have called for shapely figures all year long. Now the slim and slender crowd is ready for the beach.

The beauties and the nearly-beautiful have taken good care of their hair, keeping it in good condition. Split ends have been cut off by a professional. Long hair's lovely because it's well cared for, clean and pretty.

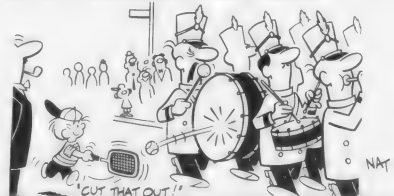

At the beach the beauties are tanned and lovely, with sun-blonded hair. They can't afford to take the entire summer getting that way. The "look" and the fun start as soon as the sun's ready. So the first few days are spent in tanning and hair-lightening--the rest of the summer's reserved for beach fun and sun with the boys.

So how do the beauties get that way? They use something new under the sun for tanning, like new "Sun In Sun Tan Spray" by Toni. It's a cooling, refreshing, non-greasy spray which forms tiny moisturizing droplets on the skin. The droplets attract and reflect the sunlight to dramatically intensify the tanning process and give a deeper, faster tan. Voila! The beach beauties are beautifully tanned in a hurry.

And while tanning, the beauties lighten their hair with a companion called "Sun In Sun Lightener for Hair," making it beautifully summer blonde ... streaks hair, too, if streaks are sprayed in.

The pretty bikini-clad girls at the beach this year get tan and blonde at the same time, while enjoying the sun. Skin and hair remain soft and lovely. No wonder "everything is beautiful."

Vacation time--that's diet time for me.

Whenever I'm on vacation and away from home, I make this a time to shed a few extra pounds. It's easy--I'm out of the kitchen and I have nothing else on my mind but my own well-being.

My vacation campaign focuses on eating like a gourmet--graciously, but with discrimination. I glory in being served and I lap up the surroundings. But I eat slowly and I don't waste calories on insipid dishes, allowing conversation and sociability to assume more importance than my intake.

Home again, I race to the scale--the figure there tells me if I had a good vacation.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy

Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

SLEEPWALKING

Despite the frequent jokes about sleepwalkers, if there is one in your family you know it is not a laughing matter. Most sleepwalkers are children between the ages of 5 and 12 years, and it is possible for them to harm themselves, i.e. falling down stairs, if precautions are not taken.

Doctors say that in most cases sleepwalking is not serious. Usually it occurs only occasionally and a child outgrows it by the time he reaches early adolescence. Parents can help by talking to the child about anything that may bother him and reassuring him about fears. However, where sleepwalking occurs frequently, consult a physician.

To awaken a sleepwalker, care should be taken not to frighten him. Tap him gently on the shoulder or repeat his name until he hears you. Doctors emphasize that a child should never be punished for sleepwalking.

Kenneth P. Fallon Installed UCT Supreme Past Counselor

Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr., of Quincy, was installed as Supreme Past Counselor [Past International President] of the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, last week at its 84th annual session in New York City.

The office includes chairmanship of the Order's Board of Governors.

Fallon, who lives at 857 Furnace Brook Parkway and is an executive at Radio Station WJDA, was succeeded as Supreme Counselor [International President] by Alan Gabbard, of Dayton, Ohio.

During the past year, Fallon has visited members from the 690 local councils located in 47 states, the District of Columbia and the Dominion of Canada.

A fraternal benefit service society founded at Columbus, Ohio January 16, 1888, UCT has taken on Aid to Retarded Children as its Number One International Civic Project. It has granted more than 2,500 scholarships the past nine years to prepare teachers for the education of retarded children.

In their own communities, members have contributed more than a million dollars in man hours and cash promoting programs for retarded children. They have funded sheltered workshops and purchased materials and equipment to be used in the promotion of educating and training these children to be useful and often, self-supporting citizens.

Nancy Longhi To Seek School Committee Seat

Miss Nancy Marie Longhi, 21 of 12 Trafford St., South Quincy, today announced her candidacy for Quincy School Committee.

Miss Longhi, who will graduate from Stonehill College in 1972, believes each individual student should have the opportunity to develop his education assuring him of a meaningful, self-fulfilling future.

"I believe in guidance as opposed to strict authority, and the freedom to mature emotionally as well as intellectually," she said.

Miss Longhi is a 1968 graduate of Quincy High School and attended Emerson College for one year before transferring to Stonehill. She is associate editor of the "Summit", Stonehill College newspaper, and a member of the Sociological Society.

Miss Longhi is preparing to work and study in an "in-service training program" at the State House in Boston, in association with the political science department at Stonehill.

She took part in the Brockton School Department's Drug Program, designed to alleviate the drug problem in primary and secondary grades.

NEW CONTRACT - Mayor James R. McIntyre signs new contract for Fire Department giving firefighters new maximum of $10,400 and other benefits including $200 clothing allowance and longevity. Old Maximum was $9,200. Flanking the mayor are Fire Chief Edward Barry and William T. Lowry, president of Local 792 AFL-CIO which negotiated the new pact.

Smith Hails Senate Action On School Lunch Law

George C. Smith, Jr., candidate for School Committee, approves recent Senate action on the controversial school lunch law.

Addressing over 60 persons at a pool party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christiani, 24 Anderson Rd., Wollaston, Smith declared:

"The action by the Massachusetts Senate authorizing the state Board of Education to exempt cities and towns from compliance with the 1970 mandatory lunch law is a step in the right direction to review a serious situation.

"I do not oppose action that will feed a hungry child. It is becoming clearer though that the school system may not be the place to implement such action. The original bill was passed in the waning hours of the 1970 legislature and gives indication that it did not receive serious consideration as to its costs.

"Legislation of this nature should clearly be within the scope of the home rule law. I hail the Senate action in that it will permit Quincy to review the matter calmly and without 'charge and counter-charge' of feeding hungry children."

Thomas F. Maguire, Jr. Assigned To Carrier Midway

'The Male Resisting Female'

There's been a lot written and spoken about female frigidity. Personally I don't like the term...neither do most women who suffer from the condition. It speaks of a woman's sexual inadequacy...but usually there's more to the problem than that. The more complete relationship with a man is better described as sexuality...which is concerned with what goes on both in bed and out of bed. Things go so badly for some people in bed because they go so badly out of bed. One of the reasons for this is the male resisting female.

How does a woman resist a man? Three ways. First...verbally. A wife was discussing her husband in my office recently. She had talked long and critically about him. I had a hunch he wasn't as bad as she was describing. When he came my hunch was confirmed. She picked at him...corrected every statement he made...ridiculed him...gave him no credit for anything he had done. She said he was no good as a father...couldn't satisfy her sexually...that the neighbors didn't like him...that he was more interested in other females than he was of her. She had mastered well her emasculation techniques. With it all she was very unhappy. The male resisting female.

The second way some women resist their men is by attitude. Nothing he can do...or say...pleases her. If the man allows it he's in a constant state of guilt. He lives in a constant state of being judged...always found wanting. Her attitude is not one of warm cooperation...tender companionship...loving concern...her attitude is one of continual resistance and competition. What matters to her is her convenience...her interests. She reveals her attitude by such terms as "my children"... "my budget"... "my checkbook"... "my neighbors". She may put on a show of affection and niceties to her husband in social gatherings...only to rip him to ribbons the moment they get into the car to drive home. The male resisting female.

The third way which some women resist their men is by actions. I know one woman who keeps a meticulous house...but her husband can't walk in from the bank with his shoes on. She repulses his efforts to show affection...rejects any touch of her body...either in the kitchen or bedroom. She places him in awkward positions with relatives...friends...business associates with requests impossible for him to fulfill. The failure opens him to more emasculation. Sexually she's unresponsive...though she may give some indication of willingness to participate only to cut him off mid-way...psychologically castrating her man. Female resistance to the male.

The effects of the male resistant female are far-reaching. First...upon herself. She is and will be an unhappy person until this illness is cured. Secondly...upon her husband. He may lose his self esteem...his potency...become withdrawn and docile. His life can be ruined if he allows it to continue. Thirdly...upon their children. Since she dominates the family scene she inculcates into the children negative attitudes toward their father...the first man in their lives...which may mean that little girls will grow up with the same male resistance as their mother...little boys may grow up lacking in masculinity.

The male resisting female with her verbal attacks...negative attitudes and aggressive ways toward her man...is not to be blamed. Neither is her husband. She got this way from early life conditioning. She may be to be blamed for not getting help to make an emotional break with her childhood.

Next Week: "The Woman Hating Man."

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Eddie Cantor's 'Whoopee' May Return To Screen

My, but nostalgia is in full bloom!... "WHOOPEE", an EDDIE CANTOR starrer, vintage 1930, may be re-released by the end of this year... On June 17th the picture was screened to a select audience of film buffs at New York's Museum of Modern Arts, and the response was so enthusiastic that SAMUEL GOLDWYN was besieged with pleas to reissue this "classic"... And for the curious, "WHOOPEE" was not only the sensation of 1930, but marked the debut of choreographer BUSBY BERKELEY as well... And on the nostalgia film re-make front, ALI MACGRAW is being producer sieged to star in "CAMILLE" and "THE GREAT GATSBY". At this date it is too early to predict which film she will shoot, although my hunch is it will be "CAMILLE" if she has her say about it...

Remember ROD CAMERON? The "Mr. Heavy" of a score of films returns to the big screen with a featured role in "EVEL KNEIVEL". Could be the start of a new career for this fine actor who really never received the opportunity to display his talent... Speculation persists to the effect that "THE COWBOYS" will be JOHN WAYNE's screen swan song... SAMANTHA EGGAR, though lovely to look at, is sorely wasted as an actress in "THE LIGHT AT THE EDGE OF THE WORLD"... "WILLARD" may be GP rated, but from where this reviewer sits, the motion picture is much too gruesome for impressionable children... WARREN OATES turns in a top notch performance in "THE HIRED HAND"...

"THE TORCH" is INGMAR BERGMAN's first film with an English soundtrack... Still can't figure the "LE MANS" skidbust which left Boston after a two week huff and a puff. Could it's star STEVE MCQUEEN be slipping at the box office? Probably too early to tell, but if he has many more strikeouts he'll be in trouble... MCQUEEN's last "real" hit was three films back, that being "BULLITT"... Seen the "SUMMER OF '42" yet? You should!... Twentieth-Fox is still keeping its "TORA, TORA, TORA" fingers crossed. After losing millions at the box office, Twentieth is trying to peddle the biggest loser in years to television...

SHIRLEY MACLAINE walked away a winner from the recent Berlin Film Festival. She not only grabbed a Silver Bear for Best Actress, but her film "DESPERATE CHARACTERS" won the prestigious International Critics Award as well... And also on the Berlin fest front, STANLEY KRAMER's "BLESS THE BEAST AND CHILDREN" won a special citation from the Catholic and Protestant film groups... All in all 1971 was a good year for America at the Festival. Since 1963 this country has gotten clobbered in that competition...

Whatever became of GEORGE MONTGOMERY?... And doesn't former "Tammy" girl DEBBIE REYNOLDS do an impressive image about face in "WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH HELEN"? She's one dynamic little actress... Director GORDON PARKS would have to rate a four star standing O with his "SHAFT" masterpiece. PARKS has a gift for capturing atmosphere charisma and giving it vitality with his majestic sweep of the camera... RICHARD ROUNDTREE, star of the picture, makes the most impressive motion picture debut since DUSTIN HOFFMAN. In my estimation ROUNDTREE is one of the top four "finds" of the current season, and with proper future grooming will develop into a major star...

As soon as DIANA SANDS completes "GEORGIA", now lensing in Sweden, she will step into the lead of "THE BILLIE HOLIDAY STORY"... Still can't understand why TWIGGY is receiving the sex goddess buildup. Her physical endowments would seem to cast her in another light... Those who found "THE STEWARDESSES" an enchanting 3-Der, will be interested in knowing a sequel is in the works. To be called "INTERNATIONAL STEWARDESSES", it will be on the market by Christmas, or so the producers hope... Doesn't JEAN GABIN rate a nod or two as France's most durable film star? His many fans won't want to miss his next one, "THE CAT". His performance won him a Silver Bear [Berlin Festival] as Best Actor...

"WILD ROVERS" is fading fast at the nations box offices. And no this has nothing to do with the actors involved, script or directing. Poor advertising from the home office has the public so confused, one is not quite sure what type of western "ROVERS" is about... The publicity campaign started off by advertising the film as a "man to man" story, then abruptly switched to an all action shoot-out... It's a shame the press buildup wasn't handled in a more dignified manner; the picture was an enjoyable escapism yarn with a subtle message thrown in to boot... "GIMME SHELTER" is still holding its own with the Rock set. If the first six months are any indication, this will be one of the big moneymakers of the year...

PETER FINCH adds "SUNDAY BLOODY SUNDAY" to a long list of stickout performances... And on the other side of the coin, EDY WILLIAMS continues to prove to one and all that she can't act with "THE SEVEN MINUTES"... "WELCOME HOME, SOLDIER BOYS" may prove to be one of the more devastating anti-war films ever produced.

Olympic gold medal whiz, JEAN-CLAUDE KILLY makes his debut in "SKI CAPER". Since he is on skis most of the time, we are assured his limited acting abilities will not be taxed too heavily...

Issues Statement

Ruth Scanlan Not To Seek Re-Election

Miss Ruth Scanlan has announced she will not seek a second term on the Quincy School Committee.

Miss Scanlan, in announcing her decision, declared:

"I am announcing that I will not seek a second term as a member of the Quincy School Committee.

Within the last few years a great deal of community interest and activities have been directed toward school affairs. This enthusiasm is appropriate due to the many changes that are taking place. More important, however, is the realization that it is necessary for a community to express its opinions if it expects the School Committee to reflect its desires.

"The people of Quincy, until recently, have given the impression that they are perfectly satisfied with the school system and Committee members. Otherwise they would not elect the same people, term after term. Moreover, it seems that they have felt that the School Committee is a relatively unimportant political organization within the city. This attitude was seen in the small scale campaigns people conducted who were seeking election to the Committee.

"Presently, though, there is a great deal of interest in school affairs and much enthusiasm for participating in the decisions governing the system. My announcement increases the possibility for new people to become Committee members.

"Good luck to those people entering politics for the first time. Good luck especially to those people who are elected for they are then responsible for one-third of the city's budget and most of the city's children."

During the cruise, the 80,000-ton Forrestal with its 5,000-man crew steamed more than 34,000 nautical miles and visited nine ports including Malta, Greece, Spain, France and Italy.

His ship will now enter the Norfolk Naval Shipyard for an extended overhaul.

Senate Candidates Speak Out On Election Issues

The two contenders for the Norfolk District Senate seat in next Tuesday's special election were invited by the Quincy Sun to express their views in their own words.

Arthur H. Tobin, Democratic nominee from Quincy, and Richard Rogalin, Republican nominee from Braintree, both accepted the invitation.

Following are their statements, telling voters where each stands and why each thinks he should be elected.

As Tobin Sees It:

By ARTHUR TOBIN
Democrat

In these critical times there is no substitute for experience and proven ability in government. I believe that I possess the necessary experience, ability and background, acquired by my service in state and local government for the past six years, which qualifies me for further public service in the State Senate.

Basically, I am seeking this office based on my prior record—a record which includes a 98 per cent attendance at roll calls for the last three terms in the House of Representatives and an attentive and diligent record as City Councillor and Council President in Quincy.

I believe that I have served with dignity, dedication and with a compassionate interest for the problems of all the people whether they are registered as Democrats, Republicans or Independents.

My record includes the sponsorship of the long-needed ice skating rink for our interested youngsters in Quincy which soon will be a reality. With a 40% contribution from the state, the estimates of the Rink Committee definitely indicate that this will be operated at no cost to the real estate taxpayers of Quincy.

I was also the co-sponsor of the one-half fare bill for senior citizens which will be of even greater assistance when the transit extension is operating in Quincy next September.

I actively advocated and supported the construction of over one thousand new elderly apartments during my time in office which makes the receding years of our Quincy senior citizens happier ones residing in decent housing.

One of the major areas of concentration in my public career has been that of environmental control—having supported and sponsored a number of open space and urban beautification programs in Quincy—including the protection and acquisition of the Black's Creek Marshes, the Furnace Brook Golf Course, the Houghs Neck and Adams Shore marshes, and the Cunningham Park area. My leadership rolls in these matters prevented these open spaces from being lost to future generations by present development.

More recently, because of the serious economic conditions and large unemployment rolls, I have evidenced my concern by voting against the legislative pay raise and have favored cutting the size of the House of Representatives.

During my leadership roll in Quincy, Quincy has received a record amount of federal funds for all types of improvement in our city, including the North Quincy and Quincy Point Improvement Programs and a number of grants for our police to fight crime in our streets.

I believe that I have a record of proven ability, experience, background and concern for all the people of Quincy and have faith that the people of the City of Quincy will not be deceived by last-minute political and false rhetoric regarding this proven record of service.

I urge your favorable consideration on next Tuesday, July 27, for State Senator and will do my very best to live up to your faith in me.

As Rogalin Sees It:

By RICHARD ROGALIN
Republican

A few short weeks ago, I entered this race in order to prevent government by default.

Next Tuesday, July 27, will prove whether people are interested in the way government is run. No group of people should be permitted to continue itself in power without asking the voters to think and choose.

As part of my beliefs in American government, I feel quite strongly that bold, modern, aggressive candidates are needed to solve today's problems.

A State Senator requires two different skills. He must listen to the people, care about their problems, and want to help his district. Then he must reach into the future, examine countless technical, legal, social and economic facts, and then solve people's worries.

Before becoming a candidate, I carefully looked at myself. Little-known outside of a circle of friends, clients, and students, I faced a challenge of meeting more people—the voters—who would decide whether I had the right qualities.

Long training in law, advanced training in marine policy and environmental planning, experience in Federal and State organizations have all given me background.

But the basic need of a State Senator is the drive, willingness, and interest to work for people. A healthy measure of independent judgment and a tenacious curiosity are also required in order to serve the people. I feel that I have these qualities, and can serve the people as their State Senator.

The specific areas of concern to which I shall devote full time if elected, are in the government itself and mainly in the legislature. This district and the City of Quincy will best be served by rapid extension of the MBTA line through Braintree without the delays which have occurred these past few years. The MBTA is here, I say move it along.

RICHARD ROGALIN

The most crucial problem for the City of Quincy is to prevent it from becoming another slum of Boston. This problem will require changing the MBTA financing scheme and eliminating waste in government due to secret contracts, rushed decisions and private profits at public expense.

I pledge my area of government to be open to increased awareness of the problems before they arrive, not afterwards.

Veterans News

February 1971, with 61,000 requests from veterans, was Veterans Administration's biggest G.I. home loan month in nearly four years.

The 61,000 requests, processed by VA, from veterans seeking to establish eligibility for G.I. home loans was an 83 per cent jump over February 1970 and the most for any month since July 1967.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted there was also a large increase in the number of applications for guaranteed loans—18,500, or a 55% increase over February last year.

Johnson said factors which seems to be stimulating greater activity in VA's home loan program are the Veterans Housing Act of 1970, and the recent lowering of mortgage interest rates.

He pointed out the Veterans Housing Act has liberal provisions, including one which restored unused, expired home loan benefits to 8.9 million World War II and Korean Conflict veterans, and another which authorized VA to guarantee mobile home loans for veterans and servicemen.

Johnson said the three cuts in mortgage interest rates starting last December—from 8.5 to the current 7 per cent—and the resultant savings on monthly home mortgage payments, apparently are encouraging more veterans & servicemen to enter the home-buying market.

He urged eligible persons interested in obtaining mobile or guaranteed home loans to contact their nearest VA office, local lender, or local veterans service organization representative.

Two Weeks In Canada

Two Quincy Boys Have Bobby Orr, Walton As Instructors

Two West Quincy boys have had the thrill of having Bobby Orr as a "summer school" teacher.

Jimmy Triglia, 11, of 50 Springfield St., a Quincy Sun carrier boy, and John Chiavari of 32 Barry St., 13, have returned from two weeks at the Bobby Orr and Mike Walton Sports Camp in Orillia, Ontario, Canada.

At the sports camp some 80 miles north of Toronto, 191 boys from all sections of the United States and Canada, received instruction in football, baseball, basketball, tennis, golf, water skiing, archery and related sports.

The emphasis, however, is on hockey. The Quincy boys took part in 27 games plus a playoff in the Orr-Walton hockey arena. They were members of the Vancouver Canucks, which won the Orr-Walton Cup playoff, similar to the Stanley Cup Orange Juice competition. The team winning the playoff received autographed pictures of Bobby Orr and a shoulder patch.

Jimmy says there were three hours a day scheduled for hockey, with instruction the first week by Bobby Orr and Mike Walton. In the second week, instruction was by Mike Walton, Darrell Sittler, Gary Unger, Bob Pflager, Jim Rutherford and John French.

Each team had separate locker rooms and counselors, chosen from among 72 boys between 15 and 17 years who have attended the camp for at least three years, and who, Jimmy says, are excellent skaters. A few are members of the minor leagues of hockey for Canadian teams.

Both Jimmy and John recommend the Orr-Walton Sports Camp to any young hockey player who wants to learn the game - and to skate with one of the best - Bobby Orr.

Quincy Track Club To Award Trophy To High Scoring Girl

Peter Gallagher, coach of the Quincy Track Club, which is doing much to advance girls' track on the South Shore, announces that a trophy will be awarded to the girl who scores the most points for the club by Aug. 31.

Kathy Bennett leads the scorers up to and including last week's weekly meet with 43 points. She is followed by Linda Robinson with 36, Judy Foley, 24; Cathy Iacqua, 23; Maria Ciano, 18; Shirley Lyons, 17; Rory Nolan, 16; Betsy Witt, 14; Joyce Flynn, 12; Peggy Morrissey, 6; Terry Morrissey, 5, and Cheryl Hennessey, 4.

Points are awarded on the following basis: Five for a win, four for second place, three for third, two for fourth and one for fifth.

The Quincy girls continue to do well in the weekly ARCO meets at White Stadium.

Last week in the 14-15 age division, the 440-yard relay team won and set a club record with a 58.6 second clocking. Making up the team were Misses Linda and Mary Robinson, Ciano and Bennett.

Also in this division Miss Bennett took second in the 440, third in the 880 and third in the 220, and Miss Ciano, meeting her first defeat of the year, was second in the 880. Linda Robinson scored in five events, placing third in the high jump and tying the club record at 4-7, fourth in the shot put, long jump and 440 and fifth in the 100.

In the 12-13 group the 440-yard relay team of Mary Squires, Miss Hennessey and the Morrissey sisters, took second; Terry Morrissey was fifth in the 75-yard dash and Peggy fourth in the long jump.

In the 9-11 group the 440-yard relay team of Holly Hammond, Beth Denton, Shirley Lyons and Rory Nolan was fourth and Miss Lyons placed sixth in the long jump.

Yesterday the Quincy club participated in the Brockton development meet at Brockton High and today competed in the weekly ARCO meet at White Stadium.

WHO WOULD YOU PICK? - Pretty contestants putting their best foot forward in Miss Quincy Bay Race Week Contest are Rhonda Brownell, 17, of Holbrook; Joanne Blood, 16, of North Weymouth; Patricia Lyons, 18, of Houghs Neck, second runnerup; Virginia Pritchett, 1970 queen; Marcia Wassmuth, 17, of Wollaston; Gail-Faith Morse, 18, of South Quincy; Kristin Anderson, 19, of East Braintree, crowned "Miss Quincy Bay Race Week"; and Marta Tietjen, 17, of Weymouth, first runnerup. Quincy Eyes Runnerup Honors

Only Catastrophe Can Stop Morrisette Now

Morrisette Legion baseball teams have pretty well dominated Zone 6 through the years and won numerous championships under Coaches Nick Malvesti and Connie Carozzi.

It appears certain that Ray Cattaneo, in his second year as coach, will add another title to the long list and his first this year.

It would take a catastrophe to prevent Morrisette from the zone crown and a win last night at Braintree would clinch at least a tie. Cattaneo's team, which moved a step closer with a 5-3 win over Stoughton last week, is host to Milton Friday at Adams Field, goes to Milford, N.H., for a non-league game Sunday, plays at Weymouth Monday and goes to Randolph next Wednesday. Morrisette took a 12-1 record into last night's Braintree game with five games left.

Meanwhile, Doug Fleming's Quincy team, which got off to a great start but then faltered, still has a slim chance at the best record among the runnersup of Zones 6 and 6A and a state tourney berth but his chances were dimmed last week when it was bombed by Weymouth, 7-0, giving it an 8-5 record.

Quincy's scheduled game at Weymouth Monday was rained out. The team played at Stoughton last night, hosts Randolph Monday at Adams Field and entertains Milton next Wednesday.

A vastly improved Stoughton team gave Morrisette all it could handle but three runs in the third broke a 2-2 tie and gave Morrisette the win.

Tony Knasas pitched for Morrisette and held Stoughton to two hits. He struck out seven and walked four. Morrisette had only five hits off Brian Moriarty and Pete Dors, who blanked Morrisette over the final three innings.

Kevin Ryan's triple was Morrisette's only extra base hit as Joe Marani, Tom Burke, Dave Nelson and Russ MacDonald chipped in with singles.

Quincy had its first bad day since the opener at Weymouth as it was outclassed by zone runnerup Braintree.

"We just stunk the place out and I don't think we could have beaten a girls' softball team tonight," Fleming said.

"But it is hard to find fault with these kids, they have been batting all year long and have done a fine job. Only for a few real hard luck losses, we'd have that best runnerup record and a state tourney berth. But it will take a miracle, I guess to get us in the tourney now."

Quincy was held to three hits by Braintree ace Dave Keigan, singles by Jack Flaherty, Bob Morton and Paul Varney. Braintree collected nine off Dave Murphy, Scott Manson and Bob Driscoll.

Girls Benefit Softball Game Set For Aug. 7

"Watson's Women", the library team, will be coached by Richard Anderson, "Ralph's Rascals", the Health Center team, will be coached by Ralph Andrews, assisted by Charles Alongi Sr.

Need A Barn Torn Down?

Abp. Williams Track Team Looking For Demo Lumber

By TOM SULLIVAN

Does anyone have an old barn or other structure he wants demolished?

If so, a call to Art Svensen, Abp. Williams High School track coach, at 585-6858, or Bob Swain at 843-3636 will result in the job being done free of charge.

Williams recently acquired the board track from Boston College but, due to vandalism, boards and supports are needed to ready the track for use.

"We have the school's permission to install the track near the parking area across the street from the school, but we can get no money and must do everything ourselves," Svensen said. "I have a group of my present and former trackmen all set to help me and all we need now is the wood."

"We mostly need one and a quarter inch boards and some two-by-fours and we'll gladly tear down any old barn or other structure to get the wood."

Among the Quincy boys who are going to assist in the project are Tom Magee, a former Bishop star now at Northeastern; Joe Gaudiano, Williams captain-elect; Bill and Kevin Murphy, standouts at Williams, and Justin Harrington, now at Harvard whose father, a B.C. professor, is active in the Abp.

Williams Fathers Club.

Svensen heard from a former Williams trackman that B.C. was going to get rid of the track due to the new indoor facility being built.

B.C. High had first call on the track but vandals set fire to it and did other damage to it. Bill McNeill, a B.C. High administrator, called Svensen to say that because of the vandalism and trouble finding a place to install the track, Williams could have it.

"Lou Antonelli, a contractor, let us have two trucks to carry the track in and we want to thank him very much," Svensen said. "We need a few more people like him to pitch in and make this a reality."

Svensen explained that he has one more problem before the track can become a reality.

"There is a stone wall in front of the site we plan for the track and it must come down before we can install it," he said. "So, we'll need added help to get this wall down."

According to the Williams coach, who has had tremendous success with his teams, this will be the only board track on the South Shore outside of Weymouth North. "I honestly feel this will be even better than Weymouth's," he said.

Art said that it would cost about $700 to have this work done and no one wants to give this kind of money for track, which at most schools is still a "poor relation" with money going to football teams and the like.

When Williams does get the track completed, Svensen hopes to schedule some Tri-County League meets in the winter. Williams is a member of this popular league. Although the track will be only for winter meets, Svensen explained he will use it for spring practice.

So, if anyone wants that old barn torn down, be sure and call Svensen or Swain.

A & T Steve's Pace

In the South Division of the Quincy Softball League, top teams continue win streaks.

A & T Movers [15-20] has maintained a two game lead over Peters [13-4], while Beau's [12-4] has hung onto third place. The Hofbrau [12-5] and Jolly Roger [12-6] have also kept pace.

In a marathon game, Louis' came back several times to down the Deaf Club in eight innings 25-24. The game took two hours and 25 minutes as Louis' came back time after time to even the score. In the last of the eighth inning, trailing 24-21, Louis' Cafe rallied once again, scoring four runs to win the longest game of the season, as the game had nearly 50 hits.

Mr. Kelly's, leading the South Shore National Bank 14-8, couldn't hold the cushion as the Bank scored seven times in the last two innings to squeeze out a 15-14 win.

In the North Division, Steve's has managed to stay in a first place tie after losing three straight games as Beau's, A & T Movers and the Jolly Roger all downed Steve's Place.

Wells Grille and Dee Dee's [all 11-7] have climbed back into the first place tie as the Burke Club remained one-half game back at 10-7.

Steve's Place, playing a murderous schedule and plagued by several minor injuries, was soundly beaten by A & T Movers 11-6, and the Jolly Roger 23-5. Coach Bob Beniers team will have to regain their touch in order to keep even part ownership of first place as four teams are either tied with them or one game behind.

The current longest win streak is that of A & T Movers, with seven in a row, but Wells Grille's run of ten in a row is still the season's longest winning streak.

Modern design and technology are combined in this great tent camper to provide all the comforts and conveniences of your own home.

Featuring the slide out kitchen, which allows you to cook with the top up or down; inside or out, also the pop-up kitchen, 6 or 8 sleepers, wardrobe with built in vanity, slide out bunk on all models, lightweight tops for easy camp making — all add up to the Bravo designed with people in mind.

I Am Sick

Editor's Note: The following article has been passed along to the Quincy Sun by John R. Steen of 70 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore and also by Weymouth Town Clerk Harry Christensen.

Writes Steen: "I would like to see you publish this in your newspaper. I am a veteran of World War II and the Korean War.

"I have four Bronze Stars and the double Meritorious Award, Dec. 7, 1941, I was at Pearl Harbor.

"I am no hero, but this letter talks for me and the rest of the true Americans."

The article appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer as an anonymous letter to the editor.

But Town Clerk Christensen also found it printed in the Eagle Leader which credits it to a speech given by Pat Michaels of KGO Radio 81, San Francisco at a police-firefighters' awards breakfast at College of the Holy Names, Oakland, Calif. We reprint it here for your consideration.

There are those who claim ours is a "sick" society; that our country is sick; that we are sick. Well, maybe they're right. I submit that I'm sick . . . and maybe you are, too.

I am sick of having policemen ridiculed and called "pigs" while cop killers are hailed as some kind of folk hero.

I am sick of being told that religion is the opiate of the people, but marijuana should be legalized.

I am sick of commentators and columnists canonizing anarchists, revolutionaries and criminal rapists, but condemning law enforcement when such criminals are brought to justice.

I am sick of being told that pornography is the right of the free press, but freedom of the press does not include being able to read the Bible on school grounds.

I am sick of paying more and more taxes to build schools while I see some faculty members encouraging students either to tear them down or burn them.

I am sick of Supreme Court decisions which turn criminals loose on society - while other decisions try to take away my means of protecting my home and family.

I am sick of pot-smoking entertainers deluging me with their condemnation of my moral standards on late-night television.

I am sick of being told that policemen are mad dogs who should not have guns - but that criminals who use guns to rob, maim and murder should be understood and helped back to society.

I am sick of being told it is wrong to use napalm to end a war overseas - but if it's a Molotov cocktail or a bomb at home, I must understand the provocations.

I am sick of not being able to take my family to a movie unless I want to have them exposed to nudity, homosexuality and the glorifications of narcotics.

I am sick of riots, marches, protests, demonstrations, confrontations, and the other mob temper tantrums of people intellectually incapable of working within the system.

I am sick of hearing the same sick slogans, the cries of people who must chant the same thing like zombies because they haven't the capacity for verbalizing thought.

I am sick of those who say I owe them this or that because of the sins of my forefathers - when I have looked down both ends of a gun barrel to defend their rights, their liberties and their families.

I am sick of cynical attitudes toward patriotism. I am sick of politicians with no backbone.

I am sick of permissiveness.

I am sick of the dirty, the foul-mouthed, the unwashed.

I am sick of the decline of personal honesty, personal integrity and human sincerity.

Most of all, though, I am sick of being told I'm sick. I'm sick of being told my country is sick - when we have the greatest nation that man has ever brought forth on the face of the earth. Fully 50 per cent of the people on earth would willingly trade places with the most deprived, the most underprivileged among us.

Yes, I may be sick, but if I am only sick, I can get well. I can also help my society get well - and help my country get well.

Take note, all of you . . . you will not find me throwing a rock or a bomb; you will not find me under a placard; you will not see me take to the streets; you will not find me ranting to wild-eyed mobs.

But you will find me at work, paying taxes, serving in the community where I live.

You will also find me expressing my anger and indignation to elected officials.

You will find me speaking out in support of those officials, institutions and personalities who contribute to the elevation of society and not its destruction. You will find me contributing my time, money and personal influence to helping churches, hospitals, charities and other establishments which have shown the true spirit of this country's determination to ease pain, suffering, eliminate hunger and generate brotherhood.

But, most of all, you'll find me at the polling place. There - if you listen - you can hear the thunder of the common man. There, all of us can cast our vote - for an America where people can walk the streets without fear.

STATEHOUSE ACTION LINE

Q. I have been shopping for a new electric range for my home. There seems to be a lot of variation on the guarantees accompanying these appliances. Is there something I should look for in the guarantee and warranty provisions? H.G.M.

A. The law states that all guarantees must clearly present their conditions. Any product that is simply labelled "Guaranteed" may be legally considered to be unconditionally guaranteed.

When looking at a guarantee, take note of the time limit and of any other specifications of conditions under which the guarantee is honored. Also check to see if the guarantor is the seller or the manufacturer. Note the promises made in the guarantee concerning fulfillment of its provisions. Check to see if only certain parts of the product will be repaired or replaced if faulty, or if your money will be refunded. It is very sensible to study the guarantee before buying the product because often there is less to it than meets the eye. In Massachusetts, however, all of the explicit and implicit promises made in the guarantee are binding and any attempt to shy away from their fulfillment is illegal.

Q. What is the current status of the endangered species bill? R.B.S.

A. The Endangered Species Bill, House 3249, is now being reviewed by the House Ways and Means Committee. This legislation seeks to protect those animals in danger of extinction due to the commercial use of their skins. At present the bill has been revised by a deletion of "alligators, caiman or crocodile of the Crocodylia" from the list of those which would be protected. This deletion has severely weakened the bill.

Q. I read a sign in a store window saying that "Bait and Switch" selling is illegal, but I can't seem to find out any place what "Bait and Switch" selling is. Can you tell me? P.L.

A. Bait and switch is a method of advertising which involves the solicitation of prospective buyers through the use of luring "sales" or low-cost goods. When the unsuspecting buyer comes to purchase the advertised product, he is told that the seller has run out and he is "switched", or referred over to other more expensive items. Because this was such a common practice and such a large number of people were being cheated this way, "bait and switch" selling was declared illegal under the Massachusetts Consumer Protection of 1967. Complaints should be directed to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection in Boston.

Overstuffed Mailbox An Invitation To Thieves

As the 1971 vacation season reaches its peak, the U.S. Postal Service offers suggestions and tips regarding mail for postal customers who will be away from home for extended periods.

For example, vacationers are urged not to allow their mail box to become overstuffed in their absence. This might tempt thieves to take their mail or enter their homes while they are away.

As a precaution against the possibility of mail theft, the Postal Service advises postal customers to ask a friend or neighbor to empty the mail box daily and hold the mail until return.

Or, a customer may ask his post office to hold his mail until he returns from vacation. Upon written request, mail will be held up to 30 days, unless the sender has specified that it be returned sooner if delivery cannot be accomplished within a certain time limit.

For the vacationers who will be away for a considerable period of time, the filing of a forwarding order with the local post office is advised.

Forwarding of first class mail does not require additional postage.

Some other vacation tips:

Post card writers should buy enough stamps before leaving to prevent the possibility of running out far away from the nearest post office.

Use ZIP Codes in all addresses. "Many times, cards are written hurriedly or addressed while riding in cars or planes," Postmaster George K. Walker pointed out, "and legible ZIP Codes will be of great assistance to postal employees in directing mail to its proper destination."

Postal customers are also reminded to use sufficient postage. Regular size post cards require 6-cent postage when sent first class. Postage for airmail post cards is 9 cents.

As a final reminder, postal customers who have their mail forwarded temporarily are requested to notify the post office immediately upon return home in order to cancel the requests.

'Situation Not Critical Unless-'

Water Ban Likely To Continue Through Summer

Receives World War 1 Medals

Italian Government Says 'Thank You' To Quincy Man Half-Century Later

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

After more than 50 years, Dominic H. Consolazio of 151 Rockland St., Rock Island Cove, recently received honors and recognition for his six years of service with the Italian Army during World War I.

A long time coming but still appreciated are his gold medal from the Italian government, the cross of the Order of the Cavaliere di Vittorio Veneto, and a certificate relating to his World War I record during the years 1915-1918.

Consolazio was among some 3,000 Italian-American veterans honored in ceremonies at Wonderland Ballroom in Revere recently.

"I met a lot of my old buddies there," he reports. "some were in the same company, but I didn't recognize them at first because it has been so long ago."

He feels that perhaps a lack of money delayed recognition by the Italian government of men who returned to their native country to fight in World War I.

Consolazio, who came to Boston with his father when he was 13 years old, explained that when he reached 19 years of age:

"I had a choice of serving either country, but I left with my friends because we got a 'free' passage back to Italy. It was a big deal then."

Completing six years in a heavy artillery battalion of the Italian Army, Consolazio was discharged in 1921. The next year he and his wife, Blanche, were married in a small town outside Naples. They will celebrate their 50th anniversary next year.

In 1927 Mr. and Mrs. Consolazio came to Massachusetts, settling in Allston where he opened Nick's Barber Shop, following his father's trade.

Four years later the couple bought a summer cottage on Rockland St., and in 1944, with the purchase of a house next door, they became year 'round residents.

They have four sons and a daughter. All the sons are United States' veterans; Nicholas, the Army; Dominic, Joseph and James, the Navy. Their daughter, Mary [Mrs. Joseph Gallagher] wears a uniform, too. She is Safety Traffic Supervisor at Wollaston School.

The sons are all licensed barbers, too, although only Dominic continues the family tradition in the Allston Barber shop.

The families of Nicholas

Consolazio live at 42 Hyde St., Quincy Center; Dominic Consolazio, Somerville; Joseph Consolazio, Watertown; Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher, 30 Brook St., Wollaston; and James Conso at 131 Rockland St., Rock Island Cove.

There are 12 grandchildren.

"I have never been out of Massachusetts but once since I came back from Italy," Consolazio confides. "We went to New York for three days -- they were the longest three days I ever been through -- I couldn't wait to get back."

"And, if I had it to do over again," he says, "I would fight for the United States."

Quincy's water ban from noon until 9 p.m. is likely to continue through the summer months, says City Water Supt. Robert Barry.

The water situation is not critical, Barry indicates, although there has been a sharp rise over last year's consumption.

In June, 1970, Quincy residents daily used 10,663,700 gallons of water, or 121 gals per capita. This year in June, some 11,221,000 gallons, [an increase of one million] was recorded, a total of 128 gallons per capita.

"It might be another year or two years that this summer ban will continue, until the MDC tunnel is completed," Barry told the Quincy Sun.

"The situation is not critical unless we have some unforeseen emergency. We know how to compensate in case we have a bad fire -- the Fire Department is aware of it. We have water connections with Milton and Boston which are also MDC fed. There is no problem in the event we need aid. They would be glad to help us, and we would help them."

The problem is one of maintaining pressure, Barry said. Principal problems are in high elevations in Houghs Neck and Squantum, as well as a small part of Penn's Hill in South Quincy where pumping is necessary.

"I do feel most people are cooperating," Barry said. "I can say they are cooperating very well. I think people as a whole are all right to get along with on this."

Activities Resume Sept. 15

Grenham Youth Center May Move To Rink

Re-opening on Sept. 15 of Grenham Youth Center activities at one central location was decided at a meeting this week of the Adult Advisory Board at the home of Leo Kelly, president.

Pending negotiations, the site selected is the roller skating rink at the end of Sea St. owned by the DiMarzio family.

Until June, Youth Center activities were held at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church hall, St. Thomas Aquinas hall, and the Houghs Neck Legion Post home at different nights during the week. This followed removal from the former Davis White Front Bakery on Sea St. which has now been razed.

Ice skating time for the Grenham Youth Center team was set up by a group including David MacMillan, Ed Kelley, Robert Tiley and John Bogan.

There will be a cookout Aug. 9 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the home of Kelly for all adults who have assisted with Center programs in the past.

McIntyre Invites Johnson To MBTA Line Opening

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson has been invited by Mayor James R. McIntyre to attend the Sept. 1 inaugural ceremonies for the MBTA in Quincy.

In his invitation, McIntyre pointed out that the initial grant for the rapid transit extension of the MBTA was granted under Johnson's administration.

He noted also that in 1966 Lady Bird Johnson visited the Adams Family Mansion.

"As the City of Quincy is so steeped in historical importance, I know that you will enjoy your visit and we would in turn be most honored by your attendance," McIntyre wrote.

John Spencer Receives Medal

SP/4 John Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spencer of 74 Union St., Quincy Point, recently received the Army A Commendation Medal for meritorious service with military operations against hostile forces in Vietnam.

The presentation was made at Merrymount Park, Quincy, where he is serving with the 187th Support Battalion.

I'll Return

I'll return one day, when the fog has cleared,
To stay for good, after I've pioneered.
But to say how long I'll be gone away,
Is something to you, I couldn't relay.

You see, I just don't know how it should be,
For I have to discover my destiny.
I've got to explore life's realities,
To come up with my own hypotheses.

It may take some time, I'm hoping you'll wait,
Yet if another you find, don't hesitate,
To fall in love, to take security,
For that is something I can't guarantee.

I know it's a risk, a venturesome stake,
To possibly find a change in namesake.
Your name, that is, an altered last name
A new someone else, uprooting my claim.

Of course, that can happen, and maybe it will,
Still I'll leave and this desire fulfill.
But don't get me wrong, you're still my concern,
Just always remember, for you I'll return.
Rich Kenney, Braintree

To Michael, Jr.

Eight pounds, two - with eyes so blue
You're a joy in troubled times.

[If there's many more to run up the score
I'll be running out of rhymes.]

Plan A Picnic

Wherever you go—plan a picnic! Whether it's a campsite, backyard or seaside picnic, sandwiches are the favorite picnic food.

Convenient canned meat spreads are the sandwich maker's companion. Either make the sandwiches in advance or cover bread or rolls with meat spread and let everyone add their favorite sandwich toppers at the picnic. Pack the basket or cooler with sauerkraut, cheese, tomatoes, coleslaw, pickles, onion and green pepper rings. Fresh fruit and cheese make a light and refreshing dessert to top off your picnic menu.

Pumpernickel Special and Hamhikers are flavorful and filling sandwiches that will make a big hit with the hungry crowd.

Pumpernickel Special

8 slices pumpernickel bread
1 4½ ounce can corned beef spread
Spread 4 slices of bread with corned beef spread. Layer sandwich with slice of Swiss cheese, sauerkraut, Russian dressing, and slice of bread. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Hamhikers

3 cups shredded cabbage
1½ cups grated cheddar cheese
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
Combine cabbage, cheese, and mayonnaise. Split rolls in half, spread bottom half with deviled ham, top with coleslaw mixture, and add top half of roll. Makes 6 to 8 hearty sandwiches.

Pretty Feet = Pretty You

Whether you're an Arabian princess or an American housewife, pretty feet are an important part of your fashion picture this summer. Feet for 1970 should not merely be shod; they should be decorated, pampered, liberated.

How can you achieve summer foot beauty? The answer is sandals. Sandals with style! Sandals with flair! Sandals with variety! Sandals with freedom! Sandals that look like jewels on your feet!

Sandals are fun as well as fashionable. Coast-to-coast, women of all ages are wearing them in the sand, in the supermarket, in the city, in the country. There is a sandal for everyone: scuffs, thongs, nearly-nude play shoes, toe-in city shoes, flats, heels, straps, bright colors, antiqued dark colors.

But fashion isn't the only consideration in buying sandals. Comfort should be considered too. The manufacturer of Red Ball Fun Fashions suggests several ways you can choose the right sandal for your foot and avoid aching arches and swollen feet. For instance, check more than size and color when you shop. Try on the sandals. Because of open toes, straps and boxy heels, you may find that your usual size no longer fits your foot.

Check the shape of the sandals too. There's more to fit than the right length and width of a shoe. The "lasts" or forms over which the sandals are made should also be designed for ample depth and for the proper distribution of weight between the ball and heel of your foot.

Don't hesitate to ask your salesman questions about the sandals before you buy them. What about the quality of materials used? Will they stretch, ravel, become literally unglued? How do you keep the sandals clean? Are inner as well as outer seams neat and smooth?

Be fashionable this summer! Whether your skirts are mini or midi, your feet will be a part of your "look." So decorate them! But take that little extra time and effort to insure comfort, too.

Director, The Diet Workshop

"A dress shop—that's what I have in my house, with sizes ranging from 8 to 14."

That's a conversation related to me by a gentleman who feels that his wife should have more consideration for his money. He doesn't understand why his wife can't keep her weight down.

Poor wife—she tries. But her body is wiser than she and it rebels against starvation, fad and freaky diets, and it's not long until the fattening foods start feeding her hungry fat cells again.

What she really has to do is to re-educate her eating habits with three well balanced meals a day. No need to go hungry. No more sees-sawing between starving and gorging, and best of all no more scales that oscillate like an elevator indicator.

Happiness for her is a one size wardrobe—Size 8.

Health High-Lights

WHY DO WE BLUSH?

"Man is the only creature that blushes - or needs to," as a wag once said. And it's true. For the sudden infusion of "blood over the skin" be it caused by shame, guilt, modesty or whatever is a purely human phenomenon. No other animal experiences anything remotely like it. It is probably our most vivid example of mind affecting matter.

Once the blush starts - regardless of the reason - there is nothing anyone can do to stop it. At its peak of conspicuous redness, a blush is as involuntary a sensation as a sneeze.

Doctors point to the blush as a good illustration of the close and intimate control our nervous system has over our blood vessels. Or to put it in a simpler vein, just one example of how our emotions can affect our physical being. At the same time, it is obvious that no baby can blush, for the sensation can arise only when a child has learned to be aware of blush-provoking feelings.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Flag Day

I like to sing the America the Beautiful,

I like the flag's colors.

Betsy Ross made the first flag of the America

Red, white and blue are the flag's colors.

A Special Day

We honor our flag on flag day. Because the stars are a symbol of our 50 states. The blue is for the heaven, the flag waves under and men die under.

The white is for the tears for those who died and red for the blood shed for our freedom.

Flag Day

I think that we are very lucky to have a flag. I think it is a mean thing to put the flag on the ground. I think that some of these kids of America are very silly to burn the flag; and we shouldn't get mad at little children that put the flag on the ground.

My Trip

My trip to the Continental Bakery was very interesting. They showed us what happened to the bread from beginning to end on a chart.

First they showed us the flour bins. Then they showed the dough coming out of a machine. After that we went to where the dough rises. Third, they took us to the oven. The biggest in the world. Fourth, they took us to where the bread is separated from the pans where it is sent to cool. After that we watched how it was put into the package and tied.

Then we were given a piece of bread. Next we got a package, ate, and went back to school.

The Third Rail

If you have heard of the third rail then stay away. If you think it is like two volts, it isn't. It's 600 volts - that's enough to kill you in one second. If you think it's a joke you will find out how much of a joke it is.

The third rail is very powerful so there will be signs up to warn you. There will be power stations, 3 of them each will have 12,000 volts. There will be signs there, too. So I don't think you should fool around with the voltage. If you want to have a nice vacation stay away so you can stay above ground instead of under. Flag day is a day when we honor our flag. It is also the day the flag was born. It is on June 14. Everybody should honor the flag. Betsy Ross made the first flag. The flag's stars are for the states of our country. A lot of people in my neighborhood have flags. I would put mine out on flag day, but I don't have a little holder to put the flag in, but some people do and they put their flags out on flag day. The first flag lasted through the first war. The men in the war honored the flag too. My father was in the second world war and he honored the flag too. And he got a lot of medals.

Gridley Bryant Parents, Staff Members

Attend Workshop To Make Science Equipment

Some 24 parents and eight staff members from the Gridley Bryant Elementary School attended a workshop recently at the Sterling Junior High School to make their own science equipment for students.

The workshop was suggested by Vincent Sullivan, Coordinator of Science for the school system in order to provide the students at the Gridley Bryant School with some much-needed science equipment.

The group, using wood and wire brought into school by students, constructed a three-level animal maze which will be used to show how gerbils react in such an enclosure, some 20 geoboards used to demonstrate spatial concepts.

some 24 tangrams to be used to explain concepts of shape; and some 20 primary balances.

Gridley Bryant Principal Charles Bernazzani and Mr.

Sullivan described the workshop effort as a "wonderful way" in which to involve parents in their schools and said they plan to try more such workshops next year.

LaPointe Urges Improvements To Recreational Facilities

Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe, candidate for City Council from Ward 3, urges that a greater emphasis be placed on preserving and improving Quincy's recreational facilities and parks.

LaPointe said that many residents of Ward 3 feel that Faxon Park and the other recreational facilities in the ward are in need of improvement.

"The Park and Recreation

Board has done an outstanding job with the limited resources they have at their disposal which must be used for maintenance," he said.

"I intend to support programs and introduce proposals to insure that our recreational facilities and parks are not merely maintained and preserved but designed to improve and beautify our city.

"There is absolutely no reason for Faxon Park not to be developed and beautified to the fullest extent possible. The residents and taxpayers of Quincy do not want or deserve a city of mere stone and concrete and I will work with all ecological minded citizens to insure that this does not happen."

Recreation Roundup

The Quincy Recreation Department's summer program is underway on an enthusiastic note.

The department operates a playground program in 33 different areas Monday through Friday from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Specialists in golf, tennis, archery, crafts, nature and ceramics bring in additional activities and instruction to the playground program.

The boating and sailing program and the swimming program add to the list of activities offered this summer.

Happy Acres Day Camp, at the Pageants Field area of Merrymount Park, offers a diversified program for retarded children, physically handicapped, slow learners and other children with problems.

Everyday is a special day with the Quincy Recreation Department. At Faxon Field, first day was "Get Acquainted Day", where old and new faces smiled from bikes, swings and on the fields.

At Whitwell St. there are several people working towards their junior leaders badges. They are: Debby Bozan, Caroline Vincent, Marsha Mele, Marny Williams, and Kathy Marro.

Congratulations are in order for those at Forbes Hill. Nancy Matteson got a bulls-eye in archery, and Janice Ricciuti and John Nelson both won in the fowl shooting contest. At Wollaston, a scavenger hunt took place with 20 participants hunting popsize sticks, bubble gum wrappers, and pieces of felt. Sandy Collins and John MacDonald collected the most.

A usual day at Stoney Brae consists of little games like Kala Championships. Champs are the twins, Brian and Kevin O'Hanley and Debbie Mann. Some of the best artists at Montclair are Maureen Lamb, Patty Lamb, Loreen Baker, Moe McCarthy, Nancy Fitzpatrick and Louise Fitzgerald.

The Boston Childrens Theatre came to Shea Rink. A group of seven children from Atlantic went to see St. George and the Reluctant Dragon. The performance was excellent. With Billy Harrow, Kurt Braun and Paul Collins on the Squantum midgets team, how can they help but win? The Good Citizenship Award this week goes to Richard Doyle of Welcome Young who found more than 15 8-track stereo tapes on the playground and turned them into the police. Bubble Gum Day was held at Myles Standish and the winner of the Big Blow Contest was Tony McNell. The boys and girls teams at Bayside have been formed. LaBrique stresses quality in the girls softball teams as shown by the great playing of Trishia Kussman and Shirley Lyons.

Junior Leaders at Baker have all been helpful in organizing games and keeping the kids in line. Arts and Crafts brought out a big show of individualism at Harborview. Such felt objects were produced as Nancy Meegan's heart shaped pillow and Teresa Foye's teddy bear. At Quarterdeck, winner of the rubbish cleanup was Dawn Dabrolet. Snug Harbor teams success seems very promising. All the boys are filled with the winning spirit. Mike [Crusher] McColgan shot Merrymount's first bulls-eye. At Beechwood Knoll, the Special Event was a watermelon eating contest won by Lisa and Linda Morash won prizes for their costumes in the monster parade at Mass. Fields.

For the athletic members of Perkins, a game of frisbee can be quite tense. Whoever missed the frisbee was out, and that was probably Mike. So far, Pollard's baseball teams have been undefeated. They really look great. At Elm St., everyone has been busy making arts and crafts for the bulletin board. The box was painted aqua on Pond St.

Over the weekend, it was photographed. Some of Faxon Park's greats are, Jeff [Mighty] Marcel, Brian [Jolting] Jolley, Lance [Boomer] Brady and Steve [Meatball] Metzger. Tommy McBride from Fore River did a great job on the mound with a lot of help from the outfield. His arm is in good shape. Shea Rink has a few promising people in tennis. They may end up in the championships. Kincaide held relay races around the bases. Fine performances were turned in by Sandy Cahill, Eileen DiBona and Ruthy Tanguay.

Some of the younger set at Bradford were kept busy on a scavenger hunt collecting various forms of plant life. Girls sports are really shaping up at O'Rourke. The girls are already trying to decide how they can divide the trophies among so many.

At Wollaston Playground the Junior Leaders: Doreen Hayes, Trisha Sullivan, and Kim Culkin helped the younger kids make invitations for Parent's Night... At Whitwell Street, beautiful earrings were made by Kathy Mannal, Caroline Vincent, Denis Quintiliano, Lynn Smith, and Beth Gavan... At Forbes Hill, a costume parade was a great success. First place went to Patty Bellotti, second went to Linda Ayles, and third went to Mary Sue Moran... The star tennis men at Faxon Field are Dick Mudge, Joe Canavan, Mark and Steve Tobin. They are practicing for the upcoming tournaments.

Montclair's junior baseball team won two straight this week! They defeated Squantum 7-6 and Welcome Young 11-6. The combined pitching of Jack Baldeck and Ed MacElaney was a great help... A kite flying contest at Welcome Young resulted in Mary Beth Hemphill's, Danny Kelly's and Sandy Crean's flying the highest and the longest... In a father-son baseball game at Squantum's Parent's Night, the fathers defeated their sons 17-6... Myles Standish' junior girls softball team beat Welcome Young 14-7. Hitting star Bev DeLoach cracked a grand slam...

In a wheel barrow race during Atlantic's Parent's Night the first to cross the finish line was the combo of John Ellis and Mike McSweeney.

Keith Nobel was appointed Policeman of the playground at Quarterdeck. His job is to keep the playground free of litter... During Parent's Night at LaBrique playground, the girls defeated the boys 7-5 in a softball game... In a bubble gum blowing contest at Snug Harbor, first place went to Sonny Thomas, second to Peggy Morrison, and third to Cheryl Smith... Ev. yone at Baker playground is thinking very hard to come up with a great nature project. In an egg throwing contest at Harbor View's Parent's Night, John Black and Danny Delmaro's eggs received not a crack, and was the longest lasting egg... Bayside Parent's Night featured a watermelon eating contest won by Paul McGowan, and an egg throwing contest won by the brother and sister team of Richard and Donna Brill.

Morrisette Clinches Zone 6 First Place

The Morrisette Legion baseball team clinched at least a tie for first place in Zone 6 with a 5-2 win Monday at Weymouth and hoped to win another title last night at Randolph.

Ray Cattaneo's team winds up the regular season Friday against Quincy at Adams Field and the state tourney gets underway next Wednesday.

Jimmy Walker started pitching Monday but arm trouble forced him out of action in the opening inning with the bases loaded and no out. Tony Knasas took over, retired the side without a run and pitched five-hit ball the rest of the way.

Joe Marani had three hits, Dave Nelson a homer and single and Mike Marvelle two hits to spark the winning attack.

Walker's arm trouble was believed not serious and he was expected to be ready for the state tournament.

Sunday Morrisette pounded out five home runs to come from behind and top Milford, N.H., 7-4, in a non-league game at Milford. It was Quincy's second win over the New Hampshire club.

Despite good pitching by Marvelle and Len Pepe, Morrisette trailed, 4-2, after eight innings. But Art Boyle and Jim Driscoll tied it in the ninth with back-to-back home runs and in the 10th Connie Driscoll hit a two-run homer and Walker hit one to finish it up.

Last Friday Morrisette rebounded from one of its most disappointing losses to wallop Milton, 8-2, to keep a two-game lead over Braintree.

Knasas pitched a six-hitter, struck out three and walked four and was given fine support at the plate as he and his mates collected 10 hits.

Tom Burke had a home run, double and single, Nelson collected three singles, Russ MacDonald two hits and 2 runs batted in and Pete Lucier a double.

If Morrisette had defeated Braintree in its previous game, the win over Milton would have clinched the zone title. And for six innings it looked like this would happen.

The Quincy club had a 3-0 lead after six innings but the defense fell apart and Morrisette handed Braintree three runs to tie the score in the seventh and the winners pushed across the clincher in the eighth.

"We just handed it to them and it was a shame because Walker pitched one of his better games," Cattaneo said. The loss was Walker's first in six decisions.

Walker, who gave way in the eighth to Knasas, allowed six hits, struck out five and walked three.

Morrisette had only four hits, two by Lucier, a home run and triple.

South Stars Defeat North, 14-10 In Softball Action

The first annual All-Star Game of the Quincy Softball League turned out to be a crowd pleaser as the North Division's stars surged to a 7-2 lead after three innings, only to lose to the South Division 14-10 in the last three innings.

Wells Grille's pitcher Dick Taylor throttled the hard hitting South Stars for five innings before exiting for a pinch hitter. Wells' Steve Verenis made the play of the night in the first inning, racing 280 feet from home plate to the left fence, catching the ball over his head just before crashing completely through the fence.

Several fielding gems were made in the game, one by Mr. Kelly's Sparky Martell with a diving catch in right field. Dee Dee's Paul Erier and Don Duggan, A & T Movers' Gus DeBoer and Hofbrau's Gerard also played good defensive games.

Despite the many fine individual performances, the game was marred by errors as players had to play at unfamiliar positions.

Efforts of the South Division's George Berard [Hofbrau] and North Division's Don Duggan [Dee Dee's] earned the two stars the MVP awards, with both to receive trophies for their work.

In league action, Beau's Place has climbed to second place in the South Division, stopping top place A & T Movers 11-8. A & T led 8-5 going into the top of the seventh inning, but Beau's put together a home run, four triples and two singles for six runs, and the game was history.

Edward Hines is assistant coach for "Watson's Women", comprised of young women library staff members, while Ralph Andrews is coaching "Ralph's Rascals", the Health Center women.

Free-will donations will be accepted, with proceeds going to the third annual Quincy Senior Citizens Picnic on Aug. 15 sponsored by the Quincy Council on Aging.

Quincy Legion In Wind-Up

Quincy Legion's baseball team played Milton last night and ends a frustrating season Friday against Morrisette at Adams Field.

Although Coach Doug Fleming is assured of his best record, no worse than .500 despite the outcome of the final two games, it has been a disappointing season. Quincy's hopes of at least the best second place record in zones 6 and 6A and a state tournament berth were killed after a promising start.

Quincy out-hit Randolph Monday but dropped a 4-3 decision as it failed to bunch its hits.

Dave Murphy went all the way on the mound and pitched a fine game in defeat.

Bill Shea, Murphy and Bob Morton drove in the Quincy runs.

A week ago Quincy blanked Stoughton, 5-0, behind the one-hit pitching of Murphy. He fanned four, didn't walk a batter and faced the minimum of 21 batters in his best pitching performance of the year.

Three runs in the seventh clinched the game for Quincy.

Quincy pounded out 10 hits including a home run and single by Tim Flynn, a double and single by Joe Marini and two singles each by Mike Orlando and Bob Torino.

Earlier in the week Quincy's hopes of at least the best record among the second place finishers in Zones 6 and 6A and a state tournament berth were ended when it lost to Weymouth, 5-1.

Maria Ciano, Cheryl Hennessey Quincy Track Club Winners

Maria Ciano, defeated only once this summer, and Cheryl Hennessey were the only winners for the Quincy Track Club in last week's ARCO meet at White Stadium, but the local girls placed in many events.

Miss Ciano won the 880 in the 14-15 age group and Miss Hennessey took top honors in the 12-13 high jump.

Other scorers in the 14-15 group were:

Kathy Bennett, second in the 220, 440 and 880; Jill Seamans, third in the 880; Judy Foley, third in the shot put and fifth in the high jump; Linda Robinson, fourth in the shot, long jump and high jump; Rose Marie Wolforth, third in the 440; Kim Broom, fourth in the 440; Donna Stangle, fifth in the high jump and sixth in the long jump; and Debbie McGonagle, fifth in the long jump.

The 440-yard relay team of Misses Ciano, Robinson, Foley and Bennett was second.

Other 12-13 scorers were Miss Seamans, second in the high jump; Miss Ciano, third in the high jump; Joyce Flynn, fourth in the long jump and sixth in the 75-yard dash, and Barbara King, fifth in the long jump.

The 440-yard relay team of Misses Seamans, Flynn, King and Rory Nolan, took second.

In the 16-18 age group Miss Foley was second in the long jump and fourth in the 220 and in the 9-11 group Miss Nolan was fifth in the 100 and long jump.

Another 440-yard relay team of Terry Morrissey, Gertrude McManus, Lynn Walkama and Donna Stangle, was fourth in the 14-15 group.

Several team members took part last night in the Development Meet at Brockton High school including Cathy Ilacqua and Judy Foley in the 100, Misses Ciano, Bennett and Seamans in the 880 and a 440-yard relay team of Misses Ciano, Bennett, Ilacqua and Seamans or Foley.

The club will also participate in a meet Saturday at White Stadium.

Including last week's meet the following hold the QTC records:

Fourteen to 19 age bracket: 75-yard dash, Miss Robinson, 10.5 seconds; 100, Miss Ilacqua, 12.7 seconds; 220, Miss Bennett, 29.9 seconds; 440, Miss Bennett, 1:07; 880, Miss Bennett, 2:45; 3/4 mile, Betsy Witt, 5:28;

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Marlene Dietrich At 65 Readying Night Club Act

After a six-year career lull, acting prospects are perking up for former "77 SUNSET STRIP" television personality EDD BYRNES... On the immediate agenda is a starring role in a British based adventure series which is scheduled to air on the BBC late this fall. And by the first of the year, while still London based, BYRNES will team up with acting stalwarts BETTE DAVIS and ANNE HEYWOOD for the filming of "AN PRESUMED DEAD"... All in all 1971 would have to rate a banner year for the persistent BYRNES who never gave up on himself when acting assignments were far and few between...

And no, ROBERT PRESTON is not retired, though his eight year screen absence may have given his many fans cause to wonder... World famed for "THE MUSIC MAN", PRESTON is back at the old grind as STEVE McQUEEN's co-star in the action western "JUNIOR BONNER"... At an age when many are putting the rocking chair to good use, the very youngish 65 MARLENE DIETRICH is readying a new night club act... She opens up her routine in swinging London in a few months, and then will launch her super extravaganza show in New York City shortly after... PAUL SCOFIELD will next appear in "ANNA KARENINA"

"WILLARD" has met with such favorable viewer response, that the producers are preparing a sequel to it titled "BEN". Will "40 DAYS OF MUSA DAGH" ever reach the screen? Like it was made over five years ago, and how long do we have to wait... KEN RUSSELL's latest sexpicr, "THE DEVILS" was justifiably slapped with an X rating. Maybe they should X rate RUSSELL. Seems he just can't get his brain waves tuned in to the thinking of what a "family" would enjoy seeing... KEENAN WYNN is back in action with the lead in the soon-to-be-released "THE ANIMALS"...

Watch for a wave of CHARLIE CHAPLIN re-releases, which will soon make the wide screen scene in this age of Nostalgiaitis... And wouldn't ALFRED HITCHCOCK's 1936 shocker "SECRET AGENT" have to still rank as one of his finest directing efforts?... VITTORIO GASSMAN makes his behind the camera debut with "WHAT A LIFE". We wish him well. So few actors make good directors... NIKKATSU CORP., one of Japan's biggest motion picture producers, is feeling the world wide recession pinch. Half their employees were asked to "resign"... JOANNA SHIMKUS has been signed to star in "BRAVE NEW WORLD"...

And how's this for throwing money away. Producer DAVID PUTTNAM spent over $7,000 for the services of 200 "tame" rats, the rodents being featured in his upcoming "THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN"... DAVID HEMMINGS makes his bow as a director in "RUNNING SCARED". The film itself is adapted from GREGORY MACDONALD's widely acclaimed novel... MICHELE LEE may not be in demand for motion pictures, but television producers still find her skills alluring. Miss LEE has been signed to co-star in a situation comedy for CBS-TV... TONY FRANCIOSA is in the far reaches of British Columbia filming "AUTUMN OF THE HUNTER".

How they do things in Hollywood dept: SANDY DUNCAN has yet to prove herself an actress, and yet the publicity wheels are churning out can't miss raves about this girl, who up till now has only demonstrated she is fair to middlin' as a television commercial sales gal... Newcomer TOM STERN must have an ORSON WELLES complex. In "CLAY PIGEON" he's "only" the star, director and producer... Wooden, dull, stiff, insincere are just a few of the adjectives that come to mind when I contemplate on JAMES TAYLOR's exhibition in "TWO-LANE BLACKTOP". Someone should clue that boy in - he can't act!... What's CORNEL WILDE up to these days?...

DAVID CANARY, ex of "BONANZA" is playing the nightclub circuit and wowing audiences with his singing rendition. At the moment CANARY has no immediate film plans. But of course, if the right script just happened to come along... Seeing "THE SILVER CHALICE" a second time around only makes one appreciate how far as an actor PAUL NEWMAN has progressed... HARRY GUARDINO is only one solid film script away from being a "neon lite" star... After 30 weeks, "LOVE STORY" is still holding down the number one spot as the moneymaker of the year... And natch! JOHN WAYNE has a winner in "BIG JAKE". Action fans won't want to miss the Dukes latest shootout...

Seeing "THE HELLSTROM CHRONICLE" isn't my idea of having a fun evening... If the Academy of Arts and Sciences ever gets around to giving an award for decency in motion picture production, WALT DISNEY Productions would receive my vote. They are the only studio in film history to cater to wholesome family entertainment... ABRAHAM POLONSKY's "ROMANCE OF A HORSE THIEF" had its world premiere in Minneapolis a few weeks back. If reviews are any indication, POLONSKY has his second hit in a row... Filming of "PORTNOY'S COMPLAINT" has taken that company from turbulent Israel to the peace and calm of Dorset, Vermont...

Powers Proposes Ward 5-Wide Forums

A series of ward-wide forums "to bring government closer to the people" is advocated by Warren Powers, candidate for City Council from Ward 5.

Powers outlined his plan at a meeting of campaign supporters at the home of Michael Mahoney of 228 South Central Ave., Wollaston.

It calls for an open forum by Ward 5 citizens every eight weeks at either the Beechwood

Knoll or Wollaston Schools. Focal point of each meeting would be a report to the people by their City Councillor.

"Many people," said Powers, "take a cynical attitude toward government, viewing it as largely unresponsive to their needs. A forum can change this by allowing periodic discussions on all pertinent issues."

"In this way," he added, "the forum will offer an arena where problems can be met and solutions considered. But above all, it will bring about a more unified and better informed Ward 5."

Harrington Opposes QSD Development Plan

Atty. Dennis E. Harrington, of 339 Hancock St., North Quincy, said today that he is opposed to the present plan to develop Quincy Shore Drive between North and Tirrell Sts.

Harrington, a candidate for the Ward 6 council seat, was publicly recorded in opposition to the development at the July 19th hearing at City Hall. He said:

"The present petition before the city council to construct a nine-story building should be rejected as not in the best interests of the City of Quincy, or of the Quincy Shore residents.

"The proposed plan would place this tower in a neighborhood which is basically two-story residential, thereby changing the character of the area and injuring hundreds of families that have supported Quincy with their tax dollars for many years.

"Further, the proposed construction could be the first of many attempts by developers to cut off the shore line from the residents of Quincy by lining it with high-rise towers."

Vets Land 1,000 Pounds Of Flounder

"Better and better every year" was the accolade for the ninth annual Veterans' Day of the Harvey Salt Water Fishing Club.

The tribute came from Supt. Lawrence McVey of the Soldiers Home at Chelsea.

This year some 40-odd disabled veterans from the Home, ranging up to 81 years of age, were joined by the first three women veterans to become residents, and four wheelchair fishermen from the West Roxbury VA Hospital. Weather uncertainty caused a drop in attendance from the usual 15 wheelchair veterans.

But there was no drop in fishing enthusiasm as nearly 1,000 pounds of flounder were hauled aboard boats by the anglers, later filleted by youngsters at Harvey's Wharf and taken back for a fresh seafood treat at the hospitals.

"A wonderful day - we are 'one of the boys' today," was the comment of a woman veteran, speaking for former Yeoman Agnes McBrien, USNR; Army Nurse Thelma Mueller; and WAF Alma Bloom.

The Soldiers' Home this year opened its doors to women. There are only three residents now, but facilities are available for 13 more.

At the wharf, red, white and blue straw hats contributed by merchants in the recent Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar matched head table decorations where Frank Locke, club president, presided.

A roast beef dinner prepared by Donald Sartori was served by Mildred Splaine and a crew including Rella Morley, Marjorie Wiggins, Lily Splaine, Marjorie Brady, Bea Slocumb, Mary Levangie, Rita Morley, Brenda Allan, along with Mary Timcoe, president; Carol Timcoe and Mary Ann McCormack representing the Houghs Neck Legion Auxiliary.

After dinner speakers were Supt. McVey of the Soldiers' Home, Commissioner of Motor Boats, Thomas Legere; Kenneth Grossman representing Commissioner Arthur Brownell of the State Department of Natural Resources; Curt Renda, West Roxbury VA recreation director; Miss Irma Castleman, Soldiers' Home recreation director.

Department Commander Robert Leo Eng of the American Legion; Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon of the Houghs Neck Post; Howard Willard, retired director of Natural Resources.

Mayor James R. McIntyre was at the wharf early in the morning to greet the veterans.

Boats used during the day, manned by owners who "took the day off" for the big event, included George Igo, Donald Sartori, Jake Hanly, John "Bing" Crosby, Ed Hansen, Fred Leona, John Hallen, Jim Tumulo, Tom Morrell, Charles Patton, Bud Darrow, Bill Doherty.

Carl Lind, Bob Perry, Jack Morris, Bob Bennett, Walter Hurley, Malcolm Chase, Paul Gobeils, Dave Shaw, Frank Crisafulli, Bill Burdon, Richard

Robichaud and Ed Unieski, all organized under direction of Bobby Allan and Gerry Lyons, manager of Harvey's Wharf.

Members of Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club were assisted by the Houghs Neck Legion Post in the day's arrangements.

Takes Senate Oath

Tobin Pledges Revaluation Fight As Top Priority

New state Senator Arthur H. Tobin took office yesterday and said he will continue Quincy's bitter fight against revaluation.

Tobin, sworn in by Governor Sargent as family, friends and colleagues looked on, placed revaluation among his three top legislative priorities.

Tobin told the Quincy Sun: "I will make every effort I can to swing needed votes to our side at the Aug. 25 Constitutional Convention to put the assessment question back on the state election ballot for next year."

"Big industry spent in excess of $45,000 to kill the question on last November's ballot. We want to give the people another opportunity to vote on it and to present the whole story to them."

Tobin's two other priorities: ●Have all communities in the Rte. 123-Rte 3 perimeter share the assessment cost if an MBTA Station is placed in North Braintree.

●Push for passage a bond issue to allow construction of a Community College at Broad Meadows.

Under the present valuation law all property must be assessed at 100 per cent value with no distinction between the types of property.

Opponents such as Tobin and James R. McIntyre whom he succeeds as senator, want communities to be allowed to value properties in three different categories: industrial, commercial and residential.

The valuations would still be at 100 per cent but would be differentiated between income and non-income properties.

The new formula, they contend, would reduce the impact on the homeowner.

"Unless the law is changed," said Tobin, "implementation of the 100 per cent valuation is inevitable."

Mayor McIntyre has been able to stall off implementation for five years through court action.

The proposed Constitution amendment to change the present assessment law has gotten through two readings so far on majority votes.

The vote was 132 in favor.

But the third and vital reading coming up Aug. 25 must have 141 votes—or one more than half of the 240 state representatives and senators.

"It means we have to swing nine votes," Tobin said.

Tobin estimates that if the $10.30 Tax Rate Hike 'Could Have Been Worse'

It could have been worse.

Quincy's real estate tax rate for 1971 will be $142.50, an increase of $10.30 from 1970.

"We had been expecting an increase of $15.," Mayor James R. McIntyre said. "It could have been worse."

On the same day the Quincy rate was being set, Brockton and Cambridge set their new tax rates, he noted. The Brockton increase was $24. over last year, and the Cambridge hike was $23.

School costs account for $56.60, or 54 per cent of the Quincy increase. Some $23.30 will go for the city's debt and interest, and $2. for other city department budgets.

The city's valuation this year increased to $221 million from $210 million last year. This increase in real estate valuation is due to construction of several large apartment buildings in the city and the Jordan Marsh facility in Squantum.

Houghs Neck Couple Envoys To Denmark

Two Mayors from Denmark have been added to the roster of Quincy's honorary citizens.

They are Aage Kjoller, mayor of the island of Bornholm, and Lord Mayor Urban Hansen of Copenhagen.

Presentation of the honorary citizenships conferred by Mayor James R. McIntyre were made by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Trotman, of 89 Babcock St., Houghs Neck, who returned this week from their first trip to Denmark.

They presented McIntyre with a descriptive booklet from Bornholm.

They were accompanied during the four-week stay by Mrs. Trotman's father, George Olsen of Roxbury, and made their headquarters with an uncle, Christian Olsen of Kote, a small town on the mainland south of Copenhagen.

Mr. Trotman is a former president of the Houghs Neck Community Council.

POLLARD CHEER LEADERS — Pollard Playground youngsters, with handmade shakers and their own outfits, include [first row] Jene Dwyer, Debbie Slicis, Terry Mele, Carol Brillo, Jennete Files and Mc'reen Lamey. Second row, Cathy Beniers, Cathy Sarno, Donna Slicis, Laurie Donovan, Cathy Mills, Donna Clark, Terry Mills and Tracy Donovan. Summer playground activities are conducted by the Quincy Recreation Department.

50 Shares Purchased For Quincy Head Start Program

Some 50 shares in the new Quincy Head Start program have already been purchased by interested individuals and firms during the first week of the campaign planned by the Quincy Head Start Policy Council.

Under the plan, shares sold at $5 each will aid in the operation of a year-round Head Start program from September, 1971 to June, 1972, serving approximately 40 children in morning and afternoon sessions.

Classrooms will be located at the Naval Reserve Station on Sea Street.

Funds raised will help to purchase learning material for the classrooms, provide education trips for children, and support programs for parents of the children.

Purchase of the share entitles the holder to three lectures on early childhood, plus progress reports.

Mayor James R. McIntyre heads the list of shareholders. Among others are:

Bruno Salvucci of L. Grossman & Sons; School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr.; Executive director Russell O'Connell of CAP; Marie Saunders, his secretary; Mrs. John Kane of the League of Women Voters.

Miss Mary Lou Glaman, primary teacher at Snug Harbor School; Morrie Hibbard, principal of Lincoln-Hancock Schools; Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home; Atty. Ernest Falbo; Jean Curtis, Title I Parents Coordinator; Ellen Dyer of the Patriot Ledger.

Persons interested may receive further information by calling the Germantown Community Center at 9 Bicknell St., members of the Share Committee, Mrs. Leona Pizzi, Mrs. Mary Ford, Mrs. Martha Clements, Mrs. Elaine McGrail and Mr. Clement O'Brien Jr. of the Welfare Department, or any other member of the Head Start Policy Council.

15-Year Old Student Speaks Out On Mayoralty Candidates

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The election for mayor this year is of great importance to the people of our city, Quincy, in the next two years, will face problems never encountered before. It is important that the citizens of this city vote, and vote correctly, for a man who will best serve in the position of mayor. Mayor McIntyre has yet to announce if he will seek re-election in November. Mayor McIntyre is running out of time.

As of now three men have declared their candidacy for the office of mayor, regardless of what Mayor McIntyre decides to do. Vice Chairman of the School Committee James F. McCormick, Rep. Walter J. Hannon, and Rep. Joseph E. Brett are those announced candidates. The date when nomination papers must be submitted has not yet passed, other potential candidates may still enter the race. Voter's must make the decision and make it wisely on whom they want for mayor.

Up to now, Rep. Brett has kept silent. So much for him. While Mayor McIntyre and Rep. Hannon have lashed out at comments made by James McCormick on dual representation in Quincy and a state wide lottery system. Both the mayor and Rep. Hannon have, by their actions, labeled Mr. McCormick incapable of making comments concerning the city and state. The mayor of this city and a candidate for mayor, Rep. Walter J. Hannon, have each taken cheap shots at the intelligence of James McCormick as basis for their defense against Mr. McCormick's comments.

James McCormick has stated that, "Quincy can no longer afford the luxury of dual representation." I emphasize the words, "can no longer afford". Mr. McCormick did not attack the McIntyre administration or the mayor's service as state senator. Mr. McCormick simply said, by his use of the words can no longer afford, that Quincy in the years ahead must have a full time mayor to serve a growing community with mounting problems. Quincy's mayor of the future must worry about his community's problems and leave the worry of acquiring state and federal assistance for Quincy to others whom the citizens of this city elect to serve them in that particular role. In answering, the Mayor said this of Mr. McCormick, "It is unfortunate, but Jim McCormick just doesn't understand the intimate relationship between state and city government." Mr. McIntyre then defended his six years as mayor and state senator. But the mayor avoided comment on the statement made by Mr. McCormick that Quincy needs a full-time mayor in the years ahead.

Mr. McCormick just recently commented on Rep. Hannon's vote against the state wide lottery system. The state wide lottery system will allow the state to run gambling institutions as a means of raising funds. The use of those funds has not yet been determined. Passing the funds along to cities and towns across the state as a means of reducing the tax rate has not yet been ruled out by legislators at the State House. Furthermore, the lottery system has two sides to it. Not only will it serve as a means of raising funds, but also to fight organized crime and illegal gambling. A lottery system similar to the one proposed for our state has worked successfully in New Jersey. Mr. Hannon voted against the state wide lottery system. Mr. McCormick attacked Rep. Hannon's vote against the lottery system, saying Rep. Hannon "certainly did not vote for the people," and adding that Mr. Hannon "voted on a strictly partisan basis." Rep. Hannon replied by saying, "It's a very sad thing when the vice chairman of the school committee who seeks to be the chief executive officer of the city of Quincy, has once again spoken out on something which he unfortunately knows nothing about," and went on to say, "I suggest that the next time the vice chairman makes a pronouncement that he read the legislation first."

In my opinion Rep. Hannon did not have the best interests of the voters in mind by casting his vote against a state wide lottery system. In defending his actions, Mr. Hannon verbally attacked Mr. McCormick for having "once again spoken out on something which he unfortunately knows nothing about."

All I can say is, I am shocked that two officials, who represent the citizens of this city, must use name calling to defend their positions.

In closing, I welcome comment by both Mayor McIntyre and Rep. Hannon. I also appeal to the voters of this city to judge the candidates running for mayor and vote accordingly.

An 'Excellent, Timely Article' On Civil Defense Programs

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I was pleased to read your excellent article on page 1 of the June 24th issue pertaining to Civil Defense in rebuttal to the inaccurate statements made by the Sharon civil defense director.

The factual statements made by your local director, Edward Roberts, were deeply appreciated by those dedicated local directors which provide service to their communities similar to that which Mr. Roberts renders.

Your excellent and timely

A 'Thank You' From Easter Seal

Editor, Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the Easter Seal Society, may I express appreciation to you and your associates for your generous public service support of our 1971 campaign.

I am pleased to report that up to May 1, the Society received contributions totaling $312,000 from nearly 100,000 persons concerned about the rehabilitation of crippled children and adults in Massachusetts.

The goal of the mail appeal is $325,000. We are optimistic of reaching this amount before the books are closed. Experience shows that when a campaign such as this has the interest and support of the media—that its chances for success are greatly enhanced.

The gratifying response to our appeal means that the Society can broaden and intensify its various rehabilitation programs and in turn help more of our physically disabled citizens.

Thank you for your part in this.

Arthur Tobin's victory in the special election for the Norfolk District senate seat was a resounding one. You can't talk down a 2-1 margin.

But neither can you overlook the run for the seat made by Atty. Richard Rogalin, political newcomer who got into the fray as an 11th hour Republican primary write-in candidate.

In the short time he had to work, he put on a strong campaign and was cutting into Tobin's lead.

Local Republicans are taking heart in the showing of Rogalin. Some think considerable credit should go to Thomas Blacklock, the new Quincy GOP City Committee chairman who helped plan Rogalin's campaign and put a lot of get-up-and-go into it along with some other Quincy Republicans.

As one Republican summed it up: "They've been saying the Republican party is dead. This shows that we are very much alive. All we have to do is work together."

At last report, young Rogalin was looking ahead to next year and maybe another shot at the senate seat.

ONE OF THE first congratulatory telephone calls to Tobin the morning after the election came from a Republican-Gov. Sargent himself.

Tobin's wife, Shirley, happened to answer the phone and was quite "pleased and thrilled" to hear the Governor's voice on the other end of the line.

"You just don't expect to pick up the phone and have the Governor talking with you," Shirley smiled. "Regardless of whether you are a Democrat or a Republican, it really impresses you."

ANOTHER SPECIAL ELECTION, this one to fill Tobin's state representative seat, is expected to be called in December.

Rumor out of Washington is that young Paul Harold, working this summer on the staff of Congressman James A. Burke, will make a bid for the seat.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Harold of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, he is a graduate of U-Mass and is now a second year student at Suffolk Law School.

He's been quite active in political circles in Quincy and elsewhere. Worked for Senator McCarthy in the Indiana primary, Congressman Lowenstein in Long Island and coordinated Senator Kennedy's Ward 19, Boston campaign last November.

CITY COUNCILLOR Vincent Smyth, campaigning for re-election in Ward 6, is doing a good deed, too, as he knocks on doors.

Smyth has obtained 2,000 or 3,000 flyers alerting youngsters to the dangers of the third rail on the MBTA Quincy line.

At each home where there are children, he leaves one of the flyers.

MAYOR McIntyre has a new title: Admiral, in The Great Navy of the State of Nebraska. The honor was bestowed upon His Honor by Gov. James Exon. [The Nebraska fleet must sail in cornfields].

INCIDENTALLY, the report here that McIntyre may run for the School Committee if he bows out as mayor isn't far-fetched. Those close to him say he's giving the idea "very serious consideration."

But don't believe the latest rumor that he may run for city council at-large instead.

OBSERVATION: "A wise parent," says Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist, "lets a child who tosses a tantrum catch it."

SPECTATORS at the City Council sessions can now watch the show in comfort. Old but still good seats from the Point Junior High School auditorium have been installed in the council chamber. They were purchased some years ago at a bargain price. The school is getting new seats.

TOOTING-OWN-HORN DEPT: Appointment last week of Ward 3 Councillor John F. Koegler as Director of Forestry, shouldn't have come as any surprise to readers of this column.

Item here April 22: "Ward 3 Councillor John Koegler reportedly has the strong inside track on the newly created city forestry director post." [Toot! Toot!]

(T) Party Sept.1 For Quincy MBTA Line Opening

The MBTA will hold a [T] party Sept. 1 at Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy Stations to mark opening of the Quincy line.

Hosts will be Henry S. Lodge, MBTA Board of Directors' Chairman; Georgina Hossfeld, Miss Massachusetts 1970; and General Manager Joseph C. Kelly.

"The South Shore rapid transit extension is the showpiece of the MBTA's Capital Improvements Program," said Lodge.

"The opening of the South Shore Extension of the Red Line to North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center on Sept. 1, 1971, marks the completion of the initial phase of the planned construction of a high speed, rail transit line to Braintree and to Weymouth or Holbrook to fill the transportation needs of one of the fastest growing regions in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

The South Shore Extension is the first line to be built and put in operation under the 1964 Urban Mass Transportation Act, according to Kelly, who urges everyone to stop off soon for their first look at the new look in transit.

Graham Seeks Acquisition Of 15 Marshland Acres In Houghs Neck

City Councillor Edward S. Graham today urged Mayor James R. McIntyre to execute as soon as possible, the agreement for acquisition of 15 acres of marshland off Rockland St., so it can be acquired by the city under the Open Space Program.

If the City purchases this property, Graham said, it will be preserved and protected from encroachment by developers.

Graham pointed out that this grant was approved by the federal government for 50 per cent of the cost and one-quarter of the cost percentage can be paid for by the State under the Open Space Program.

This means that the City would only have to pay one-quarter of the cost of this conservation acquisition, he said.

"The purchase of this parcel of land is important to our area of the city, so that we may have this beautiful marshland for our young children and for future generations in Quincy," Graham said.

"I hope that all the residents of the city will fully support the Mayor in this conservation purchase."

Tobin Pledges Revaluation Fight

present law is allowed to stand and Quincy is forced to implement revaluation, Quincy homeowners will face a minimum $250-plus tax bill hike.

Tobin said the new Community College which would replace the present Quincy Junior College would be a tremendous benefit to young people in the South Shore area.

Because it will be a state institution, tuition would be around $200 a year compared to the $600 to $700 fee at the junior college, he noted.

Commenting on the controversial North Braintree MBTA station, Tobin said:

"We don't know if it will become a reality or not, but in case it does, I would like to take a preventive measure.

"I believe it is totally unfair to residents of Braintree to be assessed for the station that will be used by commuters from other communities.

"I will file legislation to change the assessment costs so that other communities using the station will share in that assessment."

Tobin was sworn in by Governor Sargent at a session of the Governor's Council.

It was a "family affair".

Looking proudly on were Tobin's wife, Shirley; their seven children, Stephen, 15, Mark, 13, Kelly-Ann, 12, Tracey Elizabeth, 11, twins Bruce and Brian, 8, Matthew, 6; his father, George; brothers Timothy and Robert and sisters Mrs. Virginia Sandomato and Mrs. Carl McKay.

Other invited guests included Mayor James R. McIntyre, whom he succeeds as Senator; Mrs. McIntyre, Rev. Bedros Baharian, Rev. Peter Corea, Rabbi Jacob Mann, city councillors and state representatives.

"I'm elated to say the 'last,' commented Tobin. "I am grateful to the people of Quincy, Braintree and Holbrook who supported me.

"I have quite a job ahead of me to equal the distinguished service of my predecessor, Jim McIntyre. I will do the best I can.

Tobin, Rogalin Exchange Election Congratulations

Both winner and loser exchanged congratulations and best wishes after the special Senate election last week.

Arthur H. Tobin, Quincy Democrat, and Atty. Richard Rogalin, Braintree Republican whom he defeated by a 2-1 margin, wound it up on a friendly note.

"I received a nice call from Dick Rogalin that night wishing me and my family well," Tobin revealed. "The next morning he sent me a congratulations card. I thought he was very gracious."

Tobin said he congratulated Rogalin on a good campaign and told him he would be happy to sit down with him and discuss any legislative suggestions he might have that would benefit the area.

The total vote for Tobin in Quincy, Braintree and Holbrook was 7,393.

In Quincy he received 6,342 votes, in Braintree, 758 and in Holbrook, 293.

Rogalin's total was 3,727. He received 1,441 votes in Braintree, 2,168 in Quincy, and 118 in Holbrook.

Over 200 Youngsters To Be Guests At Outing

More than 200 youngsters will take part in an outing Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Pageant Field, guests of the Quincy Police Betterment Association and the South Shore Association for Retarded Children.

Children are from the Happy Acres Camp program of the Quincy Recreation Department, and from the programs sponsored by the Milton, Braintree and Weymouth Recreation Departments.

There will be a clown, a folk band, and picnic refreshments of hot dogs, ice cream, etc.

Coordinators of the outing are Det. William Donnelly of the Quincy Police Department and Arnold Rinkofsky, recreation director of the South Shore Association for Retarded Children. Assisting are Carmen DiRamio, president, and Paul Reardon, treasurer, of the Quincy Police Betterment Association.

Johnson Will Not Attend MBTA Opening Ceremonies

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson will not be in Quincy for inaugural ceremonies of the MBTA on Sept. 1.

Replying to Mayor James R. McIntyre's invitation, Mary Rather, Johnson's secretary, wrote:

"As much as he knows he would enjoy a visit to Quincy and the opportunity to be with you for the ceremonies, the Johnsons expect to have guests at the Ranch that day, and he must decline. Please be assured that this makes him no less grateful for your kindness."

McIntyre invited Johnson to attend the ceremonies since the initial grant for the rapid transit extension of the MBTA was granted under his administration as president.

Health High-Lights

OUR SENIOR CITIZENS

It's important for senior citizens to have reliable and understanding medical care from a doctor who knows their medical history. It is also important that they have their own personal pharmacy where they obtain all of their prescriptions and health needs. In such a situation many medical problems can be handled quickly by a telephone call to a doctor who knows their medical history and the pharmacist - both of whom are familiar with the patient and his medication.

Many of the elderly folks who get their pharmacy needs from us often comment on the careful and friendly attention we give them. They appreciate the helpful assistance we have provided in solving their Medicare problems and record-keeping. We know that medical expenses can add up quickly for Senior Citizens and they are entitled to all the help we can provide. We value your good will.

 Money is meaningless without good health. Blessedness

It was during my vacation
That I decided to take a walk.
And while I was strolling along,
I gazed at a huge red building
- "Nestled" in beautiful surroundings.

At first I thought it was a summer hotel.
But as I got closer to the grounds,
Groups of scattered people-young and old,
Attracted my attention, only
To find lost souls...blank faces and expressions.

Then, it lead me to "think",
Could it be a Hospital--
For sick minds and souls?

To free myself of any doubts
I raised my eyes to see the sign,

And sure enough, I needed no other proof!

Oh, Lord, forgive me when I complain,

I have a brain and a mind;
Need I ask for more...?
Anna T. Anderson, Quincy

Why I Love You

Why do I dream of you so much.

It's because I love you
Why do I thrill to your very touch,
It's because I love you.

When things look dull and you feel blue,
When skies are gray and cloudy too
Keep smiling and remember that I love you.

Though it seems it was just a dream
That we met and lived a lifetime.

Intwo short weeks of heavenly bliss

Then saying, "Goodbye" with our parting kiss.

Though we will part but for a while

We'll meet again, so darling,
"smile".

The way you looked, the way you laughed;
The boyish way you'd grin.
And when we'd meet the way
we'd greet,
Filled me from within.

Oh, how I long to feel again
The tenderness of your embrace.

To feel your touch, to hear your voice,

To see that smile upon your face.

Though loneliness possess us
There is nothing we can do
But wait, and hope, and pray,
That soon our dreams will come true.

If it was but just a dream
Then never let me wake.
I'll be content just to be near Never ceasing to say, "I love you dear."

Roseann Richards, Quincy

One-Pot Dinner Idea For Summer

Interested in a new one-pot dinner with loads of appetite appeal? It's just the thing for a warm summer night. The Kraft Kitchens have developed an easy-to-prepare recipe that utilizes the spicy flavor of Spaghetti Sauce Mix to make a baked bean and frankfurter casserole into something very different and interesting. The flavor of process cheese spread adds another good flavor and makes a good milk-nutrition contribution as well. Prepares quickly for serving indoors or out on the patio.
Serve with Ship Ahoy Salad, and you'll make a "cool" evening out of any warm summer night.

Deck Dinner

2 1-lb. 2-oz. jars/baked thirds beans 1/4 cup water
1 pkg. Kraft Spaghetti 1/2 lb. Velveeta Pasturized Sauce Mix Process Cheese Spread,
1 lb. frankfurters, cut in sliced

In a saucepan or skillet, combine beans, sauce mix, frankfurters and water. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until heated. Top mixture with cheese slices; cover and heat until cheese melts. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Ship Ahoy Salad

1/2 small head of lettuce 1/2 cup onion rings
1 12-oz. can whole kernel 1/4 cup sliced ripe olives corn, drained 1/4 cup Kraft Italian
1 cup sliced celery Dressing
1 cup diced tomato 1/4 cup Kraft Grated
1/2 cup chopped green Parmesan Cheese pepper

Cut lettuce into 2-inch chunks. Add remaining ingredients except cheese; toss lightly. Mix in cheese; chill. Carry to outing in disposable containers. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER PEASANTRY—Cotton patchwork prints trimmed with no-iron cotton rick rack take on true peasant flavor. Wright's jumbo rick rack borders off the patches in the print of the mother's skirt, while medium size is used in the little girl's skirt. The look is completed with cotton peasant blouses edged in matching rick rack.
Simplicity Patterns 9022 and 8208 are used for the mother's outfit, while daughter's is made from Simplicity 9091.

No one loves a fat

Obesity is one sign of self-hate

So you agonize with your

You can help, though. But not nagging. By not making

●Along The Campaign Trail

Davis Proposes High School Campus Voter Registration

Harold Davis of 1390 Quincy Shore Drive, Merrymount, a candidate for the Quincy School Committee, advocates voter registration of high school students at the respective high schools in Quincy.

Speaking at a dinner party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of 29 Hobomack Rd., Merrymount, Davis said that as long as the United States Constitution has been amended to permit 18-year olds to vote in all elections, voter registration should be made as easy as possible in order to involve all citizens in the elective process.

"The School Committee should request the Board of Registrars to provide for registration of eligible students at the high schools at least twice a year. I think this would be an excellent way to make the social studies and citizenship courses more meaningful to the student."

Davis pointed out that California already had registered more than 25% of its 18, 19 and 20 year olds. Preliminary statistics in Massachusetts indicate considerably less success than California.

"Campus voter registration would, I believe, help lessen the feeling of alienation and helplessness found in some of the students."

Gregory F. Galvin Seeks School Committee Seat

Equitable teacher salaries are needed to maintain the high quality of education in Quincy, said Atty. Gregory F. Galvin, 30, of 54 Wedgewood St., Squantum in announcing his candidacy for School Committee today.

However, realizing the burden any increase will place on the taxpayer, Galvin backs recommendations of the fact-finder.

He said he hopes also to discuss with citizens of Quincy during his campaign the needs in the field of pupil guidance, and revision of the curriculum of Quincy Vocational-Technical High School.

Galvin, a resident for 20 years, graduated from Quincy Schools. He holds a bachelor of science degree in education from Curry College and a doctor of jurisprudence degree from New England School of Law. An active member of the Norfolk County and Massachusetts Bar Associations, he is trial counsel with the firm of Segalini and Burke.

He is married to the former Joan Bastey of Squantum and they have two children.

LaPointe Says Council Must Initiate New Tax Solutions

Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe, candidate for the Ward 3 City Council post, predicted last night that property taxes will continue to rise in Quincy as they have risen in the last few years unless the City Council is able to initiate new ideas and solutions to the problems of city government.

"No elected councillor can really see the people of his ward by not concerning himself with city-wide issues," LaPointe said.

"Both the property owner and those who rent property are affected directly by the property tax rate. Quincy, with limited open space remaining, is in danger of becoming a totally urbanized city unless innovative proposals are made by elected officials to preserve Quincy as a suburban area.

"Quincy Square must be revitalized. All possible sources of additional tax revenue must be explored. In the past few years, a great deal of real estate has become vacant and the taxpayers of Quincy can ill afford any lowering of the tax base.

"The city government must work closely with the state and federal governments to take advantage of all programs which will benefit our city. However, if municipal governments are to survive mass urbanization and its consequent ills, the elected officials must be prepared to meet the challenge through personal effort.

"If elected City Councillor in Ward 3, I will not only work diligently on local ward problems, but I intend to be a strong voice on all issues which affect any part of our city."

Powers Urges Support For Drug Education

Warren Powers, candidate for the Ward 5 City Council seat, said today that "continued support is needed for the drug education program in order to provide the latest up-to-date equipment and information to the youth of Quincy."

He further noted: "The Massachusetts Drug Advisory Council, Inc., has helped in this regard through continued work in soliciting funds from private industry and thereby saving the taxpayers' money."

Since founding the Massachusetts Drug Advisory Council, Inc., a non-profit organization, Powers said he has continued his drive to obtain funds from sources other than the local homeowner.

Powers said that the local taxpayer has a backbreaking load on his shoulder now, and "we are exploring every source of revenue possible, in order to relieve this burden."

Powers also reiterated his strong conviction that prevention through education and guidance is the most effective way of dealing with the drug problem today.

Harrington Would Back Youth, Young Adult Programs

Atty. Dennis E. Harrington, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, said today he intends to promote and sponsor meaningful and relevant programs for Quincy youth and young adults.

At present, he said, he is spending many hours with young people and parents, assessing their needs and formulating principle ideas.

The basic need, Harrington believes is to establish local youth centers with recreational and social programs. This he contends, will bring the youth from the street corner and away from drugs, delinquency and conflicts with adults and police.

Harrington contends that all segments of Quincy population will benefit from having youth centers. Drug Abuse, he said, is increasing rapidly. The rising cost to taxpayers for police protection, the costs of insurance, losses through vandalism, and the skyrocketing increase in housebreaks are all directly affected by drugs.

Harrington said he believes that not only will taxpayers benefit from a decrease in crime, but that the funds needed for local youth centers are available and can be obtained from the federal government through the Law Enforcement Advisory Administration.

Receptions Planned For Miss Muriel Goudey

A reception, an open house, and a coffee hour are being planned for early September on successive weeks before the primaries in the interest of Miss Muriel Jean Goudey, candidate for the school committee.

Mrs. Carlton P. Chandler of 277 Harvard St., Wollaston, Mrs. Rudolf O. Oberg of 37 Walker St., North Quincy, and Mrs. Moses Entin of 37 Woodward Ave., Quincy Center are opening their homes to friends and neighbors who may not have met Miss Goudey during her 43 years as teacher and 10 as head of the Quincy High School English Department.

Opportunity at morning, afternoon, or evening groups will be extended to parents and friends to make known school policy concerns to the candidate, and to hear mature experience meet the challenge of change for the future.

Joseph R. Harold At

DAV National Convention

State Adjutant Joseph R. Harold of the Department of Massachusetts Disabled American Veterans is attending the National Convention at Detroit, Mich. which closes Aug. 14.

A resident of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, Harold is assisting State Commander John P. McGilloway of Braintree in directing the drive of Massachusetts delegates to elect Rev. Carl E. Bergstrom, chaplain of the Jamaica Plain VA Hospital, as National Chaplain.

'Creation Day Camp' To Open Monday At St. Chrysostom's Church

"Creation and Ecology" is the theme of the two-week "Creation Day Camp" opening Monday at St. Chrysostom's Church, 1 Linden St., Wollaston. Morning sessions from 9 to 11:30 a.m. are open to children from age five through sixth grade in a non-denominational program.

Its purpose is to help youngsters become aware of the ways in which society is polluting the natural world and to suggest ways of doing something about it.

"Doing something about it," according to Rev. Michael McCann, new curate at the church, includes field trips each Tuesday to Squantum Hummock where the campers will do a little "cleaning up". Also, ecology films from the government will be shown.

Pleasure trips are scheduled for Thursdays, the first to the Trailside Museum in Canton, Aug. 19 there will be a tour of the Drummond Farm in Lincoln, a special program on ecology and a picnic. Janice Williams is director. Among the teachers are Lois Woolsey, Dorothy Weikel, Mildred Richards, Nancy Laing and Marjorie McBirnie, with assistants.

Jeff Bonish will play the guitar and be a song leader, also accompanying the group on some of the trips.

Rev. McCann will lead a short introductory service each morning.

'Spirit' Lesson-Sermon At Christian Science Church

"Spirit" is the lesson-sermon Aug. 8 at the 10 a.m. service, First Church of Christ, Scientist, at 20 Greenleaf St.

"What does spiritual baptism mean in today's world?" is a question to be explored in the service.

"If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit" is one of the Scriptural passages to be read. A related passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker

Eddy states:

"The baptism of Spirit, washing the body of all the impurities of flesh, signifies that the pure in heart see God and are approaching spiritual Life and its demonstration."

'The Woman Hating Man'

Most men are afraid of women. What we fear we hate...are hostile to...resentful of. The signs of this fear are manifold. It shows when a man makes fun of a woman driver...ignores a woman cop...shows no courtesies in a shopping situation...is surly and withdrawn with his wife. Most male anger against women is vented against wives...who catch the full force of a man's resentment...trigger his criticisms and ugly behavior [too often violent]. But for the real woman-hater the present wife is not usually the cause.

What is the cause?...What causes men to hate...mistreat...disrespect women? Generalizations are often too simple...but in a large percent of men the cause is an inadequate mother relationship. There is no good substitute for a mother's love...a warm...loving woman whose hands mean comfort to the baby boy...whose care means acceptance by the growing boy...whose words of encouragement...praise...bring manly pride and self-respect to the teenage boy. The sad truth is that motherhood is an ideal which often falls far short of the "cradle of love" a boy needs.

Many mothers dominate their children with continual badgering...scolding...punishing that limits growth and self-confidence. She screams cautions that show her own fears. Sooner or later the boy victim of this kind of mother either rebels [the healthier reaction] or...surrenders to the dictates of the mother who has emasculated him. This kind of mother plants the seeds of woman hating in her son.

Then...there are mothers whose overindulgence is "sickening"...to a boy. This mother is usually an unhappily married woman...so she lavishes all her "love" on her son...[worse if only one son]. He may become a sissy...a mama's boy...and other boys make fun of him. If it were true love for a son it would have some redeeming factors...because true love is constructive...not destructive. But...a mother's indulgence makes a boy weak...makes him unable to stand on his own feet...unable to stand up to the realities of life...unable to love a woman.

Here's the mother who is a real neurotic woman...filled with anxiety...and depression...is oversolicitous of her children...a boy and a girl...now grown. She domineered their father...gave everything...and required nothing of the children...not even that they respect their father. She didn't. The result today is that the son...though a college graduate...divorced twice...can't hold a job...drinks excessively...hates all women.

But I think inadequate fathers are responsible for as many women hating men. Unfortunate is the boy who has no father...a drinking father...an absentee father...a weak father...a father who hasn't been the head of his family. This kind is as bad as the hard...tyrannical father...who expresses no feeling...who shows no affection for their mother...or the children. These fathers are poor models for a boy. If a father degrades his mother...the boy may degrade all women in his mind...and later in his relationships. There is no substitute for good strong fathers.

A man doesn't have to go on and on suspicious...mistrusting...hating and using women. Maybe what he needs is just to find one woman who knows and uses her true power as a woman...who can really feed a man's soul as well as his belly. Unless he's "too far gone"...she can undo all the damage his mother...and all other women have done to him.

That's how much I believe in the magnetic power of a warm loving woman.

'What Our Flag Means To Me'

It Means One Word - - Freedom

[Editor's Note: This is another prize winning essay in the contest "What Our Flag Means To Me" contest sponsored by the Houghs Neck Legion Post.

It was written by William Ross, a fifth grade student at Nathaniel S. Hunting School, Adams Shore.

Other winning essays will also appear in the Quincy Sun.

By WILLIAM ROSS
Nathaniel Hunting School

Our flag means to me only one word and that word is freedom, which was brought into all of our lives by very brave and courageous men and women who fought and died for this country. They fought in eight different wars so they could have in their hearts and our hearts freedom and liberty.

Great men and leaders like George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Herbert Hoover, Dwight Eisenhower were all leaders of our men. So many men longed for freedom that they were willing to give up their lives for it.

Most people don't realize how lucky they are to live in this country called the United States of America. We should all be proud of that name. We live in the greatest country in the world. If our history hadn't been like it was I would not be here to write this paper. There is one thing we should all be willing to be and this is a good citizen.

Practically the worst thing you could do to our country is to treat our flag in the wrong way. There are two different ways of burning our flag, they are, burning it when it is old and torn and burning it for fun or just because we feel like it. If you burn it for fun you are showing that you have no respect for the freedom men died for.

In some other countries, the government tells you what you are going to be, where you are going to for education and they don't give you the freedom we have in America. You and I should be very proud of this country for you and I have freedom, liberty and independence which so many people, men and women, died for.

Nathan Hale, a great example of some of our men, really devoted his life to America. With his last words being "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country". Nathan Hale was truly one of the greatest men in all history.

In the Revolutionary War, the Americans would not accept defeat and fought until they won. In the Civil War brothers sometimes fought against brothers. It only mattered if you were on the North or South. Then came the World Wars and now the Vietnamese Conflict.

We all have great pride in our country and we are willing to fight for freedom here in the United States and even in other countries. But the big question is will the wars here in our country and all over the world ever come to an end?

There is one thing but I know and that is that our country will always have freedom, liberty and independence in her. And that is what our great, great flag means to me.

On The Screen

By
Vincent Puleo

Tony Conigliaro The Actor?

Walking through the Yellow Pages isn't what it used to be. The obscene phone caller is the subject of a feature length motion picture titled coincidentally enough, "THE TELEPHONE BOOK". And yes, this Rosebud Film release is an X-rater for sure... "THE GODFATHER", originally scheduled for release this Christmas, will not be on the market until sometime next April. The producers feel they have a heavy hitter on their hands, and don't want to spoil production by rushing... By all accounts "SUMMER OF 42" has proven to be the surprise sizzler of the summer of 71. A must see film for the avid buff...

JO ANN PFLUG is the second "LAUGH-IN" charmer to co-star opposite English funnyman PETER SELLERS. Miss PFLUG has just signed a contract for "WHERE DOES IT HURT?"... For some strange reason, name stars like having their films premiered in out of the way Midwestern states. PETER FONDA elected Des Moines, Iowa as the site a few weeks back for the initial screening of "THE HIRED HAND"... GEORGE HAMILTON makes an image about face with his "EVEL KNEIVEL" bonanza. Just another pretty face he ain't, as he so forcefully demonstrates with his best performance to date. Now that HAMILTON's "arrived" we look forward to many more in depth character portrayals...

To give you some idea of the theatrical pooh paking which MICK JAGGER commands, the Olympia Theatre in N.Y.C. is scheduling a "revival" showing of the Rock stomper films. Which makes no sense to me... To date JAGGER has made three, four movies at most. This minuscule amount of work doesn't require a retrospective look see. Then there is the question of his competency as an actor... A second coming of OLIVIER he isn't. For that matter, JAGGER would rate a poor second to LASSIE... A JAGGER Film Festival? Ridiculous!... But then again, isn't this the era of the theatrical put-on?...

Hasn't JAMES COBURN's box office appeal slipped a notch or two of late? If he doesn't get a winner soon, he may find himself taking second billing to other more productive thespians... And while on the subject of second billing, how do you figure ROBERT VAUGHN's name appearing below that of TELLY SAVALAS in "CLAY PIGEON"?... Are films in JANE WYMAN's immediate plans?... RAF VALLONE returns to the screen in "OVERKILL". And we wish him well. His last good performance was in "PHRAEDRA"... Silent screen star COLEEN MOORE made the rounds at the recent San Sebastian Film Festival...

This year's Edinburgh International Film Festival will pay homage to celebrated Italian director BERNARDO BERTOLUCCI... Director HENRY HATHAWAY thinks very little of "CARNAL KNOWLEDGE". He feels the MIKE NICHOLS production is "pure pornography, full of obscene language, and scatological swearing"... And to that I say Amen... For those wondering what NICOL WILLIAMSON is up to these days, he just returned from Israel where he completed "JERUSALEM JERUSALEM"... Speculation has it that former baseball player TONY CONIGLIARO will turn to acting as a full time career... JIM BROWN's hiatus from the screen is not due to lack of scripts. Rather, he doesn't want to suffer the consequences of overexposure...

You're no Hippie if you can remember the BUCK JONES and TIM MCCOY westerns churned out by Columbia Studios away back when. And how about BUSTER CRABBE in the weekly space serials that were so popular a way to laze away a Saturday afternoon... Singer BOBBY SHERMAN has the acting itch. The current "teeny bopper" heartthrob has his agent hunting high and low for the right vehicle from which he plans to launch a full time film career... When [and if] is ELVIS PRESLEY going to make a movie? Except for his autobiographical picture of a few months back, the King of mid-fifty Rock has been playing hide and seek with the camera...

After a 10 year European exile, GUY MADISON is planning an American comeback... The recent TRICIA NIXON-EDWARD COX wedding is the subject of a not so genteel spoof by the COCKETTES, a San Francisco based theatre troupe of transvestites. And for the curious the title of this one is "TRICIA'S WEDDING". What else?... Everybody seems to be getting in on the directing "kick". Italian sex symbol GINA LOLLOBRIGIDA will make her bow this October with a film to be lensed in Mexico... Which makes me wonder how this temperamental spitfire will relate to the actors once she is in command...

"THE ANDERSON TAPES" is starting to shape up as one of five blockbusters of '71... SEAN CONNERY's next motion picture is the soon-to-be-released "THE RED TENT". Giving him ample support in this action thriller are CLAUDIA CARDINALE, HARDY KRUGER, and PETER FINCH in a special guest slot... "SACCO AND VANZETTI" will premiere in New York in October... JOSEPH E. LEVINE receives my vote as the most innovatively dynamic film producer of the past decade. He stands head and shoulders above his nearest competition, and would give even the late great HARRY COHN fits trying to keep pace with his portfolio of artistic triumphs...

Wins 17th Title

Morrisette Meets Arlington In Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team failed to win the Zone 6 championship last year for the first time in several years but this year the team won its 17th championship since the post inaugurated baseball in 1945.

Ray Cattaneo, the third Morrisette coach to win the zone title, will lead his team against Arlington in the opening round of the state playoffs starting Saturday.

The teams will play at Arlington Saturday at 2 p.m., will meet at Adams Field in Quincy Sunday at 2 p.m. and a toss of a coin before Saturday's game will determine the site of Monday's third game, if necessary.

Morrisette clinched the championship last week with a 13-0 blitzing of Randolph, giving it a fine 15-2 record. The final regularly scheduled game with Quincy was rained out and it was hoped to play it last Tuesday.

Morrisette began its baseball program in 1945 with Pryor Hall coaching the first two years. Nick Malvesti, present post athletic officer and Hall's assistant, took over in 1947 and during his 16-year tenure as coach won 11 zone championships. Connie Carozzi won five titles in his seven years and now Cattaneo has won in his second year as coach.

Malvesti took some of this teams to the state finals and three years ago Carozzi led his team into the finals before bowing to West Springfield.

This year's team featured all the ingredients of a championship club, strong pitching, potent hitting and fine defense and all three were in evidence in the title-clinching romp at Randolph.

Mike Marvelle pitched a three-hitter while striking out six and walking five and his mates scored in every inning except the second and featured a six-run third.

Joe Marani had two hits, Peter Lucier a home run, Dave Nelson a triple and Russ MacDonald a double to spark the winning attack. And in the field the Quincy club was great.

"This is a great group of boys to work with," Cattaneo, a former Morrisette star himself, said. "They work well together and it seems someone different sparkles in each game. We are not going to do anything different in the playoffs and we'll just play the same way we've been all season."

Pitching has been a strong point all year long and Cattaneo credits his pitching coach, Bill Corcoran, another ex-Morrisette star. "He has done a marvelous job with our pitchers this year," Ray lauded.

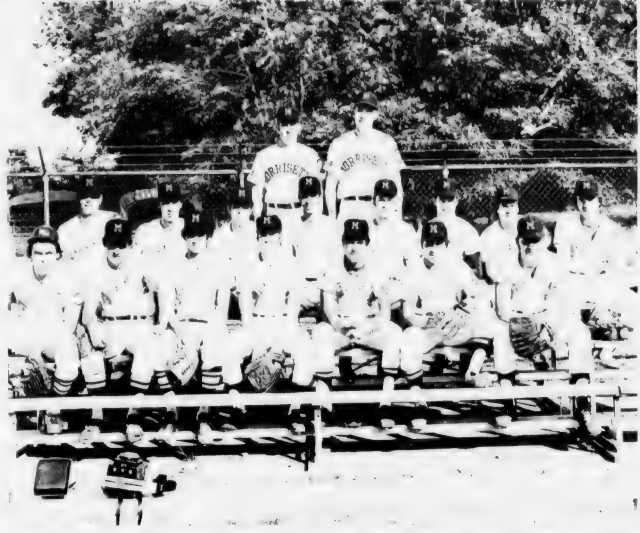

There is one big question mark, however, as the playoffs come up.

Jimmy Walker, brilliant southpaw who won his first five games before losing a heartbreaker in his next start, came up with a bad arm late in the season and at edition time was still a question mark. He has been taking regular treatments and it was hoped he would be ready for the playoffs.

"Our pitching has been strong but we don't have great depth and if Jimmy isn't ready, we could be in trouble," Malvesti said.

Walker has a 5-1 record, Tony Knasas, another fine southpaw, is 6-1, Marvelle, regular right fielder, 2-0, and Lennie Pepe, 2-0.

"If Walker's arm continues to give him trouble, I may try Lucier, who has a strong arm," Cattaneo said. "We can use a right-hander but I won't bother if Walker comes along and can pitch."

Cattaneo has a well-balanced lineup with one of the best catchers in Zone 6 in Dave Nelson, a fine batter and possessor of a strong arm.

The infield is top notch with Jim Driscoll at first, Russ MacDonald or Artie Boyle second, Marani short and Lucier third. Kevin Ryan, who has been playing in left field, is also an outstanding third baseman and shortstop, where he played at Quincy High.

Tom Burke is a slugging center fielder and Marvelle a good hitting right fielder. With Marvelle pitching, Cattaneo has used MacDonald in right and Boyle at second.

Connie Driscoll is another fine infielder and Bobby Malvesti and Dom D'Olimpio are excellent outfielders.

Many of the players, especially Lucier, Jim Driscoll, Burke, Nelson, Connie Driscoll and Walker are long ball hitters and Morrisette has had a large number of home runs this year.

Cattaneo lost one of his most versatile players in Steve Sullivan, a fine pitcher-out-fielder-first baseman.

He has received a full four-year football scholarship to Miami University and was told to play no baseball this year. However, for some reason, he is being allowed to play football Saturday night in the annual Harry Agganis Scholarship game in Lynn.

Also dropping out during the year were Paul Whelton, a fine right-handed pitcher, and shortstop John Alberti.

Only Three Quincy Golfers Survive CYO Medal Play

Quincy's golfers fared poorly in last week's CYO tournament, which drew a record number of entries at Ponkapoag.

Only three survived medal play and one, Bryan Morrissey, was ousted in the first round of match play in the Cadet division by Greg Phillips of Brookline.

In the Senior division Dick Starziak, runner-up in the tourney a year ago, won his first round match over Steve Chiavaroli of Milton but lost in the second round to Gene Manley of Tewksbury.

Tim O'Leary won his first round match in the Junior division over Don Swanbeck of Franklin but bowed out in the second round at the hands of Al Dikmak of Wellesley.

Quincy Closes With 10-7 Slate

The Quincy Legion baseball team assured itself of its best season in several years when it defeated Milton, 10-6, last week, but Doug Fleming's players will be only spectators when the state playoffs begin this week.

The win over Milton gave Quincy a 10-7 record with only the finale against Zone 6 champion Morrisette left. This game was rained out last week and it was hoped it would be played last Tuesday.

Fleming, with his first winning season in his four years as coach, admitted it was a frustrating season.

"We started off very well and it looked for a while as though we could make at least second place with the best record in Zones 6 and 6A and make the state playoffs, but we had a lot of bad luck over the second half of the season," he said. "These kids were great and it was a pleasure to coach them and I only wish they could have made the playoffs. We had good pitching and batting and in most games good fielding. We lost some real tough games."

In the 10-6 win over Milton, Quincy pounded out 11 hits. Jack Flaherty, Tim Flynn, Bob Morton and Bob Torino had two hits each, one of Flynn's being a double and Joe Marini had a triple.

Dave Murphy, Bob Brill and Bob Driscoll did the pitching for Quincy.

Ginny McCann, Mario Serafini Mixed Scotch Foursome Winners

Furnace Brook Golf Club's mixed Scotch Foursome this week was won by Ginny McCann and Mario Serafini with a low game of 36.

Mildred Borrie and Denny Morrisette had low net. Tied for second net were Rana Roche and Matt Smith, Mimi DeFederico and Tom Mulroy, while Joyce Robbins and John Donovan had third net.

Jerry Kusser and Quentin McCaffrey took fourth net, while tied for fifth net were Helene McPeck and George Flate, Dorothy Smith and George Hodges.

In the Women's Tuesday Tournament, Mimi DeFederico had a gross of 46, Ellie Mulroy and Jo Hinckley had a first net tie, Jennie Luffy, second net.

Quincy Receives $73,712 For Five Summer School Programs

The Quincy School Department will receive $73,712 in federal Title I funds for operation of five summer programs directed by Peter Murray in which some 500 students are enrolled.

Aim is to create "healthier attitudes towards school."

At the Snug Harbor and Willard elementary schools, some 130 four and five-year old pre-kindergarten students are taking part in a program designed to introduce them to school in the most positive possible way, Mr. Murray said.

This program received a grant of $17,180. It is directed by Title I reading teacher Mrs. Joan McCleery, 11 teachers, one counselor, a nurse and eight teachers aides.

A summer primary program, with grant of $25,750, is concentrating on direct service to children, curriculum development and in-service training for teachers. Some 140 children, 18 teachers, a counselor, nurse and eight teachers aides are involved.

The children, with specific learning deficiencies, are receiving help through field trips to such places as the Cohasset Music Circus, Franklin Park and Stoneham zoo, the Peabody and Boston science museums.

In addition Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pollack of 12 Brunswick St., Quincy artists, are available to demonstrate creative art to teachers and students.

At the Summer Learning Center at Beechwood Knoll School, some 110 students are receiving remedial help in subjects and experiencing a variety of enrichment programs. This program receives $23,000 in federal aid.

The program, written by Willard School principal Leo McKillop, includes a class for emotionally disturbed children and instruction in shop, cooking and sewing, with 18 teachers involved.

In the Germantown School-Community Program, which will receive $6,380 in federal funds, eight teachers are working with 75 youngsters who will be entering Broad Meadows Junior High School as seventh graders. The classes at Germantown Community Center and Broad Meadows include a number of parents and are intended to improve school-community relations.

A MESSAGE FOR DADDIES

Get yourself a good, thorough examination once a year. Once a year, let your doctor really look you over. It'll take a little time, and a little patience. And maybe he'll poke around a little more than you'd really like. And so he should.

The whole idea is to keep you healthy. If nothing's wrong (and more than likely, there isn't) hooray! Come back next year. But if anything's suspicious, then you've gained the most important thing of all: time.

We can save 1 out of 2 persons when cancer is caught in time, caught early. That's a good thing to know. All Daddies should know how to take care of themselves so that they can have the fun of taking care of their kids. Don't be afraid. It's what you don't know that can hurt you.

'What Our Flag Means To Me'

It Makes Me Proud To Look At It

[Editors Note: This is another winning essay in the contest "What Our Flag Means To Me" sponsored by the Houghs Neck Legion Post.

It was written by James Buchan, a sixth grade student at Atherton Hough School.

Other winning essays will also appear in the Quincy Sun.]

By JAMES BUCHAN
Atherton Hough School

My flag is a sign of freedom to me. It makes me proud to look at it and think how men and women gave their lives to save our country and keep it standing.

I am glad that I can stand in her soil and be free rather than be ordered around. It is a pleasure to go traveling with my family, explore new places and to just play around.

To me our Flag is the best one in sight. It stands tall and broad, never to be knocked down.

Our countries beautiful lands, roaring rivers and swirling oceans shows that our Flag keeps its promise over our land.

My family and I are lucky to live in such a wonderful country.

I studied the history of our country in the fifth grade and I know I think of all those men and women that did such heroic things to save our country when they could have just deserted but they were determined for their freedom. It seemed that God was with them helping them just as he is helping us now.

Some people don't care about their Flag and their country but someday I hope they will.

I didn't want to write about the stars and stripes of the Flag or the history of our Flag. I just wanted to write about the feeling that I have toward our Flag. And I hope that everyone else has the same feeling that I have and keeps it.

A Few Tips On Applying For SS Retirement Benefits

Are you getting ready to retire?

Frank Culkin, social security manager in Quincy, has some tips that may help save you time and trouble when you apply for your social security benefits.

A telephone call to the social security office is a good first step. The office can answer your questions and tell you how to apply and when to do it.

When you apply, bring your social security card or a record of your social security number, proof of your age, and your last year's income tax withholding statement. [If you are self-employed, bring a copy of last year's income tax return and evidence of payment of the self-employment tax.]

If your wife also is applying for benefits, she should bring evidence of her age and her social security card or a record of her number if she has one.

The best evidence of your age is a birth or baptismal certificate made within five years of your birth. However, if these are not available, other documents may be used. Generally, the older the document the better.

If you have children under 18—or youngsters between 18 and 22 who are full-time students—bring their birth certificates and records of their social security numbers.

It's generally a good idea to apply about three months before you retire. Don't delay because you don't have any of the required documents or information. The people in the social security office will be glad to help you get the necessary information.

If you are housebound and unable to come to the office, arrangements can be made for taking your application by mail or, if necessary, someone can come to your home. Just let the social security office know.

"Remember," Culkin concluded, "the people in the social security office are there to help you."

Rehabilitation Orientation Programs Here Aug. 18, 25

The Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission will sponsor two orientation programs in Quincy this month. The first will be at the South-West Community Center Aug. 18 at 1:30 p.m., the second Aug. 25 at the Germantown Multi-Service Center.

The aim of the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission is to help those disabled persons with an emotional or physical disability which interferes with their ability to gain or maintain employment.

The Commission can provide vocational counseling and guidance, medical or psychological treatments, and vocational training, among other things.

Persons interested in obtaining information pertaining to their own or another's eligibility are invited to attend the programs.

Quincy Volunteers Sought For Jerry Lewis MD Telethon

Quincy area volunteers to perform a variety of services for the annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for Muscular Dystrophy are being sought by Salvatore Camello, Greater Boston Chairman.

The 20-hour television entertainment program will be seen in Eastern Massachusetts over Station WKBG-TV, Channel 56, Sept. 5-6.

Volunteers are needed to man telephone, as hosts and hostesses for guest relations, as typists, clerks, messengers and chauffeurs. Those wishing to volunteer their services may call 523-6000.

A record $5,093,385 was pledged during last year's Labor Day Telethon seen over a nationwide network of 65 stations.

The Association finances operation of clinics at New England Medical Center Hospital and Boston University Hospital, two summer camps, and last year spent nearly $100,000 on research in Greater Boston.

The politically inclined have a new amusement: standing on the corner watching all the cars go by.

Watching, specifically, the bumper stickers of candidates in this year's city election. The combinations are quite interesting.

For example, one car has on it bumper stickers for both Walter Hannon and James McCormick, two of the contenders for mayor.

Another eye-catching one has Hannon's sticker and Ward 5 Council contender William Delahunt's. The latter two years ago missed wresting the seat away from Hannon by something like 47 votes.

What does it all mean?

Well, some seem to be crossing party lines openly — and many privately — with Democrats helping Republicans and Republicans aiding Democrats.

It's a non-partisan election, they insist.

In the case of the McCormick and Hannon stickers on the same car it apparently is a house divided. With the man of the house backing one of them and the lady backing the other. This may be quite common this year.

The party line crossing itself may yet get to be an election issue. McCormick, for example is running as a Democrat even though it is a non-partisan election.

A GOOD QUESTION—still waiting to be answered—is whether or not Arthur Tobin will run for re-election as a city councillor at-large.

He's now council president which leaves him no place to climb to in that body.

Now that he's senator, there's been speculation he will step out as a councillor.

But some observers think he'll run again for the council to keep politically active at the city level for a possible mayoralty in the near future.

INCIDENTALLY, Tobin's father, George, his No. 1 booster, is a patient at Quincy City Hospital. Fractured his hip in a fall but is "doing nicely".

AS OF THIS writing, City Councillor George McDonald still has the Speculation Corps guessing. Will he run for re-election? Some sources think he may be in line for appointment to a new municipal post and will bow out as a councillor at-large.

TIME IS RAPIDLY running out on candidates and prospective candidates who haven't yet decided whether to run or not to run or to run for what.

Filing deadline of nomination papers is Aug. 23—just 11 days away.

SAY, isn't that Ira Quint, the florist, riding around town on a motorcycle? The one with the white helmet.

BIG BAND fans should take heart at this: Baron Hugo really thinks big bands are coming back. "At the high school graduations I've been playing," says he, "the kids are asking for the old music."

You should remember Baron leading the house band at the old Totem Pole back in the 1940's. As he recalls it, the top big name crowd-pulling bands at the Totem Pole were Harry James and Guy Lombardo.

WILL JACKMAN may not mean much to young baseball fans today but back in the 1920's, 1930's and early 40's, he was one of greatest black pitchers around: But because of racial discrimination, he was barred from the majors.

A move is underway to win him a place in baseball's Hall of Fame. A series of benefits and other events are being held to honor him in the Boston area.

At a recent one, the Braintree White Sox who could have licked a few of today's major league teams, were represented by Herb Boardman and Leon Barton who made a presentation to Jackman.

OBSERVATION, via the Quincy Kiwanis Club news-letter: "The reason some people don't recognize opportunity is because it usually comes disguised as hard work."

A LOCAL Girl Friday passes along this item entitled "Secretary's Prayer":

"Dear Lord: Give me the memory of an elephant, the ability to do six things at once, answer three telephones, keep the boss from throwing a lighted match in a waste-basket filled with papers and take the letter that "MUST" go out tonight" but he forgets to sign until tomorrow.

"Help me keep my cool when he asks me to turn the office upside down to find a report in the files which he later locates in the inside of his jacket.

"And above all, Dear Lord, keep my ears from dropping off when he swears at his partner, fibs to his wife and lies to his banker. I need your help Lord to keep an expressionless face under these trying conditions. It is the hardest task of all.

"No name, please, I need my job."

Two Weeks In France

Quincy Teenagers To Sail In World's 420 Meet

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Four Quincy teenagers are packing their suitcases for a trip to Cherbourg, France, for the world's 420 sailing Championships which begin Aug. 14, and continue for two weeks.

Michael Morrissey, 17-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morrissey of 88 Colby Rd., North Quincy, and a senior at North Quincy High School, will be among four other United States representatives competing with 80 boats expected from all over the world.

Michael will be sailing under the colors of the Squantum Yacht Club, where his family are members.

Michael Durkin, 16 years, a senior at Boston College High School, will be his crew. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Durkin of 47 Warwick St., North Quincy.

Accompanying the two Michaels to France are 14-year old Pat Morrissey [Mike's brother], and 17-year old Jeanne Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Gordon Davis of 41 Lansdowne St., Squantum.

Pat, a recent Atlantic Junior High School graduate, and Jeanne, North Quincy High School student, will be alternate crews for the United States' teams in the championships.

Mike Morrissey first learned to sail at Black's Creek from instructors for the Quincy Recreation Department. — This year he is a sailing instructor there, where at the age of 10 he won both the sailing race for his age group and the Mother's Race.

His next step was to buy his own Turnabout from proceeds of his newspaper routes. With this, in his first year, he took third place in the Red Fleet of the Quincy Turnabout Association. During his second year of sailing, he took second place in White Fleet competition, and in his third year, he won the Blue Fleet races.

When he was 13, he bought his 420, a 13 ft. 9-inch boat with mainsail and jib, which he sailed to a victory in Quincy Bay Race Week.

Last year Mike was Massachusetts Bay Interclub Champion and among other trophies, received the Howard Gannett Memorial Trophy. Mike Durkin, termed "an excellent crew", has been crewing for Morrissey for three years.

This summer, in addition to his duties as sailing instructor, most of their sailing has been in Rhode Island and New York competing against 420 sailors from the East Coast. This past weekend, he placed third in national competitions at Rhode Island.

Morrissey is believed to be the first Quincy boy to compete in the world championships, and certainly the first to carry Squantum Yacht Club colors to France.

A benefit dance to help finance the trip for the teenagers was held Saturday at Squantum Yacht Club.

OFF TO FRANCE — Michael Morrissey, 17, with Michael Durkin, 16, as crew, sailing under Squantum Yacht Club colors, will represent the United States at the World's 420 Championships in Cherbourg, France, Saturday. Alternate crews for the U.S. teams are Pat Morrissey, 14, Mike's brother; and Jeanne Davis, 17. [Quincy Sun Photo by Don Newell]

MORE COMFORT FOR BED-RIDDEN

There are a few simple tricks to make life a lot easier for at-home, bed-patient care. For instance, a million steps can be saved by the use of an inexpensive intercom that can be plugged in anywhere in the house. They are also equipped with buzzer signals for the patient who has trouble using his voice.

The patient will not have to call for help to raise himself if he has a strong rope at his side with the other end looped around the foot of the bed. To sit up, all he does is pull on the rope.

There's no need to buy or rent an expensive bed tray. Any standard ironing board can be slipped under the bed with the ironing surface used as a dining tray or writing table.

And don't forget the importance of a telephone having a lengthened cord which will allow the patient to use it more comfortably and also simplify its removal from the room at rest-time. ★★

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Prescription tax and insurance records kept plus 24 hour emergency service in North Quincy. Open 7 days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

'To The One I Love'

There was something about him,
What I can't really say.
But the more I saw him,
I wanted him in every way.

Sure he was handsome,
masculine,

And strong too.
But there was something more,

I'm sure you would know if it had been you.

When he smiled or said hello,

It was so great to me, though others might just say so.

He didn't want me,
As I wanted him though...

I waited for almost a year,
Each day watching him and wanting him so,

But for months he never looked my way,

I never gave up, and I got him just a while ago.

It was on Monday night April 19th.

Our lips finally met.

Those chills that ran up and down my spine,

That moment I know I could never forget.

It's now been three wonderful months,

And I hope it will go on forever.

I still feel like I'm living in a dream.

That I want to end never.

Each day with you, each hour each minute,

I love you more in every way.

This must be something special,

The way I feel for you words cannot say.

So my love, what we have is something special,

Being so much more than just friends,

We must worship it always,

Our love must never ever end...

Thoughts For Father

"A careful man, I want to be A little fellow follows me,
I do not dare to go astray
For fear he'll go astray way.

I cannot once escape his eyes
What'er he sees me do, he tries.

Like me, he says, he's going to be

That little chap that follows me.

He thinks that I am big and fine,

Believes in every word of mine.

The base in me, he must not see,

That little chap that follows me.

I must remember as I go,
Through summer's sun and winter snow,

I am building for the years to be,

That little chap who follows me."

Taste Sweet Summer In Fresh Vegetables

Nutrition can be a sometime thing in the good old summertime. Lazy appetites. Heat-wilted people. Catch-as-catch-can meals. Even with the best of intentions, everyone runs the risk of nutrition letdown in hot weather. Balanced meals can be so simple. Make them with foods folks like best. Good example is a meal of savory, grilled frankfurters wrapped in bacon, golden corn on the cob, and bright red, fresh beets served with zesty scallion butter. Fresh vegetables with fruit comprise one group of the Basic Four food groups. Serve fresh vegetables daily at summer meals to keep vitamins and minerals high in the diet.

Fresh Beets With Scallion Butter

8 medium-size fresh beets $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped scallions
3 tablespoons melted butter $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt or margarine $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon pepper

Remove greens from beets, leaving about 1-inch of the stem end intact. Cover and cook in a small amount of boiling salted water until just tender. Melt butter or margarine in a small skillet; add scallions and cook until tender. Slip skins off beets. Slice beets and toss with scallion butter. Season with salt and pepper.
Makes: 4 servings.

Wild Cooking Tips For The Fisherman's Wife

Tired of being left at home while the sportsman of the house takes off for a week-end of fishing and camping out? Why not go along?

It's easy for even a city girl to be a good sport if she's prepared, and a week-end of wild life can be much more civilized than you might expect. Would you believe a portable microwave oven the size of a portable television that can cook hamburgers, their buns on a paper plate in less than a minute? It needs a 115-volt outlet to plug into, true, but have you seen a camping site or trailer park lately? Electricity is commonplace, along with such public facilities as hot (that's H-O-T) showers.

Now, what if your outdoorsman wants to rough it? Fine. He can build the campfire and provide the fish or game. Tell him you didn't come camping to wash dishes, and suggest cooking by the greenstick method. (Same principle as roasting marshmallows over the fire.) Cut a green stick about six feet in length, with a "Y" on the roaster end, and skewer the fish or meat on this. You might want to cut one prong down to a nub, to keep the meat from sliding back. Rest the cooking stick over a rock or log, placing some heavy object on the butt end. Now you can back away from the smoke, which has an unfortunate habit of blowing directly in one's eyes. Cooking time varies, but if you wait 'til one side is toasty brown, then turn and cook it the other side, it will come out about right.

Waking up outdoors is a unique experience. Feel the forest stirring around you, fresh and green as the first day of creation. Enjoy the bird sounds. The less you rush around, the better chance you have of observing wildlife at close range. Now's the time for a meal without cooking. Choose your favorite flavor of Carnation Instant Breakfast and mix with whole milk to give yourself a bacon and egg kind of nutritious meal. Then sip silently as you watch the world wake up. Easy. Fun. A most special treat. Get out the knapsacks and start packing!

Breast self-examination can help lessen the number of deaths from breast cancer. Early detection means a better chance of cure. The American Cancer Society encourages women to examine their breasts regularly each month.

Know the signs that could, but don't always, mean breast cancer: a lump, unusual discharge, change in size or shape. See your doctor, says the American Cancer Society, if any of these symptoms appear.

95% of all breast cancers are discovered by women themselves, according to the American Cancer Society. If you discover a lump, or notice any change in the breasts, see your doctor at once.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Aug. 12 - 19

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - This is a very confusing week. Outside pressures can react on your nerves - take a back seat for the time being.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Take a second look at that opportunity that seems so attractive to you. This is no time to start a new project.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Don't start on your home improvement project until next month since there is a change of plans indicated meanwhile.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Shopping for anything more expensive than a light bulb is a waste of time right now since you'll return any purchase made.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Keep the budget flexible since there are bound to be changes made this week. Watch out for confusion in money matters.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Those brilliant ideas that are coming to you from out of the blue aren't as terrific as they seem.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - An emotional problem could be putting you right up tight this week - be as practical and as sensible as you can be.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Don't believe everything your friends tell you at this time - be on guard against treachery and deceit in all forms.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Career matters are very uncertain now - especially since everyone keeps changing their mind. Just be patient.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Traveling now will require a great deal of patience since there are delays, changes of plans, and much confusion.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - The situation at home base is charged with emotion so use good judgement and handle everyone with kid gloves.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - A change in direction starting this week but don't take action for another 3 months since the "timing" must be right.

Director, The Diet Workshop

Camping out?

Not much of a problem for the dieter-remember to pack up your flip-top lid cans of tomato juice for an afternoon pick-up-upper and all the other necessities to follow your sensible eating plan. If you have a fisherman in your family, hopefully, his catch will yield a perfect diet dinner for you.

Summertime is a great time for dieting-at home or away we seem to be not so hungry during the hot weather. Cold salad suppers suit both the climb and the mood, as well as your diet, and a half cantaloupe with a scoop of cottage cheese is a filling, nutritious and delectably low calorie dessert treat.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

There seems to be increasing numbers of people who have difficulty in their adult lives of facing reality...of recognizing that they can't "have their cake and eat it too." Here's the man who admits that "we need the money" from his wife's job...but complains that she neglects the housework at home. He wants to "have his cake and eat it too."

Here's the wife who complains that her husband "is never home"...but after his all day job he is working an evening job to pay for the new furniture she ordered. She wants to "have her cake and eat it too."

Dr. here's the young husband who wants to fraternize with his young bachelor friends and do a little dating himself...yet expects his wife to remain at home caring for their child...and ask no questions when he comes in smelling of Channel No. 5 and with lipstick on his shirt. He wants to "have his cake and eat it too."

Here's the wife who says she wants to be married...but is cold to her husband...focuses her hatred of men upon him...emasculates him in many ways of which she is not even aware...filled with fears and addictive habits. She constantly pines her husband who is outgoing...responsible and good to her because he refuses to restrain his life to match her restrained and limited life. She wants to "have her cake and eat it too."

Why do people think they can "have their cake and eat it too?" The first reason is that they GOT AWAY WITH IT AS CHILDREN. Next to total neglect and indifference to children parents' greatest fault is permissiveness and indulgence of children...always giving...never requiring children to face up to reality and learn to be responsible...and grateful. Parents give so many presents at Christmas time that children have no chance of learning gratitude or appreciation...or even the joy of being surprised or thrilled. The same at birthdays in many homes. You'd think some parents would get the hint when kids leave the expensive toys to play in an empty card-board box in which one of their gifts was packed.

Naturally...with such abundance...nothing required...the gifts are not valued...nor is there much incentive to care for them. When one brother Dad or Mom will buy another. They're being taught to "have their cake and eat it too"...you do not need to be deprived of anything...Mommy and Daddy will pick up the pieces...parents are to be used...not necessarily respected. That's the first reason for why people expect things both ways...they were so taught as children.

The second reason is that they are GETTING AWAY WITH IT AS ADULTS. The immature man/woman says with actions..."I get what I want...when I want it...if someone else is inconvenienced I don't even notice...I can hurt people but feel no responsibility...no one is to interfere with me." But...my friend...I have news for you...that just won't work in a marriage...unless that husband/wife you live with is continuing the indulging...permissive pattern of your mommy and daddy. As long as nobody puts down a foot and says..."You can't...not and live with me"...it's likely to continue. Indulgence isn't love...it's insanity.

The only cure I know for such a neurotic condition of thinking you can go on and on in life having things both ways at others' expense is for someone to call a halt on you. The one who does it...at first you'll hate...because he/she is interfering with your self-indulgences. But if you're wise...upon reflection you'll see that he/she is doing you the greatest favor since your mother gave you birth. Indulging people is not loving them. Self-indulgence isn't love of self.

What most people need is a lot more growing up into full manhood...full womanhood. And that state doesn't come about by permissiveness and indulgence...or by the passing of time. It comes by facing up to the facts of life...reality...truth...love. They can be tough...but as even our nation may be learning after ten years of refusing to face the facts about Vietnam...it's much less costly in money and human life...to face reality. "You can't have your cake and eat it too."

Burgin In Tribute

Dr. Richard Ash's Death A 'Loss To Entire Community

The death of Dr. Richard M. Ash is "a loss to the entire community", said former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin in a tribute to the noted physician's long-time service.

Burgin, who appointed Dr. Ash city health commissioner in 1935 described Dr. Ash as a "family doctor who was always busy but never too busy to help those in need even though many times at a personal sacrifice."

Dr. Ash who lived at 41 Hobomack Rd, Merrymount, died Aug. 3 at William Baecus Hospital, Norwich, Conn. He was 76.

A funeral mass was celebrated Friday at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Mayor James R. McIntyre ordered flags on all municipal buildings lowered in respect to Dr. Ash.

Dr. Ash is survived by his wife, Mrs. Albina C. [Dupont] Ash; two sons, John C. Ash of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Richard M. Ash, Jr. of Smoke Rise, N.J., and five daughters, Mrs. Marie G. Reed of Westwood; Mrs. Patricia A. Tramontozzi of Norwich, Conn.; Mrs. Jean S. Morton of Scituate; Mrs. Virginia A. Kinniburgh of Braintree and Mrs. Alice D. Maglio of Warwick, R.I., and 31 grandchildren.

He is also survived by six sisters, Miss Alice Ash, Miss Helen Ash and Miss Dorothea Ash, all teachers in the Quincy public school system; Mrs. Mary Foy and Mrs. Monica Reid of Quincy and Mrs. Catherine Merna of North Weymouth.

Dr. Ash, a Quincy native, served 27 years as city health commissioner, retiring in 1965. He was an outspoken critic of open dumping for rubbish, advocating incineration.

He helped plan and bring into being the John F. Kennedy Health Center in 1961 and was a strong voice in advocating the need for the Nut Island sewage treatment plant to keep Quincy Bay waters from becoming polluted.

Former Mayor Burgin's tribute follows:

"The passing of Dr. Richard M. Ash is not only a loss to the entire community but a great personal loss to me following a friendship of over 40 years.

"A native son of West Quincy, honored and respected member of the medical profession, former Health Commissioner, and outstanding citizen of the community, Dr.

Ash was indeed a dedicated Christian gentleman in its finest and highest sense. Quiet and unassuming, yet firm in his convictions, he exemplified the best traditions of his profession. Those of us who were privileged to know him will always remember "Dick" Ash as what might be termed a "family doctor" who was always busy but never too busy to help those in need even though many times at a personal sacrifice.

"I was honored when he accepted an appointment as Health Commissioner in 1935 during my first term as mayor. His record in that office was one of accomplishment, holding the position for many years until his retirement. It was through the efforts of Dr. Ash that Quincy's beautiful health center became a reality. His knowledge of public health matters was recognized throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"To Mrs. Ash and the other members of the Ash Family I extend sincere sympathy in the loss they have sustained. May they be comforted in the knowledge that the lives of all who knew Dr. "Dick" Ash have been enriched by the example of good citizenship he leaves behind him."

LaRaia Candidate For City Council At-Large

Former City Council President Joseph J. LaRaia of 54 Grogan Ave., West Quincy, today announced his candidacy for city councillor at-large.

LaRaia, who served six years in the City Council, cited the need for a more determined and dedicated approach to the solution of erratic increases in real estate taxes with the consequent burden on homeowners and rent payers.

He said positive attitudes towards conservation and open space should be maintained.

During the past year, LaRaia was a member of the Zoning

Advisory Committee which discussed and recommended changes in the zoning proposal enacted by the City Council. He was also the first chairman of the Quincy Industrial Development Commission.

LaRaia attended Quincy Schools and has a business administration degree from Boston College. Since leaving private industry in 1967, he has been a deputy administrator in the State Department of Public Welfare.

Mr. and Mrs. LaRaia are parents of two daughters and a son.

David Houston To Seek Council At-Large Seat

Former City Treasurer David R. Houston of 33 Puritan Drive, Quincy Center, today announced his candidacy for city councillor at-large.

Houston, said he is concerned about the rising tax rate, and wants to put to use in the City Council the knowledge and talent gained from his more than five years as city treasurer.

"I feel that this is an appropriate time to seek the office of councillor at large because I believe we need new faces and new ideas in government," Houston stated.

He said that a continuing search for suitable ways of broadening the tax base is important if the property owners' tax burden is to be contained.

Houston is now municipal service officer for the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Co.

Ronald Halter Enters Ward 3 Council Race

Lower property taxes and a cleaner city are goals of Ronald N. Halter, 30, of 119 Federal Ave., who today announced his candidacy for Ward 3 Councillor.

Halter, deputy tax collector, constable and notary public said he would also like to see more of a crackdown on drug pushers and stiffer penalties for those brought into Court.

He said he is interested in more activities for teenagers, and also advocated a campaign against pollution of air, water, noise, wetlands and marshlands of Quincy.

A graduate of Quincy High School, he attended Northeastern University School of Criminal Science and Remington Rand Typewriter School. He is a typewriter and adding machine mechanic.

Halter served with the Air Force Security Police, and is a past officer of Quincy Squadron Civil Air Patrol. He is founder and president of the South Shore Constables Association, a former member of the American Detective Association, all-American Karate Federation and Quincy Vandalism Patrol and Committee of 1968. He is also a member of Theodore Roosevelt Lodge AF and AM.

He is married to the former Agnes E. Wise of Quincy and they have a son, Edward Joseph Halter.

Joseph Hannigan Seeks School Seat

Joseph G. [Greg] Hannigan II of 39 Sullivan Rd, West Quincy, announced his candidacy today for Quincy School Committee, and said he is concerned about curriculum and work programs for seniors and juniors in high school.

A lifelong resident of West Quincy and the father of two children, Hannigan is a Boston businessman. He is a graduate of Quincy High School and attended Quincy Junior College and Suffolk University as a sociology major.

Hannigan said he decided to seek office, because of the "seeming lack of concern for our youth by the many candidates."

"It disturbs me greatly," he said, "that so many can seek the office and yet say so little that could be considered constructive. I, too, realize the importance of new voter registration, but we don't have many in the Quincy School System eligible for this."

He said he believes there should be emphasis on the curriculum and work programs for seniors and juniors.

Adams Birthplaces To Star In Network TV Commercial

The Presidents Adams Birthplaces will soon be starring in a national network television commercial.

The houses are being painted by Sears, Roebuck and Co., and will soon appear in its "Great American Homes" commercial. The film was scheduled to be filmed yesterday. It will first appear on television in late September, 1972.

City Historian William C. Edwards, and Thomas D. Neal, manager of Sears retail operations for eastern Massachusetts, said the exteriors of both homes were painted with Sears paint to protect and preserve them.

They said that "being part of the 'Great American Homes' program will focus national attention on this section of the country and the many historic points of interest that can be found here."

The John and John Quincy Adams cottages were built in 1681 and 1716, respectively. Situated on adjacent lots, on Franklin St., the "salt box" homes are registered National Historic Landmarks.

Quincy is the only community to send a father and son to the White House.

The birthplaces of the second and sixth presidents are the only side-by-side Presidents birthplaces anywhere.

Other "Great American Homes" in the developing Sears program are: Mark Twain's boyhood home in Hannibal, Mo.; Nathan Hale's homestead, South Coventry, Conn.; the "Longwood Estate," Natchez, Miss.; the Bethesda Home for Boys, Savanna, Ga.; the Betsy Ross Home, Philadelphia; Buffalo Bill ranch, North Platte, Neb.; and Teddy Roosevelt's summer white house, "Sagamore Hill", Oyster Bay, N.Y.

Ganzel Family Memento Baseball Bat Enroute From Quincy To Hall Of Fame

By TOM SULLIVAN

Thanks to the Ganzels, Quincy's "first family of baseball," the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., will have an added exhibit Saturday.

On that day, John Ganzel of 14 Dayton St., West Quincy, a retired Quincy fire lieutenant, and his wife will present to the Hall director a bat given to his uncle, John Ganzel, by the fans of Rochester, N.Y., when he managed them to a pennant in 1909.

"The bat was willed to me by Uncle John, who was a star player with Pittsburgh, Chicago, New York and Cincinnati in the National League and with the New York Yankees in the American League from 1899 to 1908," the younger John said.

"The Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum feel it is the only bat of its type in existence. An artist covered the bat with a binding that includes a picture of my uncle. It is still in perfect shape after all these years.

"After the Hall of Fame curators do some work on it, it will be mounted on one of the walls and it will have a plaque with Uncle John's record and other facts."

John Ganzel managed Brooklyn in the National League in 1915 and in 1903 as a Yankee he hit the first home run ever hit by a Yankee (the name had just been changed from the Highlanders).

He scouted for the Washington Senators until he was 80 years old, covering the Florida Leagues and college teams. He died in Quincy in 1959 at the age of 84.

Probably the outstanding member of the Ganzel baseball family was John's father, Charles, who played for 15 years in the major leagues with the Philadelphia Nationals for three years, the Detroit Nationals for three and the Boston Nationals for nine as one of the top catchers in the country.

He played on the Detroit pennant winning team of 1887 which featured Hall of Famer Dan Brouthers. After ending his playing career in 1897 he coached Williams College and several school teams.

Charles died in 1914 when only 52.

Charles and John were two of five brothers who starred in baseball.

Joe, George and Rev. J. S., a minister for 17 years, also excelled for many years in professional ball.

Best known among the Ganzels in this area was Charles' other son and John's brother, Foster [Babe] Ganzel, who played ball on the South Shore during the 1920's and worked his way up to the Washington Senators. This was followed by some 20 years of playing and managing with Louisville, St. Paul and other teams. He recently retired as New York manager for Norfolk Shipbuilding and is living in Atlantic Beach, Fla., with his wife, Mildred.

"Babe" and John are the only surviving sons of the famed "Charlie" Ganzel. A daughter, Gladys Poland of San Francisco, has been visiting with the Quincy Ganzels.

John retired from the Quincy Fire Dept. as a lieutenant after five years of reserve fire duty and 25 years regular duty, the last 19 as a lieutenant.

"I was strictly a high school ball player and nothing else," he admitted. "My son John, a member of the Quincy Fire Department, was a good athlete but not a star.

"His son, John, now five years old, is our next hope to follow in my father's and uncles' footsteps."

Speaking of brother Babe, he played the outfield for Birmingham in 1927 when the Senators called him and the other two outfielders up. In 13 games he batted .438 but illness caused a quick halt to his major league career. He played a few games for Washington in 1928 but never returned after being sent back to the minors. Following his 13 games in 1927, he was given a "day" in Quincy with many major league stars in attendance.

Conroy Praises Local Players For Agganis Game

Although the South squad was defeated, 14-3, by the North in the 10th annual Harry Agganis All-Star schoolboy football game last Saturday in Lynn, Quincy's Hank Conroy, one of the four South coaches, was pleased with the efforts of his Quincy and North Quincy players.

"All our boys did a fine job and I was proud of them all," Hank said. "The North team looked a little bit better prepared than we did but we moved the ball well only to fumble or be penalized.

"Bobby Sylva of Quincy was outstanding at offensive guard, while Rich Menchi and Billy Mayer excelled at end, John Provost ran well and Wayne Richards, who did all the punting, got off some good kicks. Twice the pass from center came back on two bounces but he still got good punts off. And Jimmy Sarada of North Quincy played very well on defense."

Conroy also had words of praise for several other players from this area, especially quarterback Brian Sullivan of Brintree and Gary Little, big end from Hanover.

Wilmington's Mike Esposito, who broke all existing state scoring records, lived up to his rave notices as he scored on a brilliant 64-yard run and gained 118 yards in 13 carries. Jack Rafferty of Wakefield scored the other touchdown on an eight-yard run.

The South's only points came on a 35-yard field goal by Brockton's Alky Tsitos.

"Esposito is everything we had heard and more," Conroy said. "He is a brilliant runner and Rafferty is another tremendous runner. Both should have no trouble making it in college."

Esposito is headed for Boston College as are Menchi and several other of the all-star players.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Nixon, Mao Lampoon

FEDERICO FELLINI's near Zeus like image suffers a severe setback with "THE CLOWNS". The picture is just too damned abstract to make any sense. Even those steeped in the cultist mythology of FELLINI will find his latest effort a vast disappointment... If FELLINI had focused his energies on the subject matter at hand, clowns, he would have done justice to the production. Rather, he poured all his skill into filming a monument to his alleged genius. And this proved folly on his part... After 10 minutes the viewers intellect is drained just attempting to understand what is flashing on the screen. This coupled with vague "SATYRICON" overtones makes fore boredom, not entertainment...

"EASY RIDER" still has Frenchmen in a frenzy. To date, the popular Columbia blockbuster has played 110 consecutive weeks in Paris alone... NORMAN JEWISON will take upon himself the awesome task of bringing "JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR" to the screen. He has signed a contract with UNIVERSAL whereby he will both direct and co-produce the celebrated Rock Opera. But not this year. Filming is scheduled for sometime next spring... Talk about being type cast. BILLY FRICK played Adolph Hitler in "IS PARIS BURNING" a few years ago. He so impressed DAVID WOLPER, that the producer has cast FRICK in the same role for the "20TH OF JULY"... STELLA STEVENS makes another grab at the elusive superstar tag with the soon-to-be-released "A TOWN CALLED HELL"...

"SHAFT" has met with such enthusiastic success that a sequel is in the works. The tentative title of the film is "THE BIG BAMBOO", and all shooting will be done on locale in Jamaica... "CLEOPATRA" reopened at the Walter Reade Ziegfeld Theatre in New York to a surprisingly heavy audience turnout. Assuming the picture holds its' own the next few weeks, 20th-Fox may exhibit it on a national scale... "CHOICE CUTS" will be RUSS MEYER's next project... CHIEF DAN GEORGE is in the far reaches of western Canada filming "COLD JOURNEY"... Rep. CHARLOTTE REID [R-Ill.] was named to the FCC... With one film disaster under her black leather belt, can we assume that CHER BONO has given up any future thought of being an actress?... And what gives with BILL COSBY? After reaping the harvest of publicity on announcing his "retirement", he signs up for a lucrative Australian tour...

You're a CLARA BOW fan if you can recall that 1932 was her "comeback" year, and "CALL HER SAVAGE" was her "comeback" film... Now that nostalgia is so much the vogue, you won't want to miss JOAN CRAWFORD's forthcoming autobiography "MY WAY OF LIFE". Or if so you prefer, how about MARY ASTOR's own personal, "A LIFE ON FILM"... The COCKETTES have another zinger lined up. For their second film, the San Francisco homed transvestite troupe will lampoon NIXON and MAO in the full-length feature, "NIXON GOES TO CHINA"... After all these years JACKIE COOPER is still going strong. He will direct "STAND UP AND BE COUNTED" in September. And after that? More directing and acting stints... COOPER is one of the few, if not only child star, whose talent bridged the threshold of adolescence...

My, but time flies! To date ALFRED HITCHCOCK has made 52 motion pictures... Is HELMUT BERGER a one year, one film bust? Last year he captivated audiences and reviewers alike with his "THE DAMNED" acting forte. Since then his creative output has totaled one film, and a bomb at that... For a performer who seemed so destined for the heights of Olympus, BERGER has crash landed with an all too forceful thud...

Vietnam Veterans To Be Trained For Jobs At General Dynamics

Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics and the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security have announced a jointly-sponsored program to train Vietnam era veterans in essential shipbuilding skills.

The project is named JOPS, or Jobs Optional Program. Enrollees in JOPS will be trained as shipfitters or pipefitters by Quincy Shipbuilding Division. A welding training program is also planned in the near future.

Half of each JOPS participant's salary during training will be provided by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, with General Dynamics paying the other half. The starting salary is $2.95 per hour.

JOPS employees who successfully complete their training will receive ratings as semi-skilled mechanics and have opportunities for advancement.

Robert Wayne, Supervisor of On-The-Job Training Programs for the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security, spoke optimistically about the new program.

"This effort represents only a small part of what must be done for our veterans," he said. "But it is an example of government and industry cooperation that we hope others will follow. This is a time for action, not words."

Herbert J. Kay, Quincy Shipbuilding Division's Manager of Employment and Employee Development, said that veterans will find JOPS application procedures very simple.

"All a veteran in good health has to do," he said, "is apply to the Quincy office of the Division of Employment Security, 1433 Hancock St., or call them for more information at 471-2750.

When applying, he must present his DD 214 form for verification."

Smyth Asks Boston Council To Sell Squaw Rock To Quincy

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth has written all nine Boston city councillors asking their favorable votes for sale of Squaw Rock to the city of Quincy.

Smyth, said he understood the order of transfer will be on the Boston City Council agenda within the next few weeks.

In his letter, he said:

"The City of Quincy is anxious to purchase this piece of property for the enjoyment of its citizens. We have been plagued for years with police problems and we feel that this will be minimized when placed under our jurisdiction.

"This piece of property, when conveyed to the City of Quincy, will be placed under the jurisdiction of our Park Department and will be forever retained as open space."

'Carefully Weighing Decis

McIntyre Ponders Fourth Term With 'Mixed Emotions'

Mayor James R. McIntyre was still "undecided" last night over whether or not to seek a fourth term, but appeared warming up to another bid.

"I am considering all aspects," he told the Quincy Sun as political observers and candidates awaited his final decision, expected this week.

"I am carefully weighing the entire situation. I have to give consideration to a number of people who have urged me to run again."

"Right now, I have mixed emotions about running or not running."

McIntyre reportedly has received a number of petitions, letters and telephone calls asking him to seek a fourth term.

Close sources in City Hall say they have noticed in recent weeks that the 41-year-old chief executive seems to be "leaning" toward a re-election bid.

Some months back, they note, he appeared ready to retire from the mayor's office.

Some political observers believe that the entrance of Rep. Joseph E. Brett into the mayoralty ring is a big reason that McIntyre is now wavering and may run once more.

Although both are Democrats, the pair have often clashed on political matters and have different philosophies in general.

Recent polls reportedly show Brett as a strong contender.

While McIntyre was wrestling with his final decision, which may come today or Friday, there were four definite contenders for the mayor's office, it's $10,000 salary and 10,000 headaches.

Mrs. Rita Anderson, West Quincy mother of four, officially filed her papers this week to become the fourth candidate.

Brett was the first to follow, followed by Ward 5 Councillor Walter J. Hannon and School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick Sr.

McDonald Not To Seek Re-Election

City Councillor George B. McDonald announced today he will not seek re-election this year.

McDonald, who is completing his sixth term, and 12th year in the council, has been rumored in line for appointment to a new municipal post.

McDonald said today he is stepping down because of "personal reasons" and to be able to devote more time to work toward solution of the Norfolk County refuse disposal problem.

A county commissioner, he is chairman of the Norfolk County Regional Refuse Disposal Committee.

McDonald said he had arrived at his decision not to seek re-election "with mixed emotions".

His departure will leave at least one open seat in this year's council at-large race.

It means also that Quincy will have at least three new faces in next year's council.

Ward 3 Councillor John F. Koegler has resigned to accept the new post of City Forestry Director, Ward 5 Councillor Walter J. Hannon is running for mayor.

In a statement, McDonald declared:

"Because of personal reasons and the increased time I now feel I should devote to my duties as chairman of the Norfolk County Regional Refuse Disposal Committee, I will not seek re-election to the City Council this year.

"The problem of rubbish disposal in the county, I feel, is the No. 1 problem of the towns, and I have made the solution to this vexing problem my No. 1 goal as a county commissioner.

"As chairman of the committee, it has been necessary for me to attend many night time meetings

A Big Catch And A Problem

Scott Needel, 12, this week caught [for him] a record 20-inch, three-pound bass while fishing off the rocks in Squantum near Moon Island.

Scott, who used seaworms as bait, thought of having a taxidermist stuff his prized catch.

"But I found out they charge $3. an inch to stuff a fish and I don't have $60," said Scott. "So my family is going to eat it. I don't like fish myself."

Quincy League Of Women Voters Opposes Welfare Residency Bill

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The League of Women Voters of Quincy wishes to bring to citizens' attention House Bill 5850, which purports to reform the welfare system by imposing a one year residency requirement upon eligible applicants. The philosophy involved seems to center more on the politically popular concept of fiscal relief, rather than on the concept of aiding people in need to become self-supporting.

Welfare is a subject clouded by many myths and misconceptions. One such misconception is that this bill would be a significant reform of the welfare system and would save over-burdened taxpayers large sums of money. There is no evidence to show that we would save any significant amount of money by adopting restrictive eligibility requirements. For example, 71% of mothers on AFDC in 1969 had either been born in Massachusetts or had lived here for nine years or more, and HEW statistics show that the majority of migrating welfare families are in their new community for three to five years before they apply for benefits.

The consistent rulings of the Supreme Court would indicate it unwise for the legislature to establish residency requirements. On June 14, 1971, the U.S. Supreme Court reaffirmed and extended its 1969 decision striking down residency eligibility requirements. In a unanimous decision the Court held that states may not deny assistance to needy aliens or to aliens who have not lived in the United States for a specific number of years. Residency restrictions in Arizona and Pennsylvania have been specifically struck down.

A June, 1971, letter from HEW to all state welfare departments indicated that in the light of the U.S. Supreme Court rulings about the unconstitutionality of residency requirements, "states attempting to impose waiting periods would be headed for trouble." This may mean that states passing residency requirements could lose federal funds, hardly a way to relieve welfare costs.

House bill 5850 should be defeated. It will do relatively little to reduce the welfare budget while punishing children and families who could not wait one year to be eligible for food and clothing, regardless of how they came to reside in Massachusetts.

The Young Voter Has Been Challenged

Editor, Quincy Sun:

One of the most important and long-awaited changes in the history of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts was its recent legislation granting our 19 to 21 year old residents the privilege to vote.

Throughout the course of United States history, persons under the age of 21 have lived in a disenfranchised state. As a rebuttal to any of the traditional and justifiable arguments, such as "old enough to fight, old enough to vote," politicians had traditionally replied that people in the 21 to 26 age bracket constituted the lowest turnout of voters. They further argued that lowering the voting age would increase this non-participation. "Young people," they said, "have little knowledge or concern with their sociopolitical environment or of their rights and privileges of citizenship."

The past decade has brought a change in this traditional attitude. Young adults have expressed their concern and opinions using virtually every legal and extra-legal avenue available to them. Our government leaders finally took notice and decided that it was time to involve and enfranchise people under 21.

Skeptics have said that youth involvement and concern was the result of a vested self-interest to avoid active participation in the Southeast Asia conflict. The interest, they said was in themselves, and not others.

Young adults have now been given the opportunity to refute the skeptics, to prove their concern finally and for all. They must speak out. They must be heard, not only on broad national issues but also on local issues with our own home-town community. Their TIME is now. They must SEIZE this opportunity and Register to vote. Most important, they must VOTE.....it WILL make a difference!

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox

'Gratefulness And Happiness Are Twins'

I am finding that there's a high correlation between gratefulness and happiness. I was talking with a man on the street recently who had been very sick for nearly two years. The book had really been thrown at him...both in his ailments and the treatments. Now he's coming out of his illness. You would suppose with all he's been through that he'd be quite bitter. Instead what he said was, "I'm so grateful...when I see my wife...my children...the beauties of life all around me...I'm just so grateful." I even believe that his spirit of gratefulness has hastened his recovery...along with good doctors...a loving wife...and probably the prayers of some friends.

After we parted...I was thinking of this man's words...and more particularly his attitude...of gratefulness. We live in such affluency that many do not appreciate their material things...or their health...loving relationships...the seashore...or even the air we breathe. So we carelessly...thoughtlessly...persistently upset and pollute these marvelous gifts.

When I lived in Kansas many years ago I used to see old farm machinery by the side of an old unpainted barn...just rusting away...the inside of the barn often filled with years of accumulation of useless debris...while the costly machinery stood outside in the weather rusting away...seemingly no appreciation for its value. Too often our children do not care for equipment...stereo...camera...tennis racket...bicycle...furniture in the home. Why not? Perhaps because they were not taught to be grateful...and to take care of their toys when they were little. There were so many...and mommy took care of them. So the child had no need to learn. Now in the teens...or twenties...or forties...he/she is still careless...still ungrateful...but still crabby when the camera won't take pictures. Of course...we can go buy another...but you can't buy gratefulness...and much more happiness results from gratefulness than from the camera.

What makes people grateful? Does it have to be deprivation...punishment for the carelessness...threat of loss? Perhaps...for some it takes just such drastic measures. I believe in helping children to learn gratefulness by linking privilege with responsibility. I say to my boys... "It's a privilege to use the tools...so be responsible for them in their use...or you'll lose the privilege." The same principle seems to me should apply to adults...regarding the use of the highways...relationships we cherish...the air we breathe. Abuse leads to loss.

If we're grateful for our transportation facilities we do our part to care for our cars and the highways. If you're grateful for your husband/wife you do all you can to let him/her feel your appreciation for his hard work/her tender love. The gratefulness we feel for each other prompts a caring for each other's needs. Failure to give grateful care probably leads sooner or later to loss.

Thank-you...kind sir...for what you said to me on the street. You increased my feelings of gratefulness that day...for my health...my ability to work...the material things I have...and especially for the people I love. You taught me that you can't be grateful and be morbid at the same time. You taught me that gratefulness and happiness are twins.

Mass. Electric Granted Temporary Rate Increase

The Massachusetts Electric Company, a subsidiary of the New England Electric System, has been granted a temporary rate increase.

It is designed to recover the added cost of purchased power pending final outcome of rate proceedings initiated by the utility's chief supplier, New England Power Company.

The increase, which becomes effective immediately, will be one mill across the board, or 1/10 of a cent per kilowatt hour to all customers.

Massachusetts Electric President John I. Ahern, explained that Massachusetts Electric buys essentially all its power from New England Power Company at a standard rate.

To maintain earnings at a level deemed reasonable by the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, Massachusetts Electric was permitted to recover the substantial increases in this, the company's largest single expense.

The increase will not be a permanent part of Massachusetts Electric's rates. If NEPCO's rate request is reduced, the savings will be promptly reflected in Massachusetts Electric's rates. Any refunds from NEPCO will flow directly back to Massachusetts Electric's customers.

Massachusetts Electric Company serves approximately 41 per cent of the state. The company has 686,000 customers in 145 cities and towns and its service territory contains a population of approximately 2,000,000 people.

A BIG PROJECT - Some of the Quincy students who produced 3.8 million pieces of individualized instructional materials in four subjects for nine schools busy themselves with items to be stored in some 100 cabinets, also Voc-Tech produced.

Voc-Tech. Students Produce 3.8 Million Printing Pieces

The Quincy school system launched a mammoth three-pronged effort this summer to:

- Produce some 3.8 million pieces of individualized instructional materials in four subject areas.
- Make some 100 cabinets to house the materials.
- And repair 350 pieces of audio-visual equipment.

The materials were reproduced from Teaching Learning Units (TLU's) in mathematics, social studies, language arts, and science which the school system had been provided with through its affiliation with the Westinghouse Learning Corporation's Project PLAN [Program for Learning in Accordance with Needs].

Twenty students in the Graphic Arts Department of the Vocational-Technical High School, under the supervision of instructors Frederick Gibbs and Robert Grazioso, started the project June 28 and will finish Friday.

Students and instructors have been working an average nine-hour day and oftentimes worked on Saturdays in order to meet the production schedule and have all the materials into the schools before the students returned.

Nine schools have been designated to receive the materials: Sterling and Broad Meadows junior high schools, Adams, Pollard, Lincoln, Gridley Bryant, Myles Standish, and Cranch elementary schools, and Quincy High School.

A master file of all the TLU's that have been printed will be maintained at the Pollard Elementary School as its principal Francis Keegan has been assigned the coordination of Project PLAN materials in the school system.

School officials estimated that some 12,000 separate jobs, with an average of 325 sheets per job, were performed to print the TLU's.

With the increased supply of the individualized instructional materials now on hand, school officials hope to extend the number of students using them from 1,200 to 1,800 this school year.

Some 17 students in the Cabinet-Making Department of the Vocational-Technical High School, under the supervision of instructor Michael Lenbergs, have completed 100 cabinets to house the instructional materials in the schools.

Half of the cabinets are 30 inches wide, 12 inches deep, and 64 inches high and the other 50 are 36 inches high, 12 inches deep, and 49 inches wide to accommodate the varying sizes of paper.

The cabinets are made out of three-quarter inch plywood and have a glossy polyurethane finish.

As another phase of the summer program at the Vocational-Technical school some 20 students under the supervision of instructors Melvin Miller and Arthur Diloroto in the Electronics Department repaired 350 separate pieces of audio-visual equipment from all of the school system's 30 schools.

Students fully repaired equipment when needed parts were available and conducted preventive maintenance such as cleaning and oiling parts on other pieces of equipment.

Types of audio-visual equipment repaired included tape recorders, 16mm projectors, film strip projectors, video-tape recorders, record players, television sets, and head sets.

ARE DENTAL X-RAYS DANGEROUS?

Despite scare publicity about dental X-rays being dangerous, according to the U.S. Public Health Service, new X-ray equipment [if properly used] poses no threat whatsoever. In fact, when shielded by a lead apron you are exposed to less radiation than you normally get from cosmic rays from outer space every day.

First class dental care is not possible without X-rays. They enable your dentist to detect certain conditions such as small cavities on hidden surfaces and diseased areas in jaw bones which otherwise could not be discovered. If X-rays were not taken, your first warning sign would probably be pain caused by an infection of the tooth pulp. By that time, the pulp is already infected, and may be too late for your tooth to be saved. X-rays also help a dentist discover teeth that are developing badly in the jaws such as impacted teeth.

Poet's Corner

The Quincy Sun

A move brought me to Quincy on last September one, And suddenly I grew to know the weekly "Quincy Sun". You sent a gift subscription, a kindly thing to do; These pleasant, small surprises indeed are all too few.

I read of sports and school news, of politics and birth, Of marryings, and parties intent on joy and mirth.

I read Regina Russell, for Libra is my sign, And find advice from Dr. Knox is sensible and fine.

I'm glad when'er the column marked Deaths is rather short, The busy Poet's Corner reveals another sort Of news, for there emotions of longing love are shown, Or many other feelings I'm sure we all have known.

In "On the Screen" your Vincent reveals a talent rare His entertainment comments are fabulously fair.

His interesting items I nowhere else have found In Herald, Globe, or Ledger, or columns that abound.

So thank you for your greeting to this citizen so new, And here's a new subscription - it's certainly your due.

My very kindest wishes to all at sixteen one -

I'm happy that another year I'll always see the SUN.

Barbecued Duckling is Elegant

Roast duckling—South Seas style with fruit rice stuffing—is ideal for an informal dinner party on the patio. If you prefer to barbecue the duckling outside, or on an electric rotisserie indoors, simply insert the rotisserie spit through the cavities of the bird and tighten the holding prongs at both ends of the duckling. Tie the wings against the breast. Tie the legs together loosely, looping the cord around the tail and then tighten the cord to hold the bird securely on the spit.

South Seas Duckling with Fruit Rice Stuffing

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------------|
| Duckling | Fruit Sauce |
| 1 frozen duckling (4 1/2 to 5 pounds) defrosted | 2 tablespoons butter or margarine |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 1/2 cup sugar |
| 1 can (13 1/2 ounce) pineapple tidbits | 1 tablespoon grated orange rind |
| Water | 1/2 cup orange juice |
| 1/2 cup rice | 1 teaspoon grated lemon juice |
| 1 tablespoon sugar | 1 orange, thinly sliced |
| 1 can (3 1/2 ounce) flaked coconut | 2 firm bananas |
| 1/2 cup chopped toasted almonds | |
| 1 tablespoon grated orange rind | |

Wash, drain and pat duckling dry with paper toweling. Sprinkle neck and body cavities with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Drain pineapple tidbits; save syrup. Add water as needed to make the amount of liquid called for in package directions for cooking rice. Combine liquids, rice, remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt and sugar. Bring to boil; stir and cover. Simmer gently until tender. Toast 1/2 cup coconut. Combine rice, pineapple tidbits, toasted coconut, chopped almonds and orange rind; toss lightly. Fill neck and body cavities loosely with stuffing. Skewer neck skin to back. Cover opening of body cavity with aluminum foil and tie legs together loosely. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) until meat on drumstick is tender, about 3 hours. Make sauce, melt butter or margarine. Add sugar and heat until bubbly. Add fruit rinds and juices; bring to a boil. Add orange slices and heat; remove from syrup. Peel bananas and cut into chunks 1-inch lengths. Heat bananas in syrup until glazed yet firm. Remove from syrup. Garnish duckling with orange slices and bananas. Sprinkle with remaining coconut over fruit. Serve with sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Week of Aug. 19 - 26

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - If you have any health problems, this is the week to see your doctor, dentist, etc. for medical check-ups.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Hang onto investment funds - anything that looks appealing now is, in reality, a big bubble that will burst before you know it.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Don't trust your own judgement or advice from other people unless they are totally disinterested parties. Losses occur.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - This is a time when you could be talked into making a large purchase by a smooth-tongued salesman. Read the fine print.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - The money angle you are thinking about is blown up out of proportion - don't mistake imagination for reason.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - You can out-think and out-manuever the best of them now. Use imagination to update your wardrobe and yourself.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - It might be a good idea to clear the decks in the next few months and get yourself ready for the big changes coming soon.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Not a good idea to loan your money this week, no matter how persuasive friends may be - you won't get it back!

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - You may be feeling restless this week and your affairs may be in a state of confusion - postpone action until later.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Legal matters, if possible, should be put off for at least a week - there is too much confusion for a fair judgement.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - You must feel frustrated when you think you have a go-ahead signal, another obstacle appears. Action starts soon.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - This is not the time for any important decisions - there is nothing in your favor at this point. Wait another month.

Fat Body, Slim Salary...

Show this to your husband. According to a recent study of some 50,000 executives, overweight can cost a man several thousand dollars a year.

There's little room at the top for the overstuffed, pot-bellied employee. Bosses discriminate and the fat man climbs up the ladder of success as laboriously as he moves around the golf course. Reason for the discrimination? Mr. Overweight is prone to heart disease, kidney trouble and diabetes, and it is with this in mind that promotions are kept down.

Most men depend on their wives to put them on a diet. It's easier of course if you both eat slim together, and you can involve your children too in Dad's reducing program.

You're never too young or too old to learn good eating habits.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy

Survival, Inc., Cites Ross For Drug Program Assistance

Benjamin H. Ross, State Division of Drug Rehabilitation, has been presented a citation by Survival, Inc.

Dr. Charles Djerf, president of Survival, Inc., Mrs. Lawrence J. Johnson, treasurer and Joseph Whiteman, chairman of the finance committee, made the presentation in Dr. Djerf's office in Quincy.

Dr. Djerf, said Ross had given his personal attention to necessary licensing for Survival. He noted that Ross has given public testimony for Survival, has helped in public relations and has been instrumental in staff recruiting.

"Mr. Ross has certainly gone above and beyond the call of duty," said Dr. Djerf, "and we of Survival are most grateful."

Mrs. Lawrence J. Johnson, a life-long resident of Wollaston well-known for her civic activities, indicated that Survival, Inc., is presently being considered for additional funding from the state and a federal grant recently released through the Norfolk County Commissioner's office.

Whiteman, said that great progress has been made in developing the 1972 fiscal budget which will include the following services:

A walk-in center, hot line, two redirection intake centers for opiate and non-opiate users, in-patient/out-patient and laboratory services, methadone supportive therapy program, counselling services, psychiatric and psychological evaluations, dental care, rehabilitation assistance and job placement.

"This means a great deal to me," said Ross.

In accepting the citation he said he was doing so "in behalf of the many dedicated employees of the Department of Mental Health who are genuinely concerned with providing high quality human services for those individuals with drug-related problems."

'Mind' Lesson-Sermon Sunday At Christian Science Church

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday at 10 a.m. services at First Church of Christ Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center.

"If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him," is the Bible promise opening the responsive reading.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, this citation will be among those read:

"A knowledge of the Science of being develops the latest abilities and possibilities of man. It extends the atmosphere of thought, giving mortals access to broader and higher realms. It raises the thinker into his native air of insight and perspicacity."

Mullaney Urges Better Control Of Educational Expenditures

J. Thomas Mullaney, candidate for School Committee, believes a better job must be done to control educational expenditures.

Mullaney, speaking at a house party at the home of James Blyth, 740 Hancock St., told an audience of 30 attending:

"Each year we hear and read more about school committees in trouble with city councils, selectmen, finance committees and voters. We hear about school committee budgets being taken to court. The debate continues as to whether school committee's should be allowed fiscal autonomy.

"This has occurred because of the tax rate squeeze, and because many school committees do spend more than is necessary to do a good job.

"I feel that the school committee of the future must do a considerably better job of controlling educational expenditures, and justifying school budgets. If they do not then we can expect to see the legislature repeal or modify the fiscal autonomy law."

Later, Mullaney added: "I am not advocating irresponsible budget cuts, but I am advocating a responsible 'hold the line' approach. A city is basically a business and we can only afford so much for education.

Beacon St. Youngsters Plan MD Carnival

Beacon St., Quincy Point, on Aug. 21, will again for the fifth consecutive year be the site of a children's carnival to benefit Muscular Dystrophy.

From 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. there will be games of all kinds for all ages, a sale of food and other refreshments.

Each year a different child heads the committee planning the event. This year it is Debora Farmer's turn, and she will be assisted by a committee of 12 youngsters from 12 to 15 years old.

They are Paul Farmer, Mary Ann Del Greco, Carol Del Greco, Donna Camali, Lena Carnali, Fran Alosi, Lorraine Alosi, Mary Cook, Cheryl Burns, Randy DiPietro and Stephen Palumbo. Also helping out are parents who are providing supervision, and Quincy merchants who have made donations.

The children got the idea for their carnival from Rex Trailer, television performer, who is promoting such programs on his shows.

Quinn To Seek 8th Council Term

Councillor-at-large John J. Quinn, "Dean" and Vice-President of the City Council, is a candidate for re-election to an eighth term. Quinn, with a 99 per cent attendance record at all council and committee meetings, has served as chairman of the major Finance, Public Works and Ordinance Committees, as well as Public Safety, Veterans Services, Public Parks and Recreation, Libraries and Historical Places, and Land Conveyances. He is now chairman of the Rules, Pensions and Federal Funds committee.

"The people's voice must be heard in order to maintain a good government," Quinn said. "In the face of social change and the shifting of public preferences, government must be flexible, sustain a good balance, and a proper blend of authority and responsibility, always protecting public interest."

A graduate of North Quincy High School, Quinn received his bachelor's degree in economics and government from Boston College and attended Boston University.

He is a member of many fraternal, social and civic organizations, among them, The Sons of Italy, Montclair Men's Club, North Quincy K of C, George F. Bryant VFW Post, Wollaston Legion Post 295, etc.

Mrs. Rita Anderson Vows 'No Patronage' As Mayor

Mrs. Rita M. Anderson, 28, of 2 Shawmut Pl., West Quincy, first woman to become a candidate for mayor of Quincy, is pledging a "no patronage" administration.

Mrs. Anderson said: "I will not be under any obligation to make political appointments as I will accept no campaign funds that will obligate me. I hope to be elected and to establish the type of government that the people of this city deserve." Like "most of the people of Quincy," Mrs. Anderson noted, "I deplore the manner in which our political leaders use our city offices as a rung on the ladder to their success It is quite evident that we, the citizens are being cheated of good city government by the selfish ambition shown by our leaders. Their primary concern is not the city, but themselves."

She said she recognizes that Quincy needs and deserves a full time mayor, and that the rising tax rate is the first issue worthy of discussion.

She recommends a

"complete overhaul of city departments" as a first step to eliminate waste and provide efficient and effective city government.

Mrs. Anderson warned that the increase in drug related crimes need "more police, drug education for children and their parents, help for those already addicted, more youth orientated activities, and most important, an honest effort to eliminate the source of the trouble, drugs."

The mother of four children, Mrs. Anderson said she feels "We have a fine school system." She added that she hopes the lunch program will be resolved to everyone's satisfaction.

"Except for new schools and some improvements, we should activate a moratorium on building until we are financially better off," she added. "I would like to see that land preserved which is the natural breeding place and habitat of wildlife. There are many natural parts of this city that need no improvement, only protection and maintenance."

Mrs. Anderson said she would like to see more people involved in city government.

"Most people feel left out of the decisions made that will affect them for years to come," she said.

As Mayor, she would have an "open door policy" to welcome opinions and ideas concerning the city, she promised.

William Grindlay Candidate For School Committee

William S. Grindlay, Jr., 29, of 90 Winthrop Ave., Wollaston, today announced his candidacy for School Committee.

He said the most critical problem is to maintain quality education while keeping the school department budget where taxpayers can afford it.

He said during the campaign he will issue "position papers" clearly expressing the issues as he sees them and telling the voters exactly where he stands.

"There is no question, however," he said, "that the most critical problem facing us today is how to maintain the quality education that we have been accustomed to in the past and still keep the budget of the school department on a level which the taxpayers can afford."

A life-long Quincy resident, he attended Quincy Junior College, Bentley College of Accounting and has taken courses in taxation at Northeastern University.

Grindlay is a senior partner in the firm of Grindlay, Malcolmson & Company, tax accountants, with offices in Wollaston. He is also president of Transcontinental Data Processing Corporation and a director of Arrow Plumbing Co.

He served with the Army as a member of the Military Police Corps.

Active in civic affairs, he served on the Quincy Industrial Development Commission and the Capital Improvement Committee which is planning a five-year capital budget for the city. He has also served as director of the Civil Defense Auxiliary Fire Division.

Marshall Will Seek Fourth Term

Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall today announced his candidacy for re-election, seeking his fourth two-year term.

Marshall in a statement declared:

"Although I have been greatly encouraged by many friends and supporters throughout the city to seek higher office, I feel at the present time it is most important to assist the recently granted Code Enforcement Program in getting off the ground. And, to ensure the residents of Ward 2 that I will continue to work on their behalf on this and other projects on the drawing boards from planning into fruition."

Marshall, Public Works Committee chairman for the past six years, has been Chairman of Veterans Services and Parks and Recreation Committees.

He was the first chairman of the Environmental Control Committee.

He cited as his major accomplishments during the past six years:

- Construction of the Pagnano Senior Citizen Towers at the site of the former abandoned Washington School.

- One million dollars in new sewage facilities for Ward 2.

- Passage of new laws regarding oil booms at waterfront facilities and abandoned boats and piers on the waterfront.

- Youth centers throughout Quincy with state aid.

- Flood study that has led to federal funds through the efforts of Mayor James McIntyre and Congressman James Burke.

- Initiated action against air pollutants.

- Initiated formation of Ward 2 Senior Citizens group with the Quincy Council on Aging.

- Additional fire and police protection for Ward 2 area.

- Street lighting program to assist neighborhood areas.

- Approval of new sea wall for Avalon Beach.

Marshall declared:

"Citizen involvement has been one of the main assets in being able to bring government closer to the people. And, in my opinion, the ward councillor is the closest elected official to the people; therefore, it is my hope to continue to serve the Ward and the people of Quincy to the very best of my ability."

Marshall is married to the former Louise M. Caporale and is the father of four sons: Clifford III, 8; Michael J., 6; Paul S., 4; and Christopher J., 2. The family resides at 64 Edison Street, Quincy Point.

Raymondi Cites Need For Drugs Programs

Daniel G. Raymondi, candidate for the Quincy School Committee said today he favors drug abuse programs in Quincy.

He noted that in January of this year the Norfolk County grand jury handed down a record total of 441 indictments. In the June session, that total was surpassed when 875 indictments were returned. Of these, 443 were drug or drug-related charges.

The drug charges alone in June [443] exceeded the prior record that was established in January for all conceivable offenses. Drug abuse in the community is not abating. In fact, it is increasing at an alarming rate.

Raymondi said he would support an objective drug abuse program for the City of Quincy that would be flexible, individualized and adaptable to the complexities of the drug problem.

"We must implement an educational program within our schools in order to resolve any misconceptions or ill-truths that our youth may have concerning the use of drugs," he said.

"The Quincy community, the school committee, school superintendent and all school principals bear the major responsibility for the development of policies designed to deal with the drug problem."

"The time to act is now. Certainly the time to move in the development of school policy is prior to that time when such policy is demanded by the pressures of an emergency situation."

Matthew J. Cimino Graduates

Marine Pfc. Matthew J. Cimino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cimino of 57 Lind St., Germantown, has graduated from Electrician Course [Class 13-711 at the Marine Corps

Engineer School, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

He is a 1970 graduate of Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Vocational-Technical Education Important, Too, Says Kennedy

Christopher F. Kennedy, candidate for School Committee, believes that vocational-technical education is as important to the community as college preparatory and other programs.

Speaking at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. McGinnis of 23 Barham Ave., North Quincy, Kennedy declared:

"Vocational-technical education is no less important to the community than are college preparatory and other programs. It is vital that each student be able to enroll in a program which is consistent with his ability and with his interest without any fear or feeling of social stratification.

"At the present time, students enrolled in the Vocational-Technical High School take their non-technical courses at one of the other two high schools in order to satisfy accreditation requirements. Unfortunately, this places a further burden on the already over-crowded high schools.

"It seems only logical, then, that this operation should be a two-way street. I have for some time believed that college preparatory students should be encouraged to include in their programs one technical elective each year.

"Whether this be in electronics, carpentry, plumbing, or any other useful and productive field, it would provide useful skills for future contribution to community, family, and home. At the same time, additional spaces should then open up in the so-called academic areas in the high schools."

Morrisette, Salem In 'No Tomorrow'

Morrisette Legion's baseball team Tuesday night met Salem in the third and deciding game of its state championship semifinal series.

If victorious, Ray Cattaneo's club, Zone 6 champion for the 17th time, met Leominster in the state finals. It would have been Morrisette's fifth time in the finals but it has never won the state crown.

Morrisette, after eliminating Arlington and Needham, squeezed by Salem, 2-1, in the semifinal opener Sunday but was bombed 9-0, at Salem Monday, the Quincy club's only bad beating this year.

"It was just a bad game for us at Salem and nothing went right for us," Cattaneo said. "We were held to five hits and they hit our pitchers pretty well, although they scored four runs in the fourth inning without getting a ball out of the infield. That is a tough field to play on."

While Morrisette could get only singles from Tom Burke, Dave Nelson, Pete Lucier, Kevin Ryan and Russ MacDonald, Salem scored a run in the first, four in the fourth, two in the fifth and two more in the eighth.

Jimmy Walker started and gave way to Mike Marvelle and Lucier, who made his pitching bow and hurled two-thirds of an inning. He is the regular third baseman.

Sunday's game before a great crowd at Adams Field packed enough excitement in the ninth inning to suit everyone.

Cattaneo, strapped for pitching, called upon Bobby Malvesti to make his first start after having pitched only three innings of relief during the season and he came through admirably.

He went into the eighth inning with a 2-0 lead, gave up a run in that inning and retired the first batter in the ninth.

Then, however, a walk, a dropped throw at second on a double play and a bad bounce single filled the bases.

Cattaneo lifted Malvesti, who received a deserving ovation, and inserted Marvelle. The only batter he faced hit to third and the runner on third was forced at the plate on a beautiful play by Lucier.

With hard hitting left handed batter Rich Pryor, who had two solid hits, coming up, he put in southpaw Len Pepe. His first pitch was a strike but he then threw three straight balls. With no place to put the batter, he threw a called strike and everything went down to the final pitch. With three and two on the batter, two outs and the bases loaded, Pepe got Pryor on a swinging third strike as the Morrisette players and fans went wild.

Morrisette collected only three hits but scored its two runs in the fifth inning when Ryan walked, MacDonald was hit by a pitch and Malvesti aided his own cause with a line single to left for a run. Joe Marani's single drove in the winning run.

The only other hit after that was Nelson's single in the sixth. In contrast, Salem collected eight hits off Malvesti but he showed some great clutch pitching and had good control.

"He showed a lot of guts," Cattaneo said. "I honestly didn't expect him to go that far after pitching only three relief innings during the season, but he came through beautifully for us."

In the quarterfinal series with Needham, Morrisette, which just can't seem to win easily, rallied from a 2-0 deficit to win the opener, 4-3, in 11 innings as Tony Knasas, pitching in relief of Walker, picked up the win.

The second game ended in a 3-3 tie as Marvelle started pitching and had relief help from Pepe and Knasas, and then Morrisette won the clincher, 8-6, after leading, 8-0, going into the final inning. Five hits gave Needham six runs but they left the tying runs on base.

The state champion will compete in the Northeast Regional Tourney starting Wednesday and continuing through the 30th, in Keene, N.H. The champions from Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Connecticut and New York will be in the regionals with the survivor going to the national finals at Tucson, Arizona, Sept. 2 to 7.

New Attendance Mark Chummy Left Field Wall Keeps Fans Packing Fenway

By TOM SULLIVAN

Have you ever wondered why the Red Sox, despite some indifferent and sometimes downright bad baseball, continue to break attendance records and continually jam Fenway Park?

This writer, who has covered the Sox for 15 years, feels this chummy Fenway Park which makes even a seven or eight-run lead unsafe, is the big reason.

Fenway, with its short left field wall, is one of the cleanest and chummiest parks in the American League and the fans love to see the players knock the wall down or clear it.

Among the several games I have attended this year were the recent 12-11 laughter with Detroit and the 13-11 travesty with Milwaukee.

These games, from a writer's standpoint, were nightmares and horrible to watch. They produced some baseball that even Little Leaguers would be ashamed of.

However, the fans loved them. I heard many outside the park saying what "great" games they were. It is this type of game which keeps the fans coming.

Among those who concur with me is Art Keefe, a former Quincy resident and now the Sox statistician and assistant director of public relations, who admitted "We might hate to watch these games, but don't those fans love them? We can't knock them when they attract packed houses." Bill Crowley, director of public relations, nodded in agreement.

Despite one of the smallest seating capacities in the league, the Sox are leading every club in home attendance, even Detroit, whose park can seat 20,000 more fans than Fenway.

Many say the Sox would break every attendance mark in both leagues if they could fit 50,000 or more fans into Fenway.

However, Vice President in Charge of Player Personnel Haywood Sullivan, who lived in Quincy during his playing days with the Sox, doesn't agree.

"I think it's the chummy park which puts them right in the game that attracts the fans," he said. "I feel we might attract even fewer people if we had a big park."

It had been suggested that Owner Tom Yawkey buy up property on Lansdowne Street, knock down the fence and make the park bigger.

I feel this would have been a big mistake and the park would have lost much of its crowd appeal.

And the fans wouldn't be as close to their favorites to cheer them on when they are hustling and playing well and booing them when they play poorly and fail to hustle.

They have been booing Carl Yastrzemski pretty good lately, and, contrary to the beliefs of many other writers, I feel he has deserved the boos. Not so much because he has done virtually nothing to help the team at bat but because of his spouting off, something he has done ever since joining the team.

Yaz chewed Manager Eddie Kasko out in print about not batting him fourth. And it wasn't until this week he finally was taken out of the fourth spot and returned to third.

Win or lose, the fans will continue to come to Fenway and it appears the Sox could have one of their top attendance's this year. They are well ahead of last year when they had more than 1.7 million fans at home. The all-time high was 1,940,788 in 1968.

Quincy Track Club Stars Compete In U.S. Youth Games

Maria Ciano, 13-year old Quincy junior high school student who could develop into one of the top girl runners in the state, continues each week to add to her laurels.

The sister of Quincy High stars Bobby and Peter, Maria is one of four members of the Quincy Track Club to qualify for the U.S. Youth Games being conducted today through Sunday at White Stadium.

The other qualifiers are Cheryl Hennessey, Judy Foley and Kathy Bennett.

Maria, elected next year's QTC co-captain along with Miss Bennett, continues undefeated in the weekly Brockton Development Meets and last week received a trophy for being the outstanding female athlete in the meet.

She also ran away with the first QTC cross country race last week, covering the 1½ miles in the outstanding time of 9:51.

Maria won the 12-13 age group race by nearly three minutes over Joyce Flynn, who was followed by Gertrude McManus, Lynn Walkama, Darlene Prescott, Cheryl Hennessey, Terry and Peggy Morrissey.

In the 9-11 group Rory Nolan won and still another Ciano, Christine, was second.

Miss Bennett won the 14-15 race followed by Sheila and Laury Nolan and Cathy Ilacqua won the 16-18 race.

Harry Williams, a Broad Meadows Junior High student who is improving every week, won the boys' 12-15 meet.

In last week's Brockton Development Meet Miss Ciano won the half mile again, followed by teammates Bennett and Jill Seamans.

Miss Ilacqua was second, Donna Stangle fourth and Maryann Lynch fifth in the 100. Williams was fourth in the men's 100 and sixth in the 440. The 440-yard relay team of Misses Ciano, Seamans, Bennett and Ilacqua, won, while a team of Misses Stangle, Lynn, Hennessey and Jean Connatta, took second.

In last week's Boston Youth Activities Meet at White Stadium Miss Ciano won the 14-15 year old 440 with Miss Seamans second, Miss Hennessey won the 12-13 high jump with Kellianne Clark second, Miss Clark won the 12-13 shot put with Miss Seamans second, and Miss Bennett took second in the 14-15 220.

Coach Peter Gallagher, who is doing much to hike interest in girls' track, has seen his Quincy Track Club grow from a handful of girls to more than 30 girls and a few boys who have been busy competing every week during the summer. He is now planning for fall and winter programs.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Now, A Silent Movie

Don't know about you, but I for one find DYAN CANNON's multiple screen appearances a bore. It's like, if you've seen one DYAN CANNON performance you've seen them all... Overexposure is one thing, but seeing Miss CANNON in every other film can be trying on one's nerves. A great actress she'll never be... Newcomer MELBA MOORE is expected to launch her much anticipated motion picture career later on in the Fall. And there's a gal who has talent, as she so demonstratively proved with a Tony Award performance in the stage success "PURLIE"...

Those tired of all the obscene language being uttered in pictures today won't want to miss "JIGSAW PUZZLE". This one is a "silent movie". Sort of brings you back to the good old days before the advent of the "talkies" and all those horrid four letter words... Producer ROSS HUNTER's nice guy legend continues to grow. He has been singled out as a friend of labor by the International Alliance of Theatrical Employees Local 650, and will be given a plaque for his "taking a position beneficial to the crafts of the industry"... The motion picture industry needs more like him... MAXIMILIAN SCHELL's first directorial effort, "FIRST LOVE" was well received at the recent Moscow Film Festival...

Those wondering about the release of "THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WAGER" have only to go and see "McCABE AND MRS. MILLER". The same film, but with a new title... Mannequin LOIS CHILES has the acting bug... The 23-day ordeal of UPI news reporter KATE WEBB as a Vietcong prisoner in Cambodia, will be the subject of a motion picture scheduled to roll before the cameras next spring. The picture will be produced by YVETTE MIMIEUX, who also will star in the title role... "BLESS THE BEAST AND CHILDREN" won't make any friends of the National Rifle Assn... The STANLEY KRAMER production has more than an anti-gun message. The film is an indictment against all those who "kill for sport"...

Now that DAVID JANSSEN's involved with another television series, can we assume he has given up pursuit of his quest as a superstar film actor?... JANSSEN never quite came across on the big screen, and he has probably made the right choice in going back to a media where he has a built in audience from his "FUGITIVE" days. And then again, one doesn't have to pay to see him on the small screen... Can't figure out the "DEATH IN VENICE" box score. The picture is dying at the turnstiles. When I first saw this magnificent film, I tabbed it one of this year's 10 best. And to my way of thinking "DEATH IN VENICE" still is...

"THE OMEGA MAN" is CHARLTON HESTON's next release... NORMAN MAILER enthusiasts won't want to pass up "MAIDSTONE". The film rates as one of MAILER's most extensive works, as he is the pictures star, director and writer. In all three channels MAILER exudes his own unique charisma and boundless energy, and this coupled with his own brand of excellence, make this a must see motion picture, for not only MAILER followers, but the avid buff as well... A four star tour de force in the ORSEN WELLES tradition... And isn't ELI WALLACH one of the most colorful character actors in the business today. Have yet to see him perform without an endearing gusto, which so perfectly captures the robust quality of the character he is portraying. Truly one of America's gifted thespians...

Now that ANN-MARGRET is a proven star "CARNAL KNOWLEDGE", a wave of earlier ANN-MARGRET films are due to flourish in a Renaissance dedicated to the worship of her being... The only problem with the re-release of her earlier works, is that the viewer is faced with the redundancy of sitting through hour upon hour of shoddy craftsmanship... Miss MARGRET's work in "CARNAL KNOWLEDGE" is spellbinding. She literally carries the film, her portrayal is so moving. However, her previous film credits leave a good deal to be desired in the way of acting... It would be wise for producers to leave well enough alone by not rehashing for public consumption a review of her earlier films... For by not doing this, the growing ANN-MARGRET legend would suffer an artistic black eye...

"NINETY-EIGHT" is the next scheduled effort for the husband and wife team of CHARLES BRONSON and JILL IRELAND... And while on the subject of BRONSON, hasn't his stature grown the last several years?... If you pay close attention, you'll catch a glimpse of author JACQUELINE SUSANN in "THE LOVE MACHINE"... "RETURN OF COUNT YORGA" made its splash on the national scene a few weeks back. If it's one genre people never tire of, it is the horror show movie. "RETURN" is the AIP peek to the big money grosser, "COUNT YORGA"... A BUSTER KEATON festival is a happening in swinging London... From all reports, tickets are selling as fast as they are being printed...

MIA FARROW is the second actress to be paged as a "CAMILLE" possibility... Doesn't "DOC" give one a chilling glimpse at American folk hero Wyatt Earp? A Law and Order advocate Earp wasn't. For a realistic peek of the old West, "DOC" shouldn't be missed...

McDonald Bows Out

throughout the county.

"This has made it difficult when the city council has been in session on many of those same evenings.

"And because of all these meetings, I have had little time to spend with my family."

"I sincerely appreciate the privilege the people of Quincy have attended me by electing me to the City Council for six terms. It is with mixed emotions that I have decided not to seek re-election."

McDonald who topped the council at-large field two years ago, was first elected as a Ward 4 councillor in 1959.

He served eight years in Ward 4 and four as a councillor at-large.

"I am," mused McDonald, "the third one in the family to retire from Quincy politics undefeated."

He noted that his father, George P. McDonald and his uncle, Thomas McDonald served Ward 4 in the 1940's and 1930's respectively. Both retired without defeat, he said.

McDonald, employed as an MDC principal storekeeper, has headed the Public Safety, Refuse and Oversight Committees in the council and served on most of the major committees.

Joseph McDonough Enters Council Race

Atty. Joseph P. McDonough of 65 Miller St., West Quincy, today announced his candidacy for City Council at-large.

McDonough, a veteran campaigner, was nominated as a Democratic candidate for state senator and district attorney in the days when Quincy was a Republican stronghold.

"My return to the political arena at this time," he said, "is prompted by a desire to assure the taxpayers of Quincy of a choice in the election of candidates."

McDonough, an honor graduate of Suffolk Law School, served overseas with the Army Air Force during World War II.

He has been a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, and is a past commander of the Cavanagh DAV Chapter, past senior vice-commander Robert Nickerson Legion Post and is a member of the George F. Bryan VFW Post.

He has served as neighborhood director for the Red Feather and Community Fund Drives and neighborhood coordinator for the Mothers March Against Polio.

John T. Bryan Takes Part In NATO Marine Exercise

Marine Pfc. John T. Bryan, son of Mrs. Winifred A. Bryan of 193 Arlington St., Wollaston, participated in a three-day joint North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) exercise with Marine Corps Battalion Landing Team 3/2 at Strimon River, Greece.

His battalion joined forces with Greek Marines and treaded the paths of conquerors since the days of Alexander the Great. Battalion Landing Team 3/2 is home-based at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Bryan is a 1970 graduate of Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

After 12-Year Wait, Mass Transit Returns To Quincy

WHO COULD RESIST this invitation from pretty Diane Jette to attend the big T Party Sept. 1? Special activities are planned at North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center MBTA stations to welcome mass transportation back to Quincy after more than a decade's absence.

VIEW OF MODERN $5.8 million Quincy Center MBTA station and parking garage looking from Upland Rd. Garage will accommodate 900 vehicles. Corkscrew shaped structure at left affords quick exit for automobiles of commuters.

LINING UP to sign up for reduced-fare identification cards are some of the estimated 1,000 senior citizens shown at special registration at Quincy Center MBTA station mall. With them is Charles G. Peterson, chairman of the Quincy MBTA welcoming committee.

'BYE 'BYE, BABY - Kiss Ride Parking area at North Quincy station is where wifey buses hubby before he boards MBTA train and she then has the family car for herself for rest of day.

WOLLASTON STATION, at Beale St. and Newport Ave., has parking space for 500 cars. Steps lead down to entrance from the parking area off Beale St. and a pedestrian entrance from Newport Ave.

Proof Of Age In Advance Expedites Social Security Claims

People who may soon be eligible for social security benefits can make the claim process easier by getting their birth certificates or other proofs of age in advance, according to Frank Culkin, social security district manager in Quincy.

Proof of age is a key factor in processing claims for social security benefits. Birth dates and relationships also must be established for dependents entitled to benefits.

"A birth or baptismal certificate recorded before your fifth birthday is usually adequate proof of your age," Culkin said. "But if either document is registered in a distant state or foreign country, it's advisable to send for a copy well ahead of when you'll need it."

Any social security office will help you develop proof of age, Culkin said.

"If a certificate was filed when you were born," he said, "social security can tell you how and where to write to apply for a copy."

If a birth or baptismal certificate is used as proof of age for social security, the document must be either the original or a copy certified by the records custodian, according to Culkin.

"If you can't get either a birth certificate or a baptismal certificate," he said, "proof of age may be developed from family Bibles, marriage records, school records, Federal census records, or other documents."

People who are otherwise eligible for social security retirement benefits need proof that they're 65 to collect full benefits—or that they're 62 or older to collect reduced benefits.

"You also have to show you are 65 or older to be covered by Medicare, which is administered by social security," Culkin said.

Children need proof of birth date and relationship to the worker involved if they are eligible for benefits.

"These children may collect monthly social security benefits until they're 18—or until they're 22 if they remain full-time students and unmarried," Culkin explained.

WE GET LETTERS

Survival Or Suicide

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Today ... may be just another day to us, but to "historians," it means another "notch of strife" in the stream of events. And since our daily lives are constantly filled with such struggles and triumphs I would like to bring to a "focus" a particular current topic of "youth and drugs."

C-E-R-T-A-I-N young people are drawn to the use of narcotics because they lack some vital elements in their lives. Reasons and motivations are numerous. But some of the basic factors have to do with the climate and influence of their homes, churches and schools underscored with a "lack of love." This in turn breeds a "lack of respect." Love and respect are similar to twins. They are inseparable. You can not love anything or anyone without first respecting it. For instance, we love our country—but without respect we have no country.

As the saying goes: "life is not always a bed of roses ...". "For this reason individuals become discouraged and lean on something they think will dissolve all their problems. In this special issue, that "certain something or crutch," takes the form of a "dope trip which really melts all difficulties into thin air." When the effects of the drug has worn off, however, Reality "smacks" right face to realization ... and tripped back to the land of disillusionment. Then — life becomes twice as hard to handle, since you are not only fighting life itself, but addiction as well.

So you see, drugs, doesn't solve anything after all, and it doesn't help you to stand on your own two feet. It takes staunch courage and sacrifices to face worry knots and tensions, coated with faith, hope and love. You will then be filled with confidence, ready to tackle life with eagerness and zeal and a willingness to take risks.

Now that you have taken hold of yourself, and have come to your senses ... if you are going to become addicted, make sure the addiction is positive and constructive. Grab the right mental rein with a clear, strong hold ... for if you don't ... you will again be pulled back to the left mental rein with a foggy, weak letdown. You have a choice ... to be or not to be ... a dope addict. And should you need a helping hand in climbing the stumbling ladder — help can be had at reliable sources ... medical centers and hot lines ... where willing citizens are helpful and understanding.

It has been said that "History is Philosophy ... teaching by example." To be historically minded, is to see in perspective relations, judging tolerantly, remembering how differently men have thought and acted in different times, and always to keep an open mind, ready to receive and weigh new evidence.

Now, you may ask me, what has History to do with all this? I can only answer this question by saying, "that the young blood of today which is the flower of youth and potential influence of the Future [to run things their way], has everything to do with it." America has always been the leading nation of the world. But whether it will still "lead" in the future will remain to be seen.

Youth has the power to master it for good or evil. But a great deal will depend on their moral fiber which flows from the stream of love ... "Love of God, parents, self, neighbor and country". Therefore, let's not fail our ancestors. Determine now and firmly resolve with clear and sound intentions to add another "history notch" in helping to shape America's fate and prestige.

Don't let the temptation of drug addiction spoil the victorious vision-to-be. It's up to you, you have the inner controls. And the next time you have any ideas of taking a "cloud trip" make sure you press the Survival mental-button ... where dreams come true ... Because if you don't — you just have to take the consequences of broken dreams ... which may sometimes lead to the Suicidal mental-button.

Of this, Quincy will receive $470,600 for local jobs, and

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Well, politically speaking, last week had to be The Week That Was.

You almost needed a score card to keep track of the moves and players at Checkerboard Sq.

Mayor McIntyre, after weeks of mental wrestling with the Big Decision, finally made it. He won't seek a fourth term. It was a tough one for him to make. They say it almost came down to flipping a coin — "heads I will, tails I won't."

Anyway, the breeze that was felt through Quincy right after McIntyre's announcement was not a breeze at all. It was a collective sigh of relief from the camps of the announced mayoralty candidates.

The question now is whether McIntyre will openly endorse one of the contenders for his throne. Or whether he will quietly throw his support to one behind the scenes.

If he gets involved openly or privately it may get to be a real donnybrook before November.

THE SAME DAY McIntyre was bowing out, so was Councillor George F. McDonald. He won't seek re-election to his council at-large seat.

And that was good for another sigh from the at-large contenders. It's hard to buck an incumbent. Now they have an open seat to shoot for.

Meanwhile, speculation persists that McDonald will get a new municipal post. Something like Traffic Commissioner.

NEXT DAY James [Pete] Ricciuti, the mayor's right arm, was named Public Works Commissioner. And Mrs. Louise Brabazon, the Mayor's loyal personal girl Friday, became His Honor's new executive secretary for the remaining months of his now Lane Duck administration.

YOU PROBABLY noticed that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, has told the Quincy Housing Authority that the controversial $17,500 assistant administrator post is a no-no. HUD also thumbed down a proposed $8,500 salary for an administrative secretary. Too much money for the jobs.

Which should make Francis X. McCauley board member and treasurer, feel pretty good. He was the one who fought the $17,500 job as a "waste of taxpayers money". And took some abuse for his stand.

HE HASN'T announced yet, but Paul Harold of Adams Shore will definitely make a run for state representative in the First Norfolk [Ward 1] District. The young Democrat is circulating nomination papers and is expected to make it official next week. Harold is just back from Washington where he served on the summer staff of Congressman James A. Burke.

IN CASE YOU'VE been wondering, Ward 1 Councillor Edward Graham will seek re-election and has no plans to run for Arthur Tobin's now vacant state representative seat.

AND, former City Council President Joseph LaRaia will continue his run for council at-large despite the urging of some for him to switch and make a bid for mayor.

THE RECENT DEATH of Mrs. Ida Lyons takes from the local-state scene one of the most dynamic "petticoat politicians" in recent times. She founded the Quincy Women's Democratic Club in 1953, was named to "Who's Who of American Women", served as executive secretary to former Atty. Gen. Edward McCormack as secretary to then Sen. John F. Kennedy at the Democratic National Convention, Chicago in 1956.

As Democratic State Committeewoman she was no shrinking violet. Any male delegate or candidate who tried to shunt her aside, found themselves fighting a female windmill. She spoke her mind and they had better listen. She seldom gave an inch of ground. No one pushed her around because she was a woman. She'd push right back.

Ida, as someone once said, had guts. And it's too bad there aren't a few more people around today like her—male and female.

MBTA Multi-Million Dollar S.S. Line Opens Sept. 1

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Mass transportation returns to Quincy Sept. 1 for the first time in 12 years when the long-awaited MBTA South Shore extension opens officially.

A variety of festivities are planned at the North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center stations to mark the big occasion.

It will be the first time trains have operated between Quincy and Boston since the defunct Old Colony Line shut down in 1959.

The multi-million dollar MBTA line is a "first" for Quincy — its first rapid transit commuter service ever.

On hand to greet the new MBTA trains will be dignitaries headed by Gov. Francis Sargent, former Governor John A. Volpe, now U.S. Secretary of Transportation; Carlos Villarreal, Administrator of Urban Transportation; Mayor James R. McIntyre and Quincy City Council members, as well as officials of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

South Shore residents will be re-introduced to trains after a 12-year absence with free rides from Quincy to the "South Portal" interchange near Columbia, as guests of the MBTA.

Festivities are scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and continue until evening with the focal point in each community the MBTA's modern stations and parking areas.

At Quincy Center, emphasizing the "community event" will be hostesses from the Quincy Federation of Women's Organizations, headed by Mrs. Richard Schiavo.

In addition to presiding at refreshment tables, individual clubs are being invited to set up displays and sales tables on the mall.

There will be a series of shows, featuring women's, teenagers, and possibly, men's fashions, presented by Quincy shop owners.

Actual ribbon-cutting ceremonies at Quincy Center is scheduled for 4 p.m. Before and after that time, there will be music by a Dixieland band, puppet shows at different hours, and an evening square dance.

Also planned, according to Bernard C. Moore, executive secretary Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, is a "Student Prince and Princess" contest, similar to the Christmas Festival Prince and Princess. Registration forms will be available in the various stores. Royalty selected will assist at the ceremonies.

The North Quincy Business and Professional Association will have a program geared for children through adults. The Metropolitan District Commission's Traveling Zoo will be at the North Quincy Station parking lot from 10 a.m. to noon.

Free hay rides will be available from noon to 4 p.m., and in the evening there will be a jazz concert by a 15-piece band. The Minus One Rock Group will be a special attraction.

A free shuttle bus will operate between Billings Rd and North Quincy Station, Free Refreshments, "giveaways", square dancing and entertainment are planned.

In addition, two $25 savings bonds will be given away through registrations at North Quincy stores. Planning the event are Gino Marini, Joseph Doran and Andrew Walsh.

At Wollaston, "Queen for a Day" and "Miss Wollaston" competitions will highlight a two-day celebration, planned under direction of Dan Barry, president of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association. Aug. 28 is the deadline for entries. Coupons in this week's issue of the Quincy Sun may be left with participating merchants.

The "Queen" will be chosen from among women 18 years and older, while the "Miss Wollaston" beauty contest is open to single girls from 18 to 24 years. Valuable prizes will be awarded, and the two winners will take part in the official opening ceremonies.

Here, too, there will be a fashion show by Ideal Dress Shop, entertainment by barbershop quartets, antique car displays, glee clubs, floats, square dancing from 7 to 10 p.m., clowns and puppet shows.

The old-fashioned trolley car and "Adventureland" float of the 1970 Christmas Festival parade will be on hand to provide children's rides.

There will be band music for the 3:45 p.m. ribbon-cutting ceremonies at Wollaston Station. A concert is planned.

Charles G. Peterson, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank and chairman of the South Shore Transit Committee named by Mayor McIntyre, is coordinator of the day's activities.

MBTA hosts will be Henry S. Lodge, chairman of the board of directors, Georgina Hossfeld, Miss Massachusetts of 1970, and General Manager Joseph C. Kelly.

PRETTY Phyllis Belostock waves a big hello beside one of the trains that will run on South Shore extension line.

JUST 15 minutes from downtown Boston Washington Station is downtown Quincy station between Hancock St. and Upland Rd, off Quincy Square.

Sargent Proclaims Sept. 1 'Support Transportation Day'

Gov. Francis W. Sargent has issued a proclamation declaring Sept. 1, as "Support Public Transportation Day."

Urging all citizens of the Commonwealth to take part in the event, the Governor noted that Sept. 1 marks the inauguration of rapid transit service to the South Shore by the MBTA.

Text of the proclamation follows:

"WHEREAS, Public Transportation is playing a vital role in the economic growth and development of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and

"WHEREAS, thousands of our citizens are dependent upon Public Transportation as their primary means of commuting, and

"WHEREAS, Public Transportation is an effective means of combating air pollution in our smog-filled cities, and

"WHEREAS, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority will open its new extension to the South Shore [Quincy] on September 1, the first such extension completed by this body politic;

"NOW, therefore, Francis W. Sargent, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, do hereby proclaim September 1, 1971, as SUPPORT PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION DAY and urge the citizens of the Commonwealth to take cognizance of this event and to participate fittingly in its observance.

NORTH QUINCY station between Hancock St. and Newport Ave. Extension with parking area accommodating 841 vehicles, is a virtual next door neighbor of multi-million dollar State Street South project whose steel skeleton can be seen rising at left.

HUGE MALL extends from Quincy Center MBTA station to Hancock St. with historic First Parish Church in background affording a blend of today and yesterday. This will be feeder bus way stop for commuters.

Proof Of Age In Advance Expedites Social Security Claims

People who may soon be eligible for social security benefits can make the claim process easier by getting their birth certificates or other proofs of age in advance, according to Frank Culkin, social security district manager in Quincy.

Proof of age is a key factor in processing claims for social security benefits. Birth dates and relationships also must be established for dependents entitled to benefits.

"A birth or baptismal certificate recorded before your fifth birthday is usually adequate proof of your age," Culkin said. "But if either document is registered in a distant state or foreign country, it's advisable to send for a copy

well ahead of when you'll need it."

Any social security office will help you develop proof of age, Culkin said.

"If a certificate was filed when you were born," he said, "social security can tell you how and where to write to apply for a copy."

If a birth or baptismal certificate is used as proof of age for social security, the document must be either the original or a copy certified by the records custodian, according to Culkin.

"If you can't get either a birth certificate or a baptismal certificate," he said, "proof of age may be developed from family Bibles, marriage records, school records, Federal census records, or other documents."

People who are otherwise eligible for social security retirement benefits need proof that they're 65 to collect full benefits—or that they're 62 or older to collect reduced benefits.

"You also have to show you are 65 or older to be covered by Medicare, which is administered by social security," Culkin said.

Children need proof of birth date and relationship to the worker involved if they are eligible for benefits.

"These children may collect monthly social security benefits until they're 18—or until they're 22 if they remain full-time students and unmarried," Culkin explained.

WE GET LETTERS

Survival Or Suicide

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Today ... may be just another day to us, but to "historians", it means another "notch of strife" in the stream of events. And since our daily lives are constantly filled with such struggles and triumphs I would like to bring to a "focus" a particular current topic of "youth and drugs".

C-E-R-T-A-I-N young people are drawn to the use of narcotics because they lack some vital elements in their lives. Reasons and motivations are numerous. But some of the basic factors have to do with the climate and influence of their homes, churches and schools underscored with a "lack of love." This in turn breeds a "lack of respect." Love and respect are similar to twins. They are inseparable. You can not love anything or anyone without first respecting it. For instance, we love our country—but without respect we have no country.

As the saying goes: "life is not always a bed of roses ...". "For this reason individuals become discouraged and lean on something they think will dissolve all their problems. In this special issue, that "certain something or crutch", takes the form of a "dope trip which really melts all difficulties into thin air." When the effects of the drug has worn off, however, Reality "smacks" right face to realization ... and tripped back to the land of disillusionment. Then — life becomes twice as hard to handle, since you are not only fighting life itself, but addiction as well.

So you see, drugs, doesn't solve anything after all, and it doesn't help you to stand on your own two feet. It takes staunch courage and sacrifices to take worry knots and tensions, coated with faith, hope and love. You will then be filled with confidence, ready to tackle life with eagerness and zeal and a willingness to take risks.

Now that you have taken hold of yourself, and have come to your senses ... if you are going to become addicted, make sure the addiction is positive and constructive. Grab the right mental rein with a clear, strong hold ... for if you don't ... you will again be pulled back to the left mental rein with a foggy, weak letdown. You have a choice ... to be or not to be ... a dope addict. And should you need a helping hand in climbing the stumbling ladder — help can be had at reliable sources ... medical centers and hot lines ... where willing citizens are helpful and understanding.

It has been said that "History is Philosophy ... teaching by example." To be historically minded, is to see in perspective relations, judging tolerantly, remembering how differently men have thought and acted in different times, and always to keep an open mind, ready to receive and weigh new evidence.

Now, you may ask me, what has History to do with all this? I can only answer this question by saying, "that the young blood of today which is the flower of youth and potential influence of the Future [to run things their way], has everything to do with it." America has always been the leading nation of the world. But whether it will still "lead" in the future will remain to be seen. Youth has the power to master it for good or evil. But a great deal will depend on their moral fiber which flows from the stream of love ... "Love of God, parents, self, neighbor and country". Therefore, let's not fail our ancestors. Determine now and firmly resolve with clear and sound intentions to add another "history notch" in helping to shape America's fate and prestige.

Don't let the temptation of drug addiction spoil the victorious vision-to-be. It's up to you, you have the inner controls. And the next time you have any ideas of taking a "cloud trip" make sure you press the Survival mental-button ... where dreams come true ... Because if you don't — you just have to take the consequences of broken dreams ... which may sometimes lead to the Suicidal mental-button.

Spiritual Life Day

We need not wait for total consonance,
To join our hearts in hymns of divine praise,
To lift our souls above our confused creeds,
And so be One in Spirit,
straightaway.

We need not sigh for distant unity,
While dialogues fluctuate night and day,
For we can join our hands in genuine love,
And so be One in Spirit,
straightaway.

The Loved And The Lonely

Alone you find solitude, together its Love,
The lonely all pray to the almighty above
The Loved are the loving and need not pray
The lonely are lost, while the loved find their way
To each his own, and do your thing,
But remember the lonely need some loving.

Fresh Sunblushed Peaches Make Summery Cream Pie

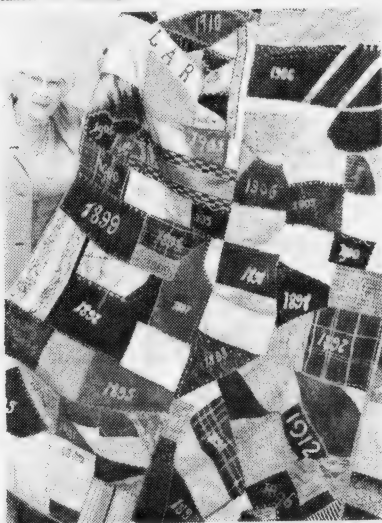

If you had been a hostess in Queen Victoria's time, you might have ended a high fashion dinner in great style by serving each guest a single fresh peach in a nest of snowy white wool. The peach would have cost $5.00, an exotic rarity. Today fresh, sunblushed peaches are for everybody. They're in good supply at market, and they taste particularly fine in a homemade Peach Cream Pie. It's a luscious, light as air affair, fresh and fragrant with the summer's delicious golden gems from Peachland U.S.A. This pie is easy to make ahead and chill in the refrigerator 'til serving time.

Peach Cream Pie

- 1 cup diced peeled peaches
- 2/3 cup sugar, divided
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- 1 envelope unflavored
gelatine
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup heavy cream,
whipped
- 1 baked 9-inch pastry shell
- Additional peaches for garnish

Sprinkle diced peaches with 2 tablespoons sugar and lemon juice; set aside. Reserve 4 tablespoons sugar. Mix remaining sugar, gelatine and salt in small saucepan. Stir in milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine dissolves, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add vanilla and almond extract. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Add reserved 4 tablespoons sugar gradually, continuing to beat until stiff. Drain peaches and add to gelatine mixture. Fold in beaten egg whites, then whipped cream; turn into baked pastry shell. Chill until set, several hours. Garnish with additional peaches, peeled and sliced, just before serving.
Makes: 6 to 8 servings.

'Happiness, Self-Discipline'

"I'm determined that when I'm 50 I'm not going to be a sagging...mis-shapen...nagging woman as I go into menopause. I'm 36 now and I can do something about my 10 pounds overweight...my fits of coughing from smoking. It's just going to take a little self-discipline."

"I compliment you highly"...I said to this already beautiful woman. "Besides the benefits at age 50 you'll have 14 years of benefits between now and then." [Don't I add quickly?] She has the right attitude...my concern now is her final decision to get started. That takes self-discipline.

That's just the problem for many people...getting started. "The road to hell is paved with good intentions"...who said that? In the last chapter of a book I've been reading the author appealed for the reader to put into practice his suggestions. He said that knowledge becomes wisdom only after it has been put into practical use. His last words were..."You alone hold the key to happiness." I believe that.

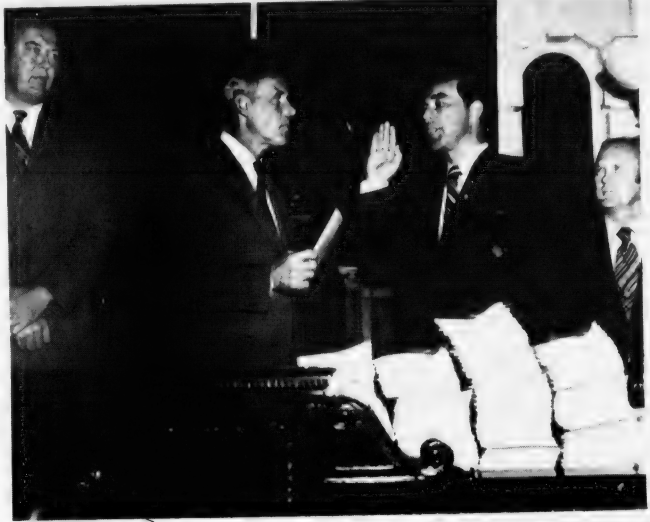

Childhood inadequacies show up in adulthood because of the strains and stresses of life. The time to fix the leak in the roof is when it's discovered. So with our personalities...it makes no sense to go on and on with known or unknown defects which prevent happiness for oneself and people close to us...without doing something about correction.

But to do what needs to be done takes self-discipline. When you were a child your motivation may have been a strong mother or father who demanded that you do what needed to be done. As an adult...you have to make your own decision for self-discipline.

At the beginning of this summer I talked with a college girl who had barely squeezed through her second year. After a few sessions we found that she was a poor reader. Little wonder she was having difficulty in school. I recommended a reading course for the summer. She hesitated because of the cost and time involved...but decided to go ahead. After six weeks she told me she began the course reading 150 words per minute and was now reading 1000 words per minute. "Was it difficult?" I asked. Her answer was..."Not after I made up my mind to discipline myself. It's been one of the most profitable summers of my life. I'm really looking forward to going back to school." Her earlier discouragement had turned into real happiness. The key for her was self-discipline.

Yours may not be a reading problem...but maybe it's a smoking...drinking...temper problem. Maybe it's a lack of being sensitive and aware of other people. Maybe it's feelings of inferiority...negativism...self-pity. Maybe it's lack of knowing how to treat a man/woman that is creating so much conflict in your marriage. Whatever the problem in your life...and whatever the cause...you'll probably not achieve happiness until you decide that you're going to correct the "leak in your personality."

We humans are problem solving animals...if we don't have a real problem to solve we usually work on such things as reducing our golf score...or increasing our bridge score. Like the college girl...most of us would do well to face up to our problem...accept the fact of it...find a solution even if we use professional help. Then through effective self-discipline rise out of the doldrums of life to real happiness.

McIntyre Feels 'Relief' Over Decision Not To Seek 4th Term

Mayor James R. McIntyre said last night he feels "a great relief" over his decision not to seek a fourth term.

"I feel a great relief now," he said, "because it was such a difficult decision to make. It was a decision that I faced with strong mixed feelings."

He added: "It is also a relief to know that I won't in the future have the great responsibility that comes with the office."

"I don't think anyone who is not mayor realizes the day-to-day pressures and the unanticipated crises and the difficulties under which a political chief executive has to operate."

McIntyre said he is "very grateful" for the letters, calls and comments he has received since making his announcement last week.

"I sincerely appreciate their personal best wishes and compliments for my six year administration," he said.

The text of his decision announcement last week follows:

"It is with emotion and mixed feelings that I make this announcement not to seek re-election as Mayor of the City of Quincy since I have thoroughly appreciated the distinct honor paid to me by my fellow citizens—that of being Mayor of my native city, the city which my father also served for 40 years.

"I have tried to serve with dignity, honesty, fairness and diligence and hope that the majority of citizens will look kindly upon the years of public service which I have been privileged to give."

"It has always been my intention to conscientiously attempt to look to our future with the objective of making Quincy a better place in which to live and work. At this time, added state duties, coupled with personal and family responsibilities, have compelled me, however, to make this decision."

"A great debt of gratitude is owed by me to those who have assisted me in my administration, and I wish to thank them all from the bottom of my heart. I will always have a deep interest in my community and intend to continue to be an active participant."

William Callahan Named To Taxpayers Association Board

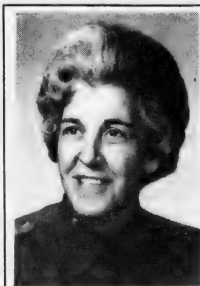

William J. Callahan, former chairman of the Quincy Board of Assessors, has been named to the Quincy Taxpayers Association's Board of Directors.

The appointment was made by Richard L. Darr, association president.

Callahan, presently a legislative agent for the Massachusetts Assessors Association, was a member of the Quincy Taxpayers Association before he served as a Quincy assessor.

"Mr. Callahan's more than 30 years of experience in the tax field will be most helpful to the association," said Darr. "We certainly welcome him on his return to our membership."

●Along The Campaign Trail Francis McCauley To Seek School Committee Seat

Francis X. McCauley, 41, of 210 Manet Ave., today announced his candidacy for the Quincy School Committee.

McCauley, President of Shipbuilders Co-operative Bank, served on the City Council from 1964 to 1968. In April, 1969 he was appointed to the Board of the Quincy Housing Authority by Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

A life long resident of Quincy, McCauley attended Quincy elementary schools, is a graduate of Boston College High School, the Bentley College of Accounting and Finance and the Indiana University School of Banking.

He is married to the former Sandra MacKinnon and is the father of five children, Michael, a junior at Quincy High School,

Robert, a ninth grade student at Central Junior High and three daughters, Melissa, Julie and Jennifer attending elementary school.

In announcing his candidacy McCauley said:

"As a parent who has children attending all three levels of the Quincy school system I am interested in achieving a high level of excellence in education.

"As a taxpayer who has seen the tax rate increase rapidly in a few short years. I am concerned with the taxpayers ability to pay the skyrocketing cost of government. If elected to the school committee I intend to take a common sense approach to Quincy's educational and financial problems."

Papile Withdraws As Ward 2 Council Candidate

James P. Papile of 12 Harkins Ave., Quincy Point, announces "with a great deal of reluctance" his withdrawal as a candidate for Ward 2 City Councillor.

"It is apparent to me that the voters in Quincy Point are not prepared to make a change in their representation at the present despite my honest opinion that more representation could have been given our beloved Ward 2 had our present city councillor and state representative sought higher city office," Papile said.

"This action would have given Ward 2 a pair of representatives at City Hall," continues Papile, "the first since the days of Carl W. Anderson and Bill Papile and would have been a reciprocal act by the incumbent councillor directed toward the voters of Ward 2 in appreciation for their past support."

Present Ward 2 Councillor and State Representative is Clifford H. Marshall, who has announced that he is again a candidate for Ward 2 Councillor.

McIntyre Retirement Makes Good Candidates Imperative, Says Davis

Harold Davis of 1390 Quincy Shore Blvd., a candidate for Quincy School Committee, said he believes that the announced retirement of Mayor James R. McIntyre has made the search for well-qualified candidates more imperative.

Speaking before a group of Quincy residents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miller of 55 Viden Rd., Davis noted that there would be more vacant seats on the School Committee this year than there have been within recollection.

With the retirement of the Mayor, a majority of faces on the School Committee will be new in January.

"It is more important than ever that the voters of Quincy carefully examine the background of each candidate as a result of the Mayor's announcement," Davis said.

Davis is an attorney specializing in the practice of school and municipal law.

He filed his nomination papers with 1,500 signatures from all areas of Quincy.

'New Ideas, New Aims' Goal Of Adeline Pompeo

Bringing "new ideas and new aims" to add to the civic health of Quincy is the goal of Miss Adeline Pompeo of 15 Watson Rd., Quincy Point, candidate for councillor at-large.

Miss Pompeo, making her first bid for public office, spoke at a gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ciaolo of 40

Albertina St., South Quincy.

Miss Pompeo stressed the need to arrange right programs to counteract the "ever spreading problem" of drug addiction in the city.

As for tax reform, she feels that by eliminating proposed jobs, cutting down on department heads, much can be done to lower taxes.

Also present at the gathering were Daniel Raymondi, candidate for School Committee, Senator Arthur H. Tobin and State Democratic Committeewoman Mrs. Clifford Marshall, as well as Miss Pompeo's 81-year old father, Dominic Pompeo.

Smith Stresses Need For Proper School Planning

George C. Smith Jr., candidate for School Committee, has emphasized the need for proper planning and forecasting of the building needs of the Quincy school system.

Speaking at a lawn party at the home of Mrs. Brenda Grant, 12 Anderson Road, Smith said:

"I would like to see an improved use of budgetary and forecasting techniques made by the School Committee.

"Late in the recent school year, there were School Committee deliberations regarding the need for an expansion at North Quincy High School.

"It would seem that the need for an addition at North Quincy High School should have been forecast some years ago and the proper plans set in motion for an addition that would have been ready in September 1971."

Smith added: "Rather than reacting to the problem of expansion and growth, I hope we can plan for it in such a way that the costs will not strangle the already overburdened homeowner."

Arienti Hails 18-Year Old Voter

Louis C. Arienti of 22 Barry St., West Quincy, a School Committee candidate, said he believes that the 18 year old voter will be of great benefit to taxpayers and to the governmental structure of Quincy.

Speaking at a meeting of supporters and campaign workers at Morrisette Legion Post, Arienti said he was very pleased with the large number of qualified candidates running for School Committee.

Kennedy Suggests School Committee Meet In Sections Of City

Christopher F. Kennedy, candidate for School Committee, at a coffee hour held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Costa of 166 Belmont St., said, "Education is so important today and so expensive that no citizen can afford to be unconcerned."

"At the same time, the sweeping changes that are taking place in both curriculum and methods of teaching have altered drastically the patterns that were traditional and seemingly unchangeable."

"It is critical, therefore, that the whole community be informed and kept aware of the mechanics of and the reasons for new programs and techniques. One method of achieving such communication which has proven highly effective in the past was the Parent-Teacher Association."

"Lamentably, with just a few outstanding exceptions, PTA in Quincy is not very active. Meetings are infrequent and sparsely attended. This is unfortunate, because there is a greater need for some kind of effective home and school organization today than ever before."

"A possible way of instilling public interest and improving communications would be for the School Committee occasionally to hold its meetings in various parts of the city. The Educational Development Committee, of which I am Chairman, has consistently met at a different school each month, in this way, we have become knowledgeable about 27 of the city's 30 public schools and familiar with their neighborhood concerns. Both the School Committee and the Community would surely stand to gain from a similar arrangement."

Powers Asks Police Meet On Beach Drug Problem

Warren Powers, candidate for Ward 5 City Council, recently met with a group of area residents at the home of Mary Sheahan, 43 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston.

"Many people who reside in the area adjacent to the Wollaston Beach have expressed a growing concern to me over the drug problem," he said. "While visiting the homes of Ward 5, many residents and parents expressed alarm and frustration over this problem."

He added: "I have written to the MDC Police and the Quincy Police regarding this drug problem, and I have requested that a meeting be set up in order to coordinate efforts between these two departments to prevent the use of drugs in this area."

Powers also requested to meet personally with both departments.

Marshfield Fair 'Success' Despite No Horse Racing

Last week's 104th Marshfield Fair has been termed "quite successful" by its president, Eben N. Briggs, despite the fact that for the first time there was no horse racing.

Agriculture was most prominent this year, coupled with other features typical with the 'old-fashioned' country fair.

The 4-H activities were the largest in number of any year on record at Marshfield, according to Robert O. Mott, Plymouth County 4-H agent. So too were the agricultural exhibits and entries in the main hall, reported James Milbery Jr., one of the fair's 20 directors.

Briggs noted that "things are looking much brighter for 1972 with a likelihood that in addition to a bigger and better all-round fair, that racing will resume at the Marshfield fairgrounds."

The success of this year's edition is marked by the near 50,000 who turned out during the 5-day stint.

Added Mr. Briggs, "We're grateful and delighted with the way things turned out this year and we're going to start early to plan next year's 105th Marshfield Fair."

PRINCE ALBERT IN A CAN

"Do you have Prince Albert in a can? You do? Well, please let him out." There's not a pharmacist in the profession who has not received a call like that at one time or another from a youngster who just can't resist the age-old joke. But, frankly, we have never really minded this or occasional other inoffensive jokes. Because it keeps our sense of humor alert in a profession that is mostly concerned with the serious business of helping to treat sickness.

It also gives us a lift when a customer tells us a humorous incident about their child or family. These are the things that make our relationship more personal and we consider ourselves to be a personal service pharmacy. We feel that a good laugh can sometimes be the best available medicine and we try always to have it in stock.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. 'Played Their Hearts Out'

Bridesmaid Morrisette Eyes '72 Bouquet

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team made the finals of the state championship series last week for the fifth time but it was the same old story for the local team, "always the bridesmaid but never the bride."

When Morrisette bowed to Leominster, 7-3, at Adams Field, it closed another outstanding season for the Quincy nine but again it failed to get the big prize. It has never won the state crown.

"Well, we are the Eastern Mass. champions but we really wanted to win the state title," said Ray Cattaneo, second year Morrisette coach, the third coach to lead the locals into the state finals. "It was a great year and our lack of pitching depth was the deciding factor. But these kids played their hearts out all year for me and we should be strong again next year."

This season Morrisette had 15 players back from last year's young team. And next year 13 of the 15 who finished out this season will be back, including all the pitchers.

The only players going will be Shortstop Kevin Ryan and Third Baseman Pete Lucier, two outstanding performers.

Coming back will be the entire pitching staff of Jimmy Walker, Tony Knasas, Mike Marvelle, Len Pepe and Bobby Malvesti. With this year's experience they should make up a standout group in 1972.

Also returning will be Dave Nelson, one of the top catchers in Zone 6, infielders Jim Driscoll, Russ MacDonald, Artie Boyle and Joe Marani, and outfielders Tom Burke, Connie Driscoll, Dom D'Olimpio and Marvelle and Malvesti, who played in the outfield when not pitching.

The state playoff results bore out the words of Athletic Officer Nick Malvesti, who coached Morrisette to 11 zone championships and three times went to the state finals.

"I'm afraid our lack of pitching depth will hurt us," he said before the playoffs opened. "Especially with Jim Walker's arm bothering him. He and Knasas are the only experienced pitchers we have [Knasas was 6-1 and Walker 5-1 during the season] and when you are faced with playing day after day without a rest, you need at least three good starters."

Pepe and Marvelle each had two wins during the regular season and pitched well in the playoffs, while Malvesti, who had pitched just three innings of relief during the season, performed admirably in two playoff starts.

After eliminating Arlington, Needham and Salem in the state playoffs to win the Eastern Mass. title, Morrisette went up against a veteran Leominster team which had ousted Amherst in two straight games, including a no-hitter in the second game, to take the Western Mass. crown.

In the opener at Leominster Sparking the eight-hit attack were Marani and Burke with two apiece, while Boyle, Ryan, Marvelle and Pepe had one apiece.

Cattaneo, who spent several years in the Braves farm system, again paid tribute to his pitching coach, Bill Corcoran who like Cattaneo, formerly starred for Morrisette. Corcoran, a fine pitcher, was signed by Cincinnati but an eye injury cut his career short.

"Bill did a great job with our young pitchers and they should be even better next year," Ray said. "I really enjoyed myself with this great bunch of boys and I guess all there is to say now is wait until next year."

Malvesti, who had pitched a brilliant game in nipping Salem in the opening of the state semifinal series, hurled well again but Morrisette's usually strong defense faltered and three errors handed Leominster four unearned runs in the western champs' 5-2 win.

Each team had eight hits with Ryan having two and Marani, Boyle, Burke, Nelson, Lucier and Malvesti one each. Malvesti's was a triple.

In the second game at Quincy's Adams Field, both teams were jittery as Leominster scored an unearned run in the third and Morrisette came back with three in its half, helped by errors. But Leominster exploded for four runs in the sixth and added a run in the ninth for the win.

Pepe, Walker and Marvelle did the Morrisette pitching.

Track Club Cookout Sunday

The Quincy Track Club will climax its first season Sunday with a cookout at the home of Coach Peter Gallagher in Hull.

Parents and friends of the team members are invited to attend the affair.

In last week's cross country meet Maria Ciano added to her laurels when she won the girls'

12-13 year old race in the brilliant time of 9:09, easily breaking the team record of 9:51. Jill Seamas also broke the old mark with a 9:42 clocking in second place. They were followed by Joyce Flynn, Gertrude McManus, Lynn Walkama and Peggy Morrissey and Darlene Prescott, who tied.

In the girls' 16 and up group Cathy Ilacqua won followed by Judy Foley and Lynn Hodges.

Kathy Bennett won the girls' 14-15 race and Rory Nolan won the girls' 9-11 race with Jennifer Seamas second.

In the boys' 12-15 group Harry Williams was the winner with Robert Williams second.

Quincy Sun Article Makes Baseball Hall Of Fame

The Quincy Sun will soon be represented in the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

On Aug. 14 John Ganzel, retired Quincy firefighter, and his wife, Marion, presented to the famed Hall of Fame a bat given to Ganzel's uncle, John, a major league player and manager for many years, in 1909.

Hall of Fame officials confirmed, through research, that the bat is the only one known to have ever had the player's photo imbedded in the wood.

At the request of the Hall officials, Ganzel will forward to them the story about the bat written by the Sun's Tom Sullivan in the Aug. 12 Sun and the photo taken by Don Newell. They will be placed on exhibition there with the bat and records of all the Ganzels of the early days of baseball.

"We received a most pleasant surprise when a record book was shown to us that showed that Uncle John won three pennants in a row, 1909-10-11 and then finished second in 1912-13-14 and third in 1915," Ganzel said. "This was only for a part of the season as he went on to manage Brooklyn."

"We were then invited into the 'inner sanctum' and spent more than three hours reading yellowed clippings about all the Ganzels of the early days of baseball. We also read letters and viewed old photos of dad, Uncle John, Joe, George and Fred, the five famed brothers."

"Ken Smith, the Hall director, and Mr. Kachline, the historian, requested that we forward to them the story and photo which appeared in the Quincy Sun and I am going to be most pleased to do so."

Quincy Youth Hockey Players Still Skate Despite Heat

Summer hockey - why not? It may be August and 95 degrees outside, but that doesn't mean Quincy Youth Hockey has taken a vacation.

Every Sunday and Monday night during the summer, the boys in the league can be seen at the Weymouth Skating Club under the watchful eye of Bob Hayes, their drill instructor.

"Practice makes perfect," is Hayes' motto.

An example of the seriousness of these young hockey players is that 42 of them went to Canada for two weeks this summer to get additional instructions from active National Hockey Players.

Unfortunately, in Quincy

there is not enough ice time to accommodate all the youngsters that would like to participate, says league officials.

It is the ultimate goal of the Quincy Youth Hockey Program to see a year round skating rink in Quincy. At the present time the boys have to travel to surrounding towns to pick up any ice time that might be available.

Girls won 21-3.

Raymondi Recommends School Year Extension

Extension of the Quincy school year was advocated by Daniel G. Raymondi, candidate for Quincy School Committee, speaking at the home of the Cira family at 40 Albertina St.

Raymondi, a resident of 16 Miller Stile Rd, commented:

"Quincy may be swiftly approaching a crisis point in its educational history whereby it neither has the physical plants necessary to educate its youth nor the funds or space to begin new construction."

He feels that Quincy taxpayers, faced with a choice between accepting a multi-million dollar school construction or sending their children to school a few weeks during the summer, would prefer the latter.

He also noted that an effective way to stagnate the tax rate would be to limit expenditures for new construction and the number of staff hired.

Another NEES property, Northampton Gas Light Company, will be sold to Springfield Gas Light Company.

Terms of the EGFA acquisition were not announced. The transaction requires approval by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, as well as favorable rulings by the Internal Revenue Service.

Founded in 1822, Boston Gas is the nation's second oldest natural gas distribution company. With some 1,500 employees, it currently serves approximately 300,000 customers in 32 cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts. Ricciuti Public Works Commissioner

Two major appointments to city government were made this week by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

James J. Ricciuti, executive secretary to the Mayor, has been named Public Works Commissioner.

Ricciuti succeeds John Browne, named an assistant superintendent of Quincy Schools in charge of buildings.

Mrs. Louise M. Brabazon, personal secretary to the mayor, has been named his executive secretary to succeed Ricciuti.

Edward Leone, who has been supervising both the Public Works Department as Acting Commissioner and the Engineering Department, will return to his permanent assignment as Chief Engineer.

In his letter to Leone, McIntyre wrote:

"The tragic passing of Victor Coletti, I know, placed an added burden on you, and I have been aware of the circumstances which necessitated your supervising both the Engineering Department and the Public Works Department.

In spite of this added work-load, you have conducted the operations of these important departments in an exemplary manner, reflecting a high standard of excellence and complete performance of duties."

Quincy Ave. Pedestrian Light Again Rejected By State DPW

Installation of a pedestrian light on Quincy Ave. near President's Plaza has again been rejected by John P. King, acting for State DPW Commissioner Edward J. Ribbs.

Rep.-City Councillor Clifford H. Marshall had asked reconsideration for installation of the pedestrian-actuated traffic control signal as an aid to senior citizens living at 1000 Southern Artery and also in other heavily occupied dwellings in the neighborhood.

King wrote that the area had been reviewed on Thursday,

Feb. 11, and Tuesday, Feb. 16.

"It was not evident on either day that occupants from the senior citizens housing or the low rise apartments, or other dwellings in this area created pedestrian traffic of any significance," King wrote.

Pedestrian counts compared to those of August, 1970 were in some instances less, and if an increase, no more than three pedestrians, King noted.

"Based on these findings, we must again recommend against installation of pedestrian-actuated signals at this location," he wrote.

On The Screen

By
Vincent Puleo

Chaplin, Keaton Big Attractions In Rome

Hollywood's love-in with the writings of D. H. LAWRENCE rambles on unabated. The latest of his works to be memorialized in film is "THE PLUMED SERPENT"... That this soon-to-be-made motion picture will have a built in audience is without question, as the theme of the story centers around Women's Liberation... UTA HAGEN, this year's Broadway winner of the Donaldson, Tony, and New York Drama Critics' Awards, will make her film bow in TOM TRYON'S "THE OTHERS"... With such a heavy arsenal of recognition from those who know good acting when they see it, how can Miss HAGEN not be developed into an acclaimed motion picture actress?...

The BUSBY BERKELEY nostalgia-phenom continues on its merry way. As a tribute to this famed choreographer, JACK HALEY JR. and JAMES TERRY will be bringing his life story to the screen... And yes, RALPH BELLAMY is still making pictures. His next release is "CANCEL MY RESERVATION"... RAQUEL WELCH and YUL BRYNNER are teamed together for the upcoming detective yarn "FUZZ"... The big winner of the recent Moscow Film Festival was Polish actor DANIEL OLBRYCHSKI. He won an award for Best Actor, and the film he starred in, "THE BIRCH TREE FOREST", received a Gold Prize as Best Picture...

ADAM WEST, formerly of "Batman", gets a chance to do some heavy acting with his new vehicle "THE MARRIAGE OF A YOUNG STOCKBROKER". Though he has only a supporting role, the film should do wonders with his image... Being recognized by his fans as the super sleuth "Batman" didn't do much for WEST's ego. For two and a half years WEST has been trying to shed the black cape facade, and this picture just could do it for him... Appearing with him in the picture, also in a supporting role, is the comebacking ELIZABETH ASHLEY. Followers of the silver screen may remember that Miss ASHLEY was a big star six years ago before she abandoned the screen for marriage. The latter having proved a bust, Miss ASHLEY is re-pursuing stardom with all the energy and enthusiasm of a starlet... Depending on her "STOCKBROKER" performance, she just may regain her former star position in the industry...

BUDDY EBSEN dons whiskers and top hat for his Lincolnlike portrait in "LINCOLN'S CHAMPAGNE GENERAL"... There may be a talent gap here, but SAMMY DAVIS JR. and ROBERT CULP have at least one thing in common. They are members of an exclusive club of personalities who can be classified actor-writer... Oh no, and still another eye yarn on the way, "CONQUEST OF THE PLANET OF THE APES", is the fourth, and I hope last of this genre made. After all, how much screened monkeying around can one take... LESLIE CARON is slated to star in "OPEN SHADOW"... And to behold, TWIGGY, heartthrob of the emaciated set, makes her film debut this Christmas...

Quick now, which motion pictures would you bunch together as "MGM's Fabulous Four"? If you selected "GONE WITH THE WIND", "DOCTOR ZHIVAGO", "2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY", and "RYAN'S DAUGHTER" you'd get a 100%. To date this MGM blockbuster has grossed $260 million... And the financial end is not yet in sight MGM has plans to release all four, with an exhibition policy of showing one each week, sometime the first of the year... For sheer entertainment, what else could a viewer ask for?... And on the negative side of the coin, some weird folk in New York City are soliciting entries for the First Annual New York Erotic Film Festival. Scheduled to take place later on in the Fall, the producers of this junk heap are hoping to prove erotica can be art... My, but some nuts do live in their own little weird world, don't they...

If "FORTUNE AND MENS EYES" doesn't open our legislators eyes to the horror of prison existence, I can only wonder what will. So shocking in suggestion, the picture questions the relevancy, and humanity, of prisons as an institution... "SCANDALOUS JOHN" may not win any awards for the WALT DISNEY studio, but it's still rollicking fun from beginning to end... The big drawing personalities in Rome [Italy] Cinema, are CHARLIE CHAPLIN, BUSTER KEATON, and surprise, ANDY WARHOL... Britain's sputtering film attendance continues to decline. Last year attendance dropped 7% under the 1969 figure, which had a total admission toll of 13.5 million...

SHIRLEY BASSEY will record the song for the latest Bond epic, "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER"... Italian actors FRANCO CITTI and SIMONETTA STEFANELLI signed on for "THE GODFATHER", now filming on locale in Sicily... MARTIN BALSAM is one of a handful of American actors who can write his own ticket in Italy. And the reason for BALSAM's popularity is "CONFESSIONS OF A POLICE COMMISSIONER"... Old pro director JOSEPH L. MANKIEWICZ will tackle the screen version of the Broadway and London stage melodrama "SLEUTH". Filming is scheduled to begin the first of next year...

DIANA DORS makes a rare screen appearance in "DEEP END"... PETER FONDA thinks FEDERICO FELLINI'S "8 1/2" is the best film ever made... DFZ is the label of DARRYL L. ZANUCK's new independent film company... With all the name movie personalities on television this season, I'm just wondering how many will be around after the mid-season "cuts"...

A MESSAGE FOR DADDIES

Get yourself a good, thorough examination once a year. Once a year, let your doctor really look you over. It'll take a little time, and a little patience. And maybe he'll poke around a little more than you'd really like. And so he should.

The whole idea is to keep you healthy. If nothing's wrong (and more than likely, there isn't) hooray! Come back next year. But if anything's suspicious, then you've gained the most important thing of all: time.

We can save 1 out of 2 persons when cancer is caught in time, caught early. That's a good thing to know. All Daddies should know how to take care of themselves so that they can have the fun of taking care of their kids. Don't be afraid. It's what you don't know that can hurt you.

Record 17,000-Plus Enrollment Seen

City Schools To Open With Critical Space Problem

BUCKLE-UP FOR SAFETY over the Labor Day weekend, pretty Mary Ann Harrington and Chris Gillman remind you. The girls, secretaries at General Dynamics shipyard, note that the few seconds it takes you to do so could save your life.

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Quincy's public schools reopen Sept. 8 with a record enrollment of some 17,250 students and a continuing critical classroom space problem at junior and senior high schools.

Elementary enrollment is expected to remain at the 1970 level, with some 9,000 enrolled, according to Wilfred A. Nolan, elementary school coordinator.

"We expect that we will have a similar increase to last year in the secondary schools, about 250," estimates Arthur S. Woodward, coordinator of secondary schools.

"Added to an already overcrowded situation, you have a real problem in our secondary schools," Woodward continued.

"North Quincy High School has 1,600 pupils, and we are looking for close to 2,100 pupils at Quincy this year."

There is close to 97 per cent utilization of Quincy High School facilities, Woodward added. The renovation of the auditorium there will not be completed until next year. It was intended to be a two-year program.

"We are freeing up some space in Quincy High School because we are taking the maintenance men's facilities out of Quincy High School and transferring them to the newly completed basement of the Vocational Technical School," he explained.

Space is also being freed by moving some people into the basement area.

"We are buying a little bit of time by this move," he said.

"At North Quincy, we are putting up a temporary building there due to be opened in November. That will take care of possibly 100 or 100 pupils.

"We are developing final plans for a large addition to North Quincy which will in effect double the size of the building. That will be several years away before completion. The temporary building will help a little bit.

"Central Junior High School," Woodward said, "is the most crowded of the junior high schools, with possible 900 students. Other junior highs up to

Service Begins Today On MBTA

The MBTA was scheduled to begin rolling with regular service on the South Shore extension line at 5:30 a.m. this morning.

The service began following official ribbon cutting ceremonies yesterday.

The "red line", built at a cost of $75.4 million, is expected to accommodate 10,000 people daily on its runs between North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center and Boston.

Estimated commuting time between downtown Quincy and downtown Boston during rush hour, is 14½ minutes. For motorists its usually a good hour.

Fewer cars and less pollution on the highways are anticipated. An estimated 1,200 less incoming and outgoing cars are expected on the Southeast Expressway. It is anticipated traffic congestion will also lessen on Morrissey Blvd., Dorchester Ave., Freeport St. and Pleasant

St.

The trains, operating daily from 5:30 a.m. to 1 a.m. will leave every four minutes during rush hours, and every 10 minutes at other times. Four-car trains are to be used during the rush hours; two cars at other times.

The ride costs 50 cents each way. Senior citizens pay half fare. Students are to be charged 25-cents into Boston and

4,000 New Voters, Many Teenagers

Some 4,000 new voters, many of them teenagers, will be eligible to vote in the Sept. 21 primary in Quincy.

Going into last night's registration deadline, the figure was approximately 3,700.

"This will be the largest single supplement we have had," said Assistant City Clerk Thomas R. Burke.

Of these, according to Mrs. Ruth Pabst, secretary to the Registrar of Voters, 2,025 were young people of 18 years and older.

"Most did not declare a party," Mrs. Pabst noted. "Of those that did, the majority are Democrats."

The young people first began registering in December, 1970, Mrs. Pabst said. At first their names were kept in a separate register because they were not permitted to vote except in federal elections.

When the law changed, they were added to the regular list in May or June of this year.

Creedon Explains 'Quincy Method' To 117 New Teachers

"He who is to be affected by a decision ought to be involved in the process of making that decision," School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon said in a welcoming address to new Quincy teachers.

Dr. Creedon referred to their involvement in teaching the "Quincy Method".

School began this week for the 117 new teachers.

Three days, ending tomorrow, are being spent with administrators in pre-school preparation at their own schools and at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Yesterday all new teachers worked with principals in interpreting the Quincy Method toward a theory of learning.

Today [Thursday] information packets on the school system are being distributed to the new teachers at Broad Meadows. Dr. Creedon gave his welcoming address, and this afternoon teachers are meeting with discipline coordinators.

Tomorrow morning there will be a discussion of individualized learning environment with administrators, and in the afternoon, teachers will have orientation sessions in data processing and use of audio-visual equipment.

Dr. Creedon, discussing the "Quincy Method" which he said was evolved some 100 years ago by Supt. Col. Francis W. Parker and his staff of 42 teachers, said:

"The Quincy Method then, as now, is nothing more than a commitment to a spirit of everlasting change in order to provide for the more humane treatment of little folks."

"The concern for relevance and individualization seemingly ought to be considered as nothing more than a common sense approach to education," Dr. Creedon said, "yet, they are resisted by many educators with the ensuing result that public education is under attack."

Maintaining a design for learning, he said, involves striving to make all learning experiences for the young relevant to the needs of each learner and to society, and individualized so as to be responsive to the learning style of each learner.

Closing, he said, "The goals of the Quincy Method have been and are desirable. The challenges on the road to implementation are formidable. Your contribution is indispensable."

Volpe Hails New MBTA Line As 'Transportation Milestone'

Completion of the MBTA's South Shore Extension to Quincy was hailed by John A. Volpe, Secretary of Transportation, as "another milestone in transportation progress."

"Safe, fast, comfortable, efficient public transit service, by modern bus or rapid rail, provides an attractive alternative to the automobile for suburb-to-city travel," Volpe

Volpe was among the dignitaries invited to yesterday's opening ceremonies for the South Shore MBTA line.

Others included U. S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell; Carlos C. Villarreal, administrator of D.O.T.'s Urban Mass Transportation Administration; Gov. Francis W. Sargent and Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Expressing his "personal satisfaction" in the project,

Volpe pointed out that as Governor, he participated in planning the extension, and as Secretary of Transportation, approved the Urban Mass Transit Administration grant that helped make the extension possible.

"And it is especially gratifying to note that this is the first extension of a rapid transit system to be completed under a Federal Department of Transportation grant," he declared.

He commended all who supported the project, helped in its construction, and all those involved in the progress of public transportation.

Door-To-Door Sales Rules

Door-to-door sales contracts signed while the customer was "in the dark" about the product or the agreement have been specifically outlawed under new regulations adopted by the Consumer Protection Division of Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's office.

The new regulations, which went into effect on July 1, enumerate thirteen categories of deceptive door-to-door sales and home improvement transactions which violate the Massachusetts Consumer Protection Act.

"Model home" sales offers and other sales claims which misrepresent the product are outlawed by the new regulations. Old or outdated models of a product may not be falsely described as "current" or "repossessed", and salesmen's claims cannot in any way lead the customer to a false impression about the product or about the contract.

The regulations specify that customers chosen at random cannot be told that they are "specially selected". Also, salesmen may not approach customers claiming they have won special contests or prizes.

Certain information that door-to-door sales contracts must carry is specified in the regulations. The salesman must inform the customer of his three-day cancellation right, and he must tell the customer if the debt may be sold to a third party for collection.

If the product purchased cannot be used unless some additional, required fixtures or attachments are purchased, the salesman must inform the customer before he signs the contract. The salesman may not induce a customer to sign if he is aware that the customer is unable to read or write.

Finally, no door-to-door or home improvement contract may contain any clause which would nullify the effect of any of these protection laws.

Consumers who have problems with door-to-door or home improvement contracts should contact the Consumer Protection Division of Attorney General Quinn's office at the State House.

Nature

The word Nature—just Puts me on to T-H-A-N-K.
To the point of "discovery."
A knock on the mind door Opens up with a view of perspectives.
Loaded with letter-seeds,
Of wonderment, waiting for a Chance of recognition and consideration.

The "find" runs thusly:
N-Natural: elements of the earth-soil, promoting growth.
A-Action [twin]- involvement and revolvment.
T-Trunk: for its physical stature.

U-Universal: wonders of the universe.

R-Reaping: fruits of nourishment, body and mind.

F-Farther: "the crust of the globe," supplying us with a firm foundation.

The main spring of the word
Is the letter "T" ...
All others are coordinators,
Symbolic "tree-spine" embodied with

Branch-arteries and leaf-circulation.
Design—general and specific,
Unique... one and all.

This word study has teased me to

Knock again on mental bars.
Allowing nature to tune in
With eyes, ears, and mind open—

Listening to its rhythmic process

Of the agitative, wondrous life

Ready for its miraculous-seeds

For its great power to perform,

As "nothing" is too small or Too big for Mother-nature's tasks!

Anna T. Anderson, Quincy

Cucumbers should be a good green color and firm over their entire length. They may also have some white or greenish-white color and still be top quality.

They should be well shaped and well developed, but not too large in diameter. Ignore the small lumps on their surfaces; this is typical of good cucumbers.

Overgrown cucumbers [those with large diameters] and cucumbers of a dull color, turning yellowish, are likely to have tough flesh and large hard seeds. Cucumbers with withered or shriveled ends may be somewhat better.

Food use for fresh, raw cucumbers are numerous. They can be sliced or diced and added to tossed salads or fancy molded salads; cut lengthwise into sticks for the relish tray; sliced and served with vinegar or sour cream; or scooped out and filled with a favorite salad mixture.

Cucumbers are also delicious cooked, although this use is less common than others. Sliced cucumbers are cooked slightly and served with thin cream sauce or hot vinegar, sugar, and crisp bacon bits. They are also used to make baked stuffed cucumbers.

Citrus And Tuna For A Refreshing Company Salad

Summer is salad appreciation time, and guests who gather at the salad bowl can always derive pleasure and satisfaction from this new version of the popular Tuna Waldorf Salad. made with citrus fruits instead of the traditional apple. Its elegant appearance and flavor belie the fact that it's so easy and so inexpensive to make. And the reason is that canned tuna in vegetable oil is still one of the lowest-priced main dish foods available. In fact it is an incredible value not only in terms of money, but in terms of nutrition, too, for it has complete protein comparable to that of lean beef. And since canned tuna requires no further cooking for use in a wide variety of tempting dishes, you'll find this Tuna Citrus Waldorf Salad with its superb avocado dressing—practically makes itself in minutes.

Tuna Citrus Waldorf Salad

- | | |
|----------------------------|----------------------------|
| 3 cans (6 1/2 oz) each | 1 cup broken walnut pieces |
| each) tuna in vegetable | 1 medium avocado |
| oil | 3 tablespoons lemon juice |
| 3 cans (6 1/2 ounces each) | 1/2 cup water |
| grapefruit and orange | 1 tablespoon sugar |
| sections, well drained | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 2 cups diagonally-sliced | 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco |
| celery | Salad greens |

Drain tuna, reserving 1/2 cup oil for dressing (add extra salad oil, if necessary). Flake tuna or cut into chunks; combine with grapefruit and orange sections, celery and walnut pieces; reserve. Peel avocado and remove pit; cut into small pieces. In small bowl, mash avocado with lemon juice. Add reserved tuna oil and all remaining ingredients except salad greens; beat together until smooth and creamy. Or combine in blender container and blend on high speed until mixture is smooth. Line salad bowl with salad greens. Add reserved tuna-citrus mixture; serve with avocado dressing. YIELD: 10 to 12 servings.

Appetite "Round Up"

Here's a way to make up a fresh approach to America's all-time favorite, the sandwich. "Round Up Sandwich" offers you proof that a hamburger patty need not be round to be a success. This recipe takes an edge off the dog days of summer by sparking summer appetites plus being easy on the cook. Bottled barbecue sauce, one of everyone's favorite summertime ingredients, toasts the taste buds with a bouquet of snappy spices. This round beef sandwich may feature uniqueness in the shape, but the traditional cheese topping proves just as palate pleasing. All you need add for a hearty meal for big and little buckaroos is your special bean dish and a selection of crisp relishes.

Round-Up Sandwich

- | | |
|-----------------------|------------------------|
| 1 lb. ground beef | 1/4 cup chopped onion |
| 1 cup Kraft Barbecue | 8 hot dog buns, split |
| Sauce | Velveeta Pasteurized |
| 1/4 cup chopped green | Process Cheese Spread, |
| pepper | sliced |

Combine meat, green pepper and onion; mix lightly. Shape into patties to fit hot dog buns. Brown patties; add barbecue sauce. Cover; cook 15 minutes. For each sandwich, cover top half of bun with Velveeta slices; broil until Velveeta begins to melt. Place patty on bottom half of bun; serve with top half of bun. 8 sandwiches.

It's In To Be Thin

Director, The Diet Workshop

Fast after Five...
Not after five years of age,
but most often after 5:00 P.M.
That's when the average American housewife acquires her extra weight. Involved with chores and outside activities, she is really too busy during the day to think about food. Work is actually a diet depressant, as are most constructive activities, but, with the fall of night and relaxation, often comes a nagging desire for indulgences, and that signals danger for Mrs. America and her glamorous figure.

Good advice for the dieter is to push the panic button right after dinner. You might try brushing your teeth—signifying that the business of eating is over for the day. Your dentist will approve and your mouth will feel fresh and closed to food until the next morning.

A word to the wise...

'Man' Lesson-Sermon Topic Sunday At Christian Science Church

"Man" in his true nature is always embraced in God's universal family, according to the Lesson-Sermon at First Church of Christ Scientist, at 10:45 a.m. services at 20 Greenleaf St. on Sunday.

"A father of the fatherless, and a judge of the widows, is God in his holy habitation. God setteth the solitary in families" is a Bible passage to be read.

Supporting the subject "Man" is this commentary from Mary Baker Eddy's "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "Man is the family name for all ideas -- the sons and daughters of God. All that God imparts moves in accord with Him, reflecting goodness and power."

Nolan, speaking for the elementary schools, notes, "We don't expect to see much change in kindergarten through sixth grade, about 9,000 enrollment."

The new 14-month spread at kindergarten age, up from 12 months, was expected to add to the number of pupils, Nolan added. This has not occurred.

"There has been a downward trend the last couple of years at elementary level, a loss of about 50 to 100 over the past two years, but we don't anticipate this change this year," he said. "The figure is quite stable."

Route #3 Quincy

For commuters with cars, there are a total of 2,150 parking spaces available at the three stations: At North Quincy Station 800; Wollaston, 500; and at Quincy Center Station, an 850-car parking garage.

While the trains are capable of traveling at 70 miles per hour, average speed is in the range of 60 miles per hour.

North Quincy is 11 minutes from downtown Boston on the MBTA; Wollaston, 12½ minutes; and Quincy Center, 14½ minutes.

First proposed in 1924, the South Shore extension plans were not developed until 1965. It was originally scheduled to open in 1969.

Official ribbon cutting ceremonies, by coincidence, fell on the same day as the opening of the Boston subway extension from the Public Gardens to Park St., exactly 74 years ago, Sept. 1, 1897.

It was estimated that some 75,000 people rode through the subway before noon.

Veterans News

William F. Connors, Director of the Veterans Administration Office in Boston reports Massachusetts veterans are seeking VA benefits at a record rate this summer.

An average of 1,991 veterans a week visit the VA Contact Office at the John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, for personal counseling. An average of 5,210 seek advice and assistance from the VA via the telephone in an average week, Connors said.

"Many thousands more either call on or are visited on a scheduled basis by VA field Contact Officers throughout the State or by service organization representatives who do a whale of a job supplementing VA efforts to reach all of our Massachusetts veterans," the VA Director declared.

Bay State veterans write to the VA office in Boston at an average rate of 9,100 letters weekly. In addition, VA services, on a regular basis, almost 38,126 veterans attending 172 institutions of higher learning in the State.

Connors said VA is responsible for bringing $305 million annually into Massachusetts and that increased benefits and additional outreach efforts from an expanded Regional Office staff will increase this annual inflow substantially.

The VA, while not responsible on a Federal level for assisting veterans in finding jobs, Connors said, conducts Job Marts and Veterans Benefits Clinics. VA is also increasing its On-The-Job training efforts to persuade small and big business in Massachusetts to take advantage of the VA wage and salary subsidies when employing and training jobless veterans.

The VA On-The-Job training program has 4,616 Vietnam veterans currently enrolled, Connors said. Single veterans in the program receive a salary or wage supplement of $108 a month for the first six months and a graduated reduction in the monthly stipend thereafter, up to two years while employed. Married veterans with dependents are paid more, Connors said. There are almost 900,000 veterans in Massachusetts, Connors said, of which 30,000 in the Boston area are Vietnam veterans. He said the bulk of VA's Regional Office business is with the newly returning veteran, although he noted a sharp increase in G.I. home loan activity here since World War II guaranteed home loan benefits were reopened.

New laws governing mobile home loans by the VA account for some of the increase, Connors declared. He said he anticipates increased VA activity "across the board during the coming months," and that he is confident additional VA employees will be hired to take care of the increased load.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Believing In Life'

"A cheerful heart is a good medicine." It's an old proverb...but it's as true today as when first written. Indeed...because of our complex...sophisticated society today it is even more important. Being happy is the goal of everyone...except those who have given up in despair. I've wondered if the fellow who wrote that song... "I love life...I want to live" was writing what he really felt...or if it was just a song.

It's a joy to see a person who isn't fighting life...who isn't an immature brat who expects everything his/her way...and pouts if he/she doesn't get everything his/her way...who isn't afraid of life...nor afraid to embark on new adventures...nor to break from old habits which limit life. Regardless of your age...or your circumstance if you will believe in life...shake off the limitations there's a rich reward awaiting you.

We can't fight against nature and land on the moon. We're understanding the dependable laws of space science and working with them fruitfully. To fight against those laws means disaster. I watched Scott and Irwin roving in their "moon buggy" over the surface of the moon by live...color television...after a 251,000 mile flight...making a pinpoint landing...the stated purpose of the adventure to learn the history of the moon...and throw light on the origin of our planet. What a time to be alive. What a time to believe in life...and the wonders just now revealed in our times. Believing in the dependable laws of nature is making Apollo 15 possible.

If we believe in life...then we believe in people...starting with oneself. Often the lack of trust is focused upon one person...usually a husband or wife...but really it's a lack of belief in oneself. If you're going to believe in life...and enjoy life...you'll have to learn to like yourself...and get along with and trust other people. It could be that many of your physical pains...attacks of anxiety...fits of depression are the result of your refusal to believe in life...your own life.

One of the biggest blockages to happiness and believing in life is the lack of awareness of what makes life tick...how relationships run smoothly. It really isn't that difficult...except as we make it so. Treat a man warmly...affectionately...meet his needs and unless he's a real neurotic...or alcoholic...a woman can be close to him and make him a better man. Treat a woman with tenderness...attention...praise...consideration...support...and unless she's an emotional cripple she'll grow more womanly...more as a person...and be a great marriage partner. It just isn't that difficult to relate to people...but you must first learn to be sensitive to people...be aware of what people are like...what they need. To be able to give yourself to meet those needs makes you a winner...where you've before been a loser.

One woman recently said in my office... "I've been married for eight years to a man who hates life...and I've been the brunt of his bitterness. I don't want to be his victim any longer. I'm tired begging for my normal human needs to be met. I believe in life...and feel he's boxing me in."

When I said... "Why have you stayed in the box so long?"...she was insightful enough to say... "Because I believed he would one day wake up." Her belief was justified...and you'd be thrilled to see now the warm compatibility and companionship of this couple.

You can start immediately believing in life by believing in yourself...and then in other people. Be aware of others' needs and how you effect other people. The change from negativism to believing in life could stop a lot of your aches and pains.

Sox Should Win Title (Attendance That Is)

The Red Sox are coming down the homestretch of another disappointing [standing-wise] but highly successful [attendance-wise] season and several special events are being planned over the final few weeks of the season.

The Sox have faltered badly once again and will be fighting to stay ahead of the fourth place Yankees, but it is likely they will lead the American League in total attendance for the fourth time in the last five years.

The Boston club was expected to pass the 1,500,000 mark at home during the three-game series with first place Baltimore which ends this afternoon. For five years in a row, despite the smallest seating capacity in the league, the Sox will finish well over the 1,500,000 figure.

Next Sunday's game with Cleveland will mark a special "back to school" family day.

The annual salute to the New England Babe Ruth League champions will take place this Saturday and the annual salute to the six New England American League champions will be Saturday, Sept. 25.

The players and coaches of the Babe Ruth and Legion champs will be introduced on the field and all will receive Red Sox trophies.

Among the League champions is Leominster, which defeated Morrisette in the state finals.

Nicastro Cool To Extended School Year

Dean Paul Nicastro, candidate for School Committee, said today that "the recent political rhetoric about 'year-round education' has been lacking in substance and is unfair to the taxpayers of Quincy.

"To be sure, the year-round concept merits consideration; but a blind endorsement of it on the basis of its economic attractiveness is at best misleading," he declared.

Nicastro quoted from a recent favorable report on the concept issued by the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce: "Despite the many educational advantages associated with an extended school year, the concept sometimes is promoted on its 'economics'.

"Unfortunately, to the Chamber's knowledge, no school utilizing a year-round plan has yet been able to demonstrate such savings in current school operating costs, while maintaining or improving the quality of its educational programs.

"Initially, the costs to a district of an extended school year almost have to increase, due to the possible increase in teacher salaries and accompanying retirement contributions as well as air-conditioning of the school plant."

"Obviously," concluded Nicastro, "the year-round concept is no panacea for the fiscal woes of the Quincy School Department, and although the Pennsylvania report has suggested that 'savings may come from a reduction in the rate of increase in school building costs over several years,' the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce admits that year-round education may not be universally practical and [I quote], 'may not save tax dollars.'

"I am sorry if all this deflates the expectations of some well-intentioned persons, but I would prefer not to win a position on the school board by raising false hopes among the taxpaying voters of Quincy."

Mullaney Urges Repeal Of School Lunch Law

A house party was held for J. Thomas Mullaney, candidate for the Quincy School Committee, at the home of James Mullaney, 11 Arthur St., West Quincy.

Mullaney declared:

"It was interesting to note that apparently the federal government has reduced the amount of money that it plans to put into school lunch programs throughout the country.

The time for "fiscal sanity" has arrived, he said. The federal government has recognized it. Now, hopefully the Massachusetts Legislature will take action to delay or repeal Chapter 874 the mandatory school lunch program.

This state cannot afford this classic piece of "moonlight legislation," he concluded.

Galvin Seeks Improved Student Guidance

Recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Collins of 116 Landsdowne Street, Squantum, Atty. Gregory Galvin, a candidate for the School Committee, told an audience of about 30 that the School Committee should look into the area of pupil guidance.

He said the Guidance Program "could be advanced and improved in an effort to prevent a situation that faces many of our engineers and teachers, that is, too great a supply for the present demand."

Galvin said that cross training, such as some pupils in trade's programs taking some college preparation courses and vice versa, might be one solution.

He also discussed the questionability of the need of further new construction throughout the school system in light of the fact of an apparent nation-wide trend of a decrease in the population.

Thomas Buckley To Seek First Norfolk House Seat

Thomas J. Buckley, 50, of 22 Doane St., Germantown, announced his candidacy for state representative for the First Norfolk District at a campaign kick-off luncheon Monday at Dutton's Restaurant.

Buckley is making a bid for the seat vacated by the now Sen. Arthur H. Tobin.

Guest speaker at the luncheon, attended by some 150 persons, was Sen. Robert Cawley of Roslindale. Buckley, a heat insulating contractor, has been a Quincy money owner for 17 years. He attended Northeastern University and Bentley School of Accounting and Finance.

A lifelong Democrat, he was appointed by President Johnson to the local Selective Service System.

He is married and has two children.

Drug Education Needed For Youngsters, Says Harrington

A drug education program for fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils and their parents is needed to stop the "rapid skyrocketing drug problem" in Quincy, says James F. Harrington, School Committee candidate.

"There is a lack of communication between the young of our city and their parents on the subject of drugs," he said.

He said he feels that many records heard over the radio daily refer to either drugs or drug trips, tending to glorify the "drug culture" for young people.

No Need To Declare Party Affiliation, Notes Houston

David R. Houston, candidate for City Councillor at-large, today reminded registered voters it is not necessary for them to declare whether they are Democrat, Republican or Independent to vote in the Sept. 21 preliminary or the Nov. 2 final elections.

At a recent coffee hour, Houston said he has received numerous inquiries, both from long time voters and from newly registered voters, including the 18, 19 and 20 year old voters.

Many, he said, were under the impression they had to declare themselves in all primaries and consequently never voted in a primary.

Houston said the only time voters have to declare their party affiliation is on primary day in a state or federal election.

Under Quincy's Plan A Charter, municipal elections are non-partisan. The party affiliation of the various candidates are not even listed in a municipal election, and every voter receives the same type ballot in both elections, Houston said.

McCauley Urges 'Equal Attention' For School Committee Candidates

Francis X. McCauley, candidate for the School Committee, today urged voters to give equal attention to the upcoming School Committee preliminary election, Sept. 21. The Mayorality and City Council contests tend to overshadow the equally important School Committee contest, McCauley said.

With a record field of candidates seeking the nomination to the committee,

McCauley urged voters to support the candidates of their choice in the preliminary election.

McCauley spoke at a meeting of campaign workers held at his home at 210 Manet Avenue.

SHATTER-PROOF GLASSES

Well over 20,000 children and 100,000 adults are injured each year in accidents involving broken eyeglass lenses. For many, the accident results in blindness. Ironically, this needless tragedy is easily preventable.

Shatter-resistant lenses have been available in this country for many years. The effectiveness of protective lenses has been well established. Studies show that during the past ten years over 34,000 persons involved in accidents avoided serious eye injuries by wearing safety glasses.

Evidently, the reason that most people do not own shatter-proof glasses is their invalid assumption that they would be unflattering because of extra thickness and weight. Surprisingly, this is completely untrue. Today's safety glasses are 50 percent lighter than glass lenses and in appearance cannot be distinguished from ordinary glass.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Prescription tax and insurance records kept plus 24 hour emergency service in North Quincy. Open 7 days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Scottish Picnic, Highland Games To Be Held Saturday

The Weymouth Fair Grounds, Saturday, will again be the scene of the Scottish Picnic & Highland games -- 82nd consecutive annual presentation -- starting at 10 a.m.

Competitors of all ages participate in the many events of the day, including top bagpipers from the United States and Canada.

Onlookers can take part in the festivities on the Down East Dancing Boards. Bonnie lassies will perform the intricate steps of the Highland Fling, Sailor's Hornpipe, Irish Jig, and the traditional Sword Dance, still performed as Highlanders of the past have done when victory in battle was theirs.

Members of the Royal Country Dance Society will also entertain.

Other events include a soccer game between Boston United and a South Shore select side, shot put, tossing the caber, tossing the sheaf and the massed band march past in tartan finery.

The games promise excitement for the entire family starting at 10 a.m. and continuing throughout the day until late afternoon.

Brett To Refrain From Posting Detracting Signs

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, candidate for Mayor in the Sept. 21 preliminary election, announces he will continue to refrain from posting political signs on lawns, fences, trees, poles and other locations where they detract from the appearance of the community.

Brett said he discontinued the posting of such signs throughout his legislative district some years ago and finds that the practice meets with general approval of citizens.

Brett said further he endorses the warning issued recently by the city's department of building inspection advising political candidates that signs posted in violation of local zoning codes will be removed and those responsible are liable for legal action.

'What Our Flag Means To Me'

It Stands For Freedom

[Editor's Note: This is a prize winning essay in the contest "What Our Flag Means To Me" sponsored by the Houghs Neck Legion Post.

It was written by Kathy McDonough, a Quincy Sun newsgirl, and a sixth grade student at Great Hill School, Houghs Neck.

Other winning essays will also appear in the Quincy Sun.

By KATHY McDONOUGH
Great Hill School

I'm very proud of the American Flag. The flag means a lot to me but most of all I think it stands for freedom. I said freedom, because out of all the countries in the world America has the most. It has freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of the press. Our flag isn't just a square piece of material dyed red, white and blue with a bunch of stars on it. Everything we add to the American flag and everything we do with it means something. There's not just a different number of stars on our flag. There is fifty stars on all the flags today, because there are fifty states in the union and that's what the stars stand for. The red and white stripes aren't there because someone thought it would look good with the rest of the flag. Their there to represent the thirteen original colonies. When we put the flag at half staff it means someone such as a great president, a veteran, any patriotic person or anyone who has done something for America has died.

I think the worst disrespect for the flag is when someone who is protesting the way America is, the drugs, the crimes and the war. They might be protesting crimes in America when they're committing a crime worse than any crime anyone could ever commit. I think burning the flag is much worse than the war because the soldiers are fighting for what our government thinks is right. Some people feel that American soldiers should not be in vietnam. Well even if they don't like it they shouldn't burn the flag because one of the greatest things about America is that you can leave if you don't like it. So they can very easily leave. That is just one example of disrespect for the American flag. There are a lot of others.

Some of the great honors that have to do with the flag are things like being with Betsy Ross when she sat down to make the first flag or being with Francis Scott Key when he looked on the top of the fort and saw the beautiful American flag still waving. I think any great American would think of something to write under those conditions.

Something that is terrible is when I read the paper and look at all the problems America has. Then I think of being in another country where there is no freedom at all makes America seem great and why not, because when you think about it, it's true that it's a great country and the flag represents it. So I hope in the future everyone will respect the flag and I think everyone would if they thought of what it stood for. It's a truly great flag for a very great country.

Standards For Job Ads

Business schemes advertising "EARN $5" or "EARN UP TO $5" can no longer offer the sky as the limit. New regulations adopted by Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's Consumer Protection Division set up guidelines for the advertising claims of private employment agencies and business schemes.

REAL RATES

Under the new regulations, earnings and profits are not to be exaggerated in any type of sales or advertising claim for a job, company, business, or firm. The advertiser must give a reasonable and fair estimate of the salary potential in any job.

When "up to" estimates are quoted, they must be accurate according to specific rules listed in the regulations.

The "up to" amount must be equal to or less than the average salary of any Massachusetts resident who has been in the same business for less than five years, and the advertisement must tell how the quoted average was calculated.

Alternatively, the ad may show the calculations determining the "up to" amount, and also tell the average salary earned by persons in the same job.

If the "up to" amount is dependent on any limitations or conditions [such as union membership or an apprenticeship period], the advertisement must describe these requirements.

WAGE WARRANTY

Finally, unless the seller "guarantees" the stated "up to" amount the ad must clearly and conspicuously state that there is no assurance that the advertised goods or services will ensure all employees or investors the stated salary or income.

These new trade regulations, now in effect, will help businessmen determine income estimates that are realistic and will ensure potential investors and employees that their salary expectations are down to earth.

547 South Shore Residents Receiving SS Disability Checks

Social security now pays about $3 billion annually in disability cash benefits to nearly two and two third million people, according to Frank G. Culkin, social security district manager in Quincy.

In the South Shore area, 547 persons receive social security disability checks amounting to $81,730 a month, Culkin said. This is an average of $150 per individual.

Nationally, payments to disabled workers range from $70.40 to $275.80 a month, with an average payment of $141. The average benefit paid to a disabled worker with a wife and one or more children is $296 a month, Culkin said.

To be eligible for social security disability benefits, which start in the seventh month of the person's disability, a worker must be unable to work for a year or more. Generally, he must have worked in employment covered by social security for at least five of the 10 years before his disability began. The work requirement is scaled down for workers disabled before age 31.

"Young people may be eligible for benefits with as little as a year and a half of covered work, depending on when they become disabled," Culkin said.

A worker who applies for disability payments must submit medical evidence to establish his disability. The evidence is sent to an agency in his home state-usually a vocational rehabilitation agency.

"The agency is Mass. Rehabilitation Commission in Boston, Mass.," Culkin said.

A physician and other disability experts, working as a team, decide whether the worker is disabled under the social security law, Culkin advised.

"In most cases," he said, "the state agency can make the determination on the basis of medical evidence from the applicant's own physician. If additional evidence is needed, more tests may be requested at Government expense."

About two-thirds of all disability claims filed are approved, Culkin said. Roughly 90 per cent of the claims approved are decided solely on the basis of medical considerations. The rest also involve consideration of other factors - such as age, education, training, and work experience - that affect an applicant's ability to work.

Under the law, a worker cannot be considered disabled solely because he cannot work at his usual occupation, according to Mr. Culkin.

"If he has the ability to work in jobs that exist in a reasonable number throughout the national economy, his claim is not allowed," Culkin said. "He might, for example, be too disabled to work at his previous job as a crane operator - but not too disabled to work as a construction site flagman."

Some people may be missing out on social security disability benefits because they have not applied for them, Culkin said.

"Anyone who thinks he might be eligible - or knows of someone else who may be - should telephone any social security office for further information," he said.

'I Like To Look Back'

Billy DeWolfe Home On Sentimental Journey

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The man cruising the streets of Wollaston the past few days in a Caddy was Billy DeWolfe, back home on his annual sentimental journey.

"Some people don't like to look back on their lives," he said. "But I do because there are so many happy memories for me."

He drove extra slowly by 22 South Central Ave., the home in which he grew up as Billy Jones.

"I do that every year," he said. "The people living there now probably think I'm casing the place."

While here he hoped to again see Elizabeth [Bessie] Powers of Fenno St., his second grade teacher at the Wollaston School.

And he dropped by to see his old pal, Eddie Scolamiero, who operates a West Quincy barber shop, and the latter's wife, Ann.

Billy and Eddie ushered together at the old Quincy Theater back in the 1920's. Billy got his start there, studying the vaudeville headliners and took his stage name from William DeWolfe, the theater manager.

The theater is now part of the Sears Roebuck store.

"Sears," mused Billy, "is my shrine."

Billy was quite impressed with the new MBTA extension.

"I was down nosing around the Wollaston station a couple of days before it opened," he said. "I really gave it a good looking over. I think the MBTA is wonderful. I hope the people support it."

Billy recalled his days at Quincy High School.

"I walked to Quincy High with my arms full of bass drum and snares," he mused. "I played the drums in the high school band. I should have played the piano. I wouldn't have had to carry it."

At Quincy High he read Variety, the bible of show business, hiding it behind a text book. He was also cutting up with comic impressions of people. As a result he got to know the principal, the late Ernest L. Collins, better than any of his high school teachers.

While here, Billy made his annual visit to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery and the graves of his mother and father and other members of the family.

Billy, since entering show business, has been a roving one-man Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

And, for years, he has been telling "foreigners" how to correctly pronounce it: Quin-zee and not Quin-see.

Johnny Carson, Mike Douglas and Virginia Graham are his most recent converts.

Billy was on the Virginia Graham show recently. A fellow guest was Gov. Francis Sargent.

"I asked him if he knew why it was pronounced Quin-zee," said Billy. "But he didn't know. I remember asking Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa the same question some years ago and he didn't know, either."

We informed Billy that according to City Historian William C. Edwards, Quincy pronounces it Quin-zee because the Quincy family after which Quincy is named, pronounced it that way.

Whenever he can, he works in a plug for Quincy.

But Don Wilson, Jack Benny's rotund announcer, stopped him cold when they first met.

Wilson asked him where he came from and Billy replied proudly: "Quincy, the gate way to Cape Cod."

"A great way to keep what?" Wilson wanted to know.

Billy, a subscriber to the Quincy Sun, said it keeps him informed on what is going on back home.

"I think your photos are great," he said. "They are the clearest photos I have ever seen."

He said he also enjoys Vincent Puleo's "On The Screen" column.

"Whenever he asks, what ever happened to so-and-so, I'm tempted to write him and tell him," he said.

Billy, of course, is now a regular on the Doris Day TV show. "She's a doll—a very fine person," he said.

But many people keep asking him about Mrs. Murgatroyd, his lovable burger sidekick created and turned into an American theater classic.

"She's in the cocktail lounge having a belt," he tells them.

What's ahead for this talented entertainer who never wears thin and seems to get even better as the years go by?

The current nostalgia fad has brought him an offer to star in a Broadway planned show, "Irene."

The show was first done in 1919. Because of the success of "No, No, Nanette", "Irene" is to be revived and sounds like a sure hit.

"I'm not sure whether I will do it or not," said Billy. "It means I would be tied up for a whole year with it. You know, it's one thing seeing a show and another thing doing it for a whole year."

Then he was off to the Cape for a few days. He'll head for New York then to make his final decision.

Next year he hopes to be back home again to the town he really loves and where it all started for a Jones boy who really made good.

Paul Harold To Seek Ward 1 House Seat

Paul D. Harold, 23, of 32 Riverside Ave. today announced he will seek the state representative seat in the First Norfolk District Ward 1, in the Democratic primary, Oct. 19.

A graduate of the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, with a major in government, Harold is presently completing work on his Juris Doctor at Suffolk University Law School.

A resident of Quincy for 20 years, he attended Quincy public schools and graduated from Sacred Heart High School.

tour and study the public administration systems in Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union and Scandinavia.

Harold said he was "dedicated to excellence in government," and called for "a business-like approach to government administration and a scrutiny of current state spendings."

He said he supports the proposed reduction in the size of the Massachusetts House and the recommendation that the state operate all county courts and correctional institutions.

Law Student Division. A former junior high school teacher, he was a guest in 1968 of the Massachusetts delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

School Bells

Hark! Hark!
Do I hear "school bells echo?"
Yes! Yes! You do.
For they are coming closer and closer.
This time with a definite clearness
To remind you that --
It's time to go back to school again.
To study and learn from "lessons" left undone.
Advancing to another year of grade achievement.

A School is ...
A power House of Learning,
Where all "thought seeds grow."
Deep "respect" for knowledge Brings forth creative construction.
While "disrespect" will only Result in uncreative
destruction.
For this v-e-r-y reason, we Can ill-afford Irreverency.

Now that your summer fling is over,
Your next move is to fling
the school target.
With a furrowed brow and earnest intentions.
Pi-ck up the magic pencil and scroll away
To mines of mental conceptions,
Where ideas blossom into fruitful talents.

School Bells! School Bells!
How I welcome Thee -- Though tempted I'll be, to dream-away listlessly, I'll nudge myself back to reality and consolations
Of the coming fun-rewards of summer-time vacations!
Anna T. Anderson, Quincy

Planning meals is easy, due to the many kinds of fresh vegetables available this time of the year. Your choice is simple by looking for these good buys:
Green beans, beets, green
cabbage, carrots, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, sweet peppers, yellow and zucchini squash and field grown tomatoes.

Fruit in season is generally priced reasonable and are considered good buys. For good eating and enjoyment at anytime, look for seedless grapes, cantaloupe melons, watermelons, bartlett pears and blueberries. Many varieties of plums are also available that are sweet and juicy. Also lemons and limes should be considered in making those summer cool drinks.

Most vegetable farms are in full swing harvesting all kinds of vegetables. Some apple orchards are picking summer varieties, such as Early McIntosh, Gravensteins, Puritans and Miltons.

Best buys are: green beans, wild blueberries, green cabbage,
chicory, collards, corn,
cucumbers, escarole, romaine lettuce, sweet peppers, yellow squash, trellis tomatoes.

Glazed Chicken Scores High

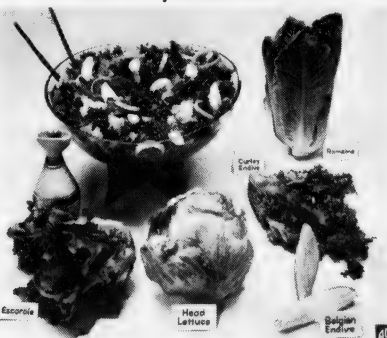

Many of the good cooks at the 23rd Annual National Chicken Cooking Contest held this year in Ocean City, Maryland, agreed that the best way to coat chicken with flour is to shake it in a paper bag. That's the first step taken by Geri Grinley, finalist from Hawaii, in the preparation of her top-scoring dish called Glazed Chicken. Geri and her husband and four children now live in Kailua, Hawaii, but Geri was born in Illinois and has lived in California and Utah. There's a bit of all the areas in her fine dish. For 1972 National Chicken Cooking Contest rules write to NCCC, Suite 1100, 551 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Glazed Chicken
4 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, boned
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons Mazola corn oil or margarine
3 tablespoons sherry
1 can (8 1/4 ounces) seedless grapes, drained
4 tablespoons orange marmalade

Mix flour with curry powder, nutmeg, salt and pepper. Dip breasts into seasoned flour coating evenly. Heat margarine in a large heavy skillet over medium heat. Add chicken; brown turning as needed. Reduce heat and continue cooking about 20 minutes, or until tender. Just before serving, pour in sherry, adjust heat and simmer several minutes. Push chicken to one side of skillet and warm the grapes. Add marmalade and toss gently. Makes 4 or 8 servings.

Here's Salad-Opedia To Vary Salad Bowl

Few things add so much to eating enjoyment as a crisp salad, fresh, green and aplow with nature's goodness. Are you getting variety in your salad bowl? Everybody loves head lettuce. It's the classic salad green. But do you add other greens, too? Mix and match a number of leafy greens in season to make salad its exciting best.

Consider escarole, slightly frilled at the edges, with a flavor quite different from other greens. Escarole is sometimes called straight-leaved endive, which gives a hint as to its flavor. Belgian endive comes in elegant, ivory spears, a wonderful addition to the salad bowl. Romaine has all the dignity of tall green plumes. This green is crisp, handsome, and a great blender with other types of greens, or use it alone, as a salad variation.

Follow your own good taste to vary salad dressings according to what goes into the bowl. Many people like fresh lemon juice for a change when making a French dressing for a tossed salad. The creamy dressings are delicious with tossed salads that contain hard-cooked egg. Fresh fruit combines very well with greens in the salad bowl, and a whipped cream dressing sweetened with honey is very good with them.

For extra color in salads, call on carrots cut in curls or sticks, on green pepper rings, both red and green, onion rings and a scattering of bright red radishes. Now is the season to enliven your salad bowl with a variety of the good fresh greens and vegetables so attractive at your market.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Pretending Not To Be Married'

"He began making noises like a husband...and I turned away"...said the sophisticated...well-dressed woman of forty. She'd been married before...to a weak mama's boy. She'd been dating for a couple of years now and was seriously considering marrying John...when he began "making noises like a husband"...and this she could not tolerate. So she turned away.

"Noises like a husband"...What were they? I asked. Said she..."Making demands...setting limits on where I could go...who I could see...how I should handle the kitchen...what was wrong with my personality...what I should have done about the car...my children...my boss." This fellow had shown his true colors and lost a real woman.

Many a woman has lost a real man because she made "noises like a wife"... "Why are you late?" "Where'd you stop?" "Who were you talking to on the phone?" "Slow down or I'm getting out." "All you ever think about is sex and golf." A real man won't live under such scrutiny.

Isn't it sad and unfortunate that the terms..."noises like a husband" and "noises like a wife"...lift up ugly images in our minds of the marriage relationship instead of images of beauty...reward...strength...warm companionship. I'm suggesting that perhaps the marriage relationship would prosper more if people would pretend that they are not married...act like lovers and mistresses. Often it isn't that a man doesn't know how to treat a woman...or that a woman doesn't know how to treat a man...you both seemed to know when you were single lovers. The problem for many married people...too many...is that they quit acting as lovers and mistresses.

Look at the contrast...as a lover he opens the car door for his girl. As a husband he walks directly to his door, letting his wife get in by herself. As a lover he's eager to go out frequently with his girl for good times...as a husband he is so often "too tired"...even tho he has the same job. As a lover he is so anxious to fix a door knob in his girl's apartment...as a husband he never notices. A lover is so considerate...thoughtful...sensual...affectionate. As a husband he takes his wife for granted...is self-centered and seldom expresses his love except in the sex act itself. As a lover he sees her as warm...tender...intelligent. As a husband he feels compelled to correct her "unfeminine ways"...stripping their wives of their womanhood.

On the other side...look at the contrast between the mistress and some wives. A mistress is waiting at the door in sexy lingerie when her lover arrives late from his night job. A wife has retired...or sits glued to the late show. A mistress will drop everything to go with him on his hurriedly arranged business trip. A wife has forty reasons why she can't get ready without two days preparation. A mistress will stroke his hair as he lays his head in her lap sitting on the sofa. A wife sits in another chair rolling up her hair in rollers. A mistress sits and listens and builds a man's ego so that he believes in himself and by her encouragement rises to challenges which along would mean failure. A wife sits and tells a husband about the bills that are piling up...and "what are you going to do about them?"

See the difference? Now...just pretend you're not married. You met the legal and moral requirements...you're secure...your shirts are ironed...you're free...free to love and live as a lover and mistress. No more twisting each other...just accepting and loving. It'll put happiness back into your marriage.

●Along The Campaign Trail Quincy Demands Qualified Leadership, Says Gacicia

Peter P. Gacicia, candidate for Ward 3 Councillor, cited several pressing problems confronting the citizens of Quincy, at several house parties held in his behalf throughout Ward 3.

"Quincy," he said, "is like a big business that demands qualified leadership and responsive individuals to cope with some of these problems.

The problem of taxes, the entrance of the MBTA and its uncertain impact on the future of Quincy, the revitalization of our shopping district, assuring the homeowner and taxpayer of maximum utilization of the tax dollar with a minimum of waste and inefficiency, all demand qualified elected officials who possess both the education and business experience to cope with these problems."

"In addition a ward councillor must have a feeling for people, their problems, their anxieties, their wants and needs, and their desire to be heard on all issues affecting Quincy and Ward 3," he continued.

In touring Ward 3 and speaking with the voters in their homes he said he found that many persons are quite concerned with the growing incidence of housebreaks and other crimes. He called for improved street lighting and adequate police protection as one method of curbing crime incidence throughout the ward.

He related his qualifications as a candidate for Ward 3 councillor. He was born, and educated, and has resided in Quincy all his life. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II and is a graduate of Boston University with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree. He is a businessman in Quincy. During the past 20 years he said he has acquired valuable experience in matters of handling finances, personnel, and equipment and materials which would be of considerable value as a Ward 3 Councillor.

He urged his listeners to vote the man who can best serve the interests of all the citizens of Ward 3.

"Compare each candidate's qualifications and then vote for the one who is best qualified to serve as councillor," he said. "I feel that my education, training, experience, and background qualify me for election to Ward 3 Councillor," he concluded.

Mature Judgment , Experience Stressed By Muriel Goudey

"Mature judgment based on years of classroom experience and department leadership" is the basis on which Miss Muriel J. Goudey is campaigning for a seat on the Quincy School Committee.

Speaking last night at the home of Mrs. Rudolf Oberg of 37 Walker St., North Quincy, at an open house in her honor, Miss Goudey said:

"Issues which are always those proposed by campaigning candidates - curriculum, economy, drug abuse education - are already being systematically advanced by those experts we hire and pay to produce what we need and can afford in Quincy for the world of change in the teaching of our youth.

"In the present budget composition, with about 85 per cent allocated to salaries, 10 per cent to texts and materials, there is only that 5 per cent for all else to claim for economy.

"Mature judgment after the study of the changing issues is the one single quality most needed in our school committee," Miss Goudey states. "My mature judgement, my experience, my commitment and my accountability will encourage advancement towards the best for each child."

Full-Time City Councillor Needed, Says Adeline Pompeo

Developmental growth and the expanding problems of a city of 88,000 residents require the attention of a full-time city councillor at-large, says candidate Miss Adeline Pompeo.

Miss Pompeo expressed her views at a recent gathering of voters at the home of Mrs. Rachel Romig of 183 Liberty St.

She said a full-time councillor was also needed to "meet the questions and demands of the uninformed and often puzzled citizens."

"Time and devotion to solve the problems of this city and its residents can only be given by a city councillor who has no other political interests," she said.

She said her "determination and great regard for the residents of Quincy" would enable her to put all of her energies toward a better city government.

She said changes are needed and she, as a full-time councillor, could help bring about the changes.

Smith Hails Council Action On N.Q. High Addition

George C. Smith, Jr., candidate for School Committee, hails recent action on the part of the City Council regarding the North Quincy High School addition.

Speaking at a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Harmon of 25 Old Colony Ave., Smith said:

"The action by the Quincy City Council in voting an increased amount of $63,000 toward the addition at North Quincy High School will help to hasten the day when the overcrowding at North will be alleviated."

"On some occasions, the governmental process is slow and unwieldy. The school population at North Quincy High has exceeded, and would continue to exceed, the available space for some time.

"I am sure that students, parents and teachers are pleased with the speedy, positive of the City Council. This is an example of government at its best."

In closing Smith said, "I hope the architect and builder will be able to meet the completion target date of January 1972. The additional space at North is long overdue."

Busing Pupils Between Cities 'Ridiculous Idea' Says Harrington

Busing school children from one city to another was termed a "ridiculous idea" by School Committee candidate James F. Harrington at a gathering held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pantagos of 193 Billings St., North Quincy.

"In my mind this ridiculous idea is an affront against the common sense of the already overburdened taxpayers of Quincy. "Why pay for a Quincy education and bus our children to another school system," said Harrington, in reaffirming a position he took two years ago.

Nicastro Steps Up Attack On 12 Month School Year

Dean Paul Nicastro, candidate for school committee, took his criticisms of the 12-month school year concept into North Quincy this week, calling it a "fiscal flop" and asserting that "it will not work unless great numbers of families are willing to alter the course of their lives by turning summer into winter."

year-round education on the basis of a Pennsylvania study, and said that "unless the program is made optional, implementation will wreak chaos in the life patterns of thousands of households across the city."

Acknowledging that year-round plans are not always impractical, and citing an apparently successful one initiated in a Missouri school, Nicastro nonetheless expressed doubt that the extended school year has place in Quincy.

Taking the current overcrowding crisis in North Quincy as an illustration, Nicastro said he did "not think enough North Quincy parents would prefer to send their children to school during the summer months as a substitute for urgently needed classroom space to make a year-round plan feasible."

"Moreover," concluded Nicastro, "I am convinced that, in the lives of most young persons, the sunny months of summer are the most appropriate for rest and refreshment."

Delahunt Urges Drugs Probe At Wollaston Beach

Atty. William D. Delahunt, candidate for Ward 5 Councilor, is requesting Dist. Atty. George G. Burke to investigate the sale and use of drugs on Wollaston Beach.

In a letter to Burke, Delahunt asked that the Drug Control Unit begin concentrating its efforts and resources on the "depressing drug problem in this area."

After an investigation, Delahunt urged that a special sitting of the Grand Jury be called to review the evidence obtained and return indictments against those trafficking in drugs in the area.

"The Wollaston Beach situation calls for immediate and forceful action, and I feel that my suggestions if acted upon, would be a step in the right direction" Delahunt wrote.

He asked also an opportunity to meet with Burke and his Drug Control Unit as soon as possible to discuss the matter, "because of my personal interest and the concern of the residents in this area."

Delahunt said his letter was prompted by concern of residents expressed to him, and the description of conditions on Wollaston Beach described in two articles in a Boston newspaper.

Raymondi Cites Need For Renewed Dialogue

Daniel G. Raymondi, candidate for the Quincy School Committee, today urged that school administrators, educators and students make a sincere effort to restore communication and respect within the academic environment.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pomarico, 34 Main Street, Raymondi said that the Quincy High School strike was a tragic example of what a breakdown in dialogue can lead to. "My campaign is dedicated to the institutionalization of discussion and rapport," he said. "My candidacy is founded on the understanding of our youth and their problems in a complex society."

"I pledge to make myself available to the people of Quincy. If elected, you will get to know at least one of the men who formulates the academic milieu for the City of Quincy."

LaRaia Honored At Coffee Reception

Several hundred persons honored Joseph J. LaRaia, candidate for Councilor-At-Large, at a coffee hour reception Wednesday night at the Fore River Clubhouse.

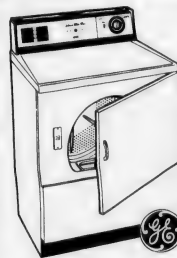

The former City Council president greeted and talked with the residents of Ward 2, whom he served in the City Council from 1960 to 1965. The reception served as the kickoff for LaRaia's bid to return to the Council.

School Committee Guardian Of Public Interest, Says Kennedy

School Committee members are guardians and protectors of the public interest in all matters pertaining to schools, Christopher F. Kennedy said at a recent coffee hour.

Kennedy spoke at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Glaman and their daughter, Miss Mary Lou Glaman, of 42 Victoria Rd, Merrymount.

While much of School Committee business is devoted to routine matters, "the committee's responsibility for review and approval cannot be overstated," Kennedy said. "It is the duty of the citizenry, therefore, to examine carefully the qualifications of all candidates and to support those in whom they feel they can place their confidence and trust. Furthermore, in order for such support to be truly meaningful, it must be translated into votes on Primary Day, Sept. 21," Kennedy said.

"Only in this way can Quincy have the able and responsible School Committee which it requires."

Caruso Against Accepting Contributions

Louis J. Caruso of 32 Sextant Circle, Germantown, candidate for Ward 1 Councillor, advocates election of a candidate who does not accept any contributions, "a man who does his own spending and his own work."

Caruso, who has been a candidate previously for Mayor, Ward Councillor and State Representative, said he feels the excise tax should be discontinued.

In his platform, he suggests free roof parking be built over a part of Ross Parkway, pollution cost be born by polluting companies, an advisory board on rent control, and Civil Service examinations within the department.

He is opposed to the MBTA extension, contending it will bring only a huge deficit to the taxpayer. He opposes also revaluation of property as he does not feel it helps the small homeowners and those who pay rent.

Caruso said he believes that establishments should not be built "at the taxpayers expense for drug addicts." Those afflicted should go to the hospital out patient department for treatment, he declared.

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration has intensified its campaign to help employers develop GI Bill on-the-job training opportunities for returning servicemen.

At the same time, the VA is taking steps to simplify the procedures employers must follow in setting up their veterans' programs.

Veterans Affairs Administrator Donald E. Johnson said that special help is available to small businesses who would like to participate but who lack resources for developing training programs.

VA regional offices will send training experts to survey on-the-job training possibilities and help set up acceptable training situations.

Under approved programs, veterans are paid subsistence allowances while they are in training. The salary paid by the employer goes up as the trainee develops skills useful to the employer.

Johnson said that over 100,000 veterans are currently taking on-the-job training, and almost 200,000 have taken apprenticeship or OJT since the current program was first authorized less than four years ago. Johnson pointed out, however, that more jobs and training opportunities are needed, and one way to provide them is through greater employer participation in OJT programs.

In an approved VA program, employers may pay new veteran trainees as little as one-half of the target journeyman wage.

While the VA provides information and helps employers develop OJT programs, Johnson said that employer programs must be designed to meet the requirements of State Approving Agencies before veteran trainees can receive VA benefits.

To assist in the development of new training jobs, the VA recently circulated to all its regional offices, 34 prototype on-the-job training programs in occupations of agriculture and in the manual skill fields.

Additional VA funds are also being made available to State Approving Agencies in support of the expedited State approval process.

L.W.V. Plan Sept. 15 School Committee Candidates Night

A School Committee Beechwood Knoll School on Fenno St., Wollaston. Statements by the candidates will be followed by a period of informal discussion in groups.

"In view of the strong interest and large number of candidates running for School Committee this year, the League feels that a Candidates' Night

Quincy 'Union Label Week'

Quincy is observing "Union Label Week" [Sept. 6-12] by proclamation of Mayor James R. McIntyre.

"The American labor movement has, throughout its history attempted to improve working conditions and wage standards that are far superior to those anywhere else in the world through the processes of collective bargaining with fair employers," McIntyre wrote in his official proclamation.

He termed labor's emblems "living symbols of highest quality, fair play between workers and their employers and the American way of life."

He asked all citizens to display the union symbols and to patronize products and services of union labor so identified.

McCauley Says Experience Major Issue In School Committee Race

Noting there will be at least three-possibly four new faces on the School Committee in January-candidate Francis X. McCauley calls experience in government the major issue in the School Committee race.

McCauley stressed this point at house party attended by more than 50 persons at the home of Ernest T. Deveau of 5 Hood St. McCauley noted that three vacant seats on the School Committee are at stake in this year's election.

He also pointed out that if School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly is elected to the City Council, there will be a fourth School Committee seat to fill.

"This large turnover makes experience in government the major issue in the School Committee contest," he declared.

McCauley reviewed his four-year record as a member of the City Council—two of the years as chairman of the council's powerful Finance Committee which acts on all city expenditures.

He also noted that while a member of the City Council, he supported construction of the Quincy Vocational-Technical School, the new South Quincy elementary school and the addition to the Squantum School.

Mullaney Stresses

'Mature Judgement'

School Committee members should have "mature judgment and managerial talent," according to J. Thomas Mullaney, candidate for the School Committee.

Speaking at a weekend barbecue at the home of Mrs. Anna Mullaney, 117 Standish Ave., he likened the school committee to a corporate board of directors.

He said: "The Quincy School Committee is responsible for the quality of education provided to 17,000 students and for the administration of a $17. million school budget. Through the Superintendent they direct the activities of 1,224 employees including 743 classroom teachers.

"The School Committee is much like a corporate board of directors. When stockholders or voters elect directors or school committee members they should be looking for mature judgment and managerial talent."

BLOOD DONORS AND ASPIRIN

Normally blood is not accepted from donors who are taking medication, both for their and the recipient's good. But apparently many people don't consider aspirin as a drug; at least they don't mention it when they are asked at the blood bank if they have taken any medication.

A recent experiment at a blood donor station showed that 18 percent of women donors and 8 percent of the male donors had taken from 2 to 6 aspirins or the equivalent in other salicylate preparations shortly before giving blood, but all said they had taken no drugs. The levels were high enough to harm a recipient sensitive to salicylate.

There is another reason not to take aspirin before giving blood. Donors with fever are not accepted for obvious reasons.

Aspirin suppresses fever and may mask an infection which would veto a donation at the time. Don't take aspirin before giving blood.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service.

We have added a few more terrific specials to our T-Sale still going on or till the merchandise is gone.

Naval Reserve Officers School Registration Friday Night

Naval Reserve Officers' School, 1-7, will register students for six post-graduate type courses Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the main hangar at the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

Captain John A. Culver, USNR, of Rockland, commanding officer of the school, announced that all reserve officers are welcome to attend the classes which continue one night a week for 40 weeks through next May.

The classes, he noted, are designed to enhance the professional qualifications for the reserve officers. Currently, more than 80 officers have enrolled for the 1971-1972 school year.

Curriculum is provided by the Bureau of Naval Personnel and the Naval War College. Courses being offered by NROS 1-7 this fall: National Strategy, International Law, International Relations, Security Classified Information, National Security Management and Amphibious Operations.

Donald Lettis Exhibit At Main Library

A one-man show of paintings and prints by Donald R. Lettis of Hingham is the September exhibit at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Main Hall, announces Carmen Ungar, art librarian.

Lettis is chairman of the Art Education Division and Associate Professor at the Massachusetts College of Art, Boston; and vice president of the South Shore Art Center at Cohasset.

Lettis, who describes his work as "minimal or objective abstraction", has a master's degree in art education from Syracuse University and a master of fine arts degree from Pratt Institute, N.Y.

His work has been shown extensively in New York, New Jersey, Indiana and Massachusetts. At the Berkshire Art Museum, Gov. Francis Sargent presented him with the Berkshire Art Association Award for his juried entry "Cuts Cradle" in October, 1970.

South Shore Secretaries Meet Sept. 14

Miss Dolores Almeida, President of the South Shore Chapter has announced that the September meeting of the National Secretaries Association [International] will be held on Sept. 14, at the Country Fare, Hingham. Dinner will be served promptly at 7 p.m.

This will be the first meeting of the new season and the South Shore Chapter invites all secretaries interested in membership to contact Betty George, at 41 Hilda St., Quincy, or by calling 479-3550 or Miss Patricia Hurley, 63 Pleasant St.,

Milton.

After dinner Miss Eleanor Fusoni, CPS, will present a "travelogue of the New Haven [New England Conference] and the San Francisco [International Convention]." A short business meeting will follow.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Ruth Gordon 'Chases' In 'Harold And Maude'

Faces we haven't seen on the wide screen for a spell: ROBERT CUMMINGS, PHYLLIS DILLER, MAURICE CHEVALIER, and of course, old pro funnyman BEN BLUE... WOODY STRODE is toppled in the Plaza Pictures production "BLACK JESUS"... And you say making a television commercial sounds like fun. Model-actress PAULA PRITCHETT thinks not. While lenseing one for a brand deodorant, she was bitten on the shoulder by a black panther, feline type that is... PETER BOYLE, this viewers favorite "JOE", returns to the screen in the October release "T. R. BASKIN". Co-starring with him in this heavy drama is the ever sultry, not so career conscious, CANDICE BERGEN...

My but KAREN SPERLING is one spunky, gifted young filmmaker. In her first undertaking, "MAKE A FACE", she tackles the awesome jobs of producer, director, co-writer, star, and even has her dainty little fingers in on the soundtrack with a play on the harpsichord... Of course Miss SPERLING's pedigree warrants such guts and talent. She is the daughter of producer MILTON SPERLING, granddaughter of HARRY WARNER, and niece of JACK WARNER... Assuming "MAKE A FACE" is a hit, she may yet add more glory and prestige to a family steeped in the tradition of film excellence...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: JERRY LEWIS speling on the supposed impact of Cassettes: "It will be many years before TV cassettes are a threat to the motion picture industry. Educational cassettes, perhaps, but who wants to sit home playing a cassette of "How to Perform Brain Surgery on a Parakeet"?... With all the westerns LEE VAN CLEEF is pumping out, one may think his agents are attempting to mold him into another ROY ROGERS, or say GENE AUTRY. Just can't recall seeing VAN CLEEF in anything but a cowboy oater the past four years. And his next, "CAPTAIN APACHE", follows in the tradition...

GEORGE C. SCOTT does a "PATTON" about face in the soon-to-be filmed "RAGE". His role deals with anything but patriotism as the picture focuses on a U.S. farmer seeking revenge against the Army for the destruction and death they brought to his land and family... Irony Dept: "THE LOVE MACHINE" is one of the most critically barbed pictures of the year, and yet it is doing wonders at the box office. What the critics fail to appreciate, the public eats up... "OUT OF THE CLOSET" is being hailed as the first "in depth" documentary on the subject of homosexuality...

When fads strike Tinseltown, keeping up with the Joneses is definitely the "in" thing. The latest vogue is the bit of the mature older woman seducing the young innocent boy. With this in mind, RUTH GORDON does the chasing in "HAROLD AND MAUDE"; JEANNE MOREAU pursues zealously in "LOUISE"; and one and all get in on the fun with "ALL THE RIGHT NOISES"... More than likely this newest of trends will burn brightly on the nations screens until extinguished by public boredom and apathy, oh say sometime by the Fall of '72... Film fads generally run their course in a year. With the above subject matter in mind, I for one say a month would be long enough...

And how's this for rough treatment from the Ratings' Board, The MPA... as so appalled by a violent battle sequence between a man and a bear in "MAN IN THE WILDERNESS" that they slapped the RICHARD HARRIS starrer with an X... As fine an actor as ALAN BATES is, he lacks the mystique, the drawing power, of say a MARLON BRANDO. And the same goes for OLIVER REED. His name on the marquee doesn't entice this viewer, for one, to throw away $3... When are the Italian made "TRINITY" westerns going to hit our shores?... The just completed "THE BURGULARS" may be JEAN-PAUL BELMONDO's last film for a while. The reason? He is in such a high tax bracket, he's left with few francs to show for the effort...

Representative CHARLES B. RANGEL is sponsoring a Bill in Congress to honor the late LOUIS ARMSTRONG in recognition of his efforts as an American ambassador of good will... 1971 is fast shaping up as the year of JULIE CHRISTIE. With "McCABE AND MRS. MILLER" and "THE GO-BETWEEN" to her credit, she has dominated the nations screens like no other actress this year... "SUMMER OF 42" may have made a star of JENNIFER O'NEILL, but you'd never know it the way producers are staying away from her. She's not being besieged with scripts, good or bad. Which is hard to understand. Generally when an actress makes an auspicious debut as did Miss O'NEILL, she is flooded with enough script offers to keep her busy for 10 years...

Those wondering what became of ANDREW PRINE won't want to miss him in "SIMON-KING OF THE WITCHES"... CARLO PONTI has soured on the United States as a locale to make films. "After my experience in New York with the unions," PONTI lamented, "I now realize what an acute and dramatic cost situation the American film industry faces"... The subject of all his grief is "MORTADELLA", the SOPHIE LOREN starrer which ran $500,000 over the original estimate... To date "LOVE STORY" has grossed over $70 million in world wide rentals... "SUPERSTARS IN FILM CONCERT" looks like the worst of the Rock Concert Flicks...

RAQUEL WELCH is hoping for an image overhaul with a down to earth portrayal of a roller-skating champion in "THE KANSAS CITY BOMBER". And this picture could do it for her in her quest to be taken seriously as an actress. The script calls for plenty of acting grit, and with little physical show...

McCarthy, Three Others Return

Conroy Greet 115 Prospects At Quincy

By TOM SULLIVAN

When Quincy High Football Coach Hank Conroy greeted more than 115 candidates last week, he found only two offensive starters and two defensive starters from last fall's undefeated team which won the Greater Boston League and Eastern Mass. Class A titles.

But all is not lost for the Presidents because among the returnees is Steve McCarthy.

That name alone gives opposing coaches headaches and they know his presence at halfback will make Quincy a solid threat again this season.

Steve was one of the GBL's outstanding runners two years ago as a sophomore and continued his brilliance last fall until injured. Upon his return after missing several games he took up where he had left off and clinched the Thanksgiving win over North Quincy with an 87-yard punt return.

"Steve is one of the best, there is no doubt about it," Conroy said. "I think we will be pretty well off for a starting club but won't have the depth of the past few years unless a lot of the newcomers progress rapidly and help us."

The starting offensive backfield is experienced with Jimmy Walker at quarterback, McCarthy and Bobby Malvesti halfbacks and Joe Nicastro at fullback. Walker and Kevin Shea, who is expected to share the quarterbacking chores, sparked for last year's undefeated junior varsity and did well in their varsity appearances. Malvesti was a regular until injured and Nicastro also played regularly.

The likely offensive line includes Jim Hanlon and Bob McDermott, ends; Ron Smith and Joe Davis, tackles; Pat Corcoran and Joe Coner, guards, and Frank Catrambone, center. McCarthy and Smith, a prospects in the offensive line including Ends Dave Coull, Rich Walter, Mike Ryan, Ray Papile, playing for the first time; Paul Riggs and Bob Spillane; Tackles Mike Varrasso, Bob Pettiti and Dan Spencer, and Guards Ed Sylva, Rich Della Barba, Frank DiCristofaro, and Frank Guido.

Sylva, Ryan and Guido are up from the sophomores while Varrasso, Riggs and Pettiti are likely sophomore hopes.

"Varrasso is a real giant at 6-3 and 260 pounds from Point Junior," Conroy said. "He not only is big but loves to play and he will see action. I'm sure, both ways for us. Riggs is a 6-1, 180-pound end and Pettiti a 230-pound tackle from Sterling. I feel all three will stay with the varsity."

The Presidents' coach, who again has as his assistants Burke, Bud Mosher, Gene Macomber and John Hogan, feels this year's success will depend a good deal upon the boys' attitude.

"The boys can't afford to be complacent," he said. "We have had two fine years [9-0-0 last fall and 7-1-1 and the GBL co-championship in 1969] and these kids must realize they will have to dig in and show a lot of desire to approach these records."

"We will have good speed and good game experience, although most have not started. If we can just uncover some capable reserves and get some depth, we should do all right."

Quincy met Dedham last week in its first scrimmage and has others lined up with Boston Tech, B.C. High, Brockton and Arlington.

Next week we'll delve into the Presidents' defensive outlook.

Walker Injured

Jimmy Walker, Quincy's starting quarterback, suffered a dislocated shoulder last week in a scrimmage and is expected to miss several games.

"This is a tough blow but I will work hard with Kevin Shea and Paul Creedon who will have to take over the job," Coach Hank Conroy said.

There is also a possibility that Bobby Malvesti may be moved from halfback for a tryout at quarterback.

220-pound husky and last year's center, are the lone returning offensive starters, while Walker and McDermott are the defensive starters.

Giving the prospective backfield starters a battle are Shea at quarterback, John Whitney at fullback, George Sisti and Pete Gaccia, halfbacks.

Other offensive backs include Dave Ciani, Ray Lawyer, small but extremely fast; Frank Warren, John Ford, Paul Creedon, Connie Driscoll and Bob Bouchard.

Creedon, Whitney, Ciani and Bouchard are up from Dave Burke's sophomores who were 7-3 last year.

North Looks Green

Frazier Welcomes 85 Hopefuls At North

North Quincy football Coach Ralph Frazier greeted 85 candidates last week but there is little experience among the group and the Raiders will be extremely green, especially on defense.

North enjoyed a fine 6-2-1 record last year in Frazier's second season as head coach but this year's squad will have to go some to equal what mark.

"I have only one defensive starter, John Meyer, and two offensive starters, Meyer and Dave Mahoney, back and Mahoney's status right now is questionable due to an injury," the North coach said.

"We are better off on offense for experience as I was able to use quite a few boys there last year. But, because we had mostly close games, I had to keep my defensive starters in most of the way, so we really are green there."

If Mahoney is out for any length of time, it will be a blow to the Raiders' hopes. He was one of the Greater Boston League's outstanding ends a year ago and turned in many remarkable pass receptions.

Following a scrimmage at Whitman-Hanson last week in which the North coaches "saw a lot of good and bad," the likely offensive starters include Mahoney, if ready, and big Jim Driscoll, ends; Meyer and Joe Morrissey, tackles; Bill O'Hare and either Bill Matthews or Dave Hemingway, guards; Dave Cadigan, center; Bob McKay, quarterback; Kevin Egan, fullback; John Linehan and either Billy Fong or Tom Burke, halfbacks.

Meyer and Mahoney are the only returning starters, while Driscoll, Morrissey, Hemingway, McKay, Egan and Linehan all won their letters.

Behind this group are Ends Billy Carroll and Rick Paulson, Tackles Jim Ziniti and Ray Morrill, Guards Wayne Bell and Mark Mulvaney, Center Mike Gerry, Quarterback Bob Morton, Halfbacks Bobby Guerriero, Bob McCormick and Paul Cuniff and Fullback Reggie Sandifer.

Among the many who will see action on defense are Ken Perrin, Bell, Fong, Morton, Guerriero, Carroll, Charles Smith, Ken Shine, Jim Fatsaes, Bob Torino, Bruce Stephanski, Mark Hemphill, McCormick, Burke, Egan, Walter Collins and Mulvaney, backs.

Also John Harrington, Driscoll, Sandifer, Meyer, Morrissey, Dave Carter, Ed Hill, Peter Quinn, John Stevens, Bill Welch, Bill Schaezel, Fatsaes and Jim O'Neil, line.

The Raiders don't have an especially big team but there are a few sizeable players including Meyer, 210; Morrissey, 220, and Sandifer, 230.

"Despite our inexperience, I'm far from pessimistic and think if we can survive our first three games, all away from home, we could have another good season," said Frazier, himself a former North standout. "We have a real good group of boys with many seniors who have a lot of desire and spirit."

Frazier will be depending heavily upon several graduates of Ted Sadowski's strong 1970 sophomore team which defeated Quincy for the first time in several years.

This group includes McCormick, Morton, Perrin, Smith, Stevens, Bell, Cadigan, Mulvaney, Quinn, Schaezel, Welch, Carroll and Fatsaes. Several others are also among the 85 candidates and could work their way into varsity spots.

North scrimmaged Whitman-Hanson last Saturday and faces Walpole and Brookline this week. The Raiders open a week earlier than Quincy and most other teams, playing at Weymouth South on Sept. 18.

Frazier has Sadowski, Tom Fitzgerald and Jack Bowes back from last year as assistants and Dick Meyer has moved up from ninth grade coach to replace Bill Pagnano, who has taken the head coaching job at Duxbury.

Over 30 Girls In Quincy Track Club

By TOM SULLIVAN

Interest in girls' track on the South Shore was virtually nil until last spring when the first girls' team at Quincy High School was organized and Peter Gallagher took over as coach.

That hiked interest tremendously and this summer Gallagher, a Quincy High teacher and Hull resident, kept these girls and several others going with the formation of the Quincy Track Club.

"These girls have really taken a liking to track and the Quincy Track Club has grown from a handful of girls to more than 30 girls and several boys," Gallagher said. "We recently completed our first season and are looking forward to greater things next summer."

"These girls are really interested and they all showed marked improvement during the summer. I feel some of them will be among the top trackmen in New England in a few years."

Especially outstanding is 13-year old Maria Ciano, who will be an eighth grader this fall at Central Junior High school. Maria, a sister of Quincy High stars Bobby and Peter, was undefeated in the half mile run and also did well in the 220, 440, 1 and 1½ mile cross country run.

Also sparkling was a classmate of Maria, Jill Seamans, another standout distance runner. These two young ladies ran with the Quincy High track team in the spring but, as Quincy, which performed on an informal basis this year, will have a formal team next spring, they will not be allowed to compete as they are still in junior high school.

Gallagher awarded points to the girls during the summer on the basis of where they placed in each meet. Kathy Bennett was the top scorer with 115 points, followed by Miss Ciano with 85, Judy Foley with 73, Miss Seamans with 67 and Cathy Ilacqua with 66.

The other point scorers:

Linda Robinson, 46; Joyce Flynn, 30; Rory Nolan, 29; Cheryl Hennessey, 28; Shirley Lyons, 17; Betsy Witt, 14; Joan Wiedemann and Kellianne Clark, 13; Mary Ann Lynch, 12.

Also, Jennifer Seamans and Sheila Nolan, 9; Terry Morrissey and Barbara King, 8; Gertrude McManus, 7; Peggy Morrissey and Christine Ciano, 6; Lynn Walkama, 4; Rosemarie Wolforth and Kim Broome, 3; Kathy O'Rourke, 2; Darlene Prescott and Debbie McGunagle, one.

The top five received trophies at the team's cookout at Gallagher's home, which climaxed the first season.

At the same time a Most Valuable Player trophy, based on sportsmanship, contribution to the team and points scored, was presented to Miss Bennett.

The QTC records are as follows: 15-19 year old 50-yard dash, Judy Foley and Cathy Ilacqua, 6.7 seconds; 75-yard dash, Linda Robinson, 10.5 seconds; 100, Joan Wiedemann, 12.4 seconds; 220, Kathy Bennett, 29 seconds; 440, Kathy Bennett, 1:07; 880, Kathy Bennett, 2:45; 3/4 mile, Betsy Witt, 5:28; 50-yard hurdles, Cathy Ilacqua, 8 seconds; 80-yard hurdles, Cathy Ilacqua, 13 seconds; 1½ mile cross country run, Cathy Ilacqua, 10:50; 880-yard walk, Kathy Bennett, 1:02; shot put, Judy Foley, 28 feet, 9½ inches; discus, Betsy Witt, 72 feet, 6 inches.

Softball throw, Linda Robinson, 185 feet; high jump, Linda Robinson and Judy Foley, 4 feet, 7 inches; long jump, Judy Foley, 14 feet, 5 inches; 440-yard relay, Linda Robinson, Maria Ciano, Kathy Bennett and Mary Robertson, 58.6 seconds; 880-yard relay, Jill Seamans, Kathy Bennett, Camille Anderson and Maria Ciano, 2:11.3; mile relay, Judy Foley, Mary Ann Lynch, Cathy Ilacqua and Jill Seamans, 5:30.

Nine to 14-year old 50 yard dash, Rory Nolan, 7.8 seconds; 75-yard dash, Shirley Lyons, 11.3 seconds; 100, Jennifer Seamans, 15 seconds; 220, Maria Ciano, 30.0 seconds; 440, Maria Ciano, 1:06.8; 880, Maria Ciano, 2:41.2; 1½-mile cross country run, Maria Ciano, 9:09; long jump, Joyce Flynn, 12 feet, 10 inches; high jump, Cheryl Hennessey, 4 feet; 440-yard relay, Jill Seamans, Joyce Flynn, Barbara King and Rory Nolan, 1:02.

Gallagher conducted a series of three weekly cross country meets. The final one was run last week with Cathy Ilacqua winning the girls 16 and up race, followed by Judy Foley; Sheila Nolan winning the 14-15 run, followed by Donna Stangle; Jill Seamans winning the 12-13 run, followed by Joyce Flynn, Barbara King, Gertrude McManus, Kim Broome, Janice Notrangelo, Doreen Kennedy, Darlene Prescott and Pat Austin; Jennifer Seamans beating out Rory Calhoun in the 9-11 race, and Steve Bresnahan winning the boys 12-15 run, followed by Brian Hurley, Harry Williams, Robert Williams, John Lupo, Mike Lupo, Bill Hennessey, Robert Hennessey and Roger Bogosh.

The QTC competed in the weekly ARCO meets at White Stadium and the weekly Brockton Development meets at Brockton High school.

Although these were meets for individuals with no official team points, the Quincy team was undefeated this summer teamwise and a trophy for this feat will be added to the Quincy High trophy case.

Misses Bennett, Ciano and Cheryl Hennessey represented the team in the U.S. Youth Games at White Stadium in which Washington was the winner, followed by Detroit, New York, St. Louis, Birmingham, Baltimore, Paterson, N.J., Boston [for whom the Quincy girls competed], and Newark, N.J.

Gallagher, who is planning a fall cross country program and a limited winter track program, called out candidates for the Quincy High girls' cross country team Monday. Workouts will be held this week at Merrymount Park at 6:30 and when school starts practice will be held daily at 2:30.

Thanks to Peter Gallagher, interest is zooming in girls' track and cross country in Quincy and the South Shore.

Look for several of the girls to grab headlines throughout New England within a few years in AAU and other meets.

ONE OF THE top scorers for the Quincy Track Club was Judy Foley, who holds five club records and finished right behind Kathy Bennett and Maria Ciano in points scored this summer.

Teale Field An Example Of What People Can Do Working Together

It was first announced in the Quincy Sun in December of 1969 that the North Quincy Boosters Club was sparking a drive to convert Teale Pond in North Quincy into a much-needed physical education facility.

These plans reached reality last October when the City Council transferred 3.5 acres of the land from the city to the school department.

The filling in of the area has been completed and beginning in September, when Teale Playground will officially open, the area will be used by the North Quincy High School phys-ed classes and by various high school teams.

No one is happier about the new facility than Ralph Frazier, North Quincy High football coach and physical education director, who was one of the driving forces in acquiring the area which is across the street from the high school.

"This will solve many of our space problems," Frazier said. "We're in desperate need of additional space for our physical education program and this will make things much easier for us."

The area will be laid out for varsity football practice and junior varsity soccer practice and there are plans to put in several tennis courts. The area, which is only about 80 yards wide, is not big enough for a regulation football or soccer field but there is plenty of room for practice.

"The area was a quagmire and a dangerous place," said Carl Leone, athletic coordinator for the Quincy schools and former North football coach. "The pond itself wasn't too big but nobody knew how deep it was. There was talk that it was bottomless and everybody was afraid some little kid would fall in and never be found."

The pond was filled with stagnant water that bred mosquitoes and vermin in the summer and froze over with muddy, unsafe ice in the winter.

One of the hardest workers for the conversion of the pond was Jack Hemphill, vice president of the Boosters Club, who saved two youngsters at the area about two years ago. Driving by, he saw two children fall in and stopped to pull them out. That wasn't the first time something like that happened but this incident gave the drive the impetus.

"Everyone, politicians, coaches, physical ed teachers, members of the Boosters Club and others got behind the drive and really got the project going," Leone added. "The first big job was to get permission of the abutters and the Legal Department of the city helped us draw up the papers. Then Ralph Frazier, Jack Hemphill and the rest of the Boosters Club did the leg work."

Fill was donated and brought in by Herbert Duane of the Duane Demolition Co.

"There must have been at least 100,000 yards of fill poured into the place," said Leone. "The first fill was brick-bats, cement and stuff they goe from demolished buildings. But over that they poured clean gravel and topped it with loam. Now we have the grass planted and we will be all set to roll in September."

Dick Koch, director of Parks and Recreation for the city, also played a key role in the final part, the leveling off and seeding of the area.

"The area's primary use will be for the phys-ed classes at North Quincy High," said Ken Rickson, physical education coordinator for the schools.

"Before we filled in the area there was nowhere around North Quincy High where the gym classes could go outside and play football and soccer in the fall and tennis and softball in the spring. Now they have this area and we think it will add much to the physical education program of the school."

Plans are to use Cavanagh Stadium, which had been vastly over-used in the past, for junior varsity football and soccer games and sophomore and junior high football games.

Not only will the high school benefit tremendously from the new playground, but mothers will now feel their children are safe instead of worrying about them going near the area.

Quincy Master Builders Honor Louis Ouellette As 'Man Of Year'

Louis G. Ouellette of 11 Marlboro St., Wollaston, was named "Man of the Year" by the Quincy Master Builders Association at its recent dinner dance.

City Councillor-Rep. Walter J. Hannon, presented the award to Ouellette, who has been building homes and apartment houses in Quincy for the past 23 years.

In his remarks, Hannon noted that Ouellette was "an outstanding example of a civic-minded and honest businessman who held to his principles against all odds."

Although recently involved in a zoning dispute and legal action which threatened to put him out of business, he worked through proper legal channels and trusted in the court system of this country, which eventually proved him right, Hannon said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ouellette [the former Louise Broderick] are the parents of two sons, Joseph, 17, a student at Boston College High School, and Denis, 20, a member of the Air National Guard. Both boys are Assistant Scout Masters at Troup 20, Wollaston.

Ouellette is also active in the Boy Scouts organization, being Chairman of the Advancement Committee, Troup 20, and Vice Chairman, Star and Life, Blue Granite District, Quincy and Milton.

This award will be presented annually by the Quincy Master Builders Association, thereby honoring those men who have served the community and demonstrated the qualities which foster public trust.

Davis Blasts Compulsory Bus Law

Harold Davis, candidate for the Quincy School Committee, urges area State Legislators to oppose the so-called Murphy bill requiring that 10 per cent of minority students from Boston be bused to suburban schools and 10 per cent of suburban pupils be bused into Boston.

Speaking at a dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Davis said that the Murphy bill was not a serious attempt to promote social harmony.

"I believe the motive behind the introduction of this legislation is to embarrass legislators who had voted for the racial imbalance law," he said.

"It is certainly true that there are mutual obligations between the central city and the suburbs. Boston's problems are to a great extent also the problems of Quincy. Nevertheless, this intercity compulsory busing plan does not in my view constitute a serious attempt to solve those problems."

Davis went on to say that he believed the central problem with the Boston school system was a severe limitation of funds because of that City's heavy reliance on the property tax.

"I see no reason why the taxpayer of Quincy should directly subsidize the Boston School system merely because the legislation has dropped the ball in reforming the State's tax structure," Davis said.

"I believe that not only the taxpayer but the pupils of Quincy and Boston who would be required to be cross-bused would be the losers."

Houston Stresses Economy Theme

David R. Houston, candidate for City Councillor at-large, is stressing economy as a campaign theme.

The former city treasurer at a recent meeting of his committee and campaign workers said:

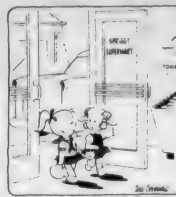

"The ever rising tax rate is a vital concern of mine and a continuing search for suitable ways of broadening the tax base is of utmost importance.

"The responsibilities of the position of City Treasurer, as well as my business background, have provided me with an insight into the intricacies of municipal government and I believe this working experience will benefit the residents of the city of Quincy. A vote for Houston is a vote for economy."

Houston said that anyone interested in his candidacy for the office of councillor at-large may contact him at his home for further information.

"I always shop here. They're usually out of spinach and soap."

•A Sun Sidewalk Survey Quincy Residents Prefer Full-Time Mayor

Most Quincy residents questioned during a Quincy Sun survey said they would prefer to have a full-time mayor.

An inquiring reporter, stationed in front of City Hall, asked passers-by:

"Would you prefer that Quincy have a full-time or part-time mayor and why?" The 10 citizens willing to identify themselves were all in favor of having a full-time mayor.

Of the 19 anonymous citizens questioned, it was 13-1 in favor of a full-time mayor.

Five said that it didn't matter and had no strong objections to a part-time mayor.

Of approximately 75 people approached, 32 were non-residents and were not included in the questioning.

Responses to the question:

Miss Christine Kingston, 297 Willard St.: "I'd prefer a full-time mayor because he could devote more time to the city's problems."

Eileen Bettencourt, 99 Montclair Ave.: "I'd prefer a full-time mayor. This is a growing city and the mayor's attention cannot be divided."

Mr. Phech, 82 Glendale Rd.: "A man should just be mayor and nothing else. The salary is good enough. He doesn't need two jobs."

Mrs. Mary Friberg, 20 Fenno St.: "I want a full-time mayor because it is necessary for the city."

Mrs. Nicholson, 109 Curtis

Ave.: "I'd say a full-time mayor. He should be around all the time so he can do his job."

James Murphy, Southern Artery: "This needs a full-time mayor; should devote his time to city because he will be getting enough money."

[T] DAY FASHION SHOW - Commentator Beverly Powers of Academy Moderne describes outfits of Hart Models at fashion show featuring clothing from Remick's, Grant's, Sears and Ross of Quincy. The show, sponsored by the 36 members of the Quincy Merchants Association, was held on the Mall at the Quincy Center MBTA Station as a highlight of the opening day ceremonies. Which marked the return of Mass transportation after an absence of 12 years.

No 'One Way Street'

6,000 Riding MBTA Daily

Some 6,000 residents daily are heeding the MBTA request to "Give Transit A Try" by riding the new streamlined Red Line trains into Boston and back.

The majority are commuters going into Boston to work.

"Passengers have more than doubled since the first day, more than a week ago," says Milla Dixon of the MBTA public relations department.

"Indications are that there are some increases each day, so that the number is building. We may hit 10,000 within a month or six weeks, as was projected."

It doesn't appear, however, that the new Red Line will become a "One-Way Street."

The stations at North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Center are also having a good share of incoming passengers in the early morning hours, Mrs. Dixon noted.

The number of persons coming by train from Boston to work in the Quincy area she termed "quite surprising."

Students attending schools and universities in Boston, many of which reopened this week, are expected to swell the passenger list.

"We hope that the young people will take advantage of the new, fast, comfortable service to attend the various schools and colleges in Boston," Mrs. Dixon said.

The Red Line extends all the way to Harvard Station so that many students can travel the entire route to their school without a change of train.

A number of "bugs" in the new line have been eliminated.

"Delays commuters have been experiencing coming home from Boston the past week have nothing to do with the South Shore line," Mrs. Dixon said.

The older lines have been at fault. One evening a train breakdown at Broadway Station caused a delay as the Quincy train was unable to bypass it for a time.

Also, the line is not yet fully automated, Mrs. Dixon said. Some manual control is still involved.

As passengers become more familiar with the system, there will be less confusion at the entrances and exits, Mrs. Dixon said.

And as Boston riders learn to read the destinations on the front of the trains, there will be fewer passengers arriving at Quincy by mistake when their actual destination is on the Ashmont-Columbia line.

Parking patrons are reminded to be sure to have their tickets validated in order to receive the 50 cent rate. Otherwise, they will have to pay one dollar a day. A ticket is validated by inserting it into the parking machine at the entrance to the parking area where the date is punched on it.

A heavy voter turnout is expected next Tuesday for Quincy's preliminary city election—the prelude to one of the most momentous government change-overs in Quincy's history.

City Clerk John M. Gillis sees between 40 and 45 per cent of the eligible 46,472 registered voters going to the polls.

"This is heavy for a preliminary election," said Gillis. "We haven't had a good preliminary election in a long time."

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Voters—including 18-year olds who will have a voice for the very first time in a Quincy municipal election—will whittle down the 52 names on the ballot to 22.

Twenty-three of the 52 candidates are running for School Committee.

Of the 22 winners next Tuesday—two will be nominated for mayor, six for council at-large, six for school committee and two each for Wards 1, 3, 4 and 6 City Council seats.

The 22 winners will face off in the final election Nov. 2.

When it is all over, Quincy will have:

*One new mayor.

*Three new school committee members.

*At least one new city councillor at-large.

*At least two new ward councillors.

All of those posts are being vacated by incumbents.

Some 4,028 new voters who registered in the past four months brings the total to 46,472 compared to 44,258 in 1969.

The Municipal election is non-partisan but the registration breaks down like this:

Democrats--23,957.

Republicans--9,502.

Independents--13,013.

Major interest is focused on the mayoralty race with four contenders seeking the prestige—and headaches—of becoming Quincy's new chief executive.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, after serving three terms, has decided to bow out, and not seek re-election.

We're Three Years Old Today

The Quincy Sun is three years old today—thanks to you.

It was established in September, 1968 as "Quincy's Own Weekly Newspaper," and that is what it is today—a community oriented newspaper concentrating on Quincy news.

The Sun, a paid circulation newspaper, has two sisters: The Quincy Shopper and The Weymouth Shopper.

The Quincy Shopper, with a 30,000 circulation, made its debut Dec. 10, 1969.

The Weymouth Shopper, with a circulation of 16,400, made its bow Aug. 19, 1970.

The Quincy and Weymouth Shoppers are mailed once a month to every home in Quincy and Weymouth.

The three publications are published by The Quincy Sun

Publishing Company, 1601 Hancock St. in downtown Quincy.

The Quincy Sun is published every Thursday. It cost 10 cents at newsstands and for home delivery via carrier boy or girl.

Yearly mail subscriptions are $3.50. The Sun is mailed to homes and businesses on Thursday mornings.

Next week we begin our fourth year as Quincy's own newspaper.

We hope to do some more growing and expanding in the months ahead.

And, as we celebrate our third birthday today, we want to sincerely thank you—our readers and advertisers—for your support and encouragement these past three years.

Without you, it just couldn't be done.

'Wollaston Golf Course Should Be Purchased Jointly By Milton And Quincy'

Several weeks have passed since an open public meeting of the Milton and Quincy Park and Recreation Boards at St. Agatha's Church in Milton. Ably chaired by Mr. Robert Bent of the Milton Park Board, the subject of discussion was the future of the Wollaston Golf Course. The desires of the large audience of concerned citizens was overwhelmingly in favor of retaining this course for public use. This was gratifying to myself, though I do not play the game, but I heartily endorse the wishes of this public forum.

I can not pass the Wollaston Golf Course, even in midsummer, without hearing the laughter and shouting of hundreds of youngsters cascading down its slopes on skis, sled, or belly. Their joy echoed across the snowy hills and warmed the hearts of all who walked or rode by. Many drivers pulled their cars to the curb and grinned sheepishly to themselves, recalling their Winty pleasures and for a moment, they too, were tumbling down the cold white slopes with young abandon.

Now, there is a threat to that haven of recreation to our thousands of youngsters. The members of the Wollaston Golf Club wish to sell the land to the highest bidder. Not for its use as a golf course. One might understand such a sportsmanlike gesture, since we have come to believe that the true sportsman constantly strives for the perpetuity of that sport which gives him pleasure.

Mr. Byrne, President of The Wollaston Golf Club, laments that their present course is too small, too hilly, and entirely inadequate for their pleasure. I can not disagree with Mr. Byrne, for their new course in Milton will cover one hundred and fifty acres as opposed to the ninety here in Wollaston. The real estate taxes, he explained, had risen to a crushing two hundred dollars yearly for each of his three hundred and fifty members. I shudder to think of their reaction to their real estate tax on their new course on the fabulous Cost Property.

Let the Wollaston Golf Club move to Milton if they so desire, and I bid them Godspeed, but not on the bones of the original course, for an apartment complex, a warehouse, or what have you. Go to Greener Pastures, if this is your wish, but do not desecrate the land behind you in wanton haste.

I could not help but feel sorry for Mr. Byrne, and another of his Club Members who spoke. They do not hear joy and laughter echoing over their land. They flail out in self-righteous indignation against those who dare derive pleasure from land that they do not rightfully own. So consumed are they by self-interest that the welfare of the community is non-existent.

The members of this highly private, exclusive club are not aware of the world about them. It is becoming increasingly difficult for small groups to control large acreage for their edification only. It is not only financially formidable, but socially undesirable. There is a new social conscience awaking to ostracize those who would despoil the land, foul the air, or shatter our peace of mind.

The Wollaston Golf Course should be purchased jointly by Milton and Quincy. Mr. Bent, of the Milton Park Board also has some interesting plans for increasing the recreational uses of this land. Hopefully we may arrive at a just solution soon, to keep the Golf Course in our midst for the young at heart, no matter what their age.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox

'Around The World In 17 Days'

When we stepped aboard the TWA 707 to Rome to begin a personal perimeter tour of a dozen major cities of the world we were determined to make it a "people to people research" study...to talk with people...to learn...and report back to our readers how other people feel...and live.

We're half way around the world at this writing. We've seen the rich and the poor...the clean and the dirty...the beautiful and the ugly aspects of life. We've talked with people on buses...in hotels...on the streets...in the parks and night clubs.

I was barred from entering St. Peter's Church in Rome because I was wearing short pants...we were arrested in Cairo for taking pictures...we saw a lady night club owner pull a gun on a customer in Bangkok...saw thousands of homeless...diseased...destitute refugees in Bombay sleeping on the streets. In Hong Kong we watched Typhoon Rose batter powerfully against ships in the harbor and buildings on the land and ruthlessly take lives...homes...huts.

Now some impressions of this people to people visitation...First...there is a universal desire for peace among the common people of the world. The marks of war are in every country. In Rome the destruction of early times is evident at the Colosseum...in Greece there remains the ruins of castles and churches on almost every mountain top...harbour and village...bearing witness to the endless series of conquerors who fought for mastery of this beautiful land. It was only in the 17th century that the architectural masterpiece, the Parthenon, was blown up because the Turks used it to store gunpowder...one cannon ball...and it was destroyed. In Egypt the suspicion was clearly revealed when we were stopped...taken to police headquarters...the film removed from our camera. The Middle East is a powder keg today. Old City Jerusalem is now included in Israel...territorial conquest against Jordan to four miles beyond Jerico...this as recent as 1967 in the Six Days War. In India the tragic poverty...starvation...disease of 7,500,000 war refugees from East Pakistan...thousands of others killed in the ravaging of Bengal. The pathetic...sad...plight of the people is indescribable. "Why?...Why?...Why?" seemed to scream at us from every face. Everywhere THE PEOPLE REALLY WANT PEACE.

A second impression...the similarities of peoples. The beds are made up a little differently in different countries...wooden...bamboo...or scaffolding is used instead of steel for construction in most places...the show of less affection men have for women in the far East...the warm affection of men in Rome for women...but the disregard of women's "rights" in India...more poverty stricken...terrified people in India...high level of enterprise and business prosperity in Hong Kong. But by and large people are similar.

For example...children jump the rope in every city...they like birthdays...fun in the water...they respond to kindness and love everywhere...they all seem to want to learn...and everywhere they are the victims of what they've been taught by their elders. Very often these do not fit the modern world. The professional beggars and pickpockets in children of five learned this by Indian adults who taught them.

Similarly...everybody wants money...and the things money will buy. Make no mistake about it...one gets the impression that the world runs by money and power. The extremes of poverty and affluence are common...with no great middle class as in America.

Another similarity is the corruption in places of power which one feels...and hears about from people. The "foreign aid" in so many places seems to be siphoned off by people in power so that too little reaches the people in need. A man in charge of one area of "Development in agriculture" told me that he advises...but cringes to see the ways of farming unchanged after American expenditures and advice have been given. Where the American advice and dollars are used for the people progress follows.

Finally...I was impressed with the curiosity about our country. They want to know about freedom among our people...our prosperity...our schools...how we are governed. "Do you know Joe Frasier?" asks a boy in Bangkok. "Why do you have those spots [freckles] on your face?" asked a friend in Cairo. "Have you really seen Neil Armstrong?" a bellhop in Athens queried. They are interested in learning about things and events in America.

I wondered if one day there might be enough wise heads in all countries to see that selfishness...graft...ignorance...holding to the past must give way for the common goal of peace...sharing the natural resources...and a removal of the walls which separate people.

Post Island's 75th Year As Unique Community

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Post Island celebrates its 75th year as a community on Sunday with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m., at the Post Island Clubhouse off Poplar Ave.

Nearly 100 former residents have been invited to stroll around the island, note changes, and enjoy festivities.

Quincy's unique cooperative community at Adams Shore owns in common its streets, seaford and boundaries of creek and meadow, tennis courts and community house through The Meadow Creek Trust, formed in Nov. 1910. Shares of stock in the trust were subscribed for at $10 per share by property owners at that time.

Today, assessments of $35 annually pay taxes on community-owned property and keep in repair the three private streets, Poplar Ave., Elcott St. (formerly Oak Lane), and a portion of Post Island Rd (formerly Shelton Rd).

To maintain its status as "private property," every 10 years each end of the island is barricaded for 24 hours against public entry.

In 1896 when first settled, the five-acre island off Sea St., was separated by marsh and a creek which at high tide isolated residents from the mainland.

Post Island in 1896, as described by Alice Haynes

Marsh in the 1932 "Annals of Post Island" was "rather a lonely spot with no houses nearer than the John Quincy Adams Farm House a mile away, and the farm house at 'The Willows' at the beginning of Houghs Neck".

Gordon Hunter owns the first house, a summer "camp" built in 1896 on the waterfront by Francis E. and Zulpha K. Hall.

During the next 25 years, 39 additional summer cottages were built, the most recent in 1923. Today all but three have been converted to year round homes.

Longest continuous summer resident is Miss Marie Nichols of 12 Poplar Ave., whose winter home is at 55 Shirley St., West Quincy. Miss Nichols lives in the summer home built in 1900 by Frederick E. Tupper and purchased in 1906 by her father, architect William H. Nichols.

Miss Nichols, who remembers a cow grazing in the meadow to provide milk for some of the residents, danced in and directed a number of the fund-raising entertainments on the island. Dances, July 4th and Labor Day celebrations were held.

Today a number of the homes are occupied by descendants of the original owners. The railroad-tie bulkhead at water's edge has been replaced by a seawall and high tides no longer isolate Post Island. A waterfront pier has been removed, but a flagpole with flag still remains.

The late Wilson Marsh, known as the "Mayor of Post Island", was first president of The Meadow Creek Trust and also the Post Island Beach Association formed in June, 1910. The clubhouse is named in his honor.

Today, Robert Hunter heads the Trust. Donald Hunter is vice president; William Horton, secretary and Erwin Lewis, treasurer. The 1971-72 officers of the Beach Association are Victor Landry, president; Joseph Serino, vice president; Gordon Hunter, treasurer; Jerry Rowbotham, secretary; Jerry Coats, Robert Reyenger and Henry Neiland, trustees.

The 1906 Thimble Club, which became the Women's Club in 1919, is headed by Ruth Kelley, president; Ellen Serino, vice president; Maryann Rowbotham, secretary; Helen Coats, treasurer.

Preparations for Sunday's observance are being made by the Women's Club members. Miss Nichols has sent invitations to former residents living from Florida to Michigan.

Assisting with arrangements are Mrs. Rita Johnson and Mrs. Bessie Dole, with Mrs. Rita Coughlin, a past president, in charge of preparing an anniversary booklet.

Quincy School Committee Opposes Racial Imbalance Bill

The Quincy School Committee has voted to go on record in opposition to the racial imbalance bill now pending in the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has written members of that legislative body urging them to defeat the bill, as "not in the best interests of all concerned."

"In the opinion of the committee, the bill is arbitrary in that it works to the detriment of home rule provisions and creates a dangerous precedent of establishing the Great and General Court as a metropolitan school committee," Creedon wrote.

The Quincy School

Committee, recognizing the problems of racial imbalance in core cities, May 8, 1968 placed itself on record as encouraging voluntary arrangements with the Boston Public Schools in recognition of its concern for the plight of underprivileged and educationally disadvantaged young people, Creedon noted.

Barilero is opposed by Herbert Reppucci and Thomas P. Hughes.

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth has four challengers in George H. Mitchell, Donald J. Riley, Atty. Dennis E. Harrington Jr., and Samuel R. Meyer.

The 23 school committee contenders are:

Joseph M. Collins, Joseph G. Hannigan II, Christopher F. Kennedy, J. Thomas Mullaney, Nancy M. Longhi, Joseph J. Glynn, Jr., Domenic A. D'Arcangelo, William J. Hurley, Carole T. McCormack, Leslie J. Molyneux, Daniel G. Raymond, Gregory F. Galvin, George C. Smith Jr., Dean Paul Nicastro, Joseph E. McDermott, former school committee member; James F. Harrington, Harold Davis, former Ward 1 Councillor Francis X. McCauley, Leo Hannan Jr., Louis C. Arienti, Muriel J. Goudey, William S. Grindlay and Joseph F. McConville Jr.

'Stamps For Wounded' HN Legion Post Project

"Stamps for the Wounded" is a project recently begun by Houghs Neck Legion Post under direction of Thomas F. Hurlbeaus, Past Commander and present Post Service officer.

"Many VA patients use stamp collecting as a means of defeating their enforced idleness, boredom, loneliness, frustration, futility and despair," Hurlbeaus said.

"Because of the many hospitalized veterans confined for long periods of time, diversions such as stamp collecting can be an important means of therapy."

Persons interested in contributing domestic and foreign stamps, either used or unused, are asked to leave them at the Houghs Neck Legion Post or call Mr. Hurlbeaus at 773-5479 and they will be picked up. At least a quarter of an inch should be left around stamps removed from packages and envelopes to avoid damaging the stamps.

Contending for the job are Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Ward 4 Councillor-Rep. Walter J. Hannon, School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., and Mrs. Rita Anderson, West Quincy mother of four and first woman in Quincy's history to run for mayor.

Hannon and McCormick are vacating their Ward 5 and school committee seats respectively to seek the mayor's job.

There is no primary council action in Wards 2 and 5.

Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, unless an 11th hour sticker candidate turns up, is already re-elected. He has no opposition.

The only two Ward 5 council contenders, Warren A. Powers and William D. Delahunt are in effect already nominated.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and John J. Quinn are Five men seek the Ward 3 council seat vacated by Kogler, to become superintendent of forestry. They are Fred Prezioso, Peter P. Gacicia, Theophilus McLeiland III, Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe and Ronald N. Halter.

Little Dog Lost

As I sat by the window I thought
What a great world this would be.

If every one were friendly,
There would be no discord,
you see
The rain kept falling the sky was black

And I was lonely, too
My mind kept on saying,
"Today what shall I do?"

A scratching at the door
I arose from my chair
I hastily went to open it,
Wondering who could be out there.

A little dog was sitting down
Wet and very tired,
I took him in and fed him
Just the friend I had desired.

I knew he was my pal
I sensed it right away,
Just a small lonesome pup
Who had gone astray.
I said, "Come on there, boy
Let's go out awhile."

He barked and came by my side
On my face - a great big smile.

We walked through rain and fog

As happy as could be,
My little pal - my dog
My steadfast company.
When we returned back home
And we reached my front door,

He looked at me as if to say
"May I stay, or shall I wander more?"

I gathered him in my arms
And patted him tenderly.
And walked into the house.
My new found friend and me.

Happiness Is

God's Love in many wondrous things!

A gorgeous sunset that surrounds the heavens with its brilliance, kissing the world with beauty petals.

The world dressed in its green finery and its productions.

A brand new day filled with faith and hope.

A new-born child.
Physical and mental health
Enjoyment of food pleasures, bodily and intellectual.

People with eager hearts and happy thoughts, chasing glooms and worries away.

A cluster of beautiful flowers.
Fun and laughter seasoned with humor.

Kindness and friendship to everyone.

A LIFE WELL SPENT ...
Because of all God's given-bounties, let's hail Him with Love.

Cover Ceiling Of Cedar Closet

Remember to cover the ceiling of the closet you're lining with aromatic red cedar. For maximum protection against moths, many builders also cover the floor and the inside of the door.

Aromatic red cedar closet lining's natural fragrance is pleasing to humans; yet it paralyzes moths and their larvae.

A standard size closet can be lined with moth-repellent red cedar for approximately $60.

Bag Your Dinner Tonight

It's off to the races or an afternoon of bridge or shopping for clever homemakers who are cooking their dinner in the new Reynolds Brown-In-Bag cooking bags. This new transparent bag, made for roasting meat and poultry—fish, too—lets heat rays penetrate and brown the food beautifully. At the same time, it holds in natural juices and moisture, making the meat tender and juicy.

All you do is put the bag in a pan, slip the food in the bag, add seasonings or whatever the recipe calls for, and close the bag. Punch six holes in it to let out expanding air and moisture and then put it into a preheated oven.

There it will cook cozily and gently without tending and when you come home the food will be ready for the table. Not a pan will be soiled, the oven will be as clean as when cooking started, and your family will exclaim with amazement at the delicious food.

Try this recipe for a real gourmet Leg of Lamb.

Brown-In-Bag Leg of Lamb

- | | |
|---|---|
| 6-8 lb. leg of lamb | 1 small onion, cut up |
| 1 large clove garlic, diced | 1 stalk celery, cut up |
| 2 teaspoons salt | 1/2 cup vermouth or tarragon vinegar |
| coarsely ground pepper | |
| 1 teaspoon herbs, blended for meat cooking | 2 tablespoons currant or mint jelly |

Have the butcher cut off three chops and the shank end of lamb and freeze these for another meal. Trim excess fat from lamb. Preheat oven to 350° F. Crush garlic into salt with back of spoon and combine with pepper and herbs. Rub lamb all over with this mixture. Place Brown-In-Bag in pan with sides about two inches high. Slip the lamb into the bag and add all other ingredients except jelly. Close bag with twist tie, and poke six holes in top with tip of paring knife. Cook for 2-2 1/2 hours or until meat thermometer inserted through bag into thickest part of lamb registers 175° F. for medium done. Using pot-holders, remove carefully from the oven. To make gravy, snip one corner of bag, tip pan and pour juices into saucepan. Skim off fat. Add the jelly and simmer until slightly reduced. Transfer a nest to carving board and serve with the warm sauce.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

"I wish I had your figure."

Quite a few times in the past few years, I have heard the above plaintive and wistful statement spoken in a small voice emanating from a rather large body. Whenever this happens to me, I smile to myself and silently give myself a pat on the back.

But, I always think at these times, you could do it too.
There is nothing very special or secret about losing weight. As Morton B. Glenn, M.D., and weight is a matter of choice; if you are not losing, you are not choosing."

Food for thought, isn't it?

Of course Boston Gas and your independent Gas Heating Contractor appreciate it when you decide to change to Natural Gas heat. What we appreciate even more is the chance to show you what kind of people we are after you switch. That's when you can tell people care about you as a person, not as "just another customer."

And that's when you can expect your contractor's personal installation work to be as dependable as Natural Gas heat itself. Because it is.

Your Gas Heating Contractor is easy to reach, reliable and efficient. Call and find out for yourself.

And if you change to Natural Gas heat now, there's even a little bonus: We'll arrange to remove your old oil tank at no charge. And we'll save you from the "Montreal Express."

Full-Time Mayor Preferred

[Cont'd from Page 1]

Hill St.: "I'd like to see a full-time mayor. I don't have any particular reason; I just think we need one."

Mr. Urho Ojala, 24 South St.: "We'll need a full-time mayor because we'll never have another one as good as McIntyre. The guy will have to spend all his time being mayor."

Mrs. Robert McManus, 21 Thomas St.: "I'd like a full-time mayor. No special reason. We should just have a full-time mayor."

William Furbish, 10 Gordon St.: "That is hard to say because of the salary. As far as his duties will be concerned, it is a full-time job."

Anonymous replies:
--A hurrying woman shopper with three small children said, "A part-time mayor". She would offer no reason why.

--Two elderly women who live in Quincy but are not U.S. citizens both said, "It makes no difference".

--A middle-aged woman said, "It doesn't matter".

--A middle-aged woman: "We should have a full-time mayor. Why does he need two jobs?"

--A young woman: "A full-time mayor. No reason why."

--A middle-aged man: "We need a full-time mayor. Quincy is a big city and it requires a lot of attention."

--A young man: "A full-time mayor. The city is big enough for a man to devote his full time to the job."

--An elderly man: "It doesn't matter. The mayor has been doing a good job so far."

--An elderly woman who rushed away: "Full-time".

--Young woman: "A full-time mayor. What good is a part-time mayor? He'd never be around and that's not good."

--Middle-aged man: "Full-time. For that matter, every political office should be a full-time job."

--A young woman: "A full-time mayor because he would certainly do a better job. His attention can't be divided between this and that."

--An elderly man: "A full-time mayor. He has to be around here if something important comes up."

--Middle-aged woman: "Full-time. The city is large enough to be run the right way."

--Young man: "Full-time mayor. It would be better to have someone who will be around all the time than someone who drops in two or three times a week."

--Elderly man: "Full-time. It's a full-time job."

--Young woman: "I don't know much about politics, but I'd say if he can do a good job at two jobs, let him."

--Middle-aged man: "My boss wouldn't like it if I had two jobs. Why should the mayor of Quincy have two jobs?"

Three women and one man obviously eligible to vote said, "I don't vote. It doesn't matter."

One man said, "I won't answer questions for a paper."

Three women said, "I don't have time to think about politics."

It's apparent the MBTA deserves some thanks. Only seven people had to rush for a bus - A sharp decrease in "Rushers" since a previous survey.

Along The Campaign Trail Hannon Pledges Action On Bus Service

City Councillor Walter J. Hannon, replying to complaints regarding discontinuance of MBTA local bus service in Quincy, pledged "constructive action, not merely rhetoric."

"I am as concerned as every Quincy resident about coordinating our local bus service with our new rapid transit service," Hannon said.

"We must insure local service from such locations as the St. Moritz area to the Willard Street School, and from Archbishop Williams to Wollaston, and other necessary routes. I am receiving complaints also about lack of bus service to the Dorchester, Mattapan and Neponset, from Quincy, areas which I am interested in resolving."

"Our new subway extension represents an investment of nearly $100 million of the very finest in modern transportation facilities."

"We must seek to utilize it greatly, while still providing the additional necessary local bus service as economically as possible."

"A meeting has been arranged with Colonel Warren Higgins of the MBTA to discuss these problems, possible free transfers from bus lines to the Quincy subway stations, and other questions that Quincy residents have been asking about the changes in the local bus service in Quincy. Mayor McIntyre, Senator Tobin, and the other City Councillors will be present at City Hall at 5 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 10."

"I do think a serious working meeting of both Quincy and MBTA officials will accomplish more to improve our Quincy transportation system than will continuing an exchange of letters between local officials and the MBTA."

Mullaney Attends School Committee Meetings

A School Committee meeting is the best forum for reviewing the performance of its members, said J. Thomas Mullaney, Quincy School Committee candidate.

Mullaney, speaking at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. McIsaac of 11 Campbell St., West Quincy, noted that he had attended every School Committee meeting for the past six months.

"I believe that if you are going to run for an elective office you should take every opportunity possible to learn what the job is all about," he added.

He called the meetings "informative and interesting, but sparsely attended," and said he would like to see more people attend.

Quincy Motorists Pay Too Much For Insurance, Says McCormick

James F. McCormick Sr., candidate for mayor, said today that a study carried out at his request shows that Quincy auto owners are paying 10 per cent more for compulsory automobile insurance than they should.

McCormick learned, he said, that Quincy is "lumped in" with Lynn, Springfield and Worcester — three dissimilar cities — in compulsory insurance costs.

"Quincy car owners are clearly entitled to substantially lower rates on the basis of the loss statistics actually used in establishing the 1971 Compulsory insurance rates for Quincy residents," McCormick claims.

Quincy's average five-year loss for 31,364 cars amounted to $61.11, McCormick noted, nearly 10 per cent below the average loss level of $67.25 used to develop the same identical rates for all four cities.

"In terms of dollars, this overcharge becomes significant when applied to the 1971 compulsory rate scale established for Quincy," he said.

"As a layman, I was able to make this discovery. As Mayor of Quincy, I will be able to do something about it. And I will," he said.

In Massachusetts, he noted, car owners must buy compulsory automobile insurance in order to get their registration plates. Everyone is aware that compulsory insurance costs are extremely high, particularly in the case of cars either operated or owned by young people under 25 years.

And for Quincy residents, McCormick continued, the compulsory insurance rates have been set too high.

The Massachusetts Insurance Department each year determines the compulsory insurance rate scale for each city and town in the state, obtaining first a report from all insurance companies writing compulsory insurance. This report enables the department to very accurately determine an average compulsory insurance "loss level per car" for each city and town.

Using a simple arithmetical procedure, the department averaged together the five year loss per car for all automobiles insured in the combined cities of Lynn, Quincy, Springfield and Worcester. This amounted to $67.25, an average loss level used in establishing 1971 rates for residents of these four widely separated and dissimilar cities.

Since the average for Quincy alone amount to $61.11, there is an overcharge of $6.14, or roughly 10 per cent more than Quincy residents should pay, he said.

McCauley Urges Elimination Of Campaign Workers At Polls

Francis X. McCauley, candidate for the Quincy School Committee, said today he will not have his campaign workers soliciting support for him at the polls on Primary Day, Tuesday Sept. 21, the preliminary election day.

With a record number of candidates seeking nominations for municipal offices large numbers of poll workers create an inconvenience to voters seeking access to polling places, McCauley said.

He urges all candidates to follow his lead so that Quincy voters can cast their ballots as easily as possible.

Muriel Goudey Would Serve School Committee Full Time

An "ombudsman" approach to a School Committee member could provide great peace of mind and understanding for parents, Miss Muriel J. Goudey, candidate for School Committee, said recently.

Miss Goudey, speaking at the home of Mrs. Carlton P. Chandler of 277 Harvard St., North Quincy, to a "ladies only" group, said that she is available full time to fill the communication gap existing despite School Department attempts at communication.

Replying to questions, she pointed out that there is no salary for a School Committee member, and she does not aspire to using her service on the School Committee as a stepping stone to the City Council or higher salaried office.

Answering the dilemma of a mother concerned with youngsters' drug experimentation who did not know the smell of smoked marijuana, Miss Goudey suggested:

"Take a pinch of oregano, one of the seasonings in your spice rack, and burn it. The odor given off is so close to the 'pot' odor that once identified, memory makes it unforgettable. I know this from information I received in the Quincy course on Drug Abuse Education."

More Meaningful, Says Kennedy

Carefully planned programs to replace some of the formal course offerings could make the senior year of high school more meaningful, says Christopher F. Kennedy, School Committee candidate.

Kennedy, who spoke at a coffee hour held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keeler of 20 Bell St., Houghs Neck, declared:

"The senior year of high school today has become almost purposeless. Colleges have been sending out their acceptances at an increasingly earlier date year after year to the point where many decisions are now made on the student's progress through the junior year.

"There follows a not unnatural let-down on the part of the college-bound student who has thus successfully negotiated this first and most formidable hurdle. This slacking off communicates itself to the other seniors, to the point where, in the words of one of last year's graduates, 'The pressure is off, and it's possible to relax for a change.'

"Weighing this loss of valuable student potential, and mindful of the crowded conditions of our high schools, I believe that the year can be made a truly meaningful one.

"Field trips, special courses, seminars, directed individual study, joint offerings for students of both North and Quincy High Schools, and other carefully planned and structured programs could well replace some of the formal course offerings which have been losing their impact soon after the senior year gets under way."

Kelly Says Political Signs Removal Attempt To 'Slow Down' Campaign

Leo J. Kelly, candidate for Ward 1 Councillor, claims City Building Department letters asking removal of his political signs are "an obvious attempt to slow down a strong campaign."

Kelly said that on Sept. 8 letters were received at all 24 homes displaying his signs from the City Building Inspector asking removal of the signs.

The city ordinance permits signs in business zones, but these homes also received letters, Kelly says.

"Why me?" he asked.

There are instances in Ward 1 where a home owner displaying a Kelly sign received a letter, and the home next door displaying another candidate's sign did not, he said.

Kelly said it is "very obvious" that a list of names was furnished the Building Inspector clearly singling out his signs and not those of other candidates.

Removal of Kelly's signs measure two-by-two foot is being carried out while signs of other candidates measuring four-by-eight feet remain, he said.

Kelly said his signs have been singled out. He added that while their removal will cause changes in his political campaign, the campaign has now gained more strength.

Raymondi Praises School Committee

For Favorable Action On Drugs Proposal

Daniel G. Raymondi, candidate for the Quincy School Committee praises the favorable action the School Committee gave to a proposal that would provide for the rehabilitation of drug abusers in the school system.

Speaking before friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheerin, 28 Burns Ave., Raymondi noted that the drug education worker would at times work in concert with Survival, Inc. in order to best resolve the problem of drug abuse in the schools.

"I am sure that once the legal uncertainties have been resolved this will prove to be an extremely beneficial and much needed weapon in Quincy's battle against drug abuse", he said.

Raymondi added that the School Committee should be commended and encouraged by all citizens of Quincy as it strives to eliminate drug abuse in the Quincy schools.

McLelland Cites 11 Proposals He Has Presented To City Council

Theophilus McLelland III, candidate for Ward 3 Councillor, in the seven weeks since Councillor John F. Koegler resigned, has presented 11 requests to the City Council, he said in a prepared statement for a Candidates' Night.

Five requests concerned traffic regulations; three, safety hazards which the Public Works Department is correcting; two, with noise pollution; and one, a request for information from residents of Albertina St., Roberts St., Brooks Rd and the Fort Hill Square area on Federal Flood Control.

Acted on favorably by the City Council, he said, were his proposals that:

Kendrick Ave. and Faxon Park Rd from Quincy Ave. to Franklin St. be posted "Commercial Vehicles Excluded."

A full set of traffic lights be installed at the corner of Kendrick Ave. and Franklin St. The Traffic Commission investigate the possibility of a set of traffic lights at Federal and Independence Aves. to attempt to control speeding and eliminate truck traffic on Independence Ave.

Traffic controls be installed at the Nightingale Ave., Gilbert and Intervale St. intersection.

Noise pollution in the Nightingale Ave. area was eliminated to the satisfaction of residents, and working with Rep. Clifford Marshall, and the State Dept. of Noise and Air Pollution, McLelland said he is attempting to cure a similar problem in the Center St. area.

Safety hazards were eliminated through McLelland's request to the Public Works Dept. for boarding up of houses on Granite St. vacated for the proposed Grammar School construction and those on School St. vacated for the new bridge.

Also, he said, the island at School and Franklin Sts. is being cleared of debris left when the Robert Burns statue was moved, and the hole filled.

"I have not been and am not now afraid to act," said McLelland. "I refuse to hold back proposals or programs for political expediency. The problems in Ward 3 exist now and, if at all possible, should be corrected now. I dispute the stated concern for the residents of any candidate who does not take advantage of an opportunity to help the people in his area during an election campaign."

McLelland deplored the lack of organized recreational activities for teenagers, young adults and the elderly and said he has created programs for them.

Isaac Offers 'Blueprint' For Future

A blueprint for a Quincy of the future is promised by John S. Isaac of 22 Shaw St., candidate for councillor-at-large.

Owner of the A. J. Isaac and Son Plumbing and Heating firm, he said he feels that as a working tradesman, his election would bring new balance to the City Council.

Major emphasis for Quincy's future, Isaac said, should be on better police and fire protection, better use of city land resources as they affect environment, the tax base and existing neighborhoods, tax relief for the home owner by cutting unnecessary expenditures, more stringent air and water pollution control, and a stronger, swifter program in developing recreational facilities.

A self-supporting ice arena and more baseball and softball fields should be constructed, he says.

"It is a crying shame that in this City of Presidents our children have to travel to Boston and other far away communities to find recreational facilities this city should have provided a decade ago," Isaac notes.

Married to the former Helen Delaney of Quincy Point, the couple have six children; Deborah, 17; John, 15; Anthony, 14; Richard, 9; Mary Elizabeth, 5; and Jerry, 9 months.

"This has produced an unhealthy situation for the children on Upland Rd," Brownell wrote

Nicastro Endorses Major Expansion Work-Study, Co-operative Programs

Dean Paul Nicastro, candidate for School Committee, said yesterday it will be "incumbent upon the New School Committee to undertake a major expansion of work-study and co-operative programs at the secondary level."

Speaking at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Morr, 15 Penn St., South Quincy, Nicastro said that "employment of secondary students on a work-study or co-operative basis should be a community-wide project utilizing the full potential of business, industry, public service and organized labor in the areas of job placement and skills development."

"Such initiatives could give many students - especially those with the prospect of collegiate education not within their reach for financial or other reasons - a first-hand work experience that could not be matched in a formal instructional environment."

"Moreover, on the vocational side, the learning process might avail itself of industry-owned machinery and equipment which, for reasons of expense, it would be unadvisable for the school department to purchase or rent."

"The enrollment of increased numbers of students in work-study and co-operative programs," added Nicastro, "will free classroom space for instructional use. It should as well reduce the number of drop-outs."

Quoting from a recent report by the Department of Pupil Personnel Services of the Quincy Public Schools, Nicastro pointed out that 40 per cent of school leavers surveyed in 1969-1970 indicated that they would have remained in school had a work-study program been available to them."

Paul Harold Launches Campaign At Reception

Paul D. Harold, candidate for state representative in Quincy's Ward I officially launched his campaign with a mid-morning reception at Ship's Haven Restaurant, Quincy Sq., attended by friends, neighbors and workers.

Hostesses for the event included Marie Cordani, Betsey Harold, Kathy Lynch, Beverly Pamplin, Joanne Gibbons and Susan McQuinn.

Harold reminded residents of Ward I that voter registration will remain open until Sept. 29, for the state special election primary.

Registration is open daily, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Election Department in City Hall.

The only requirements are that new voters be a resident of Quincy for at least six months and be 18 years of age or older.

On Sept. 29, registration hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m., Harold noted. The state primary will be Oct. 19 with the final election Nov. 16.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Victor Mature And Muscles Returning To Screen

Retirement, as defined by Webster's, and applied to most individuals, is "withdrawal from one's position or occupation". In regards to actors, however, the definition and application of "retirement" equals nothing more than a respite from the screen. Case in point, VICTOR MATURE... When he completed "AFTER THE FOX" in 1966, the ever gregarious MATURE said caput to the film industry with nary a flash of his famous grin. Now five years later, the lure of the greasepaint, and a lucrative role, have proved too much for him to resist... And sure enough, the Mr. Adonis of the late forties and early fifties has inked a contract for a "comeback" picture...

Titled "EVERY LITTLE CROOK AND NANNY", the comedy-gangster spoof gives the still well muscled MATURE a chance to try his hand at a new genre-comedy... His return to films is not motivated by monetary considerations. Owner of a ranch and a chain of radio and TV stores, MATURE is set for life... It's just that he, like other thespians, is only happy when performing. And no performer alive is content unless he is entertaining... All in all I for one am happy to know he'll be on the screen again. What with all the thespian impersonators on the screen, it'll be nice seeing a "star's" name on the marquee...

DANIELLE DARRIEUX, the French flame of two decades past, is prepping a return to motion pictures by honing fine her skills in the London stage play "THE AMBASSADORS"... Have to hand it to JERRY LEWIS, the man is only a match superlatives... In "THE DAY THE CLOWN CRIED" he broadens his scope in a new genre, that of straight drama... And please don't pooch pah LEWIS's attempt at straight acting. Whatever this man sets out to accomplish, he does, and with excellence... Film Festivals? Everywhere you look, a new one pops up. And now, lo and behold, Hollywood is cashing in on the vogue with the Los Angeles International Film Exposition.

WOODY STRODE establishes himself as a major star with "BLACK JESUS", a film which has had New York critics in a competitive uproar trying to match superlatives... It has taken the persevering STRODE better than 20 years to zenith to a pinnacle of importance. Now that he is a top draw marquee star, I look for him to captivate audiences in years to come with his special brand of low keyed, compassionate fury... Must be that time of the season, for DYAN CANNON has the singing bug, and GEORGE MAHARIS has the Broadway stage itch...

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER JR. set to debut in "WHAT'S UP DOC?"... GEORGE PAL has purchased film rights of the "DOC SAVAGE" character which was personified in 181 novels back in the 30's and 40's... SARAH MILLS is an odds on favorite to portray the Sarah Bernhardt role in the latter film biog. The question remains though, who will produce the BERNHARDT classic. At this writing DORÉ SCHARY and KEN RUSSELL are each vying for the privilege... Politico JOHN LINDSAY nixed an offer to portray himself in JACKIE MASON's picture "ROGER OF MIAMI BEACH"... What's GLORIA DeHAVEN doing these days?...

Odd, but ROCK HUDSON is still fighting off a "Bed Room Pillow" and, this with only three DORIS DAY comedies to his credit... How quickly the public forgets HUDSON's "GIANT" image for which he was good enough to be nominated as Best Supporting Actor... Will the nostalgia-frolics bring back a rush of FRANKIE AVALON-ANNETTE FUNICELLO beach party singalongs?... And what of those famed STEVE REEVES Herculean yarns that were so popular away back in the early sixties?... WILLIAM SMITH fans can catch their steel-chested hero aping up and down the countryside in the motorcycle release "CHROME AND HOT LEATHER"...

CLAUDE LeLOCH's "SMIC, SMAC, SMOG" was filmed in the record time of eight days, and for a budget of, would you believe, a mere $30,000... "JUD" promises to be one of a litany of pictures devoted to the trials and tribulations of returning Vietnam veterans... "DOOMSDAY", a TY HARDIN spaghetti oater, won't be released in America for sometime. The producers have earmarked the locales of Africa and the Far East as immediate theatre sites... "THE HORSEMEN" may have bombed here in the States, one of the worst flics of the year, but is doing more than capacity business in Paris, France, where its star OMAR SHARIF is an automatic draw...

CHARLTON HESTON is stuck in a historical-futuristic typecasting groove. His "THE OMEGA MAN" gave me the impression that he was just going through the motions... Can't someone in the industry find the 1959 Best Actor of the Year a contemporary story to ply his trade in?... For the curious, the ever young looking LESLIE CARON goes back two decades as a performer... And AGNES MOOREHEAD you ask? All of four, if not more... ELLIOTT GOULD isn't winning any friends with his off the screen antics, and stands to lose his herd of long haired fans if he doesn't get down to the serious business of acting...

FRANCO ZEFFERELLI hopes to cash in on the present day youths return to spiritualism with "BROTHER SUN, SISTER MOON". ZEFFERELLI's big worry is to get the picture released in this country while the spiritual revival in our young is in full bloom... Anything for a buck, eh FRANCO?

Gacicia Urges Voters To Elect 'Qualified'

Peter P. Gacicia, candidate for Ward 3 councillor, urges voters to elect qualified and experienced candidates to the City Council, to assist in the management of the complex business affairs of the city of Quincy.

He spoke at house parties held in his honor at the homes of Mrs. Margaret Williams, 109 Verchuld St. and Mr. Frank DiCristofaro, 68 Federal Ave.

He said that Quincy is like a multi-million dollar business corporation that needs trained leadership, wise management and sound fiscal policy. He cited his 20 years as a Quincy businessman as a qualification to serve Ward 3 as councillor.

In a tour of Ward 3 he said that all homeowners expressed deep concern over the rising costs of running the city government and particularly the increase in property taxes.

Because of my education, training, and experience in business I will exercise careful judgment as Ward 3 councillor to insure the voters of this ward that every tax dollar that is spent is done so wisely, efficiently, and with maximum utility, Gacicia told his audiences.

He said that Ward 3 residents are also concerned with the growing incidence of housebreaks and thefts. He said he would favor improved street lighting throughout the ward, increased police protection and equipment to help curb crime. "Property owners must also take the necessary precautions to prevent housebreaks and neighbors can help by being alert and notifying police of any suspicious person or activity in their vicinity," Gacicia said.

On the matter of a swimming pool at the new Lincoln Hancock School, he declared:

"My guiding principle is that the city should spend the taxpayers money on those services and items deemed absolutely necessary and postpone the expenditure of tax dollars on non-essential services and items."

"If the people of Quincy think that a swimming pool at that site is absolutely necessary then it should be built by the city, maintained by the city, and controlled and supervised by the city for the benefit of the people of Quincy only," Gacicia said.

Asked about a possible coffee house being located on School St., he replied:

"I would have to know more about such a coffee house. Who was going to run such an establishment, the safety factors of the building, the traffic control in the vicinity, and the maintenance of such a place.

"It is my understanding that residents of the area are unalterably opposed to the licensing of a coffee house on School street. I hope that these people will be given every opportunity to voice their opinions on this matter at a public hearing before the appropriate city agency."

Raiders Open At Weymouth South

A marked improvement in its inexperienced defense has lifted the North Quincy football team's hopes as it opens its season Saturday against Weymouth South in a 1:30 p.m. game at Weymouth's Legion Field.

Coach Ralph Frazier's Raiders have just one defensive starter back from last year, John Meyer, and two offensive starters, Meyer and End Dave Mahoney.

"We are much more inexperienced on defense than on offense because I was able to get a lot of boys in on offense last year," Frazier said. "But, because most of our games were close, I was forced to use my defensive starters in most of the way."

"In scrimmages against Whitman-Hanson and Walpole our defense was very weak but last week against Brookline the defense was much better and I think the boys have gained much of the experience I was afraid they would have to get in the first three games, all away from home."

North's hopes have also been buoyed by the return of Mahoney, one of the Greater Boston League's top pass receivers a year ago. He had been injured and for a while it was a question if he would be ready. But he played against Brookline and looks in top shape.

Mahoney, at 6-1 and 185 pounds, will team with Jim Driscoll [6-3½, 200], at end on the starting offensive unit Saturday, with Meyer [210] and either Joe Morrissey [220] or Pete Quinn [185] at tackle, Dave Hemingway [175] and Bill O'Hare [185] at guard, and Paul Cadigan [185] center.

Bob McKay [185] will open at quarterback with John Linehan [165] and either Billy Fong [140] or Tom Burke [155] at halfback and Kevin Egan [175] fullback.

Others certain to see action on offense are Richie Carroll, Rick Paulson, Jim O'Brien, Charlie Smith, Bob Smith and John Stevens.

The defensive starters are far from certain and as Frazier said, "They are interchangeable." Expected to start on defense at tackle are Meyer and Morrissey, Egan and Walter Collins [190] will be line backers, Driscoll, John Harrington [195] and Reggie Sandifer [225] ends, Wayne Bell [165], Mark Mulvaney [165] and Bruce Stephansky [165], the only sophomore expected to play varsity ball, at the corners, Fong and Mahoney safeties and Bob Guerriero and Bob Morton halfbacks.

Among other players expected to play on defense are Jim Fatseas, Bill Morrill, Ken Perrin, Mike Gerry, John Gill, Ed Hill, Jim Ziniti and a transfer from Hawaii, Darryl Smith.

"We expect plenty of trouble from Weymouth South," Frazier said. "We beat them, 20-0, last year in their first game ever and Joe Kelly, their fine coach, lost only four players. They should begin to rebound this fall and it should be a real test for us."

Kelly's first South team was 1-8 a year ago and it absorbed some one-sided defeats. It will be out for revenge and may get some.

Frazier explained North will use a varied offense and will mix running and passing more than last year. He said McKay is an excellent runner and passer and the other backs are fine runners.

"We had altogether too many fumbles and penalties in the Brookline scrimmage but we were able to find out what was wrong and iron out the problems," the second-year coach concluded.

Following last Saturday's Brookline scrimmage, a cookout was held at Pageant Field for the players, parents and friends and about 300 attended including school and city officials.

There was plenty of steak, corn on the cob and other fixings for the adults and hot dogs and hamburgers for the youngsters, prepared by the coaches and members of the North Quincy Boosters Club.

"The cookout was my idea and the members of the Boosters Club did a lot of the work," Frazier said. "The players raised all the money themselves by selling cushions and I was delighted so many of the parents and other members of the players' families showed up. It gave us coaches a chance to meet many parents and also for the parents to get to know each other."

Brief remarks were made by Frazier, Principal John Walsh and Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone.

Division Champs Eliminated In Quincy Softball Playoffs

The Quincy Softball League, the 'league of upsets', is continuing to earn this 'tag' as both division champions have been eliminated in playoff competition.

The league champ has never won the playoffs.

The playoff finals are underway with A and T Movers and Alumni Cafe tied at one win apiece going into last night's third game. The best three out of five series will continue tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy YMCA's Rotary Field with free admission.

In the series opener A and T unleashed a furious offensive and walloped Alumni, 22-8.

Alumni bounced back, as it has done all season long, and won the second game, 10-6.

Peter's, the South Division champion, failed to survive the opening round as it bowed to Hofbrau, 12-4 and 4-2, after winning the first game, 18-4.

Dee Dee's, the North Division titlist, survived the first round by eliminating Wells Grill in three games but was ousted in the semi-finals by Alumni.

The semi-finals series between Alumni and Dee Dee's saw the greatest comeback in the league's history as Alumni trailed in the first game, 6-0, and the second, 8-2, but came back to win both, 10-9.

A and T bombed Hofbrau in two straight to make the finals.

The playoffs climax a successful season for the expanded league which this year had 20 teams and about 400 players taking part at the three Rotary Fields and other fields in the city.

The Quincy Softball League is one of the largest in Eastern Mass. and affords plenty of action for the fans.

Walker Injury Hurts Offense, Defense

When Jimmy Walker, starting Quincy High quarterback, suffered a shoulder dislocation in a scrimmage, it not only put a crimp in Coach Hank Conroy's offensive plans, but also his defensive pattern.

Walker, who is expected to miss the first few games, is one of two defensive starters back from last year's undefeated Greater Boston League and Eastern Mass. Class A champions.

"We are going to be hurting both on offense and defense with Jimmy out," Conroy admitted. "He is an excellent defensive back and it will be hard to replace him."

Conroy described himself as "pretty well pleased with the Presidents' progress following scrimmages with Dedham and Boston Tech, but, with only two defensive starters and two offensive starters back, most of the boys need a lot of work.

With the first game against Weymouth South scheduled for Sept. 25, Quincy had other scrimmages lined up with B.C. High, Brockton and Arlington, and Conroy has been working with several players on defense.

Defensive ends include Dan Spencer, Allen Frangipone, Pat Corcoran, Ray Papie, Fred Lumley, Jim Hanlon and Jim Ford.

Defensive tackles include Ron Smith, Al Aimola, Mike Daudiano, Bob Pettiti, Mike Varrasso, Charles McKay, Bob Volpini, Frank Catrambone, Joe Hefner, Ed Kelley, Gerry Fanning and Rich Russo.

Among the defensive backs are Walker, Dave Coull, Bobby

McDermott, Joe Coner, Rich Walter, Bob Sylva, Mark DiGuisto, Jim Smith, Steve Laneau, Dave Ferris, Dave Magiani and Vin Picardi.

"The spirit is fine and the boys are very determined to at least approach our fine records of the past two years [9-0-0 last year and 7-1-1 two years ago]," Conroy said. "We still have a long way to go, but I've been very pleased with a lot of things I've seen. My big job is to fill Walker's shoes at quarterback and in the defensive backfield."

Kevin Shea, who played junior varsity ball last year with Walker [the jayvees were undefeated], and Paul Creedon, up from the strong sophomore team [7-3], are battling for the quarterback slot.

Only Four Lettermen Return To North Quincy Soccer Team

A year ago North Quincy's soccer team won the South Shore Association championship with an unbeaten record, but as Coach George Golding prepped his Raiders for yesterday's opening game with Quincy, all positions were wide open and he was not set at any position.

"I lost my entire starting team and have only four lettermen," he said. "We have a few other boys back from last year but we are very inexperienced."

"However, the boys are showing great spirit and determination and I think we should hold our own in our league."

This year North is competing in the Norfolk Association with Quincy, Sharon, Franklin, Foxboro and newcomer Norfolk Aggies.

The other teams, Hingham, Duxbury, Norwell, South Shore V.O.Tech, Scituate and Plymouth-Carver, will compete in the South Shore Association.

The South Shore Association was divided into the two leagues this year to enable two teams to enter the state tourney instead of one as in the past.

Three of North's 1970 stars are in college on soccer scholarships, George Bourikas, who scored 22 goals last fall, at Colby, Vin Cameron at Keene, N.H., State, and Tom O'Malley at U. of Massachusetts.

The lone lettermen are Billy Chaggans, Peter Joyce, Rich Golden and Mike Delaney, and Chaggans and Joyce have been slowed down with injuries.

The other returnees are Steve Little, Ken Shurtleff, Bud Martinson, Richie Carroll, Ken Kyle, Steve Winerip, Mat Rockman, Bob Mackey, Gary Verronneau, Paul Wilson, Rich Kelleher, Steve Venezia, Mark Chartier and Paul O'Neill.

Little, who has been with the squad for three years and Shurtleff, two years, are goalie candidates and Golding has high hopes for newcomer, big Roger Parrott, at this important position.

The new candidates include Mike Doherty, Parrott, John Audson, Dave Merrill, Mike O'Hanley, Bob Sheridan, Guy

Gagian, Garry Helerich, Don Reed, Tom Hoar, Gerry Glynn, Mike Devine, Kevin Roache, Jim Mullaney, Glenn Trenholm, Dave Poutree, Steve Miller, Neil McGilvary, John Faherty, Rich LeShane, Rich Colon, Dave Seager, Mike O'Connell, Pete Petrakas, Dave Kirschner, John McKinnon and Rich McLaughlin.

Adding a bit of glamour to the scene is Manager Terri Bilotas, a real soccer enthusiast.

"Boy, does she get excited," Golding said. "When she thinks an official makes a bad call, she gets after me to jump on him."

She is very dedicated and does a fine job."

North will have a junior varsity team this year for the first time. Golding's assistant, his first, is Lou Ioanilli, who played at Sharon High School and U. Mass.

A Background of Administrative Ability

Nine Lettermen Back For Quincy Soccer

Although the Quincy soccer team had the edge in experience when it met rival North Quincy yesterday in their Norfolk Association opener, Coach Ron Martin expected plenty of trouble from the Raiders.

"We apparently have more veterans but North is always tough and I know George [Golding] will come up with another strong team," Martin said.

Whereas Golding has no starters and only four lettermen back, Martin has nine lettermen including several starters from his 1970 team which, despite a fine 8-3 record, had to be content with fourth place in the South Shore Association.

The S. S. Association split up into two divisions, the South Shore Association and Norfolk Association. Quincy is in the Norfolk group with North, Sharon, Foxboro, Franklin, Avon and newcomer Norfolk Aggies.

Quincy's lettermen are Bob Trubiano, backup goalie to standout Dave D'Olimpio last year; Gus Dano, Scott Merlis, Tom Gibbons, Bob Curtis, Mike Priscella, Marty O'Toole, Rich Trubiano, and Art Boyle.

Other returnees are Pete Pakkhal, Pete Doucette, Lee Wardle and Willie Bertrand.

Mike Ranalli is a promising sophomore expected to stay with the varsity. A transfer from England, aptly named Harry England, looks good. He played quite a bit of soccer there.

There is a fine group of sophomores who will play with the Presidents' first junior varsity team, coached by Charlie McLaughlin of Brockton, a graduate of Revere High School and St. Michael's College.

This group includes John Sweeney, Steve Ranalli, Brian Mitchell, Fred Glennon, Mike Davis, Tom Laughlin, Jim Keenan, Ron Iacubbi and Merrill Cohen.

Quincy was impressive in three scrimmages, beating B.C. High, 5-1, and Braintree, 2-1, while being nipped by Hingham, 1-0.

"I look for Sharon to be strong again and Avon, which has no football, has come along fast the past few years," Martin, president of the Norfolk Association, said. "And Foxboro could be a real darkhorse. They had five teams playing in youth leagues this past summer, so there is a great deal of interest over there."

D'Olimpio and Mike Orlando of last year's Quincy team are at Lowell Tech on soccer scholarships.

Ciano Departure Dims Quincy Track Future

Quincy's future track and cross country outlook has been dimmed considerably.

The Ciano family has moved to Milton.

"Thank goodness Bobby, whom I rate one of the finest distance runners in the state, decided to finish out his senior year here," Coach Tom Hall of the Quincy cross country and spring teams said. "He was undefeated in spring and winter track and cross country last year and should be just as good if not better this season."

However, Hall lamented the loss of Bobby's brother, Peter, who came along fast as a sophomore last year and promised to be one of the Presidents' key cross country runners this fall and an outstanding distance runner in winter and spring track.

"I must find someone to fill Peter's shoes and that is going to be tough," Hall said. "He has developed into a terrific runner and could equal Bobby's success before he graduates. It is a real break for Milton, having Peter there."

Hall and winter coach Gene Macomber also were looking forward to having their younger brother, Joe, with them in another two years. Joe is a fine runner for Central Junior High.

Another disappointed at the family's moving is Peter Gallagher, coach of the Quincy High girls' team. Maria Ciano did an excellent job for his girls' team last spring, although still at Central Junior. Although she wouldn't have been able to compete next spring as Quincy will have a formal schedule after debuting with an informal schedule last spring, Pete was awaiting her arrival in another two years.

Although he has lost her for his high school team, he will still have her for his Quincy Track Club during the summer, as he has girls from other South Shore towns. Maria was brilliant this summer, being undefeated in the half mile run and cross country while doing well in the quarter-mile. She shows signs of becoming one of the outstanding girls runners in New England.

Riley Advocates 'Full Powers'

Atty. Donald J. Riley of 11 Arnold Rd., North Quincy, candidate for Ward 6 councillor, urges concerned citizens to press for legislation granting full police powers to the Quincy Police Department in every part of the city.

In a public statement, Riley noted that the present alleged narcotic, prostitution and other problems at the Wollaston Seawall are only the most recent of problems relating to MDC and local police jurisdiction.

While fine relations exist between Quincy Police and the two MDC Stations patrolling reservation property in Quincy, the local police officer cannot legally act beyond the curb line along Wollaston Boulevard, Riley pointed out.

With the new MBTA adding its own police department, Quincy police may again be faced with a situation where it is powerless to act, he said.

"This situation must be resolved and the final answer must extend full police power to every Quincy police officer within the City of Quincy," Riley stated.

TRUTH ABOUT 'EYE EXERCISES'

Most poor vision is caused either by disease or by structural defects within the eye. These conditions cannot be corrected by visual training—commonly referred to as "eye exercises". If you are nearsighted, farsighted, or astigmatic, glasses are the only solution. If you have glaucoma, cataract, or any other eye disease, you need medical treatment; to delay it while you try something else, invites permanent impairment of your sight, even eventual blindness.

Visual training isn't all worthless, however. When prescribed by responsible specialists, it can sometimes increase the efficiency with which a person uses his eyes—such as in speed reading. Similar improvements may be seen in side vision, and depth perception.

But it won't cure eye disease. So please don't attempt a self-cure through "eye exercise". See an eye expert first.

Quincy High Students Launch Campaign To Aid Stricken Bangla

The background music heard over the Quincy High School Loudspeaking system is that of former Beatle George Harrison and his group.

But the voice asking help for people of Bangla Desh thousands of miles away is that of a Quincy student, a member of the Bangla Desh Friends.

The group of high school students organized by senior James Myett with the help of Donald Sweeney, who delivers the two-minute tape-recorded message, began its campaign this week for food, clothing and funds to aid the stricken families.

"Bangla Desh", explains the 17-year old Myett, means "Bengal Nation", the name taken by secessionists in East Pakistan.

Last November a cyclone killed more than 500,000 people. Soon afterward, the Pakistani Army invaded the East, slaughtering some half-million people as they went along, he said.

Aim of the Friends of Bangla Desh is to help the more than seven million refugees who have poured into India to escape the slaughter, many existing in drainage pipes, or holes in the ground. Thousands have died of disease, and the threat of famine or a cholera epidemic is immediate, Myett continued.

In addition to enlisting support of students at Quincy High School, letters have been sent to Sen. Edward Kennedy and to the United States asking endorsement of the Quincy campaign.

"We have visited stores in Quincy to arrange for canisters for donations," Myett added. "Posters are being prepared by the Quincy High School Art Department, and leaflets will be distributed."

To encourage contributions of two dollars or more, the Quincy Friends will give without charge a T-shirt with a Bangla Desh scene printed on it.

Among those working on the Bangla Desh project with James Myett and Donald Sweeney are, Sherry Neidell, Diane Marcin, Teresa Meegan and Robert Costello.

First fund-raising event will be an Oct. 2 cake sale from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Star Market.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Why Are They Living?'

When we saw people in masses huddled together in small areas...saw the pathetic conditions in which many live...lack of sanitation and toilet facilities...sub-survival amounts of money which forces them into black market trading...women into prostitution...children into begging...I asked... "Why are they living?"

I remember seeing the cardboard boxes in which thousands live in Athens and Cairo...the makeshift covers over old boats...50,000 live in boats [not yachts] in Hong Kong...the masses of people living in the shanty towns outside Bangkok...the thousands sleeping with no bed clothes on the sidewalks in Bombay [7½ million refugees in India]. Workers day and night...men and women...trying to earn a living doing menial jobs in every country...while lively groups dance to the loud groovy music of a local combo in a discotheque. Why are they all living?

There's one big obvious answer...built into all of us is that basic drive for survival. At whatever level we've been born...and are living there seems to be in all people the desire to live. No one asked to be born. Indeed many would ask not to have been born if they could...many in America as well.

Some governments and social agencies are encouraging birth control in various ways...the big problem in many countries is the role of women who accept themselves as mere objects of men's sexual desire...and who are at the same time ignorant of birth control devices. In some countries this is the situation with the majority of women.

Some countries now offer the vasectomy without charge to men...contraceptives and abortion in efforts to stem the tide of overpopulation. There appears to be an absence of the puritanical attitude toward sex in most people in the Far Eastern countries. The result is many unwanted...uncared for children. Yet... unless more rapid strides are made in controlling the birth rate...there will be increasing numbers of ignorant...disparaging people living more and more as neglected animals.

But...come back home..."Why are YOU living?" Why are you engaged in the American "rat race"...rush from the affluent suburb to work through traffic each morning...battle your way through business affairs during the day...fight the traffic jungle to get back to the suburb at night? We call it "getting ahead". Really... why are you living?

And what of you wives...mothers...do you find meaning in caring for a home...and little children? With push button appliances and equipment which make keeping a home clean simple and fast it is difficult for men to see how it can be drudgery...yet to some women it is.

Perhaps it's the state of mind that makes life worth living...having a purpose to live for. The idea of SERVICE is rather basic...it seems to me. That's what the 72 year old social worker in Bombay felt...he's worked for bare subsistence for 50 years for the blind. That's what the Bangkok English teacher felt...teaching English to Thailand people so they can take jobs in the fast growing industries of their native land. Take away the idea of SERVICE to people and many of our lives would be empty.

I'm well aware of the drive for money...I've seen it all over the world. I'm well aware of the drive for power...I've felt it in every country. But I was made keenly aware of the meaning of SERVICE when asked over and over to "come back and counsel with our people...we need you so badly"...not to make money or to take power...but to SERVE.

Seems to me it was Jesus who made SERVICE a strong motive for living when he said "I am among you as he that serves."

West Quincy Woman, Brother In Joyful Reunion After 20 Years

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

George MacFadden, manager of the Employment Exchange in the Shetland Islands, Scotland, returned home this week with some pleasant memories of his first trip to Quincy and the United States.

First there was a joyful reunion after 20 years with his sister, Mrs. Sue McGregor of 53 Forest Ave., West Quincy.

Then "Uncle George" met for the first time his four Quincy nephews and nieces, Frank McGregor, John McGregor, Catrina McGregor and Kathy McGregor.

A trip to Delaware followed for a first-time meeting with five additional nephews and nieces.

Back in Quincy, Mrs. McGregor escorted her brother on the full round of sightseeing trips to historic spots.

A high point came when MacFadden was made an honorary citizen of Quincy by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

"George found everyone very warm-hearted - he loved the people here," says Mrs. McGregor. "We're trying to persuade him to give up his job which is a very good one, and move over here!"

Quincy and Weymouth are the only two South Shore communities not responding to questions of the Special Committee investigating admission practices in veterans and senior citizens' housing, reports Rep. Robert Ambler [D-Weymouth], chairman.

On July 5, the five-member committee sent letters of inquiry to 200 cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth. Fifty-five replied.

The letter of inquiry contained "three simple and reasonable requests," said Ambler. They asked for:

● A list of outstanding applicants and the date of application.

● A list of tenants now occupying public housing and the date of application.

● The income levels of the occupying tenants.

This week the committee, because of the lack of cooperation, was granted subpoena powers by the legislature, Ambler said.

"We have been reasonable," Ambler stated. "We sat down with the Housing Authority Association comprised of directors and those people who head up the various authorities, and we met with Tom Connolly, president, to ask if we were placing a hardship on the various authorities."

"Clement O'Brien [Quincy Housing Authority director], said he did not have staff to complete this information. On Aug. 18 we offered to send staff members out to each community that did not feel that their clerical staff was sufficient to do the work," Ambler said.

Asked by the Quincy Sun for comment, O'Brien, who is vice president of the Association of Housing Authorities, declared:

"We did reply to them [the commission]. We answered the letter and explained that we wanted to cooperate in every way that we can. However, it would be a very extensive assignment to give the information that he [Ambler] wants."

"We informed him that because of the lack of personnel, we couldn't answer the request, but if he would send staff from his office that we would undertake to cooperate in every way."

"We would have to go through all our files, which would be a tremendous job. We have been in touch with his office through the Association of Housing Authorities and explained the problems that are involved in the larger housing authorities. The one with 50, 60 or 100 units could reply easily. We have 1,700 units in Quincy."

"It isn't a lack of good-will or a lack of cooperation. It is a lack of staff to undertake this assignment."

"We are sending a letter to all housing authorities who have not replied asking them again for information on the three points," said Ambler. We are suggesting that they honor the request within a two-week period, and if we do not hear from them, we would be forced to exercise the subpoena powers."

He added that a number of the communities replying did not have public housing such as veterans' or senior citizens' housing. Braintree is in the process of building, he noted.

Purpose of the commission, Ambler explained, is to point out that people are admitted without any uniformity whatsoever. Often the persons qualified to enter veterans' housing or housing for the elderly are not admitted in the order in which their applications are made.

The law requires that this be done, Ambler said, and if there are people under urgent or emergency conditions, then the law provides for them.

"Applications should be on file in some organized system," Ambler continued, "so that a person making application and qualifying can be admitted in proper order throughout the Commonwealth. This is not the case."

The Department of Community Affairs under which the housing is built has very little knowledge of how the applications are taken care of, Ambler claims.

In veterans' housing, there are many residents whose incomes are way above the maximum allowed, Ambler believes. This is a violation of the law, he said.

The State Representatives receive many inquiries from residents who have been long on a list inquiring why people ahead of them have been admitted, Ambler noted.

"When authorities are reluctant to give what should be public information, then it is fair for us to assume there is something to hide," Ambler declared.

He labeled as "hogwash" the claim that insufficient clerical help prevented replies to the commission's questions, in view of the offer of help from a staff available.

"We are not on a witch hunt," Ambler said. "We want to see that everybody gets equitable treatment in getting into public housing."

Serving with Ambler on the commission are Rep. William Dignan of Braintree; Ronald Pena of New Bedford, Stephen Chiamora of Springfield and Carl Olson of West Bridgewater.

Springfield, second largest city in the Commonwealth, Ambler pointed out, within two weeks replied with a report even more comprehensive than that requested.

Rhymes Of The Times

The children now are back in school
So don't you be an awful fool
And take some dear child's life away
Driving careless through streets today.

The MTA is finally here
Let's everybody give a cheer
And wish them all the best of luck
Hope it won't cost an extra tax buck.

When I see a young man with hair
That looks just like a shaggy bear
I envy him for such a crop
And wish that I had more on top!

They say it was the hottest summer
That we've had in many years.
But it only took a word from Nixon
To have us freezing up to our ears.

Our MTA stations are beautiful to see,
But I hope that the litterbugs will let them be Always clean and always bright
So they won't be an awful sight.

The new TV programs will soon be here
But previews show there's nothing to cheer
About the things soon to be seen
Upon that tired TV screen.

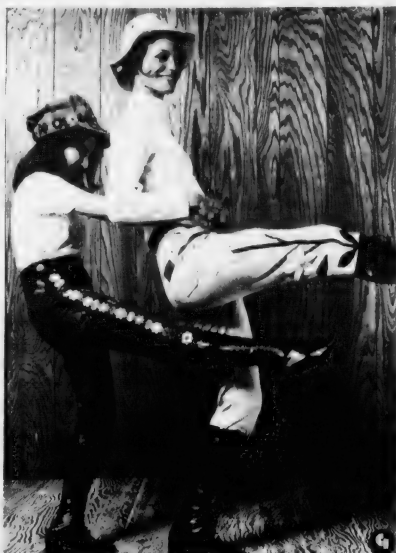

The politicians are all about
And soon they will begin to shout
About all the things that they will do
To make it better for me and you.

If only once it would come true
That politicians would all do
The many things they promised to
Then I'd be happy, wouldn't you?

John M. Lyons, Quincy

YOUNG ELEGANCE — The little girl jumper takes on a grown-up look in quilted cotton. Red trapunto embroidery forms flowers on a navy ground, and red rickrack pipes the attached sleeves and ruffled collar. From Cinderella's fall collection.

APPLIQUE-TION — Cotton jeans step lively with perky additions of decorative cotton trims and embroidery. The jeans at left are appliqued with Conso's put-on patches that include a cotton flower chain and hovering butterflies. Cotton embroidery thread, worked in an easy satin stitch, adorns the light-colored jeans. Featured in 1,001 Fashion & Needlecraft Ideas.

The Western Look

CASUAL — Fall sportswear takes on a Western slant with a soft touch. Stevens' ribless cotton corduroy is deftly shaped into an abbreviated yoke-back jacket and Western-cut jeans. Pseudo-suede trim gives novelty treatment to the waistband, pockets, and lapels of the easy-going jacket. It's by Darwood.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Curb your temper and avoid tangling with those in authority because a change made now is not to your advantage.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - The responsibilities you are shouldering may give you a hampered feeling but you are building for the future.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - If you can hang loose, keep your thoughts to yourself, much emotional stress can be avoided this week.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Your good fortune is earned by hard work and being able to avoid quarrelling with your partner or mate.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - The work load is heavier and expenses are running high - distribute both more evenly and relieve some of the tension.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Romance, travel, parties or just feeling good puts you in a better frame of mind and adds zest to your life.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - It might be better not to talk about your new romance until you make sure it's going to last a while.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Many new friends will be made during the next few months and your social life will be stepped up.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Someone will ruffle your feelings, causing you to want to make a change. Don't be too hasty.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - You will be quite active for a long time so make a schedule that will include rest periods.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - It will take well laid plans, clear thinking, and hard work to put your affairs in good order. Be practical.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

Fat is not beautiful ...
Nor is it healthy. Nor is it socially acceptable.

For better or worse, the days when a Lillian Russell was considered highly desirable are over. Jane Russell is in.

Can you be happy being fat? Yes, if you are an exception to the medical hazards of overweight. Yes, if you are not using food to compensate for lacks in your life. Yes, if you can ignore your participation in today's cultural values. Yes, if you can say that you do not feel degraded by your own inability to control your eating behavior. Are you happy?

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Private Training Course Rules Set

Secretarial students, heavy-duty equipment trainees, charm school candidates, and all other students enrolling in private business, career, correspondence, home study, or training schools are protected this fall by new "back-to-school" regulations.

Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn's Consumer Protection Division has adopted a set of rules designed to guarantee that private study offers do not mislead potential students.

TOP GRADES

Many of the new regulations outlaw deceptive claims in private school advertisements and sales pitches. No part of the school's regular course of instruction may be falsely advertised as "FREE", as a "special" offer, or as a "limited time" offer. Courses may not be offered at fictitious "reduced" prices, "scholarships" must be legitimate, and "money back" agreements must be strictly guaranteed.

Students may not be attracted under false pretenses by "help wanted" ads that purport to offer jobs -- only after the applicant completes a necessary training course. "Blind advertisements" -- commercials and brochures that deceptively disguise the course offer -- or any other kind of deceptive advertising language also have been ruled illegal.

STAR PROFS

No sales or advertising claim may distort the quality of the school or the faculty members. Any connection to a state or federal government agency and any endorsement from a famous person or from the Veterans Administration must be valid.

Furthermore, famous personalities advertised as faculty members must provide more than token instruction. Deceptive or misleading diplomas also are outlawed.

Finally, no school may mislead students about the job opportunities open to them after graduation. Students may not be falsely led to believe that completion of the course will guarantee employment, and any claims of "EARN UP TO $5" must be guaranteed according to a specific formula.

A school may not encourage candidates to enroll knowing that the student would be ineligible to work after training because of some physical, educational, or material disqualification.

Students who take care to select schools that observe these regulations will help ensure themselves an A plus chance of success in their chosen fields of training.

Student consumers with questions about these new regulations or with complaints to report should contact the Consumer Protection Division of Quinn's office at the State House in Boston.

HOW SAFE THE SAUNA?

The new popularity of saunas and steam baths and the sense of physical well-being which they create, conceal some health risks which should not be overlooked.

In addition to elevating body temperature, the hot baths also increase the rate at which the heart beats - changes which may put a dangerous strain on an older person, a diabetic, or anyone with heart or circulatory problems, the Federal Trade Commission warns. Check with your doctor before indulging.

Even for the healthy, for various reasons it is better not to use saunas and steam baths just after eating, while under the influence of alcohol or while taking drugs which create drowsiness, alter mood or have some sort of an effect on the body's circulatory system.

Any type of home device ought to have a thermostat and an automatic timer with a turn-off switch as safety features.

Survival Introduces (MST) Program

Survival, Inc. today introduces its Maintenance Supported Therapy (MST) Program, announced Dr. Ronald G. Rosso, executive director of the Quincy based drug treatment program with headquarters at 166 Granite St.

Its establishment, said Dr. Rosso, is another tribute to Dr. Charles Dierf's devotion to his community and his leadership of Survival.

MST, primarily a personal psychological treatment for heroin addicts, uses safe, long acting drug substitutes to stabilize the addict's life while he engages in his personal therapy.

Visitors as well as persons being evaluated for the program will be prohibited from the highly secured MST facility on Broad St. Evaluation of opiate abusers for various types of treatment available to Survival is conducted at the Redirection Center at 276 Granite St.

Credit is given by Dr. Rosso to Mayor James R. McIntyre and the Quincy city government for its support of Survival, and to Police Lt. Frank Vallier and John Schmuck of the Quincy Fire Department for "invaluable assistance" in preparation of the MST facility.

Harold Says State Tax System In Need Of Restructuring

Paul D. Harold, Democratic candidate for state representative in Ward I criticizes advocates of a continued increase in the sales tax to relieve the burden of the property tax.

At a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McHugh, 18 Yardman Lane, Germantown, Harold said it was clear that the property tax has been overworked by local government, but what is needed is a restructuring of the state tax system, not reliance on a regressive tax, such as the sales tax.

He called for "progressive" reform of the tax structure, where citizens pay according to their ability to pay. The property tax and sales tax are in fact "regressive", persons pay the same rate regardless of ability to pay, he said.

"As state representative I would shift the tax burden from the property tax by supporting Constitutional amendments to allow for a graduated income tax [as levied by the federal government] and evaluation of real property at levels, according to use, residential, commercial & industrial," he declared.

"The property tax, in use since 1629, is no longer fair and equitable. Presently, Massachusetts raises approximately $1.5 billion from the property tax and only $500 million from state income tax. I think it's time to bring about a greater equalization in raising tax revenues."

Burke Stars In Weymouth Rout

Raiders Seek Second Win At Revere

North Quincy's football team opens its Greater Boston League season Saturday at Revere [1:30 p.m. kickoff] after receiving a tremendous boost from an unexpected source last week.

Ralph Frazier's Raiders started out with an impressive 31-6 victory over Weymouth South and Tom Burke, a senior who hadn't played football since his junior high days, was the big star.

"Tom played in the ninth grade but just didn't bother to go out the past two years," Frazier said. "He really showed us something at Weymouth as he gained 155 yards, averaged seven and a half yards per carry and scored twice. He also had a touchdown called back by a penalty."

Quarterback Bob McKay averaged 10 yards a carry as he scored once and threw for two others, and John Linehan averaged 5.7 yards a carry.

North unleashed a furious attack which accounted for more than 500 yards overall. Not only did the Raiders run well but McKay was 6 for 12 passing, including two for scores, and Bobby Morton was three for five including a touchdown.

"Our offensive line was tremendous and was the big reason our attack clicked so well," Frazier said. "The blocking was just outstanding. And I was very pleased with our defense, which is much more inexperienced than our offense.

"Most of the offensive line has played a good deal of football, but I was forced to keep my starting defense in most of the time last year, so these boys have had little experience, but they were great."

The third-year coach, whose Raiders had a 6-2-1 record last fall, singled out John Meyer, Kevin Egan, Morton and Walter Collins for their defensive performances.

North came through on defense early in the game as it twice stopped South within its 10 yard line. A 35-yard scoring pass averted a shutout for Weymouth.

In the first period McKay passed to Fullback Egan for five yards and the first touchdown. McKay scored from the one in the second quarter for a 12-0 halftime lead.

In the third session Burke took an eight-yard scoring pass from McKay and Weymouth's Doug Rakers passed to Mike Quinn for the lone score for the losers.

North wrapped it up with two touchdowns in the final period, Burke racing 24 yards for the first and Morton passing to End Billy Carroll for nine yards and the other.

After failing to add any points by passing or running, Frazier called upon Charles Smith following Burke's second touchdown and he kicked the only point of the afternoon.

A year ago North was held to a 6-6 tie by Revere and, from all reports, the Patriots have a big, veteran club which will be opening its season against the Raiders.

TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy, North Open X-Country Seasons

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams open their Greater Boston League season today at Medford with Quincy Coach Tom Hall pinning his hopes on the sensational Bobby Ciano and Brian Feehey, the number one and two runners, and North's Bob Gentry depending heavily upon three "darkhorses".

Quincy, which a year ago was 5-2 in the league and 7-2 overall, met Medford today while North, 3-4 in the league and 5-4 overall, faced Chelsea.

Monday it will be Quincy vs Somerville and North vs. Revere. Next Thursday Quincy meets Revere and North takes on Somerville. All meets will be at Medford.

Although the Ciano family moved to Milton, Bobby decided to finish his senior year at Quincy, much to Hall's relief. But his brother, Peter, another standout runner, moved to Milton High and Hall is working to fill his shoes.

Ciano, unbeaten last year in cross country, spring and winter track, is the league's number one runner while Feehey, an excellent runner, is number two for the Presidents.

The next three runners, although not in any special order, are Paul Wahlberg, Pete Daley and Marty Swirko, all of whom ran well a year ago. They are expected to be good scorers. Behind them are Mike Gilcoine, Mark McLeod and Frank Hickey.

Other squad members are John Reggiannini, Bill Keegan, Mike Murray, John Tucker, John Abola, Jay Caron, Barry Kessler, Billy Pyne and Bob Nevins.

North, like Quincy, has a small turnout of only about 15 but Gentry is optimistic, especially if his "darkhorses" come through.

Two veterans, Richie Malloy and Garry Cunniff, shape up as the top runners with Joe Powers, an indoor track star who looks strong.

The "darkhorses" are Jerry Mullen, a sophomore who starred at Central Junior; Jack Reynolds, Gentry's all-around star who did a little bit of everything in track, and Lee Watkins, a transfer from Whitman-Hanson.

Rounding out the varsity team are veterans Paul Bonoli and Jim Hurley.

Among others trying out are Steve Lindstrom, Ed Ahern, John Murphy and Paul Horan.

In addition to their league meets, North and Quincy will meet Abp. Williams in a non-league tri-meet on Sept. 30 over the Williams course in Braintree.

Edges North, 1-0

Quincy Strong As Soccer Contender

Although the teams had played only twice going into Tuesday's games, Quincy's soccer team already looms as a solid threat to capture the Norfolk Association title.

Ron Martin's Presidents Tuesday hosted Avon, today faced Duxbury of the South Shore Association in a non-league game and next Tuesday play at Foxboro, which looks like one of the Norfolk Association's top teams.

Meanwhile, George Golding's inexperienced North Quincy booters, defending S.S. Association champs, played at newcomer Norfolk Aggies Tuesday, is home to Franklin today and will meet Hingham of the S. S. Association in a non-league game Tuesday.

Quincy opened with a 1-0 squeaker over rival North last week in a fine defensive battle which saw Artie Boyle score in the first period, taking a perfect pass from Tom Gibbons. The goalies, Quincy's Bob Trubiano and North's Ken Shurtleff and Roger Parrott, were out-standing.

Quincy followed up with a 4-1 win over perennially strong Sharon, while North bowed for the second time in a row, 3-1, to promising Foxboro.

Rick Trubiano had a big day for Quincy with three goals. He scored the game's first goal, and after Sharon had tied it up, he scored the winning goal in the third period. In the final period Trubiano and Mike Priscella scored to clinch the decision.

Boyle and Gibbons had assists for the Presidents.

Foxboro, which the past summer had five teams in youth leagues, scored in each of the first three periods while North's lone goal was scored by Billy Chaggarris with Bob Mackey assisting.

This year, to accommodate two new schools and to have two teams in the state tourney, the South Shore Association split up into two leagues. Plymouth-Carver, which has done little the last few years, looks like one of the top contenders in the S. S. Association with two wins in a row, including one over perennial powerhouse Duxbury.

Seek 12th In Row Presidents Open With Weymouth South

Quincy's football team, seeking its 12th straight win, opens its season against Weymouth South Saturday at 1:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Although stripped of numerous stars from the unbeaten 1970 squad which won the Greater Boston League and Eastern Mass. Class A titles, Coach Hank Conroy is optimistic following three bruising scrimmages with B.C. High, Brockton and Arlington. The Presidents had earlier scrimmaged Dedham and Boston Tech.

"We appear to be ready and those three tough scrimmages were just what we needed," Conroy said. "We improved in every scrimmage, and, after shuffling the boys around at various positions, I have now settled on a lineup and the boys are playing where they want to."

Quincy has only two offensive starters and two defensive starters back from last year and one of the defensive returnees, Jimmy Walker, is sidelined with a dislocated shoulder and may miss two or three games.

One of the returning offensive starters makes Quincy a solid contender again. He is Steve McCarthy, one of the finest running backs in the state.

Two years ago Steve was sensational as a sophomore and excelled last year until injured. Upon his return after missing several games, he picked up where he had left off and his 87-yard punt return clinched the win over North Quincy on Thanksgiving.

"Steve wasn't feeling well when he returned and I had to rest him a lot and after the season ended he still had to undergo treatment," Conroy said. "Right now he is feeling much stronger and has run very well in our scrimmages."

McCarthy [165] will team with Bobby Malvesti [175] at halfback with Kevin Shea [170] starting in place of Walker at quarterback and Joe Nicastro [185] or John Whitney [175] at fullback.

Starting in the line offensively will be Jim Hanlon [175] and Bobby McDermott [175] at end, Ron Smith [220] and Joe Davis [195] at tackle, Joe Coner [175] and Pat Corcoran [175] at guard and Frank Catrambone [195] at center.

Others sure to see service on offense are Paul Creedon at quarterback, George Sisti, Peter Gacicia, Jack Warren and John Ford in the backfield, Dave Coull at end and Ed Silva and Frank Guido in the line.

Expected to start on defense are Paul Briggs, 195-pound sophomore, and Hanlon ends: Smith, Dan Spencer [195] and Mike Varrasso, 260-pound soph giant tackles, McDermott and Coner linebackers, Rich Walter [160] and Coull halfbacks, Ed Silva [175] and Malvesti safeties.

Also seeing action on defense will be Creedon, Bob Volpini, Mike Gaudio and a newcomer, Art Hooper, who transferred last year from Abp. Williams but was ineligible due to the transfer rule.

A year ago Quincy routed Weymouth South, 66-14, but Conroy expects much more trouble Saturday from Joe Kelly's second year squad which is big and experienced. Joe lost only four seniors from South's 1970 team, the new school's first, and the players are seeking revenge for eight defeats in nine games.

TOM SULLIVAN

Former Wollaston Boy Red Sox Statistician

By TOM SULLIVAN

While attending elementary and junior high school in Quincy, Arthur Keefe had a love of sports and mathematics.

He hoped someday to put both together and today he has realized that hope.

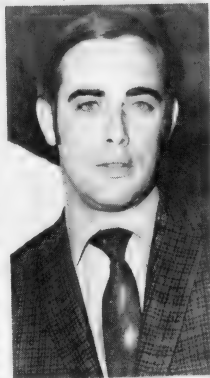

Art is the statistician and assistant director of public relations for the Boston Red Sox and is the youngest member of the front office staff.

"I was born in Boston but moved to Quincy when two years old," Art said. "I lived for 11 years on Newport Ave. across the street from the old Howard Johnson plant and attended Wollaston school for six years and Central Junior High for two before moving to Westwood."

"I didn't take part in any sports but always had a love of sports and also loved mathematics. I graduated from Westwood High School and majored in mathematics at Northeastern University."

Art, whose mother lives on Kemper Street in Quincy, where he lived for awhile after being married, credits his position with the Red Sox to "good timing."

"During the last few weeks of the pennant winning 1967 season, I covered Sox games for the Cape Cod Standard Times," Keefe said. "After the season was over I wrote Bill Crowley [director of public relations] and told him I thought he might be able to use some help with statistics and that I had a mathematics background. I had seen how busy he was during the last few weeks of the 1967 season."

"Bill wrote back telling me it just so happened he had been thinking along those lines and invited me in for an interview. It was just good timing, I guess. And I love my work with the Sox. This is a great organization."

Art was appointed to his position in January of 1968 and was introduced to the press at a winter "hot stove" session in the Fenway Park press room which this writer attended.

"Art is doing a terrific job for us and was a valuable addition to our staff," Crowley said.

Keefe wrote sports for the Cape Cod Standard Times for a year and a half and has written sports full or part time for the Boston Globe for 10 years. He still works for the Globe during the fall and winter seasons. He also covered schoolboy football for the Patriot Ledger, beginning when he was a high school senior.

A resident of Dedham, Keefe is married to the former Mary Sergi of that town, whose father, Dom, has been a barber there for 40 years.

They are parents of two daughters, five-year old Michele and five-months old Theresa, born in March at the Winter Haven, Fla., Hospital, during Red Sox spring training, and a 2½-year old son, Chris.

Apaches, Panthers In Opening Youth Football Victories

The Apaches and Panthers scored opening day victories in Quincy Youth Football League action.

Apaches defeated the Manets 24 to 12. Brian Gilfeather, Peter Smyth, quarterback Mike McAuley and John Hatfield, a fast runner starred for the Apaches, while quarterback Chuck McCarthy, Jef Little and Fred Kussman played well for the Manets.

In the second game, the Panthers romped over the Elks, 24-6. Star players for the Panthers were Mark Dwyer and Joseph Cortese. Joe Plant and Bill Wolf played a good game for the Elks.

On Sunday, the Apaches will meet the Elks and the Panthers will face the Manets.

One Named Susan

These Little Leaguers Are Really Little - - Age 6, 7

By TOM SULLIVAN
When Little League baseball began, the big question was "what happens to the boys when they finish Little League at the age of 13?"

So, then came Babe Ruth League, Pony League, Senior League and other leagues to accommodate these boys.

But in Quincy, thanks to Lou Tozzi, a seventh grade teacher at Central Junior High School, there is a league which could be the youngest organized program in the state.

"I call it St. Moritz Little-Little League and it consists of boys five to eight years of age," Tozzi said. "This is my second year with this type of program. I have coached track and baseball but these kids are the most enjoyable group I have ever worked with. The majority of the boys are six and seven years of age."

And, there is one girl.

Lou explained that the program is made possible by the St. Moritz Association of West Quincy and Sponsors

Rep. Walter Hannon of Hannan Tire, Triangle Filling Station and Noble Sporting Goods.

"This is the second year Mr. Hannon has helped me financially and I am very grateful to him," Tozzi went on. "I would also like to commend Steve Riggs, assistant coach, and Dick Nourse for the help they have given me."

Tozzi pointed out that he doesn't stress winning but rather good sportsmanship.

"I begin each program with the same procedure," he stated, "to teach the boys the basic fundamental rules of baseball, making sure that 'fun' is included."

"Many of the boys who come to me at the start of the season have never played any baseball, therefore the simplest aspects of batting, running, pitching and fielding, especially fielding, are stressed."

"I think the fielding is most important at this age. We stress proper methods and try to have fun drills. The results are revealed in the games, played on Saturday morning and which usually attract the boys' parents and some neighbors to Curry Field in West Quincy.

"We have to play games among ourselves as there are no other leagues in this age bracket, but I have 34 playing, so we have no trouble forming teams."

Those playing in the program are Mike Callahan, James Deluca, Bobby Grasselli, Joe Scavuzzo, Dave Orlando, Robbie Zanardelli, Eric Ricciardi, Eddie Gillis, Bill Plant, John Meade, Richie Ready, Jimmy Turner, Kevin Riggs, Tom Good, Michael Miller, Glen Gabriel, Bobby Ready, Mike Nourse, Matthew Nourse, Franny Gaudiano, Brian Ricciardi.

Also, Jon Marshall, Kurt McDonald, Mark Righini, Joe Wheeler, Dave Rossini, Greg Donovan, Jon Weiner, Michael Weymouth, Alan Cheney, Dave Cheney, Mark Donohue, Mike Rossini and the only girl in the group, Susan Gallery.

Property Tax 'Unfair' Says Brownell

At a coffee reception given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Gray, Jr., of 115 Greenleaf St., Quincy, former Assistant Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Brownell told a gathering of 35 that the property tax is a poor and unfair way of paying for local government.

Brownell, a Democratic Candidate for Ward I State Representative, said that the property tax does not take into consideration the taxpayers ability to pay or his income.

Brownell indicated that he felt we rely too heavily on the property tax as a means to finance local government.

Fifty-eight percent of the revenue raised to pay for local government comes from the property tax, he noted.

"We must look to other sources such as sales or income taxes because they take into account a person's ability to pay and income," he said.

Brownell said many people in Ward I have already reached the point where they can no longer meet their rising property tax.

A Special primary will be held Oct. 19, for the vacancy left by Arthur H. Tobin, who is now a State Senator.

On The Screen

By
Vincent Puleo

The Screen Actors Guild is due for a major personnel shakeup this year when elections are held on Nov. 7 at the annual membership meeting. After serving six one-year terms, CHARLTON HESTON is stepping down as president of this most prestigious of show business affiliations... HESTON has established somewhat of a record for longevity in office, having served as Guild president longer than any other incumbent... As of this writing JOHN GAVIN, first vice-president of the Guild, is the only announced candidate for the presidency, and looms as an odds on favorite to succeed HESTON. With his experience and intelligence, GAVIN would seem a most fitting replacement for the dignified HESTON...

"SHAFT" is zeroing in on the $3.5 million mark in domestic rentals alone, and shows possibilities of peaking at a ceiling of better than $5 million. The reason for this swelling economic upsurge is the growing acceptance by the White suburban market for this Black oriented film... Oooops, and MAE WEST's album of "MOTHER GOOSE" rhymes is scheduled for release sometime after the first of the year. However, the album may get an X as far as parents are concerned... The JET FORE written lyrics are jazzed up somewhat in an "adult version"... NATALIE WOOD, a work when she feels like it actress, has the acting itch again. She'll be resuming her career in November, in an as yet untitled vehicle...

After scores of films and who knows how many dramatic television appearances, RICARDO MONTALBAN does the commercial thing as spokesman for Maxwell House Coffee... DICK BENJAMIN gives "PORTNOY'S COMPLAINT" a clean bill of health with a slobber, "There's less nudity in this film than any other in which I've appeared"... The directing-acting duo of DON SIEGEL-CLINT EASTWOOD follows in the tradition of JOHN FORD-JOHN WAYNE... Different cultures, different taste? South Americans are taking to "TORA, TORA, TORA" with more gusto than their Northern counterpart. Hard to explain, but this film which bombed so seriously in the States, is taking down under by storm...

A tip of the ole' beret to Quincy's BILLY DEWOLFE, as fine a gentleman as ever appeared on the silver screen. Filmdom needs more of his calibre. As a regular on the "DORIS DAY SHOW", DeWolfe exemplifies the best in good taste, and expertise of his craft... Chalk 1971 up as the year MARLON BRANDO made his "comeback", "THE NIGHTCOMERS", his new release, had audiences clapping for more at the Venice Film Festival. If anything, BRANDO gives the viewer a nostalgic glimpse of an artist at work with a performance comparable to his heyday best of 1954... And with "THE GODFATHER" on the way, this critic for one hails BRANDO's cinema return... A long time coming, but worth the wait!

And what of LAURENCE OLIVIER you ask? His Lordship, by all reliable reports, will appear in the film version of "SLEUTH"... And I still would like to see VICKI CARR in a film. The gal is a bundle of heavy talent... You go back a long way if you can recall BETTE DAVIS' Oscar winning 1935 portrayal in "DANGEROUS"... To date, French filmmaker LEONID MUGUY is one of the few Western producers to ever sell a picture to the Chinese, namely "MEN WANT TO LIVE". However, now with the Ping Pong diplomacy in full bloom, and JACK VALENTI readying a trip to Peking, it'll be every filmmaker for himself, with MUGUY the "pioneer", relegated to a status of just another Euro-American filmmaker...

Dancer turned actress MARY McKENNEY debuts in "ROGER THE STOOLIE"... Have you seen "SEE NO EVIL"? You should. MIA FARROW is magnificent, performing with four star zest, so much so, she does one better than her "ROSEMARY'S BABY" effort... CLINT WALKER is almost fully recovered from an accident a few months back when a ski pole pierced his heart... JIM AUBREY may not be with MGM much longer. As president of that studio his accomplishments have been less than ordinary... BIBI ANDERSSON is one reason to see "THE TOUCH". The other? INGMAR BERGMAN. His first English-language film is a tour de force achievement...

Add the title "BELIEVE IN ME" to your list of "must see" films. As an anti-drug picture, it is as poignant in comment as "PANIC IN NEEDLE PARK", but with a social level twist. In its examination of the destructive downfall of a hospital intern, the movie lays bare the fact that drug addiction is indiscriminate when it comes down to Class Caste... Whether one be young or old, rich, middle class or poor, Black or White, Drug abuse acknowledges no social boundaries... And it is this subtle message which makes "BELIEVE IN ME" such a contemporary "message" feature...

"BISS THE BEAST AND CHILDREN" is living up to all the advance raves it received at the Berlin and Moscow Film Festivals... JOHN DEHNER is living proof that the old adage "better late than never" still holds water. After too many years of toiling in B-movies, DEHNER is now getting the lions share of quality A roles... He has always been a good actor. Now he is receiving the opportunity to prove it... MICHAEL GREER deserves an award for most promising newcomer of the year. His "Queenie" portrayal in "FORTUNE AND MEN'S EYES" almost overshadowed the drama of the picture. And in most instances, his presence overwhelmed the other actors.

Nixon's Help Asked In Obtaining More Work For GD

President Richard M. Nixon is being asked to aid General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard in obtaining more work.

Congressman James A. Burke and Hastings Keith have written a letter requesting the President's assistance in "cutting through details which have to date held up the Defense Department's request for bids on a new multi-mission ship program for the Military Sealift Command."

The Congressmen pointed out:

"Over $20 million has been spent to modernize this yard and recent Navy surveys reveal the yard has assembled a management, technical, and production force equal in caliber to that of any shipyard in the country."

Also requested is the President's assistance in assuring that the Federal Power Commission will adopt a future policy that in issuing necessary important licenses, "ships used for importing natural gas to the United States be built in the United States."

Continuing their efforts this week, both Congressmen are scheduling a follow-up talk with top Presidential advisors at the White House, a second meeting with members of the New England Congressional delegation, and, tentatively scheduled for today, a meeting with Union leaders in Washington to discuss progress to date on the yard's future.

A MESSAGE FOR DADDIES

Get yourself a good, thorough examination once a year. Once a year, let your doctor really look you over. It'll take a little time, and a little patience. And maybe he'll poke around a little more than you'd really like. And so he should.

The whole idea is to keep you healthy. If nothing's wrong (and more than likely, there isn't) hooray! Come back next year. But if anything's suspicious, then you've gained the most important thing of all: time.

We can save 1 out of 2 persons when cancer is caught in time, caught early. That's a good thing to know. All Daddies should know how to take care of themselves so that they can have the fun of taking care of their kids. Don't be afraid. It's what you don't know that can hurt you.

•A Sun Sidewalk Survey

Quincy Residents Favor Red China In U.N.

By FRANCES VAUGHN

Approximately two-thirds of those questioned during a Quincy Sun survey are in favor of having Red China seated in the United Nations.

In an endeavor to give Quincy residents an opportunity to voice their opinions about a current topic of world concern, this inquiring reporter, stationed in front of City Hall, asked passers-by:

"Are you in favor of seating Red China in the U.N. and why?"

More than 100 people were approached during a three-hour period. Many thought they were not qualified to answer because they said they [1] had not had time to think about the question, [2] they didn't know about it, [3] or didn't know what their husbands thought.

Others would not express an opinion because they worked and their employer might take their answers the wrong way, and they didn't think their opinions were important or that they would matter. Several people were in the usual hurry, and others would not acknowledge that they had been spoken to.

Six people identified themselves after expressing their opinion. Five were in favor of having Red China seated in the U.N. Of the nine anonymous citizens, it was 6-3 in favor of having Red China seated.

Overall, of the 15 people willing to sacrifice minutes of their time were in favor of and were opposed to having China seated in the U.N.

The responses:

Clash On Party Line Crossing, Full - Time Mayor Issues

Brett, Hannon Exchange Mayoral Campaign Barbs

PLEASANT REMINDER -- Cathy Lovegrove of Quincy is fourth from the right in this bevy of pretty MBTA beauties reminding you of the opening date [Oct. 11] for the exact bus fare system. Others are Maureen Meade, Dianne McDonough, Margaret O'Meara, Kathy Hines, Rita Layden, Ann McDonough, Virginia Dunn, Carol Jackson, Dottie Cass, Ann O'Mara, Barbara Rutledge and Chris Joyce.

MBTA Bus Tokens, Tickets Available At Quincy Garage

The MBTA announces that with the introduction of its exact fare system Oct. 11, under which drivers will not carry money or make change, tokens and tickets formerly sold by bus drivers in the old Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway territory will be available only at four locations.

The locations are:
MBTA Administration Building, 500 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

MBTA Quincy Division Garage, 954 Hancock St.

MBTA Lynn Division Garage, 985 Western Ave.

MBTA Tewksbury Division Garage, 200 Eastern Ave.

These locations will be open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The MBTA's exact fare system will mean that any rider of a surface vehicle - bus, streetcar or trackless trolley - will have to have the exact fare to deposit in a locked fare box. Drivers will not carry any money and will be unable to make change.

Exact fare is being introduced to halt robberies and robbery-related assaults on MBTA drivers. With an exact fare system and the cooperation of the public, riding the [T] will be a safer, faster means of travel for more than 600,000 passengers daily.

Contenders Joseph E. Brett and Walter J. Hannon began their stretch drive for the mayor's office this week firing political barbs at one another enroute.

And, there was an indication that whoever wins Nov. 2, Quincy may wind up with a full-time mayor.

Hannon, in a Quincy Sun interview, disclosed:

"I don't believe I would seek re-election when my term [state representative] runs out."

Brett, also in a Sun interview, reaffirmed his pledge to resign his House seat if elected mayor and chided Hannon for "leaving the door wide open" on the matter.

Hannon, a Republican, who topped [111,109 votes] the mayoralty field in the city preliminary election last week and Brett, a Democrat and runner-up [7,338 votes] differed sharply on voters and supporters crossing party lines in a non-partisan municipal election.

Meanwhile, both awaited word from James F. McCormick, Sr. [third with 4,755 votes] on whether he will endorse one of them or remain neutral.

"I am not ready to make any statement at this time," McCormick replied when questioned by The Sun. "I want to think this thing out before I make an official statement."

He said he would make a statement within 10 days.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Rita Anderson, West Quincy mother of four who finished fourth with 737 votes said she will not endorse either Hannon or Brett.

"No, she said, "it wouldn't be right. I like both men, but I wouldn't support either one of them. I will let the people who voted for me make their own decisions."

Commenting on party affiliation in a non-partisan election, Brett and Hannon saw it quite differently.

"We realize this is a non-partisan election," said Brett. "but Quincy has an [Cont'd on Page 12]

McCormick Endorsement Still Up In Air

Asked to comment on the election, School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick Sr., defeated in the preliminary election, in his bid for mayor said:

"The public has spoken. That is the end of it. Like everything else, there are other times."

"I am not ready to make any statement at this time," he added on the question of endorsing other candidates.

"I want to think this thing out before I make a statement, for what it is worth, I won't endorse anybody until I think it out."

"I will make some statement within the next 10 days."

'I Will Run Again', Says Rita Anderson

Mrs. Rita Anderson of 2 Shawmut Pl. West Quincy, asked for comment on the city preliminary election in which she was defeated as a mayoralty candidate, declared:

"I am very happy. I was encouraging since I am not known, and to be up against three candidates like I was - and I had only one relative in the whole City - I feel that those citizens who voted for me voted for a particular reason."

Mrs. Anderson will not endorse either Walter J. Hannon or Joseph F. Brett, she said.

"No," she said, "it wouldn't be right. I like both men, but I wouldn't support either one of them. I will let the people who voted for me make their own decision. I feel that I would let them down if I came out for one or the other."

Her first political campaign has not discouraged her, she added. "I am going to keep my eyes open, and watch very closely, and I will run again!" I enjoyed it. The phone calls that I got were very encouraging, telling me not to give up."

• Drug Abuse And The Concerned Citizen

By DR. H. THOMAS BALLANTINE, JR.
President, Massachusetts Medical Society

From Barnstable County to the Berkshires, the drug abuse problem continues to grow in intensity.

The buck has been passed as far as it can go. Time has run out for rhetoric and finger-pointing. Society spawned and continues to feed the drug problem; it is society's responsibility to erase it. Medical science alone can't do the job.

Citizens across the Commonwealth must re-examine their attitudes, discover new approaches and take positive, responsible action to combat a biosocial problem that has reached near-epidemic proportions.

What specifically can responsible citizens do? First, we should stop indiscriminate labeling: the individual who has been caught with drugs in his possession — is in a room where drugs are found — is not necessarily a "junkie", "dope fiend" or "criminal".

Legislators have finally recognized this problem. Under the new drug bill, endorsed by the Massachusetts Medical Society, a first offender would no longer be branded a felon for life. That same bill, however, would impose stiff penalties on the drug peddler.

Next, we can begin to look at drug abuse, like alcohol abuse, as a symptom rather than a crime or specific disease. Most of the so-called "drugs of abuse" — narcotics, stimulants and depressants — are medically useful in treating many illnesses. [For practical purposes, the hallucinogens, or mind-altering drugs, e.g., marijuana and LSD, are the exceptions.] Thousands of Americans take these drugs daily, under their physicians' supervision, without developing a dependence upon them.

The drug abuser, however, sees in drugs relief from a problem or problems which he cannot cope: depending on his/her age and circumstances, these may appear to be problems of peer pressure; family discord; substandard living conditions; unemployment or war, to name a few.

On the other hand, could these "problems" be the superficial manifestations of one of the world's oldest, most common diseases: depression? Does everyone living in a substandard environment turn to drugs? No. Does every man who loses his job become an alcoholic? No.

Although perhaps not true of every drug abuser — nor of everyone who over indulges in alcohol — these "problems", in an overwhelming number of cases, are the effect, not the cause, of an underlying emotional illness. It is this illness that the afflicted, knowingly, is trying, in his bewilderment and despair, to treat himself.

Not many years ago, the family physician had an intimate relationship with his patients. He could spot a potential emotional problem before it became disabling and provide appropriate therapy. Today, we are a nation of transients, a circumstance that hampers the physician/patient relationship. Parents, educators and clergymen must learn to accept a certain degree of this trouble-shooting responsibility, aware that competent medical and psychiatric help is available. The medical profession, in turn, will then be in a position to assess, diagnose and treat.

But what happens currently to the teenager who, perhaps, has merely experimented with drugs, yet is afraid he may need help? He may be only a screamer away from spilling out his problem — and above all, he's scared. To whom does he turn? Parents? Rarely. Pastor? Unlikely. To whom, then?

Or, what happens to the addict who looks his drug addiction squarely in the face, and sincerely wants to get "the monkey off his back"? He must first grapple with an unsympathetic, uncompromising legal system that neither respects him as an individual nor respects the sanctity of the physician/patient relationship. [Under existing Massachusetts law, addicts must be reported to the proper authorities by doctors and hospitals. The proposed drug bill would eliminate this invasion of privacy.]

Assuming he hasn't given up on himself, the drug addict now faces, first, the horrifying ordeal that is withdrawal, and second, the problem of finding professional help. He soon discovers that, due primarily to community resistance, there are woefully few effective drug treatment and rehabilitation facilities available to him. Again, we see the urgent need for enlightened thinking at the local level.

Before we close the gates of our communities to "those people", remember that it costs the taxpayer thousands of dollars less to treat the drug addict at a halfway house than to maintain him and his habit on the streets.

Drugs require cash, and most addicts support their habit illegally, i.e., by burglary, forgery, theft of legitimate drugs. It takes three to five dollars worth of stolen goods to get one dollar cash. Thus, an addict with a $30-a-day habit may steal $36,500 a year or more to support it.

Society pays the price in many ways. Insurance rates are spiraling. A larger slice of every tax dollar is being spent to apprehend, prosecute and punish the drug abuser.

Furthermore, because these drugs are obtained illegally, millions of dollars that could be used to improve the quality of our lives are funneled into the pockets of organized crime.

It has been estimated that it costs about $400 a day to maintain the addict on the streets and about $100 a day to rehabilitate him in a halfway house. The figures speak for themselves.

What about hospitals? Clinics?

Every hospital and accredited medical facility across the state has a "paper" program for treating and rehabilitating the drug abuser. It is questionable, unfortunately, how many of these programs have actually been implemented. Why? Lack of personnel? Lack of money? An inadequate physical plant? Or community apathy?

It is the responsibility of every citizen to become an authority on these programs; to ascertain that they are being implemented, and if not, why not.

Much the same applies to school curricula. Instinctively curious, youngsters will find their own answers in their own, often misguided, way if they feel their questions have been answered evasively or otherwise unsatisfactorily.

Parents and educators alike must become authorities on dangerous drugs and their abuse. The should insist that drug information, readily available through state and federal agencies, be included as a matter of course within each school's science or health curriculum — and from kindergarten through the twelfth grade. Fully informed, these youngsters, hopefully, will assuage their curiosity in other, more constructive activities.

In dealing with the drug problem, remember that man, in his educated ignorance, has created a society with which he seemingly cannot cope. He has manufactured chemicals he cannot use nor, in many cases, knows how to destroy. Poison gas, pesticides and high-emission fuels are three.

Drugs are just one of the otherwise useful compounds man has managed to learn to mismanage.

THE WAGE-PRICE FREEZE Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on the Wage and Price Freeze is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about the Wage and Price Freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon.

Q - How did the Internal Revenue Service get involved in answering questions about the Wage-Price Freeze?

A - The Internal Revenue Service undertook the assignment at the request of the Office of Emergency Preparedness which is the operating arm of the new Wage-Price program. Utilizing its nationwide taxpayer assistance network, the IRS receives, analyzes and investigates complaints and answers questions at 360 of its offices throughout the country.

Q - What does the IRS do after it receives a complaint of a Wage-Price Freeze violation?

A - The IRS will acknowledge the complaint and, if there is a reasonable basis for concluding that a violation may exist, it may contact the alleged offender to obtain voluntary compliance with the Presidential order or conduct further investigation. The IRS offices will report to the Office of Emergency Preparedness when further action is required. Actual prosecutions are the responsibility of the Justice Department.

Q - Do complaints of Freeze violations have to be in writing?

A - No. Although the IRS prefers that complaints be written to make referrals to the Office of Emergency Preparedness easier and to establish whether there is any pattern of problems in a particular area, all complaints are recorded, analyzed and investigated.

Q - I'm supposed to get a promotion in October. Can I still be promoted despite the Freeze?

A - Yes. Actual promotions to established positions with greater responsibilities are allowed, as well as increases in apprentice's and learner's rates under programs set up before August 15. However, merit and longevity increases are not permitted during the Freeze.

Q - What sort of penalties will be invoked against business that violate the Freeze?

A - The Justice Department may seek an injunction to stop an individual or business from violating the Presidential order. Failure to comply with the injunction may place the violator in contempt of court and result in the handing down of civil penalties on an escalating daily basis.

The law also provides a $5,000 fine which may be imposed for each violation.

Q - My college announced last spring that it would raise tuition for the fall semester. Is this increase covered by the Freeze?

A - No. Increases in tuition rates announced before August 15 may still take place, even though they do not go into effect until September, because commitments and, in many cases, payments have already been made.

Q - My landlord sent me a notice the first week of August that my rent was to be increased as of September 1. Do I have to pay the increase?

A - No. Rents on apartments and houses cannot be raised during the Freeze period. Even if an agreement had been signed before August 15 and scheduled to go into effect after the 15th, the increase would not be allowed.

Q - I'm moving into a new apartment. How can I tell if my landlord is overcharging me for rent and violating the Freeze?

A - Check the rents charged for comparable apartments in the immediate area. The rent you pay cannot be any higher.

WE GET LETTERS

The Eulogy Of A Loser

Editor, Quincy Sun:

There are two sides to every election. The results of winning will bring bright rays of sunshine, and the hope that lies in the future. Then there's the dark side. The following is a description of the other side of an election, the dark side.

Suddenly, in defeat, colors come to mind. Green becomes envy. It's what all humans possess. It's what makes man an animal. It grows on man and it will kill him. Blue becomes loneliness. It overcomes man when he is weak. It is prominent in defeat. Red is a fight. It is what man must face in life. It is what man must continue to conquer in order to exist. In order to win. Gray is hate. It clouds men's minds, and controls man's actions. Brown is disgust. It comes when you've tried hard but failed. When at the end of it all you realize you've fought hard but lost. Black is defeat. It comes when all the colors are combined. It means there's no tomorrow.

Jim McCormick lost in his bid for mayor of Quincy, but Quincy lost more, it lost Jim McCormick. For Jim McCormick there is no tomorrow. For Jim McCormick the bright rays of sunshine and the hope he had for this city and its people are forever lost. As I write this with tear filled eyes, I say darn you Quincy, you defeated a good man.

'Good Neighbor Awards' Nite Oct. 19

Five Residents, Fire Truck To Be Honored By HN Community Council

Five Houghs Neck residents will receive recognition and a special citation will be given a 1936 Maxim Fire Truck and driver at the annual Honors Award banquet of the Houghs Neck Community Council on Oct. 19 at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall.

Guests of honor will be Mrs. Dorothy Laing, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reynolds Jr., Charles Squatrito, and engine driver D. Paul Shaw.

Mrs. Laing, a resident at 85 Darrow St. for 20 years, will be honored both as a "good neighbor" and for civic contributions. She is past president of the Houghs Neck Community Council and Atherton Hough PTA, former grand regent of Court Corpus Christi, CDA, and is chairman of the education commission of Most Blessed Sacrament parish council. She is employed by the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security.

Married to James Laing, their children are Miss Mary Laing, Sgt. Joseph Laing at Sheppard AFB, Texas; Mrs. Malcolm Chase and Peter Laing, a student at Southeastern Massachusetts University.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds,

16-year residents at 7 Bird St., are receiving recognition for contributions to Scouting. Both have seven years with Cub Scout Pack 36. Mr. Reynolds, a Boston Firefighter, was Cubmaster for three years, a pack committeeman for one year, and has been assistant cubmaster for the past three years. Mrs. Reynolds, who in 1969 received the Corrigan Medal, has been a den mother for six years and is beginning her seventh year as den leader coach. Their children are Richard Reynolds III, 14, and Donna Reynolds, 17, students at Sacred Heart School in Weymouth; and 13-year old twin daughters, Jeanne Reynolds and Jayne Reynolds, attending Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Also honored for civic contributions is Charles Squatrito of 23 Babcock St., 36 years in Houghs Neck. He has assisted in Cub Pack 36 for eight years, in Boy Scouts for three years, and as chairman of the Sea Scout committee. He has held all offices in Most Blessed Sacrament Holy Name Society, and with his wife, [the former Mary Hogan] taught a ninth grade co-ed Sunday School Class. Their children are Arline, Charles S., Paul, Marian, Stephen and David, all at home. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Squatrito of 1173 Sea St., and, like his father, a barber.

A special citation is being awarded the 1936 Maxim Fire Engine of the Houghs Neck Legion Post and its driver, past commander D. Paul Shaw. During the five years the Post has owned the antique vehicle hundreds of youngsters, healthy, in wheelchairs, as well as the mentally retarded have had an opportunity to ride the truck as "firemen", all with adult supervision.

Announcement of the 1971 Honor Award recipients was made at Tuesday's meeting of the Houghs Neck Community Council by Mrs. Francis X. McCauley, chairman of the honor awards committee. Other members were Mrs. Robert Kamb, Thomas Hurlabaus, Joseph Amyouney and Tracy Adams.

Tickets for the annual banquet may be obtained from Mrs. Edward Radcliffe, chairman, at Pages Pharmacy, or any member of the officers: Robert F. Denvir, president; Ernest Fitzgibbon, vice president; Mrs. Leo Kelly, secretary; Mrs. Holly Blanchard, treasurer; or executive board members.

Procrastination

Voices clamor within our minds,
With well-intended resolutions—
While the tricky, rosy imagination,
Plays fancy dreams of promises.
"Ah!" exclaims the dreamer—
"Someday, I'll do exactly, what my heart dictates."
But Alas! when "that day"
arrives, that m-u-c-h Desired wish has whisked away into nothingness.

Our lackadaisical attitude creates Unproductive purposeful goals, which Brings us to Procrastination...
Its Latin origin...gives birth to two words,
"Of tomorrow," the delusive morrow that never really comes.
Weakening and sometimes crippling individuals' facets of life.

The habit of procrastination or its milder companion-postponement,
Can and will be conquered...
If you'll but heed Saint Paul's powerful and appropriate slogan:

"This one thing I do."
But learn first to distinguish the difference from Luke warm wishes and intense desires,
Only in this manner will you Find the time and strength to do,
The things you really want.

Next time you are caught in the web of Sometimetis,
Think upon these words, and thoughts,
And with the help of self-discipline and determination,
Unfinished deep yearnings will be fulfilled
Thus leading you to the happy
Path of success and achievement.

Anna T. Anderson, Quincy

Confused by ground beef terminology? Does your meat retailer's display reveal ground meat identified by various terms such as hamburger, ground beef, ground chuck, ground round and ground sirloin?

Federal regulations and in some cases state laws, set a limit on the maximum amount of fat that can be included in products labeled hamburger or ground beef and sold as Federal or State inspected meat. A certain amount of fat, between 15 to 30 percent is contained in "Hamburger." Usually a less amount of fat, 20 to 25 percent is in "Ground Beef." Some fat is needed to make the product juicy and flavorful.

Ground beef marked "Ground Chuck" is meat from the shoulder or chuck of beef and usually contains 15 to 25 percent fat. "Ground Beef" is what its name implies, Ground Round Steak. Ground Sirloin is sirloin steak that is ground and fat content varies as the consumer requests.

Fall's Big Put-Ons.. Classic Cottons

ROUGH 'N READY—Classic jeans and a Western-style jacket get fashionable updating in a new version of cotton corduroy called "Cracker Barrel." By White Stag, the outfit's paired with a bold striped cotton knit top.

SHORT STOPS—Hotpants head back to school under cover. Here they're neatly topped off by a zip-front tunic of blue cotton denim knit. Contrasting red sleeves and stand-up collar match the shorts underneath. The outfit's by Cinderella.

Miss America Goes Back To School

All the girls are going back to school including Miss America of 1971, Phyllis George of Denton, Texas.

Entering her senior year at Texas Christian University as a major in elementary education, the brunette beauty ends her reign as Miss America when she crowns her successor at the September Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City. For one year lovely Phyllis George took a leave of absence from her studies to travel all over America gathering memories as she represented her country. One of her last official trips as Miss America found her entertaining troops in Viet Nam, along with six state winners.

"It's been a wonderful experience," Phyllis said, "and I'll never forget the kindness and warmth of everyone I met. Now I'm ready for the next challenge—earning my diploma at TCU."

The 22-year-old Texan appeared on television talk shows, wrote a weekly column for newspapers across the country and starred in a television commercial, to name a few highlights of her activities. Now like any other young girl she looks forward to her year as a college senior, combining her studies with an active social life.

Luckily the beauty tricks she learned as Miss America will help her during her busy life as a college girl. With limited time for beauty, Phyllis takes advantage of today's easy-care fashions, enjoying the casual, natural look. She cares for her flawless complexion by allowing moisturizer and eye cream to pamper her skin as she sleeps. And she's learned to apply make-up quickly, emphasizing her best features with subtle color.

Phyllis' crowning glory, shiny brown hair, stays healthy and pretty with a little care. She makes sure that her hair is kept in shape with professional hair cuts or trims. All split ends are cut off, making her hair easy to manage herself. She likes to shampoo often, so her hair is always clean and feminine—pretty. Usually she sets her hair on rollers, blowing it dry with MAX, her mini hair dryer by Toni. Phyllis concentrates the blowing where her hair is thickest and the rollers smallest. She likes the two temperatures on her dryer — "hot" for after-shampoo drying and "cool" for finish-drying to cool her hair and set the style. Best of all, it saves her time and money.

Accomplished Phyllis played piano selections from "Promises, Promises" during the talent competition at the Miss America Pageant. As Miss America she was awarded a scholarship of $10,000 to continue her education, which will prepare her for a career in elementary education and speech.

Hold that Line!

The fall season is fast upon us and with the advent of this beautiful season our appetites perk up and again take notice of hot rich soups, big dinners and rich desserts. More time is spent in the kitchen whipping up hearty [fattening?] meals with all the fixings.

If you are one of the lucky ones who more or less has held your weight steady through the summer, it's time to concentrate on maintaining. Don't let your past experiences go to your head...or it may spread to your stomach as well!

TRINITY'S 75TH ANNIVERSARY — Rev. James Kimmell (left) pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, and Dr. William B. Trinity Lutheran Church Marks Diamond Jubilee With Banquet

Trinity Lutheran Church, organized in 1896, held its Diamond Jubilee banquet Saturday at the Viking Club in Braintree, the second in a series of celebrations noting its 75th year.

Rev. James Kimmell led devotions. Dr. Ensio K. F. Ronka was master of ceremonies. Greetings from the New England Synod were brought by Dr. William Heil, assistant to the president.

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, also representing Quincy as City Council president, presented the church with a scroll from the Massachusetts Senate in honor of its 75th anniversary.

Bernard Turnquist read an original poem.

Also seated at the head table were Edward McDonald, chairman of the anniversary committee, and Mrs.

MacDonald.

Trinity Lutheran Church was organized Oct. 22, 1896 at a meeting held at the Swedish Lutheran Church [now Salem Lutheran], under leadership of pastors Albin Hukkanen and V. K. Durckman.

The name "Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church" was adopted, and $2 monthly rent was paid for the meeting place. Services were in the Finnish language only.

In 1905 a lot on Suomi was purchased at a cost of $150 for a church building. The basement, completed in 1907, served as a church for 43 years. Rooms on two floors above the church have been occupied by four families.

In 1949 the present Roberts St. land was purchased for a new building. Hugo Hillila was pastor at the time. The church and adjoining parsonage were completed in April, 1950.

The name of the church was officially changed then to Trinity Lutheran Church, and in 1962 it became a part of the New England Synod and the Lutheran Church of America.

The congregation is now led by Rev. James Kimmell, Trinity's first uni-lingual pastor.

Others of the 20 previous pastors are Rev. Albin Hukkanen, Rev. V. K. Hukkanen, Rev. Pekka Airaksinen, Rev. Abram Auer, Rev. Hannes Sjoblom, Rev. Alfred Gronig, Rev. Abe Salminen, Rev. Gabriel Lipsanen, Rev. Albo Setela, Rev. Yrjo Joki, Rev. Evert Maattala, Rev. Eero Vartiainen, Rev. Frank Pelkonen, Rev. Wiljo Heiman, Rev. Armas Holmio, Rev. Martin Hainen, Rev. Hugo Hillila, Rev. WORLD'S LONGEST PREGNANCY

Most women are pregnant for nine months at a time. But an Indonesian housewife recently insisted that she was in her 20th month, carrying a fetus that talked to her and prayed to Allah five times each day, as devout Moslems do. The 23 year old lady convinced many that she was carrying a special being that would be born in Mecca after two year confinement.

One believer was Indonesia's President Suharto, who invited her to the palace so he and his wife could pat her belly and hear her baby pray.

The truth came out when a psychiatrist slapped this unusual women's abdomen. It promptly deflated. "You are not pregnant!", he shouted.

It seems she had feigned pregnancy by holding swallowed air in her stomach. Why she did it, nobody knows.

A 10-week basic income tax course starting Oct. 18 is again being offered in Quincy by H. & R. Block, "The World's Largest Income Tax Service," announces John Loveday, area manager.

●Along The Campaign Trail McNally To Seek Ward 1 House Seat

John J. McNally, 44, of 85 Huntress St., Houghs Neck, is the second Republican to become a candidate for State Representative in Ward 1.

A past commander of Houghs Neck Legion Post and former County officer, McNally promises "a lively and vigorous campaign to acquaint all the residents of Ward 1 with his unique ability in solving community problems and initiating new ideas and programs."

He will discuss problems of transportation, taxes, police protection, halfway houses, homes for the aged, among other problems of the area, and will be "receptive to legislation peculiar to labor and the working men and women of Ward 1."

A former shop steward of Local 1451 International Association of Machinists, McNally is now methods engineer for Townsend Company, Tubular Rivet and Stud Division.

Born in Ireland, he is a disabled veteran of World War II. He is a founder of the Grenham Youth Center, initiator and co-sponsor of Babe Ruth and Little League Baseball Teams.

He is married to the former Catherine DeStefano and they have 19-year old twin sons, Jim and Mike.

Dwyer Would Maintain Office At Own Expense

William Dwyer of 421 Sea St., Adams Shore, Democratic candidate for Ward 1 state representative, will maintain a Quincy office at his own expense if elected, he has assured campaign workers.

Dwyer will have an office in the district so that residents can obtain direct answers to their problems, he said.

At a campaign meeting, Dwyer outlined his position on the issues now before the state legislature as well as the immediate problems in the district.

Hannon, Brett Exchange Barbs

almost 3-1 majority of Democratic voters and it seems only logical that Democratic voters support a candidate whose political philosophy is more closely associated with their own."

Brett charged that "many active members of the Democratic party in Quincy are somewhat disturbed over the defection in the ranks of some of the party's more prominent members."

He did not identify them by name.

"Partisan politics," said Hannon, "has no place at all in city politics. We have many Democrats, Republicans and Independents working in here [his headquarters] - people of both parties that feel that I am acceptable to them from the point of view of being the Mayor. Their only concern is who is going to run the City for the next two years."

"I think it is an insult to the average voter to feel that he is going to go along with a person because he happens to belong to a certain party. People are thinking."

"I have pledged to the voters time and time again," said Brett, "that if they elect me mayor I will resign my seat in the House of Representatives at the end of the current year-not the current term but the current year."

"The other candidate [Hannon] has not taken a firm position as to whether he will give up his seat in the House of Representatives. He has left the door wide open as to whether he will continue as a representative in the State House."

"I think it most urgent for the city with a population of almost 90,000 to have a full-time mayor. It is my firm conviction that the job should be a full-time job and that the mayor should be available to citizens during normal working hours of the week."

"We will already have spent over $40,000 on special elections," countered Hannon, "and if we have another special election for my Representative's seat in January or February, the estimated cost of that would be another $15,000."

"I would let my term run out and I would not have another special election. I don't think it would be an issue if people realized it would cost them $15,000 to have a special election."

"I don't believe I would seek re-election when my term runs out. Any man that wants to be a mayor and a representative has a full time job. He is working in the best interests of the city if he wants to hold both of these positions. I think this city has been very fortunate in having Jim McIntyre as both senator and mayor because I think he did a splendid job."

Hannon said his platform was "for a very forward looking mayor who wants to keep the city moving."

He said he would like to encourage more businesses like State Street South, Jordan Marsh and Kemper Insurance Co., to come to Quincy.

"It brings in both jobs and taxes," Hannon said. "State Street South will pay big taxes and will employ thousands of people just as Jordan Marsh which has just paid $1 million in taxes to the City of Quincy. Joe Brett voted against this."

"The prime issue," said Brett, "is taxes and the high cost of municipal government. If I am elected I am going to call on all the citizens of Quincy to advise me as to where there may be some inefficiency, waste or unnecessary duplication of services."

"Any complaints, criticisms or suggestions that come to the mayor from any citizen of the city will be given careful and thorough consideration and every possible effort will be made to keep the cost of municipal government at a level which can be afforded by the taxpayers."

Brett said he would appoint an advisory committee representing business, professional persons and residents from all six wards to examine budget requests of various department heads.

Brownell Says Welfare Mismanagement Costs Taxpayers Thousands Of Dollars

At a coffee sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Brophy of 156 Babcock St., Houghs Neck, former Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Brownell candidate for Ward One Representative charged that poor management and administration are costing taxpayers thousands of dollars.

He cited a case where an A.F.D.C. Puerto Rican family received a $5,000 workmen's compensation lump sum settlement while they were receiving public assistance.

Instead of turning this money to the Department of Public Welfare, he said, they sent it to relatives in Puerto Rico.

"If the Welfare Department had been doing its job properly it would have had recorded a lien on the recipients workmen's compensation claim so that the money would have never been turned over to the recipients unless the Commonwealth was reimbursed for supporting the family."

"Under law, the Commonwealth has the authority to seek out assets of recipients to obtain reimbursement for providing support. Yet, the Department of Public Welfare has no program designed to seek restitution for providing public assistance."

Brownell said he will support legislation to establish such a program.

Brownell said that only a few years ago the entire state budget for all state departments passed the one billion dollar mark. This year the budget for just the Welfare Department is approaching a billion dollars.

He said he believes much of this increase can be attributed to poor administration.

He said that private business would not tolerate gross management errors and neither will the taxpayers who are becoming less and less inclined to subsidize welfare recipients as the welfare budget continues to climb.

Harold Opens Campaign Headquarters

Paul D. Harold, Democratic candidate for state representative in Ward 1, announces the opening of his campaign headquarters at 59 Granite St., Quincy Center.

George Murphy, campaign manager, said the Granite St. office would serve the Quincy Center, Adams St., and Hospital, Cranch and Presidents Hill areas while Harold's home at 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore would serve as headquarters for Merrymount, Adams Shore, Houghs Neck and Germantown.

The Granite St. headquarters will be open daily, seven days a week, from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. "Citizens to Elect Paul Harold" invite all interested persons to drop by the headquarters or call at 472-6232 or 472-6533.

Harold officially became a candidate for state representative, Tuesday, when he filed his nomination papers with the Secretary of State's Office in the State House. Accepting the papers for Secretary John F. X. Davoren was Gilbert Sullivan of the Elections Department.

A reception for picture taking followed. At that time, Harold noted that while 150 signatures were required for nomination, he and his committee had gathered more than 1,000.

Powers Proposes Monthly Meetings Between Council, School Committee

Monthly meetings between City Council and School Committee are proposed by Warren Powers, candidate for Ward 5 Councillor.

Powers, speaking at a house party at the home of John Dunlea of 62 Prospect Ave.,

Wollaston, pointed out that the school budget which accounts for the greatest percentage of the tax dollar requires greater attention.

Monthly meetings between the two major governing bodies would help establish a close working relationship on vital issues affecting the taxpayers, he said.

"Through such monthly meetings, both governing bodies would come to a closer understanding of their mutual responsibilities," Powers stated.

Testimonial Dance Oct. 16 For Leo Kelly

The Committee to Elect Leo J. Kelly Ward 1 Councillor will hold a testimonial dance Oct. 16 from 8 p.m. to midnight at the George F. Bryan VFW Post Home, 24 Broad St.

Tickets may be obtained at Pages Pharmacy and Mitchell's Mini-Mart, or by calling Jack Powers at 472-5821 and Bob Stirling at 471-1903.

Registration At City Hall Saturday

A Special Voter Registration Day will be held Saturday at City Hall from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., announces City Clerk John M. Gillis.

There will also be other special sessions from 7 to 9 p.m.:

Oct. 5, Ward 2 - Fore River Clubhouse on Nevada Rd.; Ward 3 - St. John's School on Phipps St.; and Ward 4 - Gridley Bryant School on Willard St.

Oct. 6, Ward 5 - Wollaston

School [auditorium] on Beale St., and Ward 6 - Quincy School on Newbury Ave.

Oct. 13, the last day for registration before the City Election on Nov. 2, City Hall will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. for registration.

Registration is being held daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. in the Election Department at City Hall.

Youth Voter Registration Oct. 5 At Junior College

On Oct. 5 from 7 to 9 p.m. there will be special hours for a Youth Voter Registration in the Student Lounge of Quincy Junior College.

Arrangements have been made by the League of Women Voters of Quincy in cooperation with City Clerk John M. Gillis.

"The League feels it is necessary to make registration hours as convenient as possible for the working 18, 19 and 20-year olds who may find it difficult to register during the day," said Mrs. John Ioland, voter registration chairman.

Local businesses which employ large numbers of young people are being asked to cooperate in this project by notifying their employees of the special hours and encouraging them to register, thus enabling them to vote in the November election.

Jobs For Unemployed Asked By Graham

Jobs for Houghs Neck and Germantown unemployed workers is being requested under the Emergency Employment Act Program by Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham.

In a letter to Earle T. MacLeod, project director, Graham wrote:

"It is my understanding that the City of Quincy is eligible for $268,000 in funds to help create jobs for the unemployed under Section 6 of the Emergency Unemployment Act of 1971. As explained to me this money is available especially to areas of extensive unemployment within the City of Quincy.

"On behalf of unemployed residents in Ward 1, especially those who live in the Houghs Neck and Germantown areas, I urge you to designate these two areas as a special priority area for assistance under the Federal Unemployment Program," and I ask that every effort be made with the Department of Labor on behalf of these people to provide much needed jobs and assistance."

Twiggy Finds Acting A Grind

When movie buffs in Argentina object to a particular film, they have a very subtle way of expressing their disfavor to theatre management... On Sept. 14 "CHE" was scheduled to open in a plush Buenos Aires showhouse. The evening before, a left wing student organization dynamited the building as a means of protesting what they termed "the exploitation of Communism by U.S. commercial interest"... Management got the message, and decided against releasing "CHE". Not only that, but 20th Century-Fox, producers of the feature, cancelled the proposed Argentinian engagement altogether... The above incident is a good example of the mentality of South American politico fanatics who take the "theme" of a picture all too seriously to heart...

Watch for the name ROBBY BENSON. He has been signed to debut in "JORY"... The HOWARD MINSKY production could be the start of something big for this gifted young thespian. For several months now BENSON has been captivating Broadway audiences in "THE ROTHSCHILDS"... The pendulum is swinging to the right, and the Policeman is being film portrayed in the role of a good guy, rather than the bad. Leading off in this vein in "THE FRENCH CONNECTION", with GENE HACKMAN in the lead role of Doyle, a tough, hardnosed, but decent cop... WALT DISNEY's special Christmas attraction is with ANGELA LANSBURY starrer, "BEDKNOBS AND BROOMSTICKS"...

As a result of the "LOVE STORY" bonanza character actor JOHN MARLEY has become somewhat of an international heart throb. Now filming "THE ETRUSCAN" on location in Rome, MARLEY can't keep the autograph hounds away. Nor, for that matter, can he keep out of lens distance of that city's famed corps of "catch it all on film" photographers... WALTER MATTHAU is mulling over "THE COMMITMENT", in which he'd play an Oscar-winning producer-screenwriter. Odds are better than 5 to 1 that he accepts the role... And on the African scene, Ghana is the first continental State to develop a self-sufficient film industry... And natch' other African countries are sure to follow suite. Keeping up with the Joneses is a world wide phobia...

To her surprise, TWIGGY discovered that acting is a harder grind to hack than modeling. After wrapping up "THE BOY FRIEND", she took off for Bermuda for a two month recuperative vacation... If the recent VENICE FILM FESTIVAL had one drawback, it was the overexposure of far too many French productions. And inferior in quality at that... Are the French suddenly losing their zest for creative filmmaking? Time will tell... Warner Bros. studio never had it so good. Receipts from domestic rentals are ringing up to the merry tune of more than $2 million per week. And three films are largely responsible for this tremendous take... They being the widely acclaimed "SUMMER OF '42", "KLUTE" and "McCABE AND MRS. MILLER"...

Those who caught the ultra slim GEORGE HAMILTON in "EVEL KNEIVEL", may not recognize him in his next production "THE MAGNIFICENT MAURICE AND THE HANDSOME JOHNNY BARON". For the latter, HAMILTON portrays a wrestler, and will be well muscled for the role with an additional 40 pounds of, he hopes, solid weight... DONNA MILLS, who did her post graduate work in daytime soap operas, takes a stab at the big time as CLINT EASTWOOD's femme interest in "PLAY MISTY FOR ME"... Director JOSEPH LOSEY can lay claim to one distinction, though ignominious at that. He is the only person to direct the team of BURTON-TAYLOR in a film that didn't make money. The film in question, "BOOM"...

ISABEL SARLI hits bottom in "FEVER, FEVER, FEVER", as trashy a flit as I can ever recall seeing. So disgusting in theme, the picture is even an injustice to one of Miss SARLI's limited abilities... "DOCTOR ZHIVAGO" is making the rounds the second time around. If you never saw this excellent movie, I strongly urge you to do so when it shows at your theatre... Quality of this type is what movie making is all about... Those who are still indifferent to Prison Reform are reminded, again, to see "FORTUNE AND MEN'S EYES". A shocker guaranteed to change even the most conservative of minds... A Wish for SHIRLEY MACLAINE: That she never attempt the folly of another "SHIRLEY'S WORLD" [possibly the worst TV outing of the new semester], and while still a star, stick to the media of film...

Just thinking out loud, and wondering why so many of the newer youth-oriented actors and actresses put down the alleged phoniness of the trappings of being a "star", and yet, demand star salaries in excess of $500,000... It's one thing to knock the system, but rather two-faced to exploit it behind a shroud of anti-money publicity. And in this respect the names JON VOIGHT and CARRIE SNODGRASS come quickly to mind... If it's one thing that makes this columnist take a slow burn, is the hypocrisy of too many of the present generation of thespians who, to satisfy the whims of an adolescent, speed-freak following, put a knock to the dollar and everything it can purchase...

Raiders Seek No. 3 At Weymouth North

North Quincy's football team, with a 2-0 record (1-0 in the Greater Boston League) goes to Weymouth's Legion Field Saturday for a 1:30 non-league game with Weymouth North.

North Quincy Coach Ralph Frazier has been putting the emphasis on defense this week. "I feel we were very fortunate to defeat Revere last week in our league opener (14-12 at Revere), as they controlled the ball and really moved against us," Frazier said. "In our first game against Weymouth South [North romped, 31-6] we controlled the ball but at Revere we hardly had the ball at all.

"Our defense did do a great job when they threatened but we just can't let the other teams hold the ball as long as Revere did. You can't score without the ball and if we don't stop them in the future, we may not be as lucky again."

A look at the statistics proves Frazier's point. Revere reeled off 20 first downs to North's five and gained 312 yards to 166 for the Raiders.

Tom Burke, who scored twice in the opening game, tallied both touchdowns last week, the first on a 73-yard run on North's first play from scrimmage.

"Burke did another fine job and John Linehan also played well on offense," the Raider coach said. "On defense Wayne Bell played a tremendous game, while Kevin Egan, Billy Fong, Bob Guerriero and Bob Morton were outstanding when the chips were down."

Revere drove all the way to North's 10 after the opening kickoff but the Raiders held, pushed the Patriots back to the 27 and Burke broke loose for his 73-yard run on the first play. Charlie Smith kicked the first of his two all-important points.

North held again and drove to its second score as Bobby McKay passed to Jim Driscoll for 35 yards to the Revere five. Burke scored from the three and Smith again kicked the point.

With no time left on the clock Revere scored on a pass from Charlie Anderson to Richie DeCristofaro. Revere faked a kick and a pass for the points was incomplete.

North took the second half kickoff and drove all the way to Revere's 10 but gave up the ball and Revere again marched downfield to North's one-yard line. A delay of the game penalty pushed it back to the six and a pass was caught just out of the end zone.

North had to punt and Revere continued to move well and with only seconds remaining Anderson scored from the two. A pass for the tying points was batted down to preserve North's slim victory.

"I think we have an excellent offense but we didn't get a chance to show it last week the way Revere controlled the ball," Frazier added. "If we have the ball we will move, that is why we can't afford to let any more teams control the ball as Revere did."

A year ago North Quincy topped Weymouth North, 14-6, but Frazier expects plenty of trouble Saturday. Weymouth surprised Lowell, 18-0, in its opener, then lost a 30-28 squeaker last week to Brookline.

Quincy Rolls Along In Soccer

While Quincy rolls along undefeated in the Norfolk Soccer Association, North Quincy bounced back from two straight losses to even its record at 2-2.

Tuesday, Quincy played at Foxboro, is home to Norfolk Aggies today and next Tuesday plays at Franklin.

North goes to Sharon today and hosts Avon on Tuesday.

Although Ron Martin's Quincy booters are 3-0 in the league, they dropped a 4-1 decision to Duxbury of the South Shore Association last week. Both coaches used only sophomores and juniors in the game.

Earlier last week Quincy had edged improved Avon, 3-2, for its third straight triumph.

Harry England, a native of England, scored all three Quincy goals with Artie Boyle having as assist.

Meanwhile, George Golding's North Quincy team, which last year won the South Shore Association title with an 11-0 record, followed up a 3-1 win over Norfolk Aggies with a 2-1 win over Franklin to even its record.

In the Raiders' first win over Norfolk, Billy Chagaris, Pete Joyce and Mike Delaney scored the goals and Rich Kelleher had an assist.

Against Franklin Delaney and Paul Wilson scored the goals both in the final period, and Delaney assisted on Wilson's winning goal.

Vandals have been busy at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Conroy Hopes Weymouth Loss 'A Lesson'

By TOM SULLIVAN

"I just hope the players learned a lesson and realize now they can't take any team lightly."

So said disappointed Quincy football coach Hank Conroy following last week's shocking 26-7 defeat at the hands of Weymouth South in one of the most stunning upsets of the early season.

Weymouth South, in only its second year and with only a 16-6 win over weak Rindge Tech a year ago, had been bombed the previous week by North Quincy, 31-6, with many of the Quincy players in the stands.

"I think this had a lot to do with our attitude today," Conroy said. "I feel sure the boys thought they would win in a breeze and they certainly were not up for the game. By the time they realized they were up against an inspired team it was too late."

"We play a good Revere team Saturday [1:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium] and I hope our boys will go into the game with an altogether different attitude and show a lot more desire than they did against Weymouth."

Revere just missed overtaking North Quincy last week, losing, 14-12, after trailing, 14-0. Quincy Assistant Coach Dave Burke, who scouted Revere, was impressed with the big Patriots.

Before last week's Stadium game, Weymouth Coach Joe Kelly was extremely pessimistic. "I'm afraid they will run us off the field and I just hope we can hold them to a respectable score," he said. [Quincy bombed the new Weymouth team, 66-14, a year ago]. "We just don't have the talent and we played a terrible game against North Quincy."

To say Joe, as well as all his players and fans, was elated after the surprising upset, is putting it mildly. One would think they had won the state championship.

"The kids were just great," he said. "They showed from the start they came here to play and they all remembered that game last year. This is a tremendous win for us and every boy deserves credit for a job well done."

Instead of crying over spilled milk, Conroy took the defeat, which ended Quincy's winning streak at 12 games, philosophically and talked about the next game, Quincy's Greater Boston League opener.

"If these boys are made of the stuff I think they are, they will shake this one off and bounce back against Revere," he said. "If they don't, I will be terribly disappointed. We have a young team with little varsity experience and I am still experimenting."

"I saw a lot of things I liked out there today, despite the loss, and some of the boys I wasn't sure of came through very well. Weymouth did nothing I didn't expect and they were just way up for the game and completely outplayed us."

Hank singled out Dan Spencer for "a fine defensive effort" and also lauded newcomer Art Hooper, playing his first game for Quincy, for his performance. He also had words of praise for Richie Sylva, who came in at defensive halfback and played well.

"Naturally I was disappointed with both our offense and defense," he said. "The statistics certainly should be all in their favor."

How right he was. Weymouth gained a net of 146 yards on the ground to 53 for Quincy, added 165 yards through the air as Doug Rakers hit on 11 of 23 passes, to 55 yards for Quincy as Kevin Shea and Paul Creedon hit on only four of 20 with three intercepted, and ground out 16 first downs to Quincy's six. One of Quincy's came on a face mask penalty and another on pass interference.

Weymouth ran off 67 plays to only 44 for Quincy as the Wildcats controlled the ball most of the game. Conroy felt the fact Weymouth had a game under its belt also made a difference. "They were able to work on their opening day mistakes, while this was our first game," he said.

QUINCY HIGH Capts. Joe Coner, Bob McDermott, Joe Davis and Steve McCarthy hopes to lead Presidents back to win trail Saturday against Revere.

Sophs Crush Scituate, 30-8

Quincy's sophomore football team, which has had phenomenal success under Coach Dave Burke in the last few years, is off and running again.

The young Presidents rolled over Scituate, 30-8, in their opener last week.

Quincy's next game is Friday, Oct. 8, at home against Malden. The North Quincy sophs are home to Hingham Friday.

Stay Away From 'Third Rail'

In Quincy, we now have the MBTA. This means that we have electrified trains coming into our City on the "Third rail", something the citizens in our community have never been exposed to.

It also means that our children must learn about the dangers involved brought about by this exposure.

Parents, teachers, and police should constantly remind the children of these hazardous surroundings so that they will have a better understanding of the danger involved by going on the track beds.

Keep away from the third rail.

Keep Your Dog Home

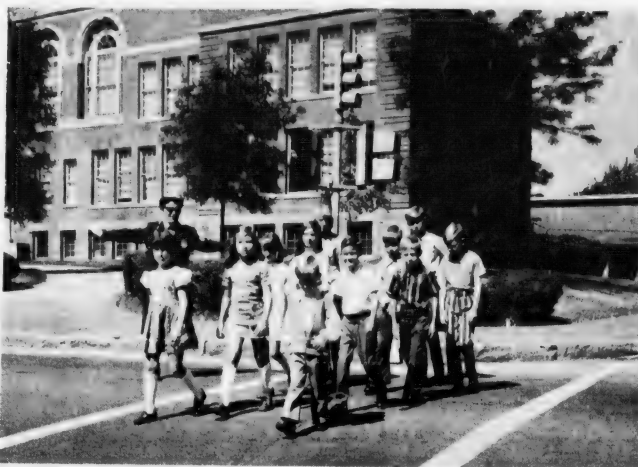

We have an increasing amount of stray dogs causing problems around school areas.

In the City of Quincy we have the leash law in effect and hope that all dog owners abide by this rule so that we may alleviate our dog problems.

Violators of this law have been prosecuted in the past and will continue to be prosecuted in the future. Remember that these stray dogs congregate around school yards and tend to put fear in children thus sometimes causing injuries.

School Traffic Safety Is Everyone's Responsibility

ONE OF 44 regular women traffic supervisors, Mrs. Mary Gallagher guards youngsters going to and from Wollaston School. In addition, there are three substitute supervisors as replacements when needed.

By GUIDO PETTINELLI Quincy School Safety Officer

Pedestrian safety means proper attitudes and actions by both walkers and drivers to make "getting around" easier for everyone.

Remember that "Pedestrian Safety" is your concern as a driver as well as a pedestrian and to fulfill this obligation four points should be adhered to:

- Awareness of causes and of ways to prevent accidents.
- Responsibility for your actions.
- Obedience to traffic laws and signals.
- Co-operation with others who share the road.

In the city of Quincy we will have approximately 20,000 students attending schools from kindergarten to college and several day nurseries where children are transported.

This means, of course, that during the school year many miles of pedestrian traffic will be traveled by Quincy pupils. Many of these pupils will be crossing main streets and busy intersections where the Quincy Police Department has 41 Women Traffic Supervisors and eight Policemen doing school traffic duty for their protection.

We also have about 1,000 pupils who in the course of the year, serve on the school safety patrol in assisting the Traffic Supervisors and Policemen. Therefore, full co-operation by all concerned is very imperative so that we have an accident free school year in the City of Quincy.

Safety is everyone's responsibility. So, if the children, parents, School

Department and the Police Department do their part, we should be very successful in preventing accidents.

Following is a list of safety rules that will be of assistance in this program:

- Always walk on the sidewalk.
- Cross only at corners-look both ways and around corners before crossing.
- Use the crosswalks whenever possible.
- Do not cross from between parked cars.
- When crossing at a traffic light, wait for the light to change, then wait for the traffic to stop before crossing.
- Obey your school traffic supervisor and patrol.
- Never dart out onto the street.
- Walk defensively - be especially alert for careless drivers.

Parents Have Obligation

Parents should fulfill their obligations by understanding traffic regulations and have knowledge of the Safety Rules that their children should know.

Poor parental example and lack of supervision can defeat the positive efforts of others to provide for a child's safety. The following are some tips that the parent should adhere to so that they might contribute somewhat to the safety of the children:

- Set a good example in the presence of your child.
- When a pedestrian, follow the safety rules.
- Teach your child the danger of talking or going with strangers.

- While operating a car be courteous and observant.
- Around school zones be very cautious.
- Remember to treat other children as you want others to treat your child.

• Youth Speaks Out The P.A. Ain't The Way

By RICHARD MULLEN
North Quincy High School
The recent School Committee elections produced an abundance of candidates who were opposed to drugs, spending, Open Campus as it now stands, and busing.

Yet only three or four out of the 23 mentioned in their campaigns improving school curriculum, materials and facilities, or the relationship between teachers, students, and the administration.

This relates to a current pattern of thought in school, that it is best to make do with what one has, keep the wheels turning, and not make waves. Yet students are losing out as a result.

An example of this is North's P.A. [public address] system—a bothersome triviality which most teachers and students try to ignore. The kids are by far the worst offenders here, but most teachers don't even try to read the notice sheets anymore.

So when the P.A. system

at North suddenly ceased to function for a few days last week, most people never missed it. It's considered a pain in the neck, an interruption, and a waste of time, and for obvious reasons: wordy phrases, drone-like tone, and aloofness. What kids know about what goes on in school, they know via word of mouth or what they happen to pick up by keeping their eyes open.

When the P.A. was repaired, one teacher immediately commented, "I wish it'd stayed broken." To him, that jobber on the wall was just one more threat to peace and quiet.

He has a point—the box that barks broadcasts twice daily certainly doesn't win a prize for successful distribution of information. One of the chief student gripes is just this—nobody knows what's going on.

And worst luck, it's this communication thing which is one of the basic reasons school systems deteriorate—as information flows less and less freely, separation and alienation grow between student, teacher, and administration. Overcrowding compounds the problem. And as these things occur, the quality of education drops.

What can be done? There are many avenues—the student newspaper, Student-Faculty Senate, and open student-faculty rap sessions, for starters.

But one thing's for certain — the P.A. ain't the way.

Open Campus Students' Responsibility

By DENNIS MARVELLE
Quincy High School Senior
School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon is in favor of open campus at Quincy High.

In the near future, Dr. Creedon will review the revised open campus proposal again with special consideration that the proposal in its final stages will meet all necessary requirements to be educationally advantageous.

After Dr. Creedon is satisfied with the open campus proposal he will then present the program to the School Committee for final approval. Last Monday, an "open forum" was held to enable students to identify school problems and to discuss the implementation of open campus.

If open campus is

instituted at Quincy High, the students are going to have to display a great deal of pride to maintain the program. Responsibility will be placed more heavily on the students shoulders, now more than ever before. With open campus Quincy High will become similar to our country's colleges and universities where responsibility and maturity are necessary.

Junior high students will look up to Quincy High students with respect, and will begin preparing themselves for the day when they can participate in open campus with the same pride that their older brothers and sisters did.

THE WAGE-PRICE FREEZE Questions and Answers

Q - Can travel agencies raise their prices on tours in foreign countries?

A - Yes. Travel agents can raise prices on tours to the extent that the costs of foreign services offered in the tour package, such as foreign hotel rates, restaurant meals, transportation costs, etc., are increased. However, prices cannot be raised on that part of the tour package relating to services in the U.S. In addition, markup for overhead and profit cannot be raised.

The records of the travel agency must clearly establish that each increase meets this test. If it cannot be so demonstrated, this exemption will not apply to the increase.

Q - I'm a Federal employee and I'm supposed to get a within-grade increase next month. Can I still get this raise?

A - No. Merit and longevity increases, such as Federal Government within-grade raises, are not permitted during the freeze.

Q - My landlord is installing dishwashers in each apartment in my development. Can he use this as a reason to raise rent during the freeze?

A - An increase in rent can be charged for property which undergoes a substantial capital improvement, such as this, if this improvement equals at least three months rent with a minimum of $250, and would be classified as a capital improvement by the Internal Revenue Service.

If these conditions are met, the unit may be treated as a new apartment, with rent no higher than that charged on comparable apartments in the market area. Also, your monthly rent must not increase by more than 1½ per cent of the amount spent for capital improvement.

Q - Who is running the wage-price freeze program?

A - The new Cost of Living Council determines the policies of the freeze and the Office of Emergency Preparedness answers questions and investigates complaints. Assistance with information and complaints is provided by 360 Internal Revenue Services Offices throughout the country and 2,800 offices of the Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Q - Can my union raise dues during the freeze?

A - No. Dues for professional associations, trade associations, unions, country clubs, etc., are a fee for service, and, as such, are frozen.

WE GET LETTERS

Opposes Creation Of New Post To Supervise Seniors Activities

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The attached is a copy of a letter I sent to the City Council. I believe it is self explanatory.

To the Quincy City Council:
The creating of a new position in the Recreation Dept. to supervise social activities of senior citizens does not appear to be justified.

Over a year ago the budget request of the Council on Aging included creating such a position in the Council on Aging but the request was stricken by the Mayor as not justified because there would not be enough work involved for a full time position.

Instead, an assistant to the director was added to the Recreation Dept. whose duties would include the setting up and supervision of senior citizen social and recreational activities in cooperation with the Council on Aging. His salary was set at $8,000 and he took an examination for the position. The creating of a similar position at $9,800 would be in direct conflict.

At the time the Professional Advisory Committee of the Council on Aging made its study and recommendations it suggested a Federation of Senior Citizens, with representation from all senior citizen groups in the city. An important function of the Federation was city wide social functions of senior citizens, which the Federation would sponsor and oversee. This the Federation did for a time and could still do without the expense of a paid director.

To abolish the position of Assistant to the Director of the Council on Aging would leave the office staff in a sorry position. There is now a need for an experienced secretary-typist, a position that has never been filled. The elimination of an assistant would leave the director in the position of a glorified office boy. Most of the funds allotted for this position have already been used to carry on the 'meals' program. Where the rest would come from is anybody's guess.

Is A Pizza Really A (Tax) Meal?

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Pizza lovers, Louis Tanguoso has a question for you.

Is a pizza a meal?

He doesn't mean whether it fills you. But should it be taxed by the state as a meal like steak, roast beef or lobster?

Louis, who owns and operates "The Leaning Tower Of Pizza" on Southern Artery and has been whipping up tasty pizza for 16 years, thinks the state is unfair.

Well, is a pizza a meal?

Back in 1965 the State Tax Department made a "definite" decision: "Sometimes it is" - and "Sometimes it isn't."

If a pizza is a meal, then the State must receive its due: a five per cent tax on meals costing $1 or more. [Today, where is there a whole pizza for less?]

The way Louis slices it, a whole pizza is not a meal for one patron, but may serve two, three, four or even more people.

Therefore, since the price is theoretically divided among the eaters, pizza should be tax free, whether eaten inside

Louis' pizzeria or taken home.

"I'm not arguing just for myself, but for the pizza lovers of the South Shore," says Louis. "Why should people pay a tax on pizzas eaten inside?"

Louis uses some 1,200 pounds of flour and 800 pounds of cheese weekly, plus tomatoes and all the variations. His four ovens running at 650 degree heat can turn out 130 pizzas an hour. That adds up to a lot of pizza in a month - and a lot of incidental taxes!

Louis figures it takes him an hour a day, 30 hours a month, to make out his meal tax reports. [That's almost a full working week for some people].

"I'm not against the five per cent meal tax on food that is eaten in my place," says Louis. "I'm not against paying five per cent on meals that are packaged to go out.

"But 70 per cent of my business are pizzas," he claims. "I've been in business 16 years - 13 years on Southern Artery."

Let's take a look at the figures:

Louis' pizzas start at $1.40 for the tomato and cheese favorite, go up to $2. for his combinations and specials.

Two men come in for the $1.40 favorite. Louis, on the job with his slide rule, asks, "Okay, how many slices of each?"

"Six", says the first man. That leaves two for his friend.

So the man with the six slices eats $1.05 worth - his tax is five cents. His friend doesn't eat enough for a meal, so he goes tax free.

To avoid the tax, the first man offers his friend a bite of his sixth slice. Okay, that brings him below the $1 taxable meal.

In ordering a $2 "Four Season" pizza, mushroom, green pepper, salami and mozzarella cheese, use the computer. How many friends do you need to help avoid the tax? One? Not enough! Two is better.

There are those that can live alone and like it - but to eat a pizza without tax, it takes two or more.

Louis doesn't think it makes much sense.

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] reports that the New England delegation in both the Senate and House have united in a joint letter to the President on the future of the Quincy Shipyard.

Burke said, "The overwhelming support of the delegation is indeed gratifying and virtually unprecedented. The President is bound to have to take into consideration the size and quality of such support."

The main thrust of the letter is that the Quincy Shipyard is vital to the economic health and well-being of the whole of New England.

Specifically, the delegation recommended that, "The President intervene personally and get the 'multi-mission ship' program of the Military Sealift Command off dead center where it has been for many months bogged down in endless Pentagon studies. For some time now, the fear has been expressed that if bids are not advertised soon for the construction of these ships, the Quincy Yard may not be in a position to compete for them, as work is currently scheduled to run out by the end of 1972."

The letter was signed by more than 30 members of both the House and Senate from every one of the six New England states.

Pollution

We need a solution to stop pollution.
It's going too far because of the car.

Food is bitter
because of the litter.
Water has no taste
because of the waste.

It's getting bad,
Everybody's mad.
It's turning to fog,
it looks like smog.

We hear on the air
of garbage everywhere.
If they picked their mess

Thou, born to quip and tease

Didst give us laughs and Did folks make light of witty

Then turn and try them on

So well expressed and heaped with wit,
Your play on words was infinite.

We cannot measure the pleasure you gave.
We know you'll never be

● Along The Campaign Trail Court Action Sought In Nov. 2 Ballot Squabble

A court order was being sought at mid-week to hold up printing of ballots for the Nov. 2 election by candidate for councillor-at-large David R. Houston.

Houston sought the court order after Harold Davis, a candidate for the school committee asked for clarification of the tradition which allows the use of eight words next to a candidate's name describing any public office the candidate was holding or had held. Houston has retained Dist. Atty. George G. Burke as a private attorney.

After reviewing the applicable statutes, Davis, who is an attorney specializing in municipal and school law, concluded that the only phrase which might be used in addition to the candidate's name and address are the words "candidate for re-election" if the candidate is an incumbent.

Davis has asked City Clerk John M. Gillis about the policy of permitting eight words next to candidate's names. Gillis said he would ask City Solicitor

Harry Pavan for a written ruling on the matter. The question had been raised whether the word "veteran" could be used where appropriate.

Houston, who served four years in Korea, said he checked former ballots and found them all to contain the word "veteran". He feels that the word should be allowed to appear.

At midweek it was reported that the ballots had not been printed yet.

Harold Backs Gasoline Tax Use For Mass Transit

Paul D. Harold, Democratic candidate for state representative in Ward 1, supports a Constitutional amendment which would allow use of the state gasoline tax to help finance mass transit.

"The gas tax amendment, limiting those revenues to highway purposes, was approved in 1948," he said. "I think it's time these funds were made available for mass transit."

"This year, Quincy was assessed $972,200 for the MBTA, an increase of $372,818 from 1970. The assessment represents approximately $4.50 on the city's tax rate.

"If part of the gas receipts were available for mass transit, we could develop a more balanced transportation system in Greater Boston. For Quincy, the immediate result would be a reduction in the state assessment for the MBTA."

Harold's remarks were made at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hank Novak, 21 Overlook Rd, Merrymount. At that time, he circulated a petition, filed by Rep. Flaherty, D-Cambridge, calling for use of the gas tax for mass transit.

He pointed out that the petition must be signed by more than 56,038 voters and filed by Dec. 8, if it is to be acted upon this year.

McCauley Favors Election Of School Committee By Wards

Quincy voters should be allowed the opportunity of deciding a change in the method of electing the School Committee, Francis X. McCauley, nominee for the Committee, believes.

He spoke at a house party at the home of Mrs. Elinor Forsyth of 193 Taffrail Rd.

Three members of the present committee reside in one of the smallest Wards in the City, McCauley pointed out. Election of School Committeemen by Wards would insure that all areas of the City would have local representation on the Committee.

While there are a number of methods of selecting School Committeemen on a Ward basis, McCauley said he favored direct election of candidates from each Ward as the Ward Councillors are now chosen.

In addition to the six members elected on a ward basis, an additional two members would be elected at large and with the Mayor would form a nine member School Committee.

McCauley concluded by pointing out that any change in the present system would require a special act of the legislature prior to placing the matter on the ballot.

Prezioso Receives 452 Votes

Fred J. Prezioso of 34 Roberts St., polled 452 votes for Ward 3 City Council in the city preliminary election Sept. 21.

Through an oversight, his name was not included among the candidates listed in last week's Quincy Sun.

Peter P. Gacacia and Theophilus McLelland were nominated in Ward 3 with respective votes of 747 and 685.

David Houston Friendship Night

Kennedy Shares Information On Absentee Ballot Regulations

Christopher F. Kennedy, candidate for School Committee, submits the following information for the benefit of those who will be unable to vote in person on Election Day, Nov. 2.

The information, he notes, was received from Mrs. Ruth Pabst of the City Election Department.

"Anyone may pick up an application for an absentee ballot in the Election Department at City Hall, to give or send to a registered voter who will be unable to vote in person on Election Day.

"Or a telephone call to the Election Department will send an application on its way to whatever address is furnished. Alternatively, a letter coming directly from a voter will serve as an application, provided it contains the voter's signature, his voting address, and the address to which the ballot should be sent. [No application will be accepted after noontime, Nov. 1.]

"An absentee ballot will be mailed out a short while before the election, upon receipt of an application or letter as indicated above. It must be notarized and returned prior to Election Day, Nov. 2.

"Finally, anyone contemplating being away at election time and out of reach of normal communication should get in touch with the Election Department ahead of time to make the necessary arrangements for absentee voting.

"It is gratifying to realize that no registered voter need be unable to cast his ballot in the upcoming city election, which is so vital to Quincy's future," said Kennedy.

McNally Calls For 'Reduced Spending'

John McNally, Republican candidate for State Representative in Ward 1, believes that reduced spending—not more taxes—is the "only way to sensible government."

McNally made the comment during a coffee hour Monday at the home of Mrs. Elinor Forsyth, Taffrail Rd., Germantown.

McNally discussed taxes, including the proposed non-resident earnings tax advocated for certain sections of Massachusetts. The tax would levy a fee on all employees working in a city but not residents of that city.

"This tax was ruled unconstitutional by the California Court of Appeals Aug.

30, 1971," McNally noted.

McNally said that the costs of welfare since the state took it over July 1, 1968, has risen from $3 million to $9 million.

He said state and local taxes now cost every man, woman and child in Massachusetts $497.

"No new taxes should be levied," he said. "The only way to sensible government is to reduce spending."

He advocated doing away

Graham Seeks Danger Sign

Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham has asked MDC Commissioner John W. Sears to have a "Dangerous Curve Ahead" sign installed at the corner of Samoset Ave. and Quincy Shore Drive heading south.

with payroll deductions for state taxes.

"This way," he explained, "payment of taxes would be painful and our legislative officials would be extremely careful before appropriating money for questionable requests."

McNally also supported a reduction in the size of the House of Representatives and the return to the cities of control over welfare.

Graham also asked Sears to relocate a light pole at 1381 Quincy Shore Drive. He cited a recent serious auto accident at this spot and noted he has been informed the light pole has been hit 17 times in the last 10 years.

Smyth Requests School Bicycle Safety Education

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth has asked School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon to initiate a bike safety education program for Quincy school children.

Smyth said that some of the children are riding bicycles carelessly throughout the city creating hazards for motorists.

With the approach of shorter daylight hours and hazardous weather, Smyth stressed the benefits of such a safety program to the drivers and the children themselves.

Dwyer Meets With Workers, Discusses Area Problems

William Dwyer of 421 Sea St., Quincy, Democratic candidate for the Ward 1 State Representative seat, met with his committee and workers Wednesday night.

He outlined his position on the issues now before the State Legislature as well as the immediate problems in the District.

He assured his workers if elected he will maintain an Office in the district at his own expense so that the residents can obtain direct answers to their problems.

MEDIC ALERT
Millions of persons have hidden medical problems which could prove fatal in an emergency. It is for them that the Medic Alert Foundation was founded. Its primary product is a metal disc bracelet on which is engraved any medical problems the wearer has which might prove fatal in an emergency.
It could be extremely important for those with diabetes, epilepsy, and heart conditions; persons who are allergic to penicillin, taking anti-coagulants, or wearing contact lenses, and those who, upon death, wish to become organ donors.
In addition, the organization also maintains a central file to provide additional medical information to authorized physicians or emergency personnel.
More than 400,000 Americans now wear the bracelet and the number is growing at the rate of 50,000 per year. If you are interested, why not inquire at our pharmacy.

'Negligent Spending' Must Be Curtailed, Says Buckley

Thomas J. Buckley, Democratic candidate for state representative in Ward 1, says that "negligent spending" must be curtailed and homeowners given tax relief.

Buckley, who lives at 22 Doane St. and is an industrial insulator contractor, made the remarks at a meeting at the Buckley headquarters at 1291 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

He cited the "high cost of state government and the ever soaring real estate tax" at the meeting attended by campaign workers and friends.

"The curtailment of negligent spending and relief for homeowners from high real estate taxes are desperately needed," he declared.

"The high cost of state government has definitely become prohibitive. "A redirection of efforts toward better and more effective programs for all our citizens is urgently needed.

"I positively believe a businessman's approach to the problems of Ward 1 is needed and that the problems can be resolved with moderation, common sense and a businessman's know how."

Delahunt Asks Stop Sign, Traffic Signal At 'Dangerous' Intersection

Atty. William Delahunt, candidate for Ward 5 City Council seat, speaking during a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Josephine Perkins, Quincy Shore Drive, discussed the plan the City is now formulating for a major flood control project involving use of federal funds to construct culverts in all sections of the City.

Highland Ave. in Wollaston.

Delahunt said he has spoken with several residents and citizens groups of the Wollaston area who have complained of frequent and serious accidents at the intersection.

Delahunt urged the installation of a permanent stop sign or traffic signal to control the intersection, and recommended a more complete investigation and patrolling of the area by the Traffic Division of the Police Department.

Harrington Would Assure Proper Culverts For North Quincy Area

Atty. Dennis E. Harrington, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, speaking during a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Josephine Perkins, Quincy Shore Drive, discussed the plan the City is now formulating for a major flood control project involving use of federal funds to construct culverts in all sections of the City.

He said that, if elected, he would use his voice on the City Council and work with residents to insure that in the north end of the City, especially those critical areas where new construction has affected tide and ground water flow - that adequate and properly placed culverts are constructed.

He pointed out several specific areas where residents have expressed concern about the problem as being the Quincy Shore Drive, Carlisle St., East Squantum St., and Montclair marsh areas.

The vote of the delegates at the Council meeting was unanimous for the endorsement.

Powers Proposes Ward 5 Street Lighting Survey

Warren Powers, candidate for City Council in Ward 5, during a house party at the home of Joseph Wood, of 215 South Central Avenue, said:

"While visiting many homes in Ward 5, I noticed many areas of inadequate street lighting. In some instances, street lights were obscured by overgrown trees; and in other cases, the lighting was not of sufficient candle power to properly illuminate the area.

"Also, in certain sections, the placement of the street lights were so far apart that although the equipment was adequate, there were 'dark spots' between light poles."

"Many residents complained to me about the street lighting, fearful of their safety at night and concerned with the darkness of the winter months which are rapidly approaching."

Powers proposed that a survey of the street lighting in Ward 5 be made and that these conditions be rectified.

New South Shore Cancer Unit Planning Action Programs

The recently formed South Shore Cancer Unit, a branch of the American Cancer Society, representing Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Randolph, Hingham and Cohasset, developed their program for action at a recent meeting at the Kennedy Health Center, Quincy.

Unit President, Pasquale S. DiStefano of Quincy, reported that Unit Vice-President James Sheets and Directors Arnold Levine, Mrs. Pat Ruddy, Mrs. Albert Stiefel and Miss Carol Gibbons, would attend the Second Annual Seminar and Workshop for Unit Leaders on Oct. 6, at Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology in Shrewsbury, Mass.

Purpose of the seminar is to acquaint unit leaders with other leaders throughout the state and to share ideas.

The unit decided to plan a social event within the forth-coming year and elected a five member committee to prepare plans for this event. The committee includes Mrs. Raymond Southwick, Mrs. Alfred Grazioso, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Aristide and Mrs. Michael F. Ryan.

The Unit elected nine new directors to serve three year terms: Mrs. Earle Kimball of Scituate, Mrs. Raymond Southwick of Quincy, Joseph LaRaia of Quincy, Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney, Quincy Health Director, Atty. Warren Powers of Quincy, Quincy Junior College President Kenneth White, Paul Awed, President of Old Colony Nursing Home, Quincy, and Rep. Joseph Brett of Quincy.

The Unit set primary goals which included distribution of literature, pamphlets and other educational material to industry, business and schools. Director Pat Ruddy is designing a program which will transport cancer patients to recreational and social activities.

Levine outlined his goals as chairman of the Public Education Committee and reported that the Grossman Company has agreed to insert literature on cancer in the payroll envelopes of their some 3,000 employees.

DiStefano appealed to all citizens to join the South Shore Cancer Unit, stating that much help is critically needed in many areas. Those desiring more information about the Unit may contact him or The American Cancer Society, Brockton Branch.

After Revere Victory

Presidents Face Title Test At Everett

Quincy's football team, which shook off a shocking non-league defeat at the hands of Weymouth South with an impressive Greater Boston League win over Revere, should know pretty well after Saturday how its chances stand of repeating as GBL champion.

Hank Conroy's Presidents, which rolled to a surprising 30-6 lead over Revere and held on for a 30-20 victory last week, travel to Everett Stadium to meet Everett, one of the pre-season favorites, in a 1:30 p.m. game.

Everett bounced back from a stunning 6-0 non-league loss to Newton to bomb Somerville, 12-14, in its league opener last week and should prove one of Quincy's top league tests.

After being rocked by Weymouth South, 26-7, in its opener, many picked Quincy to lose to Revere which had pushed unbeaten North Quincy all over the field before bowing, 14-22.

But the Presidents were really ready for Revere and everything fell into place for them.

"The kids wanted this one badly and wanted to show they weren't as bad as that Weymouth game showed," Conroy said. "They are a fine group of boys who are determined to have another good year and they all did their job against Revere."

"Against Weymouth I had experimented and made several changes for the Revere game. Two of our offensive line starters, Ron Smith and Joe Coner, were sidelined and I had four new starters on offense and made five changes on defense."

Conroy praised assistant coaches John Bogan and Gene Macomber for their work with a much improved offensive line and also hailed Bud Mosher, who took charge of the defense, made changes and presented a different type defense last week. "They deserve all the credit," he said.

Frank Guido, Ed Sylva and Bob Volpini made their first starts in the offensive line and John Whitney in the offensive backfield. Conroy lauded Volpini for "a terrific job." With Smith expected to miss another game or two, Volpini probably will start again at Everett.

Among the several defensive changes were Bobby McDermott playing deep and Allen Franzpane playing in the backfield. He intercepted a pass in the end zone in the waning seconds to halt another Revere touchdown.

Steve McCarthy, who had been bottled up by Weymouth, broke loose last week and looked the McCarthy of old with 141 yards gained and three touchdowns. Bobby Malvesti, who went all the way despite a groin pull, ran well and scored the other touchdown.

"They were our offensive sparks and quarterback Kevin Shea looked better and is coming along well," Conroy said. Quincy's chances this week at Everett will be bolstered with the expected return of Jimmy Walker, a defensive starter and the number one quarterback.

"We actually ran only about five plays against Revere but the line opened some good holes, the backs picked out their holes well and the defense did its job," the veteran coach added. "We had worked hard on pass defense all week after a very poor showing against Weymouth and we improved tremendously. The last two touchdowns passes were scored against our sophomore and junior subs."

Revere had 12 first downs to Quincy's nine, but Quincy had 316 yards on the ground to only 150 for Revere. Shea completed three of nine passes for 73 yards and one touchdown, while Charlie Anderson hit on 10 of 20 for 139 yards and two scores.

Revere opened the scoring early in the second period on a one-yard sneak by Anderson to cap an 81-yard drive.

Late in the half on fourth down and 26, Shea went back into kick formation but, on Conroy's instructions, caught the Revere defense by surprise and hit McCarthy with a 41-yard touchdown pass to tie it at the intermission.

In the third period Revere intercepted a pass on the one-foot line and two plays later Rich Silva spilled Anderson in the end zone for a safety. Later in the period McCarthy raced 23 yards for a touchdown and also rushed for the points.

In a hectic final period Malvesti scored on an 18-yard run and Shea passed to end Jim Hanlon for the points and, after Pat Corcoran fell on a Revere fumble on the Patriots' four, McCarthy scored his third touchdown from the one.

Revere scored on a 13-yard pass from Anderson to Bob Dugie following a 43-yard run by Paul Franklin. The Patriots recovered an on-side kick and Rich DiCristofaro scored on a 20-yard pass from Anderson.

Then, Revere recovered another on-side kick and threatened again only to have Franzpane intercept a pass in the end zone and Quincy ran out the clock.

"We worked on those on-side kicks during the week but I had a lot of new kids in there and they just got a bit excited, I guess," Conroy said.

Quincy, North Soccer Teams Collide Today

Quincy's soccer team rolls along unbeaten in the Norfolk Association and Tuesday sought its sixth straight win at Franklin.

Today the Presidents host North Quincy and Monday play at Sharon.

North Quincy, meanwhile, tied to even its record at 3-3

Tuesday when it hosted Avon, plays at Quincy today and Monday travels to Foxboro.

Ron Martin's Quincy booters ran their league record to 5-0 and their overall mark to 6-1 last week with a 6-0 romp over Norfolk Aggies.

Harry England, a native of England, scored three goals for the second time, while Will Bertrand, Art Boyle and Marty O'Toole had the other goals.

Earlier in the week Quincy defeated Foxboro, 5-1, with Boyle scoring three times, Tom Gibbons and England once each. Assists went to O'Toole (two), Rich Trubiano and Bob Curtis.

George Golding's North team, after winning two in a row to even its record, dropped a 2-1 squeaker to Sharon.

Rich Kelleher scored North's only goal which tied the score at 1-1 in the first period.

The local teams last week defeated Somerville's first-year team in non-league games. Quincy won, 4-0, while North topped the Highlanders, 3-1.

Both, however, continue to find the going rough against South Shore Association foes. North bowed to Hingham, 2-1, with Pete Joyce scoring for the Raiders, and Quincy had earlier lost to Duxbury, 4-1.

Sterling Eyes Another Junior Soccer Crown

Sterling won the Junior High school soccer championship the last three years and, despite losing almost its entire starting team through graduation, it looks like the team to beat once again.

Sterling blanked Broad

Meadows, 4-0, in its opener for its 20th straight without a loss and 13th straight shutout as Marco DiCienzo scored twice and Ed Landis and Peter Keenan once each.

Atlantic, expected to give Sterling's its sternest competition, shut out Central, 2-0, on Paul O'Malley's two goals.

Sterling, because of its past record and winning tradition, has to be rated the favorite once again but Atlantic has a strong club and Central also looks like a possible threat.

Yesterday Central played Point and Broad Meadows met Atlantic-North. Next Wednesday Point will face Broad Meadows and Sterling will take on Atlantic-North.

All games are played at the high school field at the rear of Veterans Memorial Stadium. Two games are played each Monday and Wednesday with the opener at 3 o'clock.

Seek No. 4 Against Malden

Hot Raiders In Home Debut Saturday

With its non-league schedule ended and with a win in its first league game, North Quincy's football team settles down to the business of seeking the Greater Boston League title and Saturday makes its home debut against Malden in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Ralph Frazier's Raiders last week swept by Weymouth North, 31-8, to complete a sweep of the non-league Weymouth teams and make their record 3-0. Two weeks ago they squeezed by Revere in their league opener.

If North continues to play as it did at Weymouth, it should make Malden its fourth straight victim. Malden lost to Waltham, 22-6, and Haverhill, 12-6, both non-league contests.

North's defense won the game at Weymouth and the extra work in this department following the Revere game paid off handsomely.

"Against Revere our defense dug in when they threatened, but we let them hold the ball too long as they controlled the ball throughout the game," Frazier said. "We were fortunate to win but at Weymouth the defense really came through, enabling us to control the ball most of the game."

"Actually, the defense either scored or set up three of our four touchdowns and I was really pleased with all of the defensive players, especially Billy Fong, who stood out like a beacon."

Fong, a defensive back, returned two punts for 44 and 53 yards to set up touchdowns and returned a pass interception 50 yards for another score.

Others hailed for their defensive efforts were Kevin Egan and Walter Collins, linebackers; John Meyer at tackle, John Harrington, Reggie Sandifer, and the entire line.

Frazier singled out John Linehan, Bob McKay and Tom Burke for their offensive performances. "Linehan was great as he put everything together," Frazier said. "He ran well, caught a touchdown pass and blocked very well. And give the offensive line credit, it really opened up the holes."

Also coming-in for praise were Charlie Smith for his long boots on kickoffs and Jim Driscoll for his punting. "They continually put Weymouth in poor field position," the North coach said. "Driscoll was filling in for our regular punter, Bob Morton, who was unable to play due to an infection, and he did some excellent punting."

Weymouth, which had upset Lowell and barely lost to Brookline, 30-28, was unable to move the ball and its only touchdown was on a 43-yard pass from John Bouley to Dave Totman, a tall end.

North drove 56 yards to its first touchdown in the opening period, Egan scoring from the three and Smith kicking the point.

Weymouth took the lead in the second period on the 43-yard scoring pass and

FOUR OF THE SPARKPLUGS of North Quincy's undefeated football squad, are, from the left, Tom Burke, the high scorer; John Meyer, two-way line standout; Bill Fong, two-way backfield star, and John Linehan, a top offensive back.

Bouley's rush for the points, but North again moved in front when Fong returned a punt 44 yards and Egan scored from the one. Burke rushed for the points to put North ahead, 15-8, at half-time.

In the third period Fong intercepted a pass and ran it back 50 yards for a touchdown and Burke again added the points, and a few minutes later Mark Mulvaney fell on a fumble on the Weymouth 19. McKay passed to Linehan for the final touchdown and Linehan ran for the last two points.

North Quincy's sophomore team is 2-0 with wins over Weymouth South and Hingham, while the Junior Varsity is 1-1 with a win over Weymouth South and a loss to Revere.

Quincy, North X-Country Teams In League Action Today

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams return to Greater Boston League competition today with Quincy seeking its second win in three starts against powerful Revere and North looking for its first win against Somerville at Medford.

Tuesday Quincy will face Malden and North will meet Medford, co-favored over Revere for the title.

Last week the local teams ran against Abp. Williams in a tri-meet at Braintree. Williams beat Quincy, 20-41, and North, 15-50, while Quincy topped North, 18-39.

Quincy's unbeaten Bobby Ciano easily won the meet but the Bishops had too much depth for the Quincy and North squads.

In the Quincy-North meeting Quincy's Ciano, Paul Wahlberg and Brian Feeney took one-two-three with North's Rich Malloy fourth, Quincy's Marty Swirko fifth, North's John Murphy sixth, Pete Daley of Quincy seventh followed by Jerry Mullins of North, John Caron of Quincy and Chris Cordeiro of North.

Goguen Stars In Boston State Win

Joe Goguen, former Quincy High backfield star, caught a nine-yard pass from John Collins with seconds left on the clock

Saturday to give Boston State College's first-year varsity football team a 14-7 win over Acadia at Wolfville, N.S.

Goguen, one of Quincy's outstanding runners, is a freshman flanker back for State, which is 2-0-1.

Pee Wees Meet Cranston, Randolph Over Weekend

The Quincy Pee Wees hope to bounce back in two games this weekend after dropping their first game of the Quincy Youth Hockey season.

The Pee Wees will travel to Cranston, R.I., Saturday and then face Randolph Sunday at the Weymouth Skating Club at 12:30 p.m.

The team lost to Scituate 8-4 in the season opener a Weymouth.

Scituate's Gary Heber started the scoring and Quincy just never got back into it.

Scoring for Quincy were Jimmy Triglia, Brian Jolley, Brian Bertoni and John Mitchell.

The Pee Wees are coached by Jerry Cooney and Jerry McGrath.

Little Loop Bowlers Open

The Quincy Bowling Little Loop will start its 18th season Saturday morning at 9 a.m. at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

League President Joseph N. Gildea announces that Mayor

James R. McIntyre, Rep. Joseph E. Brett, Dist. Atty. George G. Burke and Harold Davis, School Committee candidate, all sponsors of teams, will participate in the opening ceremonies.

Local Players Lift Hopes Of ENC Soccer Team

A year ago Brian McCreery, a transfer from Oregon, was the soccer-style kicking specialist for North Quincy High's football team.

This year he is a fine freshman prospect on Bob Jack's Eastern Nazarene College soccer team, one of several Quincy players on the squad.

One of the top players is North Quincy's Steve Shoff, who last season had 27 goals and 11 assists for the Crusaders, who had a fine 9-3-1 record in Jack's second year as coach. His first team had compiled a 7-6 record and Jack predicted a better season last fall.

Shoff anchors the front line which is the heart of this year's team and, as the coach said,

"Everyone on our front line can score and all can pass off and handle the ball. I honestly feel this is the best group we have ever had here and I am not afraid of anybody in the league [Colonial Conference]."

Other Quincy and North players on the promising squad are Harabloss [Bob] Madeinos, a native of Greece and a freshman from Quincy who has been in this country for only a couple of years and who starred at Quincy High last year; Herb Newell, a junior from North Quincy, and Gary Calhoun, a freshman from North.

Madeinos, who will start on the front line with Shoff and Del Bieber of Spinnertown, Pa., and Abel Espada of Edison, N.J., is the only Quincy starter.

Shoff is co-captain with Doug Sorenson, of Russell, Pa., who was named to the conference all star team last year. Other defensive starters are goalie Mark Sanford of Harrisburg, Pa., Kern Dickinson of Skowhegan, Me.; Dean Stinson of Westerly, R.I., Don Kauffman of Harrisburg, Wayne Mills of North Easton and Jim Patton, of Endicott, N.Y.

Other reserves are goalie Bill Allhouse of Philadelphia, Howie Simonson of Oceanside, N.Y., Dan McCabe of Kingsville, Md., Keith Swain of Manchester, Ct., and Donovan Cole of Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, who was the leading scorer for Hamden, Ct., High School last year.

Mele To Help Coach Sox Rookies

Quincy's Sam Mele will be one of the coaches of the Red Sox team which will compete in the Florida Winter Instructional League.

Other coaches will be Mace Brown and Lee Stange, and Rac Slider will manage the Boston club.

Workouts began last week in Sarasota. The group includes many of the top prospects in the Sox farm system.

Included on the squad is Cecil Cooper, first baseman-outfielder who is doing a tremendous job right now for the Sox and has an excellent chance of being the Boston first baseman in 1972.

The league is split up into two divisions. The Sox are in the southern division with the Royals, White Sox and Pirates.

The northern division is made up of the Mets, Twins, Phillies, Yankees, Reds and Tigers.

This is the 10th season the Red Sox have had a team in the league. They won the title in 1966 under present coach Eddie Popowski.

Lady Birds Elect, Present Awards

New officers of the Lady Birds summer bowling league were elected and prizes awarded at a closing banquet held at The Beachcomber.

Claire Mitchell, new president, succeeds Marlene Briggett. Lou Willis is the new secretary and Frances McGann, treasurer.

Gail Dillon with season average of 98.8 received the high average trophy, followed by Marlene Briggett in second place; Drucilla Loud and Claire Mitchell tied for third place.

Lou Wilson held high triple for the year, followed by Jean Ranieri and Elaine Spooner, while trophies for high singles went to Frances McGann, Judy Kressler, Marie Hurley and Jean Urbanus.

Eagles with 86 wins and 42 losses was high team, followed by the Hawks and Sparrows.

Shea Rink Opens For Season Oct. 30

The ice skating season in Quincy opens Oct. 30 at the Shea Rink, announces MDC Commissioner John W. Sears. Last year's attendance figures hit a record 1,748,214 for the 21 rinks under MDC jurisdiction, and another record year is predicted by Commissioner Sears.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

No Nude Scenes For Jill St. John

Columbia Pictures outbid three major studios in its campaign to purchase the rights to film JOSEPH WAMBAUGH's best selling novel "THE NEW CENTURIONS". Production of this high voltage feature is scheduled to start this month, with up and coming director RICHARD FLEISCHER at the helm... GLORIA STEINEM is busy penning the script for the big screen women's plight soap opera, "EMMA". If Miss STEINEM writes with the drip dry zeal of her splicing, I just may pass up this flim... And yes, EDDIE FISHER is on the comeback trail. He's all set to open up his new nitery act this Fall, and is also talking motion pictures with a couple of prominent big wig producers...

Add the name HOWARD G. ALLEN to your list of performers ready to spring loose from the threshold of stardom. Critics are in such a frenzy over film clips of his debut release, "THE LAST REBEL", that this talented young thespian is already being press billed as one of the great "finds" of the past two decades. Speculation has it that ALLEN possesses the raw power of the late JAMES DEAN, and the magnetism of MARLON BRANDO in his youth... HELEN HAYES seems a good bet to land the missionary role in ROSS HUNTER's "LOST HORIZON"... Canadian actor GARRICK HAGEN makes his international debut in "SOME KIND OF HERO"...

And no, not all actresses are succumbing to the sensationalism of lensing nude scenes. Case in point, JILL ST. JOHN, a lady, spell that with a capital L please, with determination and the guts to back up her deep rooted convictions... For the shooting of "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER", she was "ordered" to do a certain scene in the nude. The fiery redhead "explained" her position on nudity to director GUY HAMILTON, and backed up her statement by walking off the set when he didn't relent... After two days of verbal cross exchanges, HAMILTON saw the light and allowed her to film the scene her way, with clothes on...

What Tinseltown needs is more performers of the calibre of JILL ST. JOHN. The type who isn't afraid to buck a trend, one who has the courage to back up ones' beliefs, even if it means the threat of suspension, without pay, from a production... Ah, but for more ST. JOHN's, going to the movies would not only be fun, but would be a family affair as well... And how's this for heavy casting? "UNDER MILK WOOD", the famed Dylan Thomas classic, features the superstar triumvirate of RICHARD BURTON, ELIZABETH TAYLOR, and PETER O'TOOLE. And the backup of support is most impressive, what with GLYNIS JOHNS, VIVIAN MERCHANT, and SIAN PHILLIPS featured in the second billing...

The team of ROBERT CULP and BILL COSBY are reunited again in the picture "HICKEY & BOGGS", now in production under the United Artists banner... MYRNA LOY mad a surprise guest appearance at the recent American Film Institute's Film Festival in Birmingham, Ala... As impressive as his recent string of hits are, GEORGE SEGAL doesn't strike this viewer as ever becoming, shall we say, a household word. What he has in the talent department, he lacks in charisma... And yes, it is the latter, more than the former, which hooks an audience onto a star... DANNY THOMAS is recuperating nicely after undergoing a skin graft operation on his left hand...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: ERNEST BORNINE's fifty one liner on why he mixed a percentage deal in favor of a straight salary for "WILLARD": "I guess I was born to work hard"... And pass up a "deal" BORNINE did indeed. To date, "WILLARD" has grossed in American rentals alone, a cool $5 million... KIRK DOUGLAS is touring Brazil on behalf of the State Department... MITZI GAYNOR returns to the screen in the extravaganza "HOLLYWOOD! HOLLYWOOD!"... One thing can be said for GINA LOLLABRIGIDA, she certainly is different. While others peddle their memoirs, Ala GINA does an about face with a book of photographs, naturalistic of course, titled "MY ITALY", the book is contracted to be published by the middle of next year...

When it comes to making money in the motion picture industry, the name of the game is to jump on the bandwagon and produce a "sequel" to the original hit. Noted for this policy is American International, which is now preparing a sequel to the smash success, "DR. PHIBES". Titled, naturally enough, "DR. PHIBES RISES AGAIN", the AIP release features VINCENT PRICE in a repeat performance... LANA TURNER is healing her pride in Hollywood after a not so critically approved Chicago stage run in "40 CARATS". To quote, "I never read such horrible reviews as I did in Chicago. It hurts for awhile"... She needn't feel too upset, as Windy City critics are noted for dumping their harsh barbs on film performers...

Historical buffs won't want to miss the Italian film biogs, "LEONARDO DA VINCI", "SOCRATES", and "THE AENEID"... Flipping through the pages of time, "Would you like to tussle with RUSSELL?" was one of the most publicized slogans of the forties, as it was used in a million dollar campaign which brought instant fame to "THE OUTLAW" star JANE RUSSELL... Danish model VIP, yup that's her name, is being wooed by producers in the hope sh... il flatter the screen with her grace and form...

JOHN J. MCNALLY

Dear Friends,

After many years of active service to the community, I have decided to become a candidate for the office of State Representative of Ward One.

The problems confronting our community today, rising tax rates, skyrocketing welfare costs and unemployment rates over nine per cent in this city of Quincy and much higher in areas of Ward One, require the understanding of one who has been directly affected by them, before they are likely to be corrected.

As a working man in this community I have felt the financial pinch resulting from costs and high taxes. The firm which has employed me for the last twenty-eight years is relocating in another state. The community's problems are indeed my own.

My nineteen year old twin sons grew up in Houghs Neck, so the problems of our young have always been close to my heart. Much of my spare time has been devoted to the youth of our area, but with the tremendous problems facing our youth today with narcotics and drug related crimes much more needs to be done in our area.

Leadership is a quality necessary for effective representation. As a shop steward in Local 1451 International Association of Machinists, I represented the needs of labor and as a member of the management team in my firm, I have worked in all phases of management.

The numerous and complex bills that are presented to the legislators each year for consideration require a full time trained administrator. In the past the immediate problems of providing a good home for my family and a good education for my sons have made such a commitment impossible.

Elections are won or lost in the primaries. For representation by one who has lived with the problems of our area and understands the problems and will work diligently for changes Please vote for me Oct. 19, 1971.

Sincerely,

John J. McNally

Quincy Soldier In Vietnam Writes

'I Have Seen What Heroin Can Do And It Isn't Pretty'

A Quincy soldier in Vietnam—disturbed at the growing drug problem there and here—has sent a poem to the Quincy Sun on the current nightmare of heroin. SP4 Ronald Crombie of HHB 23rd Artillery Motor Pool Section, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Crombie of 1276 Sea St., Houghs Neck.

"This poem may stop a few people from doing something that may ruin their lives," he writes. "I understand quite a few problems have arisen at home with drugs as over here, I have seen what heroin can do to a person and it isn't pretty. "I get the Quincy Sun sent to me here in Vietnam and I enjoy it very much."

Crombie calls his poem, "The White Horse" [King Heroin]. It follows:
"THE WHITE HORSE"
KING HEROIN
Behold, for I am King Heroin,
Known to all as destroyer of man,
Where I first came from nobody knows,

For I came from The Land where the poppy seeds grow.
Many a nation has plotted my destruction,
For I am The King of crime and corruption.
My little white grains are nothing but waste,
Soft, deadly, and bitter to taste.

I am seldom poor and often diluted,
But once in your blood stream,
I am merely a fluid.
I first came to this country with no passport,
And since that day I have been hunted and sought

Six Contenders Vie For House Seat

15 Per Cent Vote Forecast For Ward 1 State Election

Despite active campaigning, a light turnout is expected in next Tuesday's special primary election for state representative in Quincy's Ward 1.

Asst. City Clerk Thomas R. Burke sees only 15 per cent of the 11,215 registered voters going to the polls in the city's largest ward.

Six candidates -- two Republicans and four Democrats -- are seeking the two nominations. The winning Republican and Democrat will square off in the final election Nov. 16.

The six contenders who hope to fill the seat vacated by Arthur H. Tobin when he won the Senate seat left by James R. McIntyre, are:

• Thomas H. Brownell, 15 Moreland Rd., Merrymount, Democrat.

• Thomas J. Buckley, 22 Doane St., Germantown, Democrat.

• William A. Dwyer, 421 Sea St., Merrymount, Democrat.

• Paul D. Harold, 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, Democrat.

• John W. McGowan, 67 Bigelow St., Quincy Center, Republican.

• John J. McNally, 85 Huntress St., Houghs Neck, Republican.

The six candidates have been waging active campaigns the past few weeks, speaking out on the issues at coffee hours and receptions, and knocking on doors.

The 11,215 registered voters give Ward 1 the most voters of the city's six wards.

Like the rest of the city, Ward 1 is now in the Democrat camp numerically speaking. There are 5,601 registered Democrats, 2,282 Republicans and 3,332 Independents.

The polls next Tuesday will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Voters in the nine precincts will vote at the following places:

Precinct 1, 2 -- Woodward School, Hancock St.

Precinct 3 -- Quincy Vocational Technical School, Coddington St.

Precinct 4 -- Nathaniel Hunting School, Pelican Road.
Precincts 5, 8 -- Atherton Hough School, Sea St.

Precinct 6 -- Cranch School, Whitwell St.

Precinct 7 -- Merrymount School, Agawam Road.

Precinct 9 -- Snug Harbor School, Palmer St.

Remember When Tax Rate Was $28?

Maybe there wasn't any television and few dreamed of man landing on the moon, but from a tax standpoint, they were "the good old days".

In its current newsletter, the Quincy Taxpayers Association presents a tax rate chart going back 40 years.

In 1930 Quincy's real estate tax was $28. The 1971 rate is $142.50 -- meaning the rate has increased $114.50 in 41 years.

Back in the 1930's, 1940's and 1950's homeowners looked forward to the day when they actually paid off the mortgage and owned their own home.

Today, they are paying more for just the taxes than they did for taxes, principal and interest.

As you study the chart you will note that there were a number of drops in the tax rate in the 1930's and 1940's. Last cut was in 1953 - 18 years ago - when the rate dropped from $53.80 to $50.80. But the next year it was up to $52 and has gone upward and upward ever since.

Have a look at where a lot of your money goes:

McCormick: 'I Will Remain Neutral'

School Committee Vice-chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., has decided to remain neutral in the mayor's battle.

McCormick, runner-up in the preliminary election, said today he will not throw his support to either Rep. Joseph E. Brett or Walter J. Hannon, the two finalists in the Nov. 2 election. "Both men are capable," McCormick said. "Therefore, I leave it to the voters of Quincy."

The text of his statement follows:

"I have had a great number of people concerned as to whom I will support for mayor of Quincy. After a great deal of thought and deliberation, I decided it would be presumptuous on my part to ask the good people of Quincy who voted for me to give their support to either of the two candidates.

"Both men are capable. Therefore, I leave it to the voters of Quincy to make their own choice."

"I am expressing no preference for either candidate. I will remain neutral."

$41,030 For Youth Corps

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton], announces that the Quincy School Department will receive $41,030 from the Department of Labor for the Neighborhood Youth Corps project.

These funds will be used to help 61 disadvantaged young people to stay in school, return to school, or acquire the work experience necessary to hold a job.

$93,144 To Voc-Tech. To Train 20 As LPN's

Congressman James A. Burke, [D-Milton], announces that Quincy Vocational-Technical High School will receive $93,144 from the U.S. Department of Labor for the training of 20 unemployed persons to become licensed practical nurses.

During this course lasting 55 weeks, funds will cover testing, counseling, training allowances, transportation and subsistence allowances, and provide job placement assistance to trainees upon completion of the course.

Workshop Fund Launched

A Sheltered Workshop Building Fund Campaign was launched recently by William Kiernan, assistant director of the South Shore Rehabilitation Center.

Addressing members of the South Shore Inter-Agency Council, Kiernan outlined plans to erect a new building for a sheltered workshop for handicapped workers of the South Shore to be known as WORK, INC.

Mrs. Muriel Oakman, president of the South Shore Inter-Agency Council presented a check to Kiernan for $50 as a kick-off for the campaign.

Kiernan said the purpose of the Workshop is to provide employment for handicapped persons who otherwise would not be retained by industry. The alternative to a sheltered workshop is welfare and eventual institutionalism, he noted.

A workshop will provide employment for over 200 people, and give a great psychological boost to the handicapped who will be earning their own way.

THE WAGE-PRICE FREEZE Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on the Wage and Price Freeze is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about the Wage and Price Freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon.

Q - During the first week of August, my union reached agreement with my employer on a new contract giving me a wage increase. However, the agreement has yet to go into effect. Can I still get the additional wages?

A - The new rate can be paid if labor and management had reached an agreement and work was performed or wages accrued prior to August 15 at the new wage rate.

Q - Does the Internal Revenue Service have any publications giving information on the freeze?

A - Yes. Copies of "The Wage-Price Freeze: Some Questions and Answers" can be obtained without charge by dropping a postcard to your IRS District office. The booklet is also available at many post offices throughout the country and from the 10 Emergency Preparedness Regional Offices.

Q - My apartment lease specifically provides for me to pay for any increases in property taxes. Can my landlord now raise rent on the basis of a property tax increase?

A - No. This is not permitted during the freeze.

Q - My employer hired me on a probationary basis. The established practice of the company is to increase wage rates at the end of the probationary period. My probationary period ends in two weeks. Can I still receive a wage increase?

A - Yes. The probationary period is similar to an apprenticeship or learners' program and the wage increase may be granted if the probationary period for the job does not exceed three months.

Q - Can a landlord evict a tenant for refusing to pay a rent increase during the freeze?

A - No. A landlord is in violation of the freeze if he attempts to evict a tenant for refusal to pay rent in excess of the ceiling rent applicable to his rental apartment or house.

A tenant threatened with eviction over an increase in rent during the freeze should immediately consult the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS has 360 offices throughout the country to investigate complaints and provide information about the freeze.

Q - Does the price freeze mean an end of special sales or reductions in prices?

A - No. The freeze simply sets a ceiling. Normal clearance sales and price reductions can take place.

Q - Are advance ticket sales for sporting events occurring during the freeze covered by the President's order?

A - Yes.

Q - Can insurance rates be increased during the freeze?

A - No. The freeze applies to insurance rates. However, if a rate increase was announced before August 15 and a substantial number of transactions occurred at the increased rate, the increase becomes the established rate. No additional rate increases are permitted during the freeze.

Q - My employer wants to give me a cash award for a suggestion I made. Can I still get the award?

A - Yes. Businesses and government can continue to make cash awards during the freeze to employees for outstanding performance, provided that such awards continue to be given under the same formula and controls that existed in the month prior to the freeze.

Employers will have to maintain records on the incidence and amount of these awards which demonstrate that these programs are not used to give employees wage increases in violation of the freeze.

Houston Withdraws Court Action

It's 'All-Go' For Nov. 2 Election

The Nov. 2 City Election is on as scheduled, as printing of the ballots got the go-sign this week.

Last week David R. Houston, candidate for councilor at large, had planned to obtain a court order to hold up printing of the ballots.

He was seeking clarification of the tradition which allows use of eight words next to a candidate's name describing any public office the candidate was holding or had held.

The question had been raised specifically whether the word "veteran" could be used where appropriate.

Houston, who served four years in Korea, said he checked former ballots and found them all to contain the word "veteran". He feels the word should be allowed.

Houston, however, now feels it is "in the best interest of city government and of the taxpayers" to hold the election as scheduled. Thus he is not filing a restraining order against the City of Quincy.

He was advised by his attorney, Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, who consulted with City Clerk John M. Gillis, and Asst. City Clerk Thomas R. Burke, that there was not time to have a court hearing and also have the election as scheduled, especially if the absentee ballots were to be sent out.

"I feel this has already been an expensive enough election year for the City of Quincy taxpayers," said Houston, "because of two additional special elections without necessitating another special election."

He has asked that a referendum be placed on the ballot asking whether voters want any words on the ballot after the name and address of each nominee. He has also petitioned the Quincy Veterans Council to pursue the question through proper channels.

"By handling the issue in this fashion," he said, "the election can be held as scheduled. There will be no extra cost borne by the taxpayer and the questions involved in this matter could be resolved by the next city election two years from now.

Operation Pride Underway

7 a.m. to 4 p.m., with all articles to be placed on the sidewalk before 7 a.m., the first day of the week.

Articles not included in this pickup operation are trees, stumps and branches, or other types of lumber.

The following is the schedule for pickups for Quincy's 6

Wards:

•Ward 2, Now through Oct.

15.
•Ward 1, Oct. 18 through Oct. 22.

•Ward 3, Oct. 26 through Oct. 29.

•Ward 5, Nov. 8 through Nov. 12.

•Ward 6, Nov. 15 through Nov. 19.

Soldier Poet Warns About Heroin

By uncool dudes and everyday chicks.
But mostly by junkies in need of a fix.

In listening bags I'll make my way,
From headman in office to children at play.

From the richest estate, to the lowest slum.

If you want to hear more of the things I can do,
Of the women I shamed and the men I slew,
Listen well to what I have to tell.
And I'll tell you of a journey
Through the hottest hell!

I alone have the power to make a rich man poor,
And a poor man poorer.
To turn a fair young virgin, into a street walking whore.

I can make a wise man evil,
And a poor man feeble.
Make a pretty young girl forget her looks,
And make a young school boy forget his books.

I can make a man forget his wife,

By sending him to prison for the rest of his life.

I can drive a man to his very end,

By turning him away from his very best friend.

The things you'll do won't be very nice,
You'll beg, borrow, and steal to pay my price.

For those who use me they shall be dealt,

A most severe of punishment they will have felt.

For those who shoot me, death it may be,

By gun or by knife, but most likely by O.D.

Day after day you'll wonder if I'm worth the price you will pay,

Toss, turn, vomit and cough.

Ten days of this madness And you may shake me off.

You'll curse me in vain and defy me in speech,
But then you'll use me again if I'm within reach.

Now you'll dig on the Judge as he gives you your time,

But you'll go away with me on your mind.

There won't even be time for tears,

As the man sentences you to twenty years.

Now there you are stuck off in jail,
And I can't reach you by visit or mail.

Now I gave you a warning But you will not heed,

So put your foot in my stirrup and ride my steed.

Oh, Ride, Oh, dope fiend and Ride thee well,

For the White Horse of Heroin will ride you through hell.

So try me friend and see if I lied,

For someday you'll O.D. and Probably die!
